

Island Creek Drops Two Doubleheaders

A rare triple play by Island Creek was not enough to pull off a win from Bel Air in a double header Sunday, adding to the already losing weekend in Pen-Mar Baseball for the coalmen as they lost 18-1 and 11-0 to Everett Saturday and 7-3 and 11-5 to Bel Air Sunday.

With runners on first and second, Island Creek turned an attempted sacrifice bunt by Bel Air into a triple play by nailing the runner at first, stopping the runner trying to score from second at the plate and firing back to second to nail the runner from first.

The play was not enough as Bel Air getting two-hit relief pitching from John Holshey over the final three and two thirds innings scored 11-5.

Lloyd Day chalked up a three-run homer in the first with Joe Powell adding three hits and Wayne Skidmore a pair.

In the opener, John Chaney pitched a three-hitter and fanned nine as Bel Air won 7-3.

A two-run homer by Pete Skidmore and two singles by Ken Kilsterman added four to the Bel Air score.

Everett walloped visiting Island Creek which scored just one run in the Saturday doubleheader.

Gene Decker stacked up win 99 and season victory three while fanning 12 on a stellar four-hitter in which he extended his walkless inning mark to 21 innings.

Adding to Everett's score were Denny Cowher with a three-run homer in the first inning, Jim Ronan with a double in the fifth, Mike Kline with two doubles and singles and Tim Graves with three singles.

Dean Marsico was the losing pitcher.

Kevin King picked up his second season victory in the second game as Jim Ronan hit a homer in the first inning, while teammate Don Stubbs singled twice and Steve Pope doubled and singled. King smacked in a triple.

Island Creek now carries a 1-4 record.

In games this week, Island Creek will meet Moorefield Wednesday for a single game at 7:30 p.m. Mount Savage Friday for a doubleheader beginning at 6:30 p.m. and Cumberland Legion Sunday for a doubleheader beginning at 2 p.m. All three games will be played on the Island Creek field near Bayard, W. Va.

The state finals will be held at Hunt Valley Golf Club, Phoenix on July 15. The five finalists from Maryland will compete with approximately 150 other play the last two rounds with twenty-two professionals from the PGA tour. In the four day 72-hole championship tourney, the youngsters compete for the coveted Robert Trent Jones Trophy.

In Memoriam Joseph and Valeria Brodak Founders - Brodak Supermarkets

Valeria Brodak
Born Sept. 13, 1915
Died June 10, 1981

Joseph George Brodak
Born March 4, 1907
Died June 13, 1981

The Brodak family has a long history of being in the retail food business of which the following is a brief description.

Joseph Brodak's father, John Brodak, owned and operated a small grocery store, gas station in Mt. Pleasant in the 1930's. Joseph at age 11 in 1918 went to work in a slaughter house in Mt. Pleasant and for the next 22 years of his life worked in slaughter houses in Mt. Pleasant, Masontown and Fairmont, W. Va.

While working in Masontown he met and married Valeria Batis, whose father, Edward Batis, operated a grocery store near Uniontown. Taking his wife and young son to Fairmont, W. Va., in the late 1930's, he continued to work the slaughter houses. In 1939 a third son was born to the couple whom they named for Joseph's father, John. In 1940, the family moved from Fairmont to Carmichaels, Pa., where they bought a 12 acre farm, and Joseph went to work for the Buckeye Coal Co. With a good knowledge of butchering procedures and the ingrown sense of business of both Joseph and Valeria the small farm seemed bound to lead to the sale of their products.

While working in the coal mines to supplement the family, Joseph's true love was his farm and together he and his wife worked long, hard hours to raise cattle, pigs, chickens and to plant huge gardens. In 1942 they raised a tent near the front of the farm which bordered on Route 88. While Joseph worked in the mine and cared for the animals, Valeria raised vegetables and baked fresh bread to sell.

By 1944, the little produce stand was doing well and Joseph found a barn for sale in Carmichaels that he decided to buy and tear down. He needed the lumber to build a gas station. His family was going to be a business family. It only took his wife six months to convince him that they should use the building to start a grocery store. They contacted a supplier for the canned goods and the two of them furnished the rest.

Competition grew in the town and in 1962 a decision had to be made. Should they close up the business or enlarge it to meet the changing times. Their son, John, now married and working in a machine shop in Washington, Pa., was offered the opportunity to carry the family business on. John needed little prompting. He and his wife moved back to Carmichaels and began the remodeling of the building. With his father teaching him the skills of butchering and his mother guiding him in the technicalities of purchasing and merchandising, John took over the reins.

Under the watchful eyes of his parents, John guided the store thru the next six years when once again it was in need of enlargement. This time the store was to grow to 5,000 square feet.

At about the same time, John's younger brother, George, struck out on his own and opened a grocery store in Oakland, Maryland, adding to the family's pride.

A piece of property became available in Millsboro, Pa., in 1974, which John purchased and built a 10,000 square foot building which was to house one of the finest grocery stores in the area.

Three years later the family finally closed the circle when their oldest son, Joseph, Jr., purchased a store in California, Pa., and he too became a grocer.

In 1978, the latest move was made, a new building was built in Carmichaels to replace the old store. After several supplier changes, the family made the decision to go with Shop 'n Save. Although it hurt to see the Brodak sign come down all the side of the building, they all know that as long as the structure stands, it will always be Brodak's.

Whether it's a little tent near the road or a 12,000 square foot cement block building at the rear of a large parking lot, it's the heart and the personality of the family and the people that work there that make it what it is and we're proud

Maryland Grain
Loan Rates Noted

Maryland loan rates for 1981 grains have been announced by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The rates were increased across-the-board in amounts equal to the recently announced national average loan rate increases, according to Stuart C. Peterson, Acting Chairperson of the State ASC Committee.

The rates are: Wheat, $3.19 per bushel; Corn, $2.61; Oats, $1.37; Sorghum, $4.11; and Barley, $1.93 per bushel.

"These rates vary from State to State to reflect differences in the value of the crop, production trends, and for some commodities, transportation costs to terminal points," Peterson said. The loan rate for Soybeans will increase from last year's $5.00 per bushel to $5.02 per bushel. This rate is based on a $5.02 per bushel national average loan rate, he said.

The ASCS official said grain loans are available for approximately ten months following harvest and mature within nine months. Producers may satisfy the loan by repaying it or, in cases where the market value is below the loan rate, forfeiting the commodity. Grain under loan may be stored on the farm or in approved warehouses.

The ASCS grain loan program provides operating cash and allows farmers to hold their crop off the market and benefit from price increases that often come later in the season after harvest. Although the program does not guarantee participating farmers a profit, it does guarantee a selling price equal to or greater than the loan rate," said Peterson.

By placing grain under loan, farmers increase their marketing options and help strengthen crop prices. "The loans give farmers an opportunity to plan their management strategy and sell when the price is right," said Peterson.

Small Grain
Harvest Yields
Report Issued

The harvest of small grains increased as Maryland had five days suitable for field work and Delaware averaged 6 days. The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service shows barley acreage nearly all turned with 30 percent harvested in Maryland and 60 percent cut in Delaware. Both states were behind last year's harvest of 50 percent and 70 percent in Maryland and Delaware, respectively. Wheat with 90 percent of the acreage turned in Maryland was nearly the same as a year ago. Delaware's wheat was 75 percent turned behind 100 percent last year. Wheat harvested in both states was nearly the same as 1980, with Maryland at 5 percent and Delaware at 1 percent. Rye was 90 percent turned compared with 100 percent last year, but the harvest, at 35 percent completed, was well ahead of the 5 percent cut a year earlier. Oats were about 95 percent turned compared with 75 percent in 1980. All small grains were reported to be mostly in good to excellent condition with light infestation of army worms scattered through both states.

Corn is growing rapidly and looks good in all areas. Soybean plantings made good progress, with plantings above a year ago in both states. Maryland's amount completed was 80 percent, ahead of last year's 75 percent and the five year average of 70 percent. Delaware's acreage was 80 percent planted, well ahead of 70 percent a year ago and the five year average of 75 percent. Most soybeans plantings will be completed after barley and wheat are harvested.

Hay making progressed well, as the first cutting of alfalfa was 95 percent complete in Maryland compared with 80 percent last year. Delaware farmers completed their first cutting. Other hay cuttings were 70 percent completed in Maryland and 100 percent in Delaware.

Tobacco plantings reached 90 percent completed, the same as a year earlier and well ahead of the 70 percent five year average.

Vegetable plantings were nearly complete in all areas. The pea harvest reached the half way mark in Maryland and was 70 percent complete in Delaware.

Scattered showers made moisture supplies generally adequate for both topsoil and subsoil. Continued growth of feed supplies, provided adequate feed in most areas. The continued hot humid weather caused some stress of poultry and swine.

Park Launches
Turf Mowing
Zone Program

Park Manager Gerry Sword and his staff this spring started a turf mowing zone program, initiating new grass cutting efforts at Swallow Falls and Herrington Manor State Parks. According to Sword, the park is conserving gasoline, labor and extending the life of its mowing equipment and at the same time is finding wildflowers and small animal populations enhanced.

In the past, a high percentage of time and money has been spent keeping grass mowed in state parks, according to the Maryland Forest & Park Services. Visitors have grown accustomed to seeing mowed roadways as well as mowed open expanses.

Today, according to the Forest & Park Services, environmental factors, inflation and the resultant budget reductions have caused state park managers to look for innovative, resourceful ways to maintain levels of service to the park user, while conserving gasoline and energy.

The turf mowing zone program was developed using visible site characteristics. Ball fields, open play areas, trails, walks and other high use areas will continue to be mowed as before. Other large expanses will not be mowed, or will be mowed less often, with no adverse effect on usage, according to Sword.

County Festival Fills Weekend With Art, Drama, And Song

The First Garrett County Fine Arts Festival held this past weekend at Garrett Community College did not bring in anticipated crowds, but approximately 200 spectators did show up for the plays, entertainment and exhibits Saturday and Sunday.

The festival, sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council and Community Theatre, was kicked off Friday evening with a preview of the weekend events, attended by 150 persons.

The Community Theatre presented three plays over the weekend: "Beauty and the Beast," directed by Nancy Beecham; "Hello Out There," directed by Frances Acton, and "The Diary of Adam and Eve," directed by Leroy Raines.

Entertainers included the Mt. Top Promenaders, the Fox Trio, the Northern High School Pep Band, the Southern High School Stage Band, and the Achtu Dance Team of the Cumberland Order of the Arrow, Boy Scouts of America.

The weekend also featured exhibits of the works of 41 county artists including paintings, drawings, printmaking, sculpture, photography and water colors. A Children's Work Shop was also part of the weekend activities.

ADAM. Ken Phillips, discusses what to name the animals with Eve, Amy Wellborn, in "The Diary of Adam and Eve." Act I of the musical, "The Apple Tree." Also appearing in the one act play, presented Saturday and Sunday nights, was the Snake, Bob Groves. "Hello Out There," was another one act play in the evening performances.

which was found at the Altamont Bridge, Route 135, along the railroad tracks. Police said the vehicle had apparently been pushed or driven over a 35 to 40-foot embankment and its front wheels came to rest on the railroad tracks at the foot of the hill.

The windshield of the 1977 Chevy Monte Carlo had been smashed by what appeared to have been large rocks, according to police. The right front side window was completely broken out and a large rock was found lying on the car seat. The transmission was in park. The steering was locked and no keys were found in the vehicle.

The car was reported stolen on Wednesday of last week by Ruby L. Mayle, Elk Garden, W. Va., owner, to the West Virginia State Police. There was reported damage to the front end, and the automobile was towed to the 135 Amoco Service Station near Oakland. An investigation is continuing by state police in Keyser, W. Va.

In other business the department received two reports involving theft last week. Clinton J. Garber, an employee of Plastic Piping Systems, Columbia, reported that an air conditioner was stolen from the bedroom window of a summer cottage owned by that company, located at Thousand Acres, Swanton, sometime this month. The item was found missing on Monday, and nothing else in the cottage was disturbed. The General Electric AC18,000 BTU room air conditioner is valued at approximately $600.

Bernard S. Eisler, Grantsville, owner of the Chestnut Ridge Service Station and Liquor Store, reported that a lookout hubcap was stolen from his 1977 Ford pickup truck while it was parked at that establishment on June 10.

In a separate case, Phillip Holzschuhner of Zanesville, Ohio, a truck driver for Redway Express, told the department that he hit a dog of an unknown breed while travelling on Route 48 near the 19-mile marker on Sunday. The dog is described as speckled black, and the owner is unknown.

In addition to those reported previously, the department arrested three persons last week. William Allan Shaffer, 19, Mt. Savage, was arrested Friday on HOPEFULLY, these young braves were not the cause of heavy rains hitting the mountain top this weekend. Actually, they are members of the Achtu Dance Team of the Cumberland Order of the Arrow, Boy Scouts of America, and were part of the entertainment at the festival.

Broad Ford Staff Members Retire

When schools open this fall in Garrett County, three staff members of the Broad Ford Elementary School will not be returning.

Over one hundred years of service is represented in the careers of Mrs. Pat Bray, Mrs. Helen Friend, instructors, and Mrs. Edna Friend, food services worker, who are retiring from the Garrett County Board of Education. Their years of service span from the one room school situation of Sang Run and Bray Schools to the modern day educational complex at Broad Ford Elementary.

Mrs. Bray, with 40 years of service, graduated from Frostburg State College in 1941. Her first teaching assignment was at Kempton. After one year at Kempton she transferred to Accident, and remained there until 1951. The next 24 years she taught at the Oakland Elementary and Center Street Schools. When the latter closed, she became a staff member of the Broad Ford Elementary School, remaining there until her retirement.

Mrs. Helen Friend began her teaching career at the Oakland Elementary School after graduating from Towson State Normal in 1932. She later taught at Loch Linn, Sang Run, and Bray Schools returning in 1940 as part of the Oakland Elementary staff and remained there until 1945. After a ten year leave, Mrs. Friend returned to the Center Street School and remained there until 1975 when the facility closed and she became a staff member of the Broad Ford Elementary School. Both Mrs. Bray and Mrs. Friend have taught in the second grade situation for many years.

Mrs. Edna Friend is retiring after accumulating 30 years of service with the Garrett County Board of Education. Mrs. Friend was employed by the Food Services Department as a cafeteria staff member. She served on the staff of the Oakland Elementary, Center Street Elementary, and the Broad Ford Elementary schools.

Flickering

Our energy-conscious world can learn an important lesson from the candle that flickers out. The problem is not that its fuel is all gone. The fuel has been dissipated so it is no longer in a usable state.

The flickering candle conveys a religious lesson, too. Some of us burn out spiritually. Not because we lack God-given resources. Because we let those resources dissolve in a hodgepodge of confusion and doubt.

The ancient Psalmist called God's Word a lamp for his feet and a light for his path.

Keep close to your church or synagogue and its teaching. The spiritual resources we constantly renew cannot melt away.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE PRESENCE
June 28, 1981

Background Scripture:
Deuteronomy 4:15-49
Devotional Reading:
Hosea 6:1-6

No matter how wise the teachers, the rituals, not authoritative the scripture, no religion can long remain fresh and alive when its adherents lose the experience of the divine presence. Many of the problems which we face in our churches today can be traced, I believe, to our failure to maintain a first-hand religious experience. God cannot help but be remote and ineffective in our lives when our source of contact with him is second and even third-hand.

Religion cannot help but seem remote when most of our activity is relegated to talking about God as an article of faith or an abstract idea. People—and particularly the young generation today—reject Christianity, not because our Christian teachings are unattractive, but because we have failed to convince others that we have been in communion with the God we profess.

He Let You See and Hear In Deuteronomy 4 we are reminded that what made God so real to the Hebrew people was not the persuasiveness of the Hebrew priests nor the brilliance of what they said about God. What made God so real to the Hebrew people was their experience of his presence in their lives. In the midst of their needs, they encountered God in a living experience. They saw what he did and they heard his voice. "For earth he let you see his great fire, and you heard his words out of the midst of the fire."

The key to the Hebrew religion was always the Hebrew experience of God. "And because he loved your fathers, and chose their descendants after them, and brought you out of Egypt with his own presence, he knows that you know, therefore this day, and lay it to your heart, that the Lord is God in heaven above and on the earth beneath; there is no other" (4:37). For the Hebrew, God was never, not a great idea, but a profound experience of the divine presence. They believed in him and covenanted with him, not because it was logical, but because it grew out of their experience.

His Own Presence Have you experienced the presence of God in your own life? If you have, you don't need any arguments about the existence of a Divine Being. But, if you haven't, why haven't you? Is it that God chooses not to reveal himself to you? Is it that the experience of God's presence is limited to a chosen few or a bygone time?

Or is it that you haven't recognized the presence in your life because you haven't allowed yourself to be aware of it? In the Lark, a play about Joan of Arc, the Dauphine of France is jealous because Joan's "voice" came to a simple maid and not himself. But Joan explains, "They say come to you, but you do not listen."

God is present, even if we are oblivious to him.

IT TAKES LONGER
NOW TO BECOME OLD
In the past there always were a few people who lived long lives. But, most of them acquired the disease of old age before they were fifty years of age. After that they suffered from pains, aches, lack of energy, chronic coughs and other miseries.

Medical knowledge, diagnostic techniques, and positive acting drugs have been greatly improved. Now many people are living at seventy and hope to stay that way. To a great degree, how long you will live depends on you regularly having your physician check your body. His treating ailments before it has time to become a serious problem, you can add many years to your life.

Democracy's Cornerstone

by David W. Hornbeck
State Superintendent of Schools

What makes a good school good?
What makes a poor school poor?

Those are important questions for parents, school board members, taxpayers, teachers, superintendents, legislators, and the students themselves. They are not easy questions to answer. But one very significant piece of the answer is — the principal.

In a little publicized study a couple of years back, the State Department of Education selected eighteen high achievement schools based on test data from the Iowa Test of Basic Skills. The Department also selected twelve low achievement schools based on the same data. State research people asked a fundamental question — what made the difference? They asked that question in many different ways. They asked it through statistical analysis. They asked it through series of visits and interviews on the spot at the schools.

The result of their work was one of those very complicated studies filled with words like "regressions" and "Content Clustering Techniques" and the computer played an important role in the analysis of the data. I am not a statistician. I may have missed some of the subtleties of the report, but the bottom line was that the principal is a crucial factor in the chemistry of the school — most positively in the high achievement schools and less so in the others.

Here is a key paragraph in the study: "In the high achievement schools, the school is being run as opposed to running." Generally, the principals in the high achievement schools were well organized. One of the impressive facts about those schools was the amount of time the principal seemed to spend out in the school and in the classroom teaching. The principals of these schools had very high expectations of themselves, their teachers, and their students. In the last 3 years, there was a 99% change in the principals in the high achievement schools and an 83% change in the low achievement schools. The principal in the high achieving schools had "hand picked" a great many of the teachers. Those principals also tended to have advanced training in either reading or arithmetic. You get the picture.

Is the principal the whole story? Of course not. Is he or she a critical part? I think so.

There are over 1,300 school principals in Maryland. There is no larger working group I know. They see their first responsibility as instructional leadership in the school, to see to it that teachers teach and that students learn. But it doesn't always work that way. Principals are also managers. Cafeteria problems, personnel problems, maintenance problems, school bus problems, parent problems, all find their way to the principal's office. And the principal must deal with them.

When you look at a successful school you can usually find a host of contributing factors. But, perhaps, the degree to which a principal can cope with all of the management responsibility while maintaining instructional leadership is the real and essential first principle of the successful school — the principal's principle.

Looking At Antiques With The Country Boy

by Dave Bowman

AMERICAN FOLK POTTERY

Earthenware vessels were being produced in the colonies of the New World as early as 1630. These first American types of pottery were often unglazed and crude, very porous and easily broken. For this reason, few of these early colonial pieces have survived.

Folk pottery can loosely be categorized into types: earthenware and stoneware. What do people look for when collecting folk pottery? Shape and form attract many; others look for pottery made by a specific potter or from a certain location, but most collectors are attracted by incised or cobalt decoration. These designs can be quite simple or very elaborate, often depicting flowers, birds, animals, buildings, flags or dates.

Decorated pottery is both useful and ornamental. It provides us in the 20th century with an intimate view of the people who left us a heritage in the utensils of their everyday lives.

We are always interested in buying good antiques — one piece or a houseful.

WHAT TO DO WHEN DEATH STRIKES
Often, death like life carries with it responsibilities to insure the continuing welfare of family members. In fact, when someone in the family dies, there are a number of things that should be done, some of which are suggested by the American Council of Life Insurance below.

*Obtain an original copy of the last will and certified copies of the death certificate. The funeral director will probably take care of the latter.

*Notify your insurance agent or the life insurance company or companies where the deceased had policies.

*Search likely places (safe deposit boxes, brief cases, strong boxes, desks, safes, etc.) for important papers.

*Notify your lawyer. (Remember, it is not necessary to hire a lawyer to obtain life insurance benefits.)

*Notify companies where the policy holder had unpaid debts or loans, inform employer and business associates, as well as fraternal and other organizations in which the deceased owned stocks, and the Veterans Administration and Civil Service Commission, if applicable.

*Contact the local Social Security office to determine eligibility for survivor benefits.

*An income tax return must be filed if the deceased received the minimum taxable income in the year of death. A surviving spouse can usually do this.

FOOD NOTES

When buying meat, remember to buy according to cost per serving instead of cost per pound. A piece of meat without the bone goes much further than one with bone. Round steak should provide up to four servings per pound, so it could be a reasonable buy

2 pounds beef round steak, cut 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 inches thick
1 cup white wine
1 cup lemon juice
1 cup salad oil
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon leaf oregano
2 cloves garlic, crushed
Combine wine, lemon juice, oil, salt, oregano and garlic in saucepan. Bring to boil; reduce heat, cook slowly 10 minutes and cool. Score chilled steak on both sides in diamond pattern 1/8 in. deep, with sharp knife. Place steak and marinade in plastic bag, press out air, tie securely and refrigerate 6 to 8 hours (or overnight). Remove steak from marinade, and place on rack in broiler pan or on grill over ash-covered coals so surface of meat is 4 to 5 inches from heat. Broil at moderate temperature 25 to 35 minutes to desired degree of doneness (rare or medium), brushing with marinade occasionally. Carve diagonally across the grain into thin slices.

Veterinarian To Visit Summer Reading Club

Dr. James Fearer from Pineview Veterinary Hospital will visit the Zoo Mania Summer Reading Club at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland branch, this Tuesday, June 30, at 2 p.m.

Dr. Fearer will be present to talk about pet care and to answer any questions the club members have. He will also present a short film on "what it's like to visit a veterinarian."

The Summer Reading Club theme this year is "animals," and the club is open to school children at each branch library in Garrett County. The Oakland club will meet every Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the library through August 18.

Cancer Patients Respond Slowly To THC Usage

There has been no great rush among cancer chemotherapy patients to enroll in the clinical trials of THC, the active ingredient in marijuana, since the drug recently became available at the West Virginia University Medical Center Morgantown, W. Va.

Peter Raich, professor of medicine and chief of the section of hematology/oncology in the WVU School of Medicine, said that from five to ten patients continue to express interest in taking THC, or delta-nine-tetrahydrocannabinol. The drug is being tested for its effectiveness in controlling nausea and vomiting, common side effects of some cancer chemotherapy agents.

"Interest has waned because of the long interval between announcement of the availability of the drug and its arrival here," Dr. Raich said. "If the treatment is successful in our first patients, however, word of mouth will increase interest among others."

From 50 to 100 patients are expected to be involved in the trials during the first year, Raich said.

Patients are admitted to the THC program, funded by the National Cancer Institute, only after conventional therapy for nausea and vomiting has failed. Enrollment is voluntary.

The initial dosage planned for participants at the WVU Medical Center is two capsules of five milligrams each following chemotherapy and every four to six hours thereafter.

This dosage may be increased or decreased depending on need, Raich said. The drug usually is given only on the day chemotherapy is administered, but is available for the day following if required.

Not only is patient interest less than expected, private physicians who may prescribe THC for their patients under certain guidelines have not hurried to have their applications approved, Raich said.

The applications must be approved both by the Qualification Review Board and the National Cancer Institute.

The board, headed by Raich, was set up by the State Department of Health following the passage of 1979 legislation permitting use of marijuana in West Virginia for treatment of glaucoma and the side effects of cancer chemotherapy.

Private physicians wishing to prescribe THC for patients must be experienced in drug therapy of cancer, although not necessarily specialists in oncology. Each must have a registered number for the drug and be officially registered with a participating pharmacy.

The physician must affirm that the patient has signed the consent form and that the drug will be prescribed only for treatment of cancer chemotherapy-associated reactions. Each also must report any adverse THC reactions to the board and the National Cancer Institute.

Joseph Bologna wins as actor and writer

Joseph Bologna's secret is that half of him never grew up.

When I'm acting," he says, "I'm like a child—raw, creative, vulnerable. As a writer, I'm an adult. Writing is difficult, you take it to bed with you."

The actor, the kid, says, "Hey, look at me!" His art is instantaneous. He has the most fun.

It's Joseph Bologna, the actor, who co-stars with Lee Remick and George Peppard in "Torn Between Two Lovers," a motion picture for television to be rebroadcast

Each character has a trap," he continues. "Paul has to be super charming, super open and honest, or he comes off as a manipulator. Diane must have tremendous feeling and tremendous pain, or she becomes a villainess."

And what is it that Bologna, as Ted Conti, must look for? Very simply, Bologna says, "Ted can't be a dummy."

Bologna, in collaboration with his wife, Renee Taylor, wrote and starred in two films, "Lovers and Other Strangers" and "Made for Each Other," and the pair currently star in the Broadway comedy, "It Had To Be You."

He also starred in the film "Mixed Company," and in the drama "Honor Thy Father" on CBS.

Bologna and Taylor have written for others and they've written for themselves. "Writing for yourself is not as easy as it may sound," he notes. "When you write for yourself, there's always the conflict between the adult and the kid, both saying, 'That's not good enough.' Writing for yourself, you need twice the time."

Another writer might be apprehensive to hand his script to Bologna the actor. But Bologna is quick to make it clear that he's not out to rewrite his part.

"My intention is to clarify the writer's intention. It would be dishonest for me as an actor or not to want to act what the writer says. My writing ability is an asset to clarify and to fortify."

Bologna may be a writer who acts, or an actor who writes, but he will never be content with just one role. "I just can't see myself without one or the other."

Tracing family roots in front of the camera

By Ruth Thompson

Who am I? Where did I come from?

Talk-show and variety-show host Mike Douglas describes how very moved he was when Alex Haley, the author of "Roots," surprised him with a chart of his genealogy during what Mike thought would be a routine guest appearance by Alex on his nationally syndicated show.

Brady's in my line, of course, but I didn't know, until Alex's study, that there was a relationship to Diamond Jim Brady.

Most touching, perhaps, and perhaps one of the most motivating influences in Mike's life, was a dear aunt of his in Chicago, "Alex," had found out about her, too. She loved me, I loved her. Mike added, with great tenderness.

When Gary Sandy, Andy Travis on CBS' "WKRP in Cincinnati," traced his roots, he found some interesting information.

His forbears were early settlers of Kentucky. He says it was a thrill when he was only a year ago, he found that a house built by his great grandfather was up for sale again.

Do you have to know where you came from to be motivated? Are you crippled psychologically if you don't know the geography and the genetics of both parents?

According to long-time television host Art Linkletter, no. Art is now ranked as one of Hollywood's richest men.

Yet all that he knows of his origins is that there was a note pinned to him when he was left on a doorstep as a foundling. It said, "His name is Kelly." He got the names by which he is known when a Baptist minister named Linkletter, and his wife, adopted the abandoned infant.

Schroder on recess; Rooney on marriage

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Asked his favorite subject in school, hotshot kid star Ricky Schroder replied, "recess." Mickey Rooney wants it known he truly has found marital happiness. That's nice. Eight must be his lucky number. Engelbert Humperdinck is nice and OK after the gallstone attack. Marvin Hamlisch told a pal of mine that never again will he work another joint that sells food or drink. From now on, Hamlisch, who has gone classically, concentrates solely on symphony music. In a pinch, maybe Broadway, but that's the lowest he'll go.

Somebody thought I should inform you about the Who's Who of animal lovers. I don't know why I should but, here goes: Doris Day loves dogs. Cher collects parrots. Ed Asner has cats and dogs. The good thing about the movie, Bologna says, "is that it scrambles you a little. There is no good guy or bad guy in it. The trick of the movie is to have sympathy for all three characters."

Mike Douglas

Mike recalled that he was "toured, moved, shook up," when Alex came on his show with a "Roots" job for Mike, who, except for one strain of German ancestry, is mostly Irish. Says Mike, "Alex went into my genealogy, traced it back to Ireland and it included relatives I'd heard about and many I hadn't. I can't tell you how moved I was. And someday I hope to take my program on location to Ireland and go into it."

What would the average person do if a crocodile shot full speed toward him? When Alan Root found himself in that exact situation, instead of turning tail, he swam straight at the beast.

Ed Asner

Root, however, is a wildlife cinematographer and, admittedly, he is not your average person.

I swam at it and it clicked, ended out," said Root, who is perhaps the most renowned and the most feared wildlife filmmaker in the business.

Root and his wife and camera partner, Joan, are seen dealing with some other less fearful creatures, in the special "LIGHTS! ACTION! AFRICA: The Fascinating Adventures of Wildlife Photographers Alan & Joan Root," narrated by Ed Asner, to be presented Wednesday, July 1 on CBS.

In the special, the couple, married 20 years, turn the cameras on themselves, to show some of the close calls and complications they face in filming the secret and mysterious worlds of East Africa.

Besides the timid crocodile, Root has survived airplane crashes, buffalo stampedes and malaria. He's been attacked by everything from

THE POWER GAME, an objective approach to energy use, 1981 style, will be offered by the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting every Friday at 7 p.m., and Saturday at 10 a.m., on TV 26. "The Power Game" aims to help consumers sort out energy use confusion by determining what energy-saving ideas are practical for their own lifestyles. The high cost of energy is forcing everyone to take a second look at their daily habits. "The Power Game" shows you how to reorganize your energy usage routine and see the results in your pocketbook.

Ed Asner narrates 'LIGHTS! ACTION!'

Root says he relishes the situation where danger and fear are finely balanced. "A project is not interesting unless the odds are against me. I get a kick from realizing that in a moment of danger I have been able to concentrate and do the right thing at the right time."

The stakes are high, and when they lose — fortunately that's not often — it's costly. When they win, the result is the kind of spectacular natural-history footage seen in their documentaries, one of which won them a Peabody and an Academy Award nomination.

In this special, Root reveals how he and his wife were almost killed by an enraged hippo when they came too close during the mating season, and Mrs. Root is seen risking her eyesight to get amazing slow motion shots of a deadly spitting cobra.

"Actually," says Mrs. Root, "the snake business was more dangerous for Alan than for me. He had to film dozens of sequences before he could make it all work, and he's allergic to antivenom."

Apart from being bitten by a scorpion when camping out with her husband on the first night of their honeymoon, Mrs. Root has managed to "escape" unscathed from the potentially dangerous aspects of her job. Although she dismisses these affairs with a "calm authority," she has been in at least one situation that left her shivering. A hippo (They kill more people than any other animals in Africa!) bit through her underwater mask.

This is the stuff of the Roots' life/work. They consider it all part of the job. Yet one cannot help wondering if there is anything or any situation the filmmaking team might find intimidating.

The London-born Root answers for himself and his Kenya-born wife. "After 30 years in Africa spending more than a week in a city turns me into a gibbering wreck. Animals I get on with. People are something else again."

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Country-western star appears on 'Texas'

By Nancy M. Reichardt

NEW YORK — Ray Stevens, the well-known country and western singer, lit right into the atmosphere of "Texas" when he made his first guest-star appearance on a soap opera this month. Stevens played himself on the show, acting as a replacement singer at the fictional Houston nightclub, The Coop, when resident warbler Elena Dekker couldn't go on stage at the last minute.

Stevens, who could possibly turn up on the soap again in the future, is probably best known for his light comedic touch in music, as demonstrated by his top-10 chart, 1962 hit recording of "Ahab the Arab." Stevens' latest album is "Shriner's Convention."

Since Ray went over so well, "Texas" may showcase other country and western stars at The Coop throughout the summer months.

When spring rolls around, everyone begins to think of baseball games and fun in the park, and soap opera actors are no different. Recently, the cast and crew of "As the World Turns" and "The Edge of Night" went to bat for the first of a series of charity ball games scheduled during the summer months. Unfortunately, "EON" didn't fare too well on the diamond — they were beaten by a considerable margin by the "ATWT" folk.

However, with their never-say-die attitude, "EON" has regrouped and is preparing to meet with the team from "The Guiding Light." The big game is being held at New Jersey's Garden City Park softball field this weekend and is for the benefit of Help Autistic People Please, Inc.

The event is sponsored by Adelphi University in New York.

Marriage may be a synonym for trouble where Brandon Kingsley of "All My Children" is concerned, but Michael Minor, the actor who portrays that character, is all for the institution. He recently took the plunge for real and married his longtime girlfriend, Marilyn. Helping Michael out as his best man was his 17-year-old son from a former marriage, John Drew.

Victoria Wyndham (Rachel Coryn on "Another World") has been keeping extra busy these days. When she's not appearing on the show, she's working on the script and lyrics for a musical adaptation of the famous British film "The Red Shoes." The show is slated for a Broadway opening in the near future.

(Have a question about soap opera? Write Nancy Reichardt at 200 Park Avenue, Room 602, New York, NY 10166.)

PET POINTERS

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.
Manager of Veterinary Services
Norden Laboratories

Doubtless you've heard the expression "his bark is worse than his bite." For someone spending a sleepless night listening to his neighbor's dog howling, I'm sure nothing could be truer.

Barking is a dog's normal response to a variety of circumstances. How long or how vigorously a particular dog will bark depends on the situation and the dog's breeding.

Terriers or crossbred terriers, for example, are generally nervous, rather high strung and full of energy. They may work off excess energy by barking, especially if they don't receive enough exercise. Other breeds like the Norwegian elkhound, bred years ago to protect herds and property, bark to defend their homes from intruders, including birds, squirrels and the like.

Boredom is the main reason for long periods of senseless barking. A dog left alone indoors for hours at a time has little to do and will bark in the hope of attracting attention and companionship. It can respond to the telephone or the sound of people in an apartment hallway with an hour or more of nonstop noise.

Even more annoying is the night barker. This dog usually has slept all day and has excessive energy left over at bedtime. In such cases, a hard run at nightfall may help the dog become tired enough to sleep.

Anything you can do to provide some distraction while you're away for long periods can help control a barking dog. Some pets respond to a few new toys. Others are comforted by the sound of the television.

A major part of the solution is to let your dog know that he cannot bark indiscriminately and get away with it. "Informing" your dog will require time and effort on your part.

The next time your dog begins to bark at the wrong time, reprimand him with a firm, loud "No." or a folded newspaper against his hind quarters to impress your order upon him.

Then leave the area so that the pet cannot see you. Stay within earshot, and return quickly with a sharp reprimand if he begins to bark. Each time stay away for a longer period of time, but always return to scold him at the sound of barking. You may have to enlist the help of several friends, but the idea that you are unhappy with the barking must be reinforced for several days. If you stop too soon, your dog will resume the old habit.

For additional ideas on what to do about a stubborn barking problem, discuss the situation with your veterinarian. Neutering an adult male dog will reduce his barking. The veterinarian can also discuss other alternatives, such as a muzzle for the dog, with you.

Byron Opposes Purchase Of Foreign Autos

Rep. Beverly B. Byron (D-Md.) recently announced she is supporting an amendment prohibiting the Department of Defense from buying foreign-made vehicles in FY '82.

"In recent years, the Pentagon has been purchasing trucks which are built in England and Germany," Mrs. Byron explained. "The Army and the Air Force have bought substantial numbers of buses, vans and similar vehicles under the auspices of 'cooperation' with our European allies, but this practice only results in lowered productivity, a worsening of our trade deficit and an ongoing loss of U.S. dollars sent overseas in exchange for parts and maintenance."

"This policy, established during the Carter administration, is one which demonstrates American co-operation and foreign assistance, but we need to evaluate the real effect of such action," Rep. Byron said.

"We are, in effect, subsidizing English and German industries while we neglect our own auto industry and our workers. In addition, this pattern destroys our credibility. It is unrealistic to assume that others will 'buy American' when our defense department does not do so," she said.

The amendment would prohibit the defense department from purchasing foreign-made vehicles when suitable American vehicles are available.

House consideration of the amendment, to be added to the FY '82 appropriations bill, is expected in the near future.

Observing The Sun

Looking directly at the Sun with the unaided eye or through unfiltered optical devices can cause blindness or severe eye damage. One must be careful that filters used with optical instruments, such as telescopes, are of good quality and are reliable. Invisible rays from the Sun cause eye damage. One method of observing the Sun is to project the solar image onto a screen. Even this must be done with care; since, heat built-up inside the telescope may permanently damage it and unsupervised bystanders may try to look through the telescope eyepiece.

Moon

Tomorrow morning at 25 minutes past midnight, the Moon will pass through its Last Quarter phase. At this point, the Moon will be one quarter of a turn west of the Sun as observed from Earth. Moonrise was at 1:04 this morning. Next Tuesday morning, the Moon will rise at 4:50.

Visible Planets

Visible to the unaided eye will be Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn during the coming week. Venus will be low in the west just after sunset. Mars will be in the eastern sky, close to the horizon, just prior to sunrise. This planet will be among the stars of Taurus, the bull. Jupiter and Saturn will be among the stars of Virgo, high in the southwest at sunset.

Daylight Decreases

There will be 2 minutes less daylight next Tuesday. Sunrise was at 5:51 this morning. Sunset will be at 8:49 tonight. Next Tuesday, the Sun will rise at 5:33 a.m. followed 14 hours 56 minutes later by sunset at 8:49 p.m.

Today is the 175th day of this year. The Sun will follow the same path today that it followed last June 18th.

Bear Sightings In Western Md.

By Ed Golden
Regional Wildlife Manager
Maryland Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Administration

In the past few years Western Maryland's two westernmost counties (Allegany and Garrett) have experienced an increasing number of black bear sightings. This is due to migration from Pennsylvania and West Virginia, plus an increase in the Maryland bear population. These sightings, while alarming to some people, should be of minimal concern. Black bear are normally very secretive and fear humans much more than humans fear them.

Many people have a tendency to over-react when they see a bear. They either scream and run, or go for a gun to protect the family in a true frontier tradition. If a person claps his hands, bangs on pans, yells, or produces a sharp noise the bear will run away. When a bear and human first see one another, the bear will stand up on its hind legs. A bear does this because it aids their very poor eyesight, and allows them to check the wind for scent and sound. This helps the bear locate the intruder on their activity, and to determine the quickest escape route for themselves.

Black bear sightings are most common in late spring and early summer, during their breeding season. The male bear begins to increase its range at this time of year, and becomes less secretive and, therefore, is seen more often. The female bear breeds every two years, raises her cubs for a year, until they reach a size and age to fend for themselves. Sightings of many young bears have been experienced this year. In 1980 quite a few cubs were produced in Western Maryland and Pennsylvania. These cubs have now reached the size and age when the female bear leaves them go on their own. These young bear must establish their own home range. When this occurs (in June or July) the cubs are somewhat confused and inexperienced. If cubs are sighted, don't become alarmed, please contact your nearest Wildlife Administration District Office at: Mt. Nebo—(344-4255), Billmeyer—(478-2525), the Regional Office at Cumberland—(777-2134) or contact the Department of Natural Resources Police for your area.

There is black bear habitat in Western Maryland and, with the public's cooperation and patience, we can add another interesting species to Maryland's woodlands.

Surrogate Parents Being Sought By Education Dept.

The Maryland State Department of Education needs volunteer surrogate parents for certain handicapped children throughout the state who are living away from their natural home, according to G.A. Crenson, department official.

Volunteers are needed for cases in which, for one reason or another, parents are not able to act on their children's behalf. Surrogate parents, appointed by the State Board of Education, are required to act only in decisions related to the child's education.

When a parent cannot be identified, or the whereabouts of a parent is unknown, or a child is a "ward" of the state, federal and state law require that a surrogate parent be appointed to represent these handicapped children in educational decision making. The surrogate parent performs the parent's role in all matters relating to evaluation, placement and the provision of free, appropriate education. No employee of the agencies involved in the education or care of the child may act as a surrogate parent.

Specifically, surrogate parents come in contact with the school system (1) when the child is evaluated, (2) when the individual education program is developed, (3) when a change in placement is being considered, or (4) in a Due Process Hearing.

Volunteers desiring to serve as surrogate parents should call 659-2458 in Baltimore or write Carol Ann Baglin, Maryland State Department of Education, 200 West Baltimore Street, Baltimore, 21201.

Oakland Firm To Manage Town View Village

Officials of the Accident Community Housing Corporation announced today that Garrettland Realty, Inc., an Oakland real estate firm, has been retained to manage the recently completed Town View Village apartment complex in Accident.

Rev. Fred S. Illick, president of the corporation formed to bring the housing project to the Accident community, stated that the new apartments were the result of over three years of effort on the part of citizens of the community and local and governmental agencies.

He added that the aims of the volunteer group have largely been realized and the needs of the new tenants and the community could best be served by a professional management firm.

The 20 one-bedroom apartment units were constructed with a loan to the Accident Community Housing Corporation made available through the Farmers Home Administration Section 515 Rural Rental Housing program. The modern units were specifically designed with the needs of the elderly and handicapped in mind.

To be eligible for occupancy the applicant must be over 62 years of age, able to care for themselves, and meet certain income requirements.

A spokesman at Garrettland stated that 15 applicants have been tentatively certified for occupancy soon after July 1.

Real Estate

Dino Clark Realty

WHOLESALE VS RETAIL LAND

In the normal marketplace, there are two price levels - wholesale and retail. The purchase and sale of raw land is no different. A review of the sales price history of any large parcel of land will show abrupt little jumps as the acreage is subdivided and sold off in smaller lots.

Much of this increase is due to the cost of improvements such as sewers, streets, sidewalks, and utilities. But increases of this sort are also due to the wholesale/retail level a good way to buy. It may take the pooling of several financial sources (partners, for example). But if ten acres are available for $5,000 per acre, then forty acres may be available for $4,000 per acre if you are buying from one seller.

Conversely, assemblage, which is the act of buying a group of small parcels to make up one large parcel, can prove very costly because the buyer will have to pay retail prices.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

The Garrett County 4-H Junior Rifle Club recently participated in the annual Libby Memorial Junior Smallbore Rifle Match held at Marriottsville, a suburb of northwest Baltimore. This match, noted as one of the most prestigious junior smallbore rifle matches held each year in the eastern United States, was hosted by the Arlington Rifle and Pistol Club Inc. on Saturday, May 20. It was an out-door 50 yard, 40 shot, open-sight match, with 150 junior shooters from the age of nine through 20 participating.

Four members of the competitive team were from the Garrett County 4-H Junior Rifle Club, coached by Ernie Swiger. Those who participated in the match were Jimmy Beitzel, Dwight Emory, Rodney Swiger and Carl Beitzel. These four shooters were chosen high runner-up for a 4-H team with a team aggregate of 1486.20x.

Individual scores were: Jimmy Beitzel, marksman class with 382.7x; Dwight Emory, intermediate, with 383.1x; Rodney Swiger, marksman with 385.5x and Carl Beitzel, pro-marksman with 334.2x. Each team member received a trophy as a member of the high 4-H team runner-up. Rodney Swiger received a trophy for high shooter in the marksman class. Jimmy Beitzel received a trophy for being the runner-up in the marksman class.

The "Potomac Highland Minutemen" Junior Rifle Club of Keyser, W. Va., coached by Dave Brantner and assisted by Don Meyer, also participated in this match. The five members from the Keyser club were Tally Simmons, Donnie Meyer, Gary Simmons, Danielle Park and Hanne Brantner. The Keyser club shot in the pro-marksman class with Donnie Meyer being high shooter in that class with a score of 390.1x, which was the fifth highest score shot in the match. The other three shooting on the team were Tally Simmons with 386.1x, Danielle Park 381.1x and Gary Simmons with 377.9x. Shooting as an individual was Hanne Brantner with 372.7x. Danielle Park was runner-up in the women's division while Hanne Brantner placed third. The Keyser club received the special "Libby Rifle" to keep in their possession for one year. The rifle, a Winchester Lowwall 22 cal. in original condition will be mounted on a plaque for display. The rifle was presented to Coach Dave Brantner and team members for shooting a 1533-40x, setting a new record by breaking the 1980 record of 1513-34x.

The Garrett County 4-H Jr. Rifle Club and the Keyser club captured nearly one-half the trophies awarded during the event.

Members of the Garrett County 4-H Jr. Rifle Club also brought top awards from the Western Maryland Regional Rifle Match held for 4-H members.

The match was sponsored by the Washington County 4-H and Extension Service in conjunction with the North American Rod and Gun Club in Hagerstown. The match is held each year to help prepare new 4-H rifle teams for the State 4-H Rifle Match held in Denton.

The smallbore match witnessed competition among 24 juniors (9-11 years of age), 26 intermediates (12-14 years of age) and 19 seniors (15-17 years of age) from five counties in Western Maryland.

There is much discussion regarding taxes at the present time," Rep. Byron said. "The Administration and Congress have been offering different alternatives to benefit the taxpayer through reducing the tax rates."

"I have worked for a more equitable tax structure since coming to the House in 1978, and I feel that the bills I have introduced will help our economy and our people by providing an incentive to increase savings, investments and growth," Mrs. Byron said.

If adopted, the bill would amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 and apply to taxable years beginning in January, 1982.

Thus far this month, Rep. Byron has sponsored legislation to provide tax relief for charitable contributions, increasing the mileage rate deduction for automobile use in volunteer work, retirement and pension benefits and caring for an elderly family member in the household.

Rep. Beverly Byron (D-Md.) has introduced legislation to provide individuals an increased exclusion from gross income for interest in certain savings deposits.

This bill, the fifth tax-relief proposal Rep. Byron has

Dock Permits Now Required At Deep Creek

Anyone wishing to place a dock in Deep Creek Lake must now obtain a permit, Gary Yoder, lake administrator, announced at the June 27 meeting of the Property Owners' Association of Deep Creek Lake, Inc.

Yoder said persons with docks in the lake will receive notice issued through certified mail, in the next few weeks describing the procedure to obtain a permit.

He added that dock owners must pay the $25 fee within ten days of receipt of the notice or the dock will be removed at the owners expense.

Yoder also pointed out that no permits will be issued to persons without deeded access across private lakefront property.

A member of the Association requested that a person be in the lake administration office on Saturdays to accommodate those visiting the lake on weekends which Yoder agreed to attempt to do.

Persons with boats to dock boats will also be charged a $10 fee.

A public hearing on the dock permits was held over Memorial Day weekend.

In other business, the Association appointed J.J. Markotas as chairman of a committee to investigate county taxation on lake property.

Over $3,500 In Household Items Stolen

A summer cottage, located on Penn Point Road, main body of Deep Creek Lake, was burglarized of more than $3,500 in appliances and other household items, sometime between November, 1980, and this month, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

The cottage, owner by Lee Gibson, Deerfield Beach, Fla., was entered apparently through a hole in the roof, which was caused by a falling rock. Police said there was no sign of forced entry into the dwelling.

The property taken belongs to Gibson and his sister, Leliza J. Hanna of Washington, Pa.

Among the items taken were a television set, a stereo, a recliner chair, a clock radio and wall clocks, lamps, various numerous electrical kitchen appliances, tableware, an iron, casseroles, bedding, china, a kerosene heater, fishing equipment, rifles, an electric drill, binoculars and an electric fan.

In a separate case, Mr. & Mrs. ...

AND THE RAINS CAME — Flash flooding yesterday afternoon transferred the intersection of Second and Liberty Streets into a veritable river as drain pipes all over Oakland became clogged with hail and debris and overflowed into the streets. The turbulent downpour lasted for approximately fifteen minutes, leaving many pedestrians huddling under awnings and doorway entrances to escape the barrage. Automobiles became stranded with flooded engines and several area businesses experienced water damage.

Board Approves Road Projects

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners approved three summer county roads projects Tuesday.

The three projects totalled three and one-half miles and were part of an asphalt overlay program, totalling 10 miles, proposed by Herb McCrobie, county roads engineer.

The commissioners did not okay the entire program, because they wanted to inspect some of the roads suggested for resurfacing.

The three projects approved were the only three to receive state aid. The three were Broad Ford Road, Oakland/Deer Park Road and portions of the Chestnut Grove Road.

In other business Tuesday, the commissioners received word of the appointment of Jack Erdinger, Swallow Falls to fill the unexpired term of the late William Welch as judge of the Orphans' Court. His term will end December 31, 1982.

Tim Dugan, county planning director, informed the commissioners of his selection as the Allegheny-Garrett representatives on the Maryland Historical Trust.

The commissioners met with 17 residents of Nest Lack Acres to discuss county maintenance of the roadways and surfacing of the roadway into the residential area.

The residents pointed out they had brought the road up to county road standards. The commissioners agreed to inspect the road Tuesday evening and to render a decision

Bradley Manor Housing Units Deteriorating

Several county officials are planning a trip to Washington, D.C. Monday and Tuesday to find out what they can do about Bradley Manor, a federally-funded housing project which is becoming uninhabitable.

At a meeting with the commissioners Tuesday, Tim Dugan, county planning director, and Diana Wawzinski, county housing coordinator, described the deteriorating conditions of the housing units and showed pictures of a crumbling foundation, extensive water damage, and cracking walls.

One unit has been abandoned because the foundation gave way under it, they noted.

They also stated that in some of the apartments, particularly on the top floor of the two-story buildings, some rooms cannot be used due to considerable water damage.

They pointed out that before construction of the project had been completed in 1971, problems were apparent. The complex was not in compliance with the standard building code nor did it meet soil erosion standards.

County Commissioner Ernie Gregg, Community Action Committee Director Duane Yoder, Dugan and Wawzinski plan to meet with Community Development Administration personnel Monday in an attempt to gain technical assistance in their efforts.

Tuesday, they plan to meet with Housing and Urban Development staff to demand action on solving some of the problems at Bradley Manor.

Tim Dugan stated that HUD has some regulatory authority over the project because it supplies rental subsidies for low income tenants. HUD also is the insurer for the mortgage on the complex.

Dugan told the commissioners that the residents of the housing units would no longer be cost effective. He indicated that tearing down the complex and constructing a

THE MAGIC FORMULA

The story goes that years ago a multi-millionaire wanted the ultimate answer to success in the stock market. So, he hired twenty of the top investment brokers in the world for a day and asked them to put their winning formulas into a computer. He knew that the final combined answer would be his ticket to unlimited wealth. Finally, the answer came spitting out. It read: "Buy low-sell high."

The same premise holds true for investing in property for future sale - buy low and sell high. Since most well-purchased property normally increases in value with age (like good wine), the trick is to buy it at a lower price than it would normally sell for. How?

Remember that the real estate market has its peaks and valleys. If there is any chance of buying right it is during an ebb or lull in the market. Tight money and high interest rates normally create such lulls (or opportunities). This is a good time to buy, because after the ebb, when money becomes easier to borrow, competition for it increases and so do real estate values.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Looking At Antiques With The Country Boy

by Dave Bowman

HOOKED RUGS

Hooked rugs can be traced to the year 1838. Most of the rugs to be found on the market today dates to the late 1800's and early 1900's.

Collectors of hooked rugs look for the ones that have been done from a design created by the person who made the rug. These rugs will not only be artistic but also very spontaneous. Hooked rugs fall into three groups:

1. Pictorial
2. Geometric
3. Floral

We are always interested in buying good antiques — one piece or a houseful.

Of the three above groups, collectors tend to be most interested in pictorial rugs. These rugs will have animals such as dogs, ducks, cats and horses. They will also have houses, pastoral scenes and human figures.

Hooked rugs are still readily available to the collector and range in price from a few dollars to several hundred dollars. This is one of the remaining fields of collecting that represents an exciting and relatively unexplored area of folk craft and folk art.

Talk Of The Towns

What's Going On In

by Wendell Keaton,
Municipal Administrator

DEER PARK JUNE 8

The major item of discussion during the monthly meeting of the Mayor and Town Council involved the (continued) use of the old Deer Park Elementary School which is owned by the Town. Prior to the Council meeting, a budget hearing was held, outlining anticipated revenues and expenditures for the 1982 budget year. Residents attending both meetings discussed with Council the possibility of allocating additional funds for the continued operation and maintenance of the school building which, in addition to accommodating area civic groups, is also used for the Hot Meals Program for senior citizens of Deer Park. Spokespersons for the meals program and senior citizens informed Council that the anticipated reductions in funding would eliminate the continued provision of janitorial services and perhaps would even eliminate the meals program in Deer Park this fall. Council was requested to review the proposed budget in hopes of reallocating monies for janitorial and utility services.

GRANTSVILLE JUNE 15

In addition to items to regular business, the following discussions were heard during the Grantsville Mayor and Town Council meeting:

1. Barbara Zick and Mike Wagoner of the Area Agency on Aging (AAA) in Cumberland presented information to Council regarding state funds which might be available for the development of a Senior Citizens Center in Grantsville. Immediate consideration was given to the rehabilitation of the old Grantsville Elementary School for this purpose. Wagoner stated that eligible applicants may receive up to $200,000 in state funds, provided there is a local match of the same amount; buildings and property may be used as a match in lieu of cash. Since the application is due by July 10, Wagoner emphasized the necessity of immediately obtaining appraisals for the property so that AAA can proceed with the grant application. Members of the senior citizens group attending the meeting informed Council that they would pay the appraisal. By a unanimous vote, Council agreed to proceed with the grant application and to request ownership of the building from the Garrett County Commissioners.

2. Mayor Bill Edwards informed Council that the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad is faced with a manpower shortage and may have to reduce or eliminate service if additional volunteers are not available during the morning and afternoon shifts. Council agreed to pass along information on training sessions to area residents when water meters are read.

3. The Town approved a building permit for Ruth Hershberger and sent the permit to the County Zoning Administrator for review.

4. Representatives of the Lions Club met with Council to discuss matters related to the Grantsville Park. After a lengthy discussion regarding alcohol in the park and problems associated with litter and vandalism, Council decided that "NO LITTERING—MAXIMUM FINE $250.00" signs be posted throughout the Town and that similar signs be erected regarding the prosecution of persons convicted of vandalism. The Lions Club agreed to install such signs in the park area and the Town would have the responsibility of installing such signs elsewhere in the Town.

Before the close of the meeting, Mayor Edwards informed the Lions Club that the Town was considering the purchase and renovation of an old caboose with Project Open Space funds and wanted to make it available to the park. Lions' representatives, who are responsible for operating the park, stated that this would create a maintenance problem due to the likelihood of vandalism and requested that the caboose be located elsewhere. Council agreed with the request and will search for an alternative location.

Mt. Lake Park

MT. LAKE PARK LOCH LYNN

A joint meeting of the Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn Mayor and Town Councils was held on June 25 to discuss a proposed assignment of the current cable television franchise. Representatives from the Mid-west Corporation (BetterVision) and Cableentertainment of West Virginia were also present.

The issue at hand involved a letter dated June 2 from BetterVision which informed the two Towns that the company was in the process of selling its cable TV system to Cableentertainment, operating out of Zanesville, Ohio. In that letter, BetterVision requested that the Towns adopt an ordinance which, in part, would permit the assignment of the franchise and would also extend the franchise for a period of fifteen years. (The current franchise expires January 4, 1986). Both Towns were adamantly opposed to the suggested ordinance since it provided no safeguards for the protection of Town residents in regard to quality of service and rate structures. By unanimous vote, Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn refused to adopt the ordinance as presented by the two companies and suggested that they would entertain a separate ordinance if conditions as outlined by Attorney Bob Watson were included. Mr. Randalls of Cableentertainment assured both Councils he would discuss the matter with his attorneys and would then contact Watson at a later date.

Oakland

OAKLAND by Kathy Railey

The Oakland Mayor and Town Council met Monday for a working budget session. As a result of that meeting Council announced that the Town's tax rate will remain at $1.20. No other information regarding the budget is available at this time. Council will meet again Monday evening, July 6.

The Town clerk has announced that the Liberty Street parking lot is now open, offering two hours maximum parking at a cost of 10 cents. The coin box is set to accept dimes only.

Island Creek Wins Five Straight To Improve Season Ledger To 6-6

The Island Creek team of the Pen-Mar Baseball League went into last week's action with a disappointing 1-6 season record, however the coalmen reeled off five straight victories to even the mark at 6-6. The first win came Wednesday evening in a make-up contest with Moorefield, 13-4, on the Island Creek diamond. In a twilight double-header Friday, they swept a pair from Mt. Savage, 6-3 and 5-0, also on the Bayard field. The fourth and fifth victories were over visiting Cumberland Legion on Sunday, 5-4 and 10-3.

Although Island Creek tossers could manage only four hits against Moorefield, they took advantage of 15 bases on balls to gain the win. Dean Marsico picked up the win in relief of Steve Wamsley and Ed Parrish recorded the save. Craig Turner, the second of three Moorefield pitchers, absorbed the loss.

Randy Cirillo's bases-loaded squeeze hunt in the fourth kept alive a four-run sixth inning. Cecil Fields rapped a solo home run for the losers in the second inning to knot the score at 3-3. Moorefield finished with five hits.

Against Mt. Savage, Frank Lewis rapped solo home runs in the second and fourth innings after teammate Lawrence Nesselrodt tied the score at 1-1 with a homer in the first frame of the opening contest. Earning the win from the mound was Jeff Rhodes, while Kevin Bittner took the loss.

Steve Wamsley tossed a four-hitter in the second game, while Island Creek's hitting was led by Mickey Chapman, who smacked a two-run single in the fifth and tripped in the fifth. Mark Tysinger recorded a double in the fifth to send Chapman home.

Mt. Savage dropped to 5-7 on the year.

A double by Dave Bender in the bottom of the tenth inning sent Frank Lewis to the plate with the winning run in the opening game against Cumberland Legion Sunday. The coalmen had been down 4-2 until the bottom of the seventh when Mickey Chapman and Mark Tysinger provided run-pro-

Snowmobile Issue Arises Again With Passing Of State Laws

by Kathy Bailey
The snowmobile issue in Garrett County has come alive again, even with summer upon us, due to the passing of two legislative bills this year which will affect this area's winter sport. The snowmobile problems in Garrett County arose a few years ago when the county experienced an influx of out-of-county snowmobilers during one winter season. It appears the problems have not yet been resolved.

Senate Bill 1085, introduced by Senator Edward J. Mason (R-Allegany-Garrett), was enacted into law, designating snowmobiles as "off-road vehicles" subject to certain operating restrictions. The passing of this legislation has caused concern among snowmobilers and private landowners, who have been on opposite sides of the fence in respect to the winter sport for the past few years. The other bill passed is House Bill 1277, introduced by Delegate DeCorsey Bolden (R-Allegany-Garrett), which is for the purpose of permitting snowmobiles to be operated on certain portions of Maryland's highways under certain circumstances, to be designated by local authorities. Registration is not required for snowmobile travel on certain designated roads, according to this law.

Basketball Camp

Approximately 80 persons attended the camp which was held at the McHenry Campus. Along with individual and group instruction by area coaches and past and present GCC players, the camp also featured various guest lecturers from other colleges.

In the NAIA division, the league champions were Don Kessel, Jeff Roy, Sean Hershman, Jim Farris and Brad Friend. All-stars included Don Kessel, Doug Hagel, J. R. Bosley, Jamie Colaw, Jeff King, Jeff Roy and Sean Hershman. J. R. Bosley was the One on One Champion, Tim Braithwaite was the Foul Shot Champion, and Sean Hershman was the Hotshot Champion.

League champions in the NCAA division were Jeff Haines, Bob Amtower, Rick Harding, Todd Weimer, Brian Schoolcraft, Brent Beachy and Tony Haskiel. All-stars were Max Hill, Mike Hill, Nick Rojas, Charlie Beiler, Keith Alexander and Bruce Bosley. Mike Hill was the One on One Champion as well as the Foul Shot Champion, and his brother, Max, was the Hotshot Champion.

In the NBA division, league champs were Wick Myers, Gary Heginbotham, Dave Terrant, Phil Carr and Brian Cosner. All-stars included Rick Selders, Lowell Yoder, Gary Heginbotham, Kevin Winters, Ron Bosley, Tom Stern and Rick Roy. Gary Heginbotham took the One on One Championship, Dave Harsh was the Foul Shot Champ, and Tom Stern won the Hotshot competition.

The Hotshot Champions will move on to regional competition and the national finals will be held during halftime of the NBA Championships next spring.

Reckner stated that he approached the Garrett County and Maryland State Farm Bureaus and the Garrett County and Maryland State Soil Conservation Districts, which all took action in support of designating snowmobiles as off-road vehicles. He added that the appointed task force was charged with having a report prepared and back to the legislators by a certain date. This was not done by the appointed date and the task force apparently met sparsely during the planning period. The support of SB 1085 was forwarded to Annapolis prior to the release of the task force report. Reckner stated. He added that many area landowners had expressed support for the ORV designation, and that, when ORV laws originated, snowmobiles were included as off-road vehicles. They were later deleted from those laws.

Reckner said he has no problem with separate legislation for snowmobiles, however he said he wonders how that legislation would be enforced. Regarding travel on private driveways, Reckner stated that it "would be much simpler for the individual to post his driveway." Reckner also said he feels "snowmobilers should obtain permission to ride on private land prior to the snow season, not after." Reckner added that better representation could have been brought to the task force, as the majority of its members were "snowmobile enthusiasts."

The issues addressed by the task force included proposed registration of snowmobiles for easy identification, the possibility of crossing state and county highways at a 90-degree angle and the marking of designated crossings, snowmobile inspection and safety, liability protection for property owners, problems with trespassing, snowmobile exemption from off-road vehicle laws, and granting authority to county commissioners to designate certain county roads for snowmobile use to connect parts of an expanded trail system. The committee supported registration and marking of snowmobiles through the Department of Natural Resources, with a portion of the fee going to the sport of snowmobiling. Since snowmobiles are now included in off-road vehicle laws, the problem of riding on private property will have to be addressed by the obtaining of written permission.

A group of affected individuals met Friday with members of the Department of Natural Resources to examine revisions concerning off-road vehicles. According to Jim Wilburn, Assistant Park superintendent, Deep Creek Lake State Park, the preliminary meeting was called to work up revision of laws not adaptable to snowmobiles or those which do not necessarily pertain to them. The meeting was attended by Robert Konkel, Supervisor of Law Enforcement, DNR, Maryland Forest and Park Services, Wilburn, Mike Gregory, Forest Naturalist with the Maryland Forest Services, area snowmobile dealers, including a representative from Bill's Marine, Bowman's Equipment and Cecil Jackson; Gene Smith, president of Deep Creek Lake Snowdrifters, Inc., Garrett County, and the president of the Appalachian Snow Seekers, Allegany County. Wilburn stated that there will be additional meetings in the future regarding ORV regulations.

Copies of ORV regulations, which currently deal with registration and licensing requirements, areas of operation, vehicle standards, operating regulations on department lands, noise level limits, enforcement and other items are available at area state parks. As noted previously, some of the laws do not necessarily pertain to snowmobiles, including licensing and registration. Wilburn stated that any revisions in the laws will have to come before public hearing, and he added that ORV regulations pertain only to DNR property.

Barbara Wilkins, Administrative Assistant to the Senate Minority, stated yesterday that snowmobilers expressed concern last year in regard to their coming under Department of Motor Vehicle regulations, should snowmobiles be declared as off-road vehicles. Ms. Wilkins emphasized the fact that this legislation was passed "purely to require permission to travel on private lands," and that snowmobiles will not come under DMV regulations concerning registration and licensing.

RESA Ed-Alert Group To Meet

The Steering Committee of the Ed-Alert Network will be meeting in the Cumberland office of the Regional Education Service Agency of Appalachian Maryland (RESA) on Thursday, July 2. The committee will be reviewing the effectiveness of the network in getting support in Congress for the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC). The committee will also examine the tuition tax credit proposals that are before Congress.

The steering committee is the major action component of the Ed-Alert Network created by the RESA Board of Directors and coordinated in the RESA office as a direct response to the Reagan Administration proposal to abolish ARC and to rescind monies already appropriated for non-highway projects. The committee is comprised of points-of-contact at each of the eight member institutions of RESA and in the RESA office. They are: Dr. Donald Alexander, president, Allegany Community College; John Frank, supervisor of federal programs, board of education of Allegany County; Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent, board of education of Garrett County; Dr. Claud E. Kitchens, superintendent, board of education of Washington County; Dr. Rene Atkinson, director of public relations, Frostburg State College; Dr. Robert Trantham, dean of the College, Garrett Community College; Dr. Atlee C. Kepler, president, Hagerstown Junior College; Dr. Frank Bentz, vice president for Agricultural Affairs and Legislative Relations, University of Maryland; and George E. Allen, executive director, Regional Education Service Agency of Appalachian Maryland.

The purposes of the Ed-Alert Network are to identify and analyze public issues of concern to RESA and its member institutions, to provide information about these issues to citizens and public officials and to elicit public support for RESA's position on these issues.

Earth Aphelion

On Friday, the Earth will be at its farthest distance from the sun. At 7 p.m. 152 mil. kilometers (94 1/2 mil. miles) will separate Earth from its star. The difference in distance between the aphelion and perihelion of the Earth is about 3 percent. This makes a 7 percent difference in radiant heat received from the Sun. As a result, the northern hemisphere receives more solar radiation than the southern hemisphere during winter time, and less during summer time. However, the large amount of land in the northern hemisphere tends to reduce the solar effect.

Next Wednesday, the Moon will pass through its First Quarter phase at 10:30 p.m. At this time, the Moon will be 90 degrees east of the Sun as observed from the Earth. Moonset will be at 8:47 this evening. Next Tuesday morning, moonset will be 19 minutes past midnight.

Visible Planets

Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn will be visible during the coming week. Mercury will be very low in the east just prior to sunrise. Venus will be low in the west just after sunset. It will be among the stars of Cancer. Mars rises shortly before sunrise with the stars of Taurus; Jupiter and Saturn will be in the southwest at sunset among the stars of Virgo. They will set about 4 hours after sunset.

Daylight Decreases

Six minutes less daylight will be available next Tuesday. Sunrise was at 5:53 this morning. Sunset will be at 8:49 tonight. At the end of the week, Tuesday, the Sun will rise at 5:57 a.m. and it will set at 8:47 p.m. There will be 14 hours 50 minutes of daylight.

Today is the 182nd day of 1981. The path of the Sun today will be the same as it was last June 11th.

Hopkins Research
Study Favors New Technologies;
Maryland Heavy Industry Declines

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Maryland's economy may decline unless it switches from reliance on traditional industries such as steel and transportation into high technology and scientific fields, a researcher said Tuesday.

The conclusion was presented in an 83-page study by metropolitan planner Gail G. Schwartz, a researcher at Johns Hopkins University.

She predicted the most favorable areas of immediate growth in Maryland would include electronics, machinery, scientific instruments, biochemistry, specialized business services and export-oriented firms.

Maryland is economically a sleeping giant. It has great potential for growth in industries that demand a highly qualified, reliable labor force with science and math skills," Ms. Schwartz said.

The report, "Growth Potential in Maryland," includes a mass of charts, diagrams and economic statistics. It adds that public financing for many possible growth areas is essential to the state's growth.

Maryland needs a strong public-private partnership to develop the 'SciTech' capability. The defense market is broad and better for some states, and Maryland should exploit that opportunity to the fullest," she said.

About 30 percent of the very small firms would like to produce for defense, but cannot for a variety of reasons. But some of these barriers could easily be overcome by a concentrated public-sector effort," she said.

The report found that Maryland is a prosperous state, ranking 18th in the United States in population, fifth in population density and second in median family income. She said Maryland's diversified economy is its biggest advantage for growth.

She said, however, traditional industries such as steel, transportation and fabricated metals are slipping.

Therefore, she said, "Maryland's economic future will depend on its ability to expand in sectors in which it has shown competitive strength, and in industries within those sectors in which it may be underrepresented."

An example of the possible growth is the $100 million expansion program at the Westinghouse plant near the Baltimore-Washington International Airport. The expansion is designed to include high technology.

"There is already a nucleus in the state, but it must be fostered. New forms of private-public should be developed, and the work force should be adequately educated and trained for jobs in such areas," she said.

PROVING TO BE PLAYFUL — This week's adorable adoptable is putting on quite a show to impress a potential new owner. This male domestic short haired tabby is uncertain of his age, but appears to have what it takes to be a real friend. You may see this fellow at the Garrett County Animal Shelter, Oakland Sang Run Road, or you may call him at 334-3553. Last week's dog will be available only until Friday morning. Won't you call today?

Interferon Tests Can Be Given To Permit Cancer Research

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A National Cancer Institute research team has found that synthetic interferon can be safely administered in massive doses, a finding that will allow scientists to determine whether the drug is a viable anti-cancer treatment, the head of the team said Tuesday.

Dr. Richard D. Leavitt, principal investigator of the testing at NCI's Baltimore Cancer Research Institute, said the development paves the way for broader testing of synthetic interferon.

"What it means is that we can now proceed to the key question of whether it (interferon) can be an effective treatment," he said. "Now that we've cleared this hurdle, we can go ahead and find out whether it has a beneficial effect on the disease."

The man-made substance, a pure form of interferon, was developed through genetic engineering processes conducted by Hoffman-La Roche Co. one of the nation's largest pharmaceutical firms.

Previous forms of interferon were produced from human white blood cells and were much less concentrated, Leavitt said.

MCEA Will Consider Alternative Plan
To Avoid Layoffs

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Maryland Classified Employees Association said Tuesday it is considering backing a plan to shut down state services during non-peak hours as an alternative to layoffs of state employees.

Joseph Adler, acting executive director of the organization, said participants at a meeting of 30 MCEA leaders this week expressed disappointment at the way Gov. Harry Hughes has handled the proposed layoffs.

Because of federal budget cutbacks, the governor has said as many as 1,800 positions in state government may have to be eliminated.

He said the 30 chapter leaders would submit the proposal to their respective members for a vote.

Hughes Elected Chairman Of Education Board

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Gov. Harry Hughes was elected chairman Tuesday of the Southern Regional Education Board, an information and research arm serving the 14 states in the Southern Governor's Conference.

Hughes, the first Maryland governor ever elected to head the board that was founded in 1948, received the honor during a two-day meeting of the board in Boca Raton, Fla.

Hughes' office said the principal function of the board is to serve as the operating arm for the interstate compact of higher education, through which Southern states share academic and research facilities at public and private colleges and universities.

Effective July 1

Tough Drunk Driving Penalty, Credit,
Among New Laws Signed By Hughes

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Drunks deter watch out, elderly apartment dwellers can live in peace, credit card customers may avoid a new charge and unemployment recipients will get a raise — all under new laws that go into effect Wednesday.

Most 30 of the more than 900 bills passed by the 1981 General Assembly and signed into law by Gov. Harry Hughes become effective July 1 and, as usual, will affect nearly every aspect of life in Maryland.

For motorists who insist on drinking and driving, a series of tough new laws will make it harder for them by making it easier for Maryland police to arrest them and to limit their alcohol consumption.

Under another new law, elderly and handicapped apartment dwellers will receive increased protection from having their apartments converted into condominiums they cannot afford or do not wish to buy.

Credit card customers, who in other states are being socked with annual fees of $15 to $20, will not have to pay such fees in Maryland because of a new law that prohibits banks from assessing such fees.

Unemployment recipients, who have been receiving a maximum of $120 per month in benefits, will see the maximum benefits increase to $140.

Broadcast reporters who cover trials might as well leave their tape recorders and cameras at home because of another new law that prohibits such devices in Maryland courtrooms during criminal trials. That law actually went into effect June 1.

Drivers can expect several changes in Motor Vehicle Administration fees. Duplicate registration cards or validation stickers will cost $2 instead of $1, and a learner's permit will cost $20 instead of $15, an increase designed to make the state's driver education program self-sufficient.

In an attempt to prevent secondhand dealers in precious metals from being a conduit for stolen merchandise, the dealers will, for the first time, become subject to a new statewide law that will require them to keep certain detailed records of their transactions. The law will also require such dealers to hold items they have purchased for a specified amount of time before melting them down or otherwise disposing of them.

Elderly and disabled renters will also have a better chance to recoup some of their rent payments under a modification in the state's Elderly and Disabled Renters Tax Relief Program.

The change permits renters who qualify for the program to receive credit for 15 percent of their rent, instead of 10 percent, as money assumed to go toward paying real property taxes.

Homeowners or businessmen interested in installing energy conservation apparatus will be able to obtain more financial assistance through the Maryland Energy Financing Administration, which will be created as the result of another new law.

In an energy-related field, a separate new law permits Maryland to enter into compacts with other states for the disposal of low-level nuclear waste by amending state law to allow disposal of such waste within the state.

Also on July 1, Maryland's last-in-the-country Motion Picture Board of Censors goes out of existence — not because of a new law, but because no law was passed to extend the 65-year-old board's life beyond June 30.

Labor Officials Issue
New Safety Guides

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Employers who hire people to work in confined areas such as grain bins or sewer lines will have to take extra precautions starting July 1.

Harvey Epstein, commissioner of labor and industry, said the two new provisions added to the Maryland Occupational and Safety Law "protect the safety and health of employees who would not be familiar with the hazards of performing work in confined areas."

Epstein said the legislation is designed to lessen the chance of accidents in confined spaces.

Grantsville Days

AREA TALENT PERFORMS AT GRANTSVILLE DAYS — Nearly 20 young ladies from the Meyersdale, Pa. Dance Academy and the Frostburg Dance Academy performed Saturday at Grantsville Days, demonstrating expertise in tap, jazz and ballroom. The performers ranged in age from seven to 15, wearing bright costumes and offering a variety of routines. The group has performed in Meyersdale and Somerset, Pa., and at nursing homes in the Cumberland area. The Frostburg studio is under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Sigler, Frostburg. The Meyersdale studio is run by Mrs. Dee Yulzy, Meyersdale, daughter of Mrs. Sigler.

GARDEN BOX DONATED — This garden box was built as a "Life" scout project by David Stonesiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Stonesiter, Swallow Falls. The table garden box will enable residents of Cuppett Weeks Nursing Home to participate in planting and caring for a garden while watching it grow. Because of its special design, wheelchair residents, as well as ambulatory residents, will be able to utilize the project. Pictured, left to right, are David Stonesiter, Life Scout; Mike Whiteman, Star Scout; Jeff McCortley, First Class; Rob Flinn, Star Scout; and Tom Butscher, Scout Master. Tronp 31. Lumber for the "garden box" was donated by the Beachy Lumber Company, Oakland.

American Heart Association

Nutrition Tips

This week's tip from your American Heart Association's Nutrition Committee is:

Packed lunches need not be cold or unappetizing. A vacuum bottle for carrying hot drinks and soups is a good investment; and it can be used to carry hot dishes such as stew, chili or a casserole. These hot dishes are a nice break from the cold sandwich. Include a fresh fruit for dessert and round out the meal with fortified skim milk.

Scenic Driving Tour Scheduled In County

The Forest and Park Services encourage visitors to share the beauty and majesty of the Garrett County blooming rhododendrons, at their peak in early July, by taking advantage of a self-guided driving tour through the Savage River State Forest. According to DNR officials, the driving tour will wind through some of the most scenic landscapes in all of Maryland. On the tour visitors can experience the rhododendrons in bloom and enjoy the rugged mountain scenery by viewing it from a newly constructed observation tower along the Savage River Reservoir.

Copies of the driving tour may be obtained during the first two weekends in July from the Savage River State Forest office, located near Grantsville or by calling (301) 895-5759.

Visitors to western Maryland offer numerous opportunities, such as camping, hiking and fishing.

Valley Forge

Forever inscribed on the tablets of our history is a winter almost two centuries ago. Turned back by the British at Germantown, General Washington camped his ragged army among the rolling hills and woods northwest of Philadelphia. The place was called Valley Forge.

Today it is a thicket of green oaks and chestnuts almost dominating the historic shrine. The forts and redoubts of old are mounds and ridges blanketed with lush grass as they defend forest-crowned hills.

Rightly, there's a statue of the Father of his Country at Valley Forge. And, rightly, he's praying!

Was it war that won our freedom? Wasn't it really faith? Because so many of us believe that, we say in our Pledge of Allegiance, one nation UNDER GOD.

THE REASON WHY

July 5, 1981

Background Scripture: Deuteronomy 5
Devotional Reading: Romans 8:1-11

"I tell me why?" is one of the signs of the times in which we live. Many people look back wistfully to a bygone time when—as we remember—it was sufficient to lay down the rules, laws, mores, and moral principles. Not everyone followed the rules, but few people questioned them.

But that is not our world of today. People no longer are satisfied with an authoritarian approach to living, whether the authority be governmental or religious. Our age-old goal of teaching people to "think for themselves" seems to have backfired and we long for the "good old days" when people essentially did as they were told.

ENERGY TIP: To help make you feel cooler during the summer heat, wear cool hues of clothing such as light green or blue.

HOW TO AVOID SUMMER FOOD POISONING

Summer brings with it picnic time and family get togethers which mean that food has to be handled with extra care to avoid the possibility of food poisoning.

There are 3 basic rules to keep in mind in helping to prevent this problem:

1. Keep hot food hot by cooking it thoroughly, holding it at a hot temperature during serving and fully reheating stored foods.

2. Keep cold food cold by refrigerating perishables or leftovers promptly.

3. Keep food clean and avoid unsanitary practices that contaminate food.

Here are 4 other tips to help avoid food poisoning:

*Frozen food should be kept wrapped and thawed either in the refrigerator or under cold water; never thaw foods at room temperatures.

*Wash everything - including hands - that come in contact with uncooked or raw food with soap and hot water.

*Refrigerators should be kept at 36 to 40 F and freezers should be kept at 0 F or below.

*When preparing meat and poultry salads, chill all of the ingredients thoroughly. After mixing the salad, put it in shallow containers to remove the heat produced in preparation and to allow rapid chilling; then refrigerate promptly.

Remember - keep foods at the proper temperature - hot or cold - and keep it clean. Harmful bacteria can be present when it can't be seen. Make this a safe summer by handling all your foods with care.

County Resident Pursues Career In Economics

Alvin Wayne Strawser, a resident of Garrett County and 1976 graduate of Southern High School, recently fulfilled the requirements for a bachelor's degree at Kent State University. He is the son of Alvin Z. Strawser and Goldie C. Powell, both of Garrett County.

Strawser completed his first two years of college at Frostburg State and in 1978, he transferred to Kent State University, majoring in political science concurrent with a concentrated minor in the study of economics. He was named to the dean's honor list on several occasions and received the Pi Sigma Alpha's vice president award for 1980.

Strawser participated in several election campaigns in 1978-81, such as county prosecutor and county commissioner, eventually working for the Republican drive to elect Ronald Reagan.

His organizational affiliations have included the Kent outdoors club, the fencing club, intermural, Delta Phi Omega and Pi Sigma Alpha (National Honorary Political Science Fraternity). Foremost among these activities at Kent, is the internship he is serving at the Career Planning and Placement Center. He is presently a job developer intern conducting and supervising projects on various economic and social interests.

Also, during the spring,

Strawser had an opportunity to work on the Kent Model, a computer based statistical system run in Fortran. The model is designed to forecast leading business and economic indicators, and is the largest of its kind in the world. It has 14,000 indicators.

Strawser plans to attend graduate school at Kent State in the fall, and will pursue a master of business administration in economics. He is currently attending advanced summer courses in preparation for graduate school.

Man Rescued From Possible Drowning

A vacationing resident is convinced that his life was saved Saturday by the quick-thinking actions of a neighbor, David Shaffer, Silver Tree Road, Beckman's Point, who pulled him from the waters of Deep Creek Lake moments after he had fallen from an embankment.

Pete Ricciardino, 74, Jeanette, Pa., told The Republican of the harrowing incident, stating that he was walking along the embankment near his summer residence when he apparently lost consciousness and fell into the water. Shaffer was nearby, and pulled the elderly man to shore. It took 30 years to create the first zipper.

Your Corn Now For Highest Yields.

Back at planting time, you applied nitrogen to get your corn off to a good start. Now, it makes sense agronomically and economically to give your crop a sidedress application. Research has proven this will further increase your yields. You can put the nitrogen down yourself, or let us do it for you.

The cost ratio between nitrogen and marketed corn is currently favorable. So keep a good thing growing. Get a bigger, better crop by applying nitrogen now as a sidedressing. You'll be glad you did come harvest time. Give us a call today.

There's A Difference Between A Custom Designed And A Custom Built Kitchen

There are basically two kinds of cabinets manufactured for kitchens. The one kind is referred to as a "builders line" or stock cabinets. These are manufactured in standard sizes and warehoused by the kitchen dealer.

When a dealer says he can "custom design" your kitchen with this type of cabinet, he is limited in what he can do since he's restricted by using the standard size cabinets in his warehouse.

The second kind are custom built cabinets. As the name implies, these cabinets are actually built for the individual job after the dealer has custom designed your kitchen.

It's easy to see how custom built cabinets give you better utilization of space, more versatility in design, generally a wider selection of woods, styles and finishes and a better value for your investment.

Visit our showroom and see Wood-More custom built cabinetry for kitchens and every room of your home.

Prices in effect thru Tuesday, July 7, while quantities last.

Comings and goings on different soaps

By Nancy M. Reichardt

NEW YORK — There's an entrance and an exit from "The Young and the Restless." The show is June Taylor, who is best known for her portrayal of the former Angie Costello on "General Hospital." After a five-year absence from acting to care for her young son, June will guest star as a social worker on "Y & R." And departing from "Y & R" is David Winn, who played Steven Williams, a role that he created a little more than a year ago.

Search for Tomorrow has also added some new faces to its cast. They include Arlen Dean Snyder, who has taken over the role of Sgt. Braun from Michael Pollard, Aki Aleong as Dr. Sam Yee, a neurosurgeon, and Kitty Mei Chen as his wife, Mrs. Yee. Mrs. Yee plays a nutritionist dietitian at the hospital.

Texas is another show that's been axing cast members left and right. The latest in a series of departures is Catherine Hickland, who created the role of med-student Courtney Marshall when the show premiered. New to the show, however, is Stephen Joyce, formerly of "Another World," who is portraying Bubba Wadsworth.

Beverly Penberthy has been conspicuously absent from her role of Pat Randolph on "Another World." Beverly, who is the only original "AW" cast member remaining, has taken a two-month leave of absence.

For the moment at least, Susan Keith (Cecile DePouligne) from "Another World" is once again out of a soap opera job. The young actress first was brought from Chicago to portray Samantha Vernon on "One Life to Live," that lasted for a few months until the original actress decided to return to the part and was recently ousted from "AW." It seems that Susan's contract burning didn't go as her agent had planned, and Nancy Frangione (x Tara Erent) on "All My Children" has taken over the role of the young villain Cecile DePouligne.

Wayne Massey, who portrays country and western singer Johnny Drummond on "One Life to Live," has a new record producer, Larry Butler, (the producer for Kenny Rogers recordings), who is busy preparing Wayne's new album for RCA Records. In the meantime, however, if you want a copy of Wayne's "One Life to Live" album, it's still available from Silver Blue Productions, 220 Central Park South, New York, NY 10019, for $8 plus $1 for postage and handling.

Have a question about soap operas? Write: Nancy Reichardt, at 200 Park Avenue, Room 602, New York, NY 10019.

A real-life drama of paralysis and recovery

It took less than a second to change my life," says Jack Willis of the accident that paralyzed him shortly before his planned marriage.

That time of trial for him and Mary, then his fiancée, is the subject of "Some Kind of Miracle," a dramatic motion picture for television starring David Dukes and Andrea Marcovici, to be rebroadcast Tuesday, July 7 on CBS.

The moving drama begins with the day when Joe, (the fictional Jack Willis) while surfing at a California beach with his fiancée, is caught by a wave and slammed down hard on the sand. Injury to his spinal cord leaves him unable to move from the chest down.

The test of their love begins as doctors assess the extent of the damage and Joe's chances of recovery. There are hard questions to answer as to their personal relationship when they realize he may never walk again. However, at a rehabilitation hospital, other patients help the couple in their determination to fight for what is still a good life together.

Mary and Jack Willis wrote the script for the film, which dramatizes their own real story. He was a documentary filmmaker, she a news magazine researcher, at the time of his crippling surfing accident. "I'd never been seriously hurt or even seriously ill," Willis says. "Serious accidents always seemed to happen to the other guy. Maybe I was too secure in my own way."

Mrs. Willis, recalling the long, anxious weeks of hospital treatment, says: "I couldn't imagine what life would be like — the ramps, the special bars and equipment. I just thought, 'We will do it, somehow we will make it work.'"

In their book about the ordeal, "But There Are Always Miracles," the couple describe their day-by-day feelings as he worked toward recovery. Just reading newspaper was an exhausting process for him as he sought to make his useless hands work. She reports her joy when he first told her he could move his toe, then his leg. "He never said the word 'walk' but that's what we both were thinking," Mrs. Willis recalls.

In the Russia of the Czars it was traditional for ballet stars to retire early (age 38) and then take up teaching posts at the theater-school that had trained them.

Various contemporary stars — well known to television as well as to stage and movie audiences — go that tradition one better by taking time out of their ongoing careers to polish promising talents.

How about a round of applause for these big-leaguers who are not just willing but eager to share? Here's our selection.

John Davidson. Between his own daily syndicated Group W talk variety television program and his weekly hosting of ABC's top-rated "That's Incredible," John doesn't have the "space" right now to reactivate the summer training course he initiated several years ago (largely at his own expense and from which he said he never expected a profit).

As for their personal relationship after the accident, she writes: "The bond between us had been strengthened. The closeness was still there, the warmth, the need to share was now satisfied by a look, a touch, a kiss."

Willis says, "I had seen death — total paralysis. I had touched bottom but now I was on my way up again. I didn't know how far I would go nor could I imagine how hard it would be to return to a somewhat normal life. But getting there was the only thing that mattered."

Jack and Mary Willis subsequently married and had a family. Mrs. Willis writes: "We were separate human beings, strong and vital, who had chosen each other because life was fuller that way."

Movie stars who act as teachers award winner (for Broadway musicals) as the non-dancing, non-singing narrator of "Broadway on Showtime."

Interviewed at home in Manhattan she said others helped you, you must do the same.

Currently, Gwyn is off on another effort to promote awareness of America's musical theater, this time as part of a cultural exchange team conducting seminars in China.

They have some excellent ballroom dancers, well-trained, but rigid. It is not our purpose to change that. But they want to know about our Broadway dancing, to add to it. So I'm bringing along films of many people one of my own, thanks to Bob Hope who gave me footage I did on a program of his) and I will also demonstrate. Later in the season Jerome Robbins will come to teach."

David Birney. This still boyish looking leading man who first hit a big in television's "Bridget Loves Bernie" (and who married his co-star, Meredith Baxter) will be seen this fall as the dashing Lyon in the 20th Century Fox television mini-series remake of "Valley of the Dolls" for CBS.

Last summer he turned down films to teach and coach. His official title was visiting professor of drama at his alma mater, Dartmouth College.

"It was a pleasure to do," he says. "And for Meredith and me, there was the added benefit of letting our children know there is a continuity to acting, directing and theater in general beyond what they've seen when they've visited us on film sets."

Jean Marsh. Drama critic Clive Barnes called her one of the best Shakespearean actresses of our time. But to most of us, she is first and foremost Rose, the first parlor maid of "Upstairs, Downstairs," the great English-made series of which she was co-creator. This summer she is artistic director of Adelphi University's Actors Conservatory Theater on Long Island.

But some rising young performers are on surer paths because of what he did in years past. His purpose was to school his recruits into "combining the singing, dancing, humor and stage presence to achieve a marketable act."

Gwen Verdon. Many cable viewers around the country are seeing this four-time Tony

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — When those pressures get heavy, George Steinbrenner spends a quiet hour with the Bible, he told me yesterday. I'll ask Reggie Jackson what he does. Gene Barry's One Hour Photo outlets, a quickie printing company headed by ol' Red Masterson himself, opens 36 photo development centers in Manhattan. Each "U.S. Chronicle" program deals with a single topic of national importance, and focuses on what's happening now to people and places, trends and issues. The question raised are often pointed and controversial, and are examined by the reactions, opinions and experiences of Americans.

What is sure for viewers of "U.S. Chronicle" is the premier program in the second series, "Abscam and the Philadelphia Story," produced by WHYY, Philadelphia, reports on that city's history of political corruption (in the last decade, according to the program, more than 100 of the city's public officials have been convicted) and its role in the Abscam scandal.

Lower Lancaster Street, the second program, produced by WHYY, Schuylkill, reports on gentrification, a word coined many years ago by London's poor working class, who were evicted from their homes by high-income people they called the landed gentry — and its effects on one city block in Albany, N.Y.

Gentrification, says Lehrer, is a fancy word with a history and meaning that are anything but fancy, everywhere it happens there are conflicts and pain.

The third and fourth programs in the series are "Boombtown," produced by KIRMA, Denver, a report on the modern-day energy boom town of Craig, Colo., and the problems prosperity is bringing to that community; and "A Different Kind of Life," produced by WETA, Washington, profiles of these women with cancer who continue to lead active lives.

Topics for the next month include a report on gulf fisheries, a police dog abuse case, a report on the re-investigation of private schools in Los Angeles, and a profile of a coal operator coping with environmental regulations.

In the following weeks "U.S. Chronicle" will report on gaming in New Jersey, upward/downward mobility, rural crime, human potential groups, a wary look at Minnesotans paving over farmland, the best high school basketball player in the coun-

Aspen Music Festival, and a modern-day immigration story.

Jim Lehrer returns in 'U.S. Chronicle'

"U.S. Chronicle" is back for its second year.

The weekly, award-winning documentary series with Jim Lehrer as host, returns to public television July 3 with 20 new reports, each one offering viewers a close-up, behind-the-scenes look at national issues and trends. (Local times may vary; check listings.)

Award-winning broadcast journalist and correspondent Jim Lehrer will remain with the show as the unifying link in every episode of "U.S. Chronicle," introducing and summarizing each half-hour report.

I am delighted that "U.S. Chronicle" is returning for a second season, says Lehrer. "And I'm delighted to again be a part of it. I think we proved last year that the experiment had merit. This year I think we're proving that the quality can be sustained."

"U.S. Chronicle" is the first public affairs series produced by a consortium of public television stations. It received the Gold Medal Award for the best documentary series at the 23rd annual International Film & TV Festival of New York last November.

Each "U.S. Chronicle" program deals with a single topic of national importance, and focuses on what's happening now to people and places, trends and issues. The questions raised are often pointed and controversial, and are examined by the reactions, opinions and experiences of Americans.

Officials Note Fireworks Laws, Safety Hazards

William Eichbaum, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Assistant Secretary for Environmental Programs and James C. Robertson, Maryland Fire Marshal, this week warned that the use of fireworks in Maryland is not only highly dangerous, but also illegal, except where a permit has been issued by the State Fire Marshal's Office.

Eichbaum noted that despite patriotic symbolism associated with setting off fireworks over the Fourth of July holiday, they present a very serious safety hazard, particularly for children. He said that severe burns, blinding, amputations and even deaths have been the result of Fourth of July celebrations.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission reported that more than 4,000 injuries nationwide caused by fireworks were treated in hospital emergency rooms during the peak usage period June 27-July 20, 1980. The total injuries in 1980 numbered approximately 8,150.

Robertson cautioned that even sparklers, which are illegal in Baltimore City, Montgomery County and Prince George's County, burn at very high temperatures and can easily ignite clothing and cause severe hand or finger burns. He said that under no circumstances should young children be allowed to play alone with sparklers, for they are unaware of the potential danger involved in their use, and are not able to act correctly in case of an emergency. Robertson also warned that the purchase of a popular fireworks called "Snap and Pop" or "Whipper-Snapper" is illegal in Maryland. These are small, but dangerous explosive pellets, he said.

Eichbaum and Robertson suggested that citizens obtain local information about fireworks displays to be held in their areas, and that "these displays could become the center for an enjoyable family celebration."

Reading Club To Visit Area Zoo

Members of the Zoo Mania Summer Reading Club at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, will travel to the M & S Wild Kingdom, a small zoo near Oakland, to observe a variety of unusual animals this Tuesday, July 7, at 2 p.m. Each child must have a responsibility form signed by a parent in order to attend the trip. The forms can be obtained when children register for the trip anytime prior to July 7.

A small fee will be charged and the group will leave promptly at 2 p.m. and is expected to return to the library at 3:30 p.m.

The reading club theme this year is "animals," and the club is open to all school-aged children. The group will meet at the Oakland library every Tuesday at 2 p.m. through August 18.

Thomas To Operate 135 Amoco Service

A local resident and his family are the new owners of the 135 Amoco, located in Oakland, near Browning's Super Market.

Paul Thomas, Broadford Road, opened for business Monday morning, with the help of his wife and two sons. The Thomas family plans to manage the full-service center much the same as the former owner, adding new innovations periodically.

Thomas, a former surface coat man, will employ three persons, while maintaining much the same business schedule.

Accident Nurse Participates In Pinning Ceremony

Geri Frances George of Route 1, Accident, was a graduating member of the 1981 nursing class at Alderson-Broaddus College, Philippi, W. Va., that participated in a special "pinning ceremony."

Held recently in Wilcox Chapel, the ceremony recognized all senior graduating nurses. Highlighting the event was the presentation of the 1981 class by Mrs. Joan Orr, acting chairperson for the Department of Nursing. The pinning ceremony was conferred to graduating nurses by Mrs. Carol Cochran, instructor of Nursing, and Mrs. Cathy Livengood, assistant professor of Nursing.

Vacation Church School Scheduled in Red House

Vacation church school will be held at St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, from July 13 through 17, 9 a.m. until noon each day. The theme for this year is "Promises, Promises From God." Classes will be offered for nursery through tenth grade.

A closing program will be held on Friday evening at 7:30. Area youth are invited to attend.

Bloomington Fire Company Plans Annual Fund Drive

The Bloomington Fire Company will conduct its annual door-to-door fund drive in the Backbone Mountain, Savage River, and Bloomington areas July 10-11.

The money collected will be added to the new fire truck fund for the down payment on a new first line pumper.

A spokesman said that the fire company's present pumper is too old to be considered by an insurance company for a reduction in fire rates, even though a new water system is planned to be installed in the Bloomington area.

The spokesman also noted that the company requests these persons in the areas to be canvassed who will not be home during the fund drive to give a donation to any fire company member.

Supplemental Social Security Is Explained

Many people think of "disability" and "physical disability" as synonymous terms, Valerie J. Loughran, District Manager of social security in Cumberland said recently. Yet, mental retardation can also constitute a disability, a fact recognized by the supplemental security income (SSI) program. Under SSI, a mentally retarded person, regardless of how young he or she may be, may be eligible for monthly cash payments.

The SSI definition of disability based on mental retardation is different for children and adults. A child under 18 years of age, or under 21 if in school, is considered disabled if his or her I.Q. is 59 or less; or 60 through 69 if there is marked dependence on others for meeting the individual's basic personal needs and the person has a physical or other mental impairment that restricts function and development; or if the individual has developed at a pace considered no greater than what would be expected of someone half the applicant's age.

On the other hand, an adult is considered disabled if his or her I.Q. is 49 or less; or 50 through 59 if the individual is unable to perform routine, repetitive tasks and has a physical or other mental impairment that restricts function; or if there is severe mental and social incapacity that creates a marked dependence on others for meeting personal needs.

The law also differentiates between children and adults in the way financial eligibility is determined. If a retarded child under 18 years of age lives at home, a portion of the parents' income and assets is considered to be the child's. However, the parents are permitted allowances for work and living expenses, as well as for the support of any other children living at home. In the case of a retarded adult, however, only his or her income and assets and the income and assets of a spouse, if any, are considered in determining eligibility for SSI payments.

In general, people who live in public institutions are not eligible for SSI. However, those who live in publicly operated community residences serving no more than 16 people may qualify for payments. In addition, if the state's Medicaid program pays more than half the cost of an individual's care in an institution, he or she may be eligible for a payment of up to $25 a month. This payment is for individual's personal use and may not be used by the institution to cover the cost of care.

If it appears that a retarded person who is living in a public institution would be able to live in the community if he or she had a continuing source of income, an application for SSI payments could be processed even before the person is discharged from the facility. Some public institutions have a policy of notifying social security in such cases; if the institution does not have such an arrangement, someone can apply on behalf of the retarded person when it appears that he or she is prepared to leave the facility.

Persons seeking additional information may telephone the Cumberland social security office, 724-0970, for free information and pamphlets. The office is located at 316 Paca Street and is open Monday through Friday, except national holidays, from 8:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

ment of the Army. The letter outlined the details of Shroot's current duties as maintenance and security person for a battery of firearms and weapon systems, and outlined special duties assigned to the soldier as a result of exception service to the company. Shroot is currently serving in Europe.

New Vehicle Laws Signed by Hughes

"If you drive a car or truck, if you're a farmer or a sport fisherman, new laws going into effect Wednesday, July 1, 1981, will have an effect on you," Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein advises.

Among the new laws enacted by the 1981 session of the General Assembly and signed by Governor Hughes is an increase in the sales and use tax to 8% on the rental of passenger cars for less than 180 days where a driver is not provided and where the vehicle will not be used to transport other passengers or property for hire.

The tax had previously been 5%.

The motor fuel tax on gasoline will increase to 9¢ per gallon on July 1st, up from its previous 8¢ per gallon level. In addition, small volume service stations, those selling less than 120,000 gallons of fuel per year, will be allowed to continue to display prices per half-gallon. Most stations are now required to show the price per whole unit of measure on the face of the pump.

Motor carriers will have to pay $3 per vehicle to register for their annual decals, up from the former $1 fee. Flat fleet registration fees will no longer be permitted, Goldstein continued.

Farmers hauling less than 300 gallons of motor fuel for use in farming will no longer be required to register their vehicles as petroleum transporters.

Charter fishing boats will no longer be required to collect admissions or amusement taxes as part of their fees.

The period of abandonment on all unclaimed property except traveler's checks has been reduced to five years. Previously, property such as wages, bank accounts, security deposits, insurance proceeds and other items could remain unclaimed for periods ranging from seven to 15 years before being reported to the state. The law does not apply to real property.

State income tax law will provide a tax break for businesses which locate in areas designated as urban enterprise zones and another break for individuals who use their personal vehicles to provide assistance to handicapped students in the state's community colleges. The tax break does not apply to transportation assistance and is for calendar year 1981 only.

A person uses up about 36 calories per hour driving a car.

Oakland Woman Recognized For Volunteer Service

Mrs. Helen Baumgartner, Oakland, was recently awarded a certificate of appreciation from the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene for 25 years of volunteer service at the Springfield Hospital Center, Sykesville.

Mrs. Baumgartner organized the Garrett County Mental Health Association 35 to 40 years ago, in existence until it was taken over by the Garrett County Health Department 10 years ago. The association worked in Garrett County for the benefit of mentally and emotionally handicapped people, including those at Springfield.

A letter from Alp Karahasan, M.D., Ph.D., Director of the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, addressed to Mrs. Baumgartner, states that, "I would like to extend our deepest appreciation to the membership of the Garrett County Mental Health Association for the many hours which have been devoted unselfishly toward making like a little more meaningful and pleasant for the mentally ill citizens in the State of Maryland."

Mrs. Baumgartner noted that area homemaker clubs contributed much in the way of making Christmas gifts which were distributed at Springfield. The Friendsville Homemakers Club, she stated, was especially helpful. A native of Garrett County.

Mrs. Baumgartner is a registered nurse and a graduate of Mercy Hospital in Baltimore. She moved back to Garrett County as a permanent resident in 1936, when she married Dr. Eugene Irving Baumgartner, now deceased.

She organized the local Mental Health Association when she was serving as chairperson of the State of Maryland with the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs. She was past chairperson of the Community Action Committee Board, and was a member of the Health Planning Council and Health Systems Agency for a number of years. Mrs. Baumgartner has also worked with the Bloodmobile since its organization here 25 years ago.

Mrs. Baumgartner has worked as a volunteer at Cuppett-Weeks and Dennett Road Manor nursing homes in Oakland, in addition to Hopemont Hospital and other area nursing homes. She currently works part-time at Dennett Road Nursing Home as night supervisor.

Mrs. Baumgartner noted that the Mental Health Association sent two students to Springfield each summer to work. The association paid their salaries, and the hospital provided room and board. She said Brad Rinard, past director of the Community Action Committee, Inc., assisted the organization in delivering Christmas gifts each year to Springfield.

APPRAISALS

Democracy's Cornerstone

by David W. Hornbeck
Superintendent of Schools

Teacher competency testing has been the focus of a good deal of attention lately. That attention arises, of course, from the general concern with declining test scores, discipline in the schools, and the like. Some people express the view that the root of the problem rests with teacher competency (or incompetency).

There are several problems with that view. In the first place, the problem is not as severe as some would lead us to believe. The "good old days" were not nearly as good nor are the "bad new days" nearly as bad as many observers suggest. Also, any single and/or simple answer to a problem is nearly always wrong. And finally, the overwhelming majority of teachers are competent and dedicated.

But does any of that suggest there is no problem? Does it suggest that competency testing for teachers might not make sense? I think not. Indeed, we have and always have had problems with teaching, learning, and administering.

I believe in competency testing for teachers. Those who disparage such testing say, "You can't capture in a test the essence of good teaching." I wholeheartedly agree. But there are many kinds of competency tests. Any that purport to measure the nuances of good teaching through paper and pencil tests probably purport nonsense. But there are other kinds of competency tests that do make sense.

We live in a society in which the ability to speak, read, and write the English language correctly is very important. A paper and pencil test can measure reading and writing abilities pretty well. Doesn't it make sense for us to make sure that all new teachers are competent at a minimum level in these skills?

At the same time, it is surely the case that a prospective biology teacher should know biology and a prospective history teacher should know history. Why not a test in the teacher's content area to determine fundamental knowledge in that content area? It makes sense to me.

I do not know of another profession in which graduation from school is, by itself, enough. It is not enough for lawyers, nurses, beauticians, ministers, doctors, and others. It should not be seen as enough for teachers.

Will a person who can read and write English well enough to pass a test be a good teacher? Will a person who knows biology or history be a good biology or history teacher? Not necessarily. I wish we could bottle whatever that essence is that makes a good teacher and deliver a pint every morning to all 40,000 teachers in Maryland. Well, we can't. But I do think there is a very high likelihood that one who does not know biology will not be a good biology teacher. And one who cannot read, write, and speak English correctly is not likely to set a very good example for our children.

Are competency tests the whole answer to the problem of continuing to try to improve education? Are they even the single most important piece of a complex answer? Probably not. Should they be part of the plan for seeking that improvement? I think so. I'll wait for another time to share what I feel other parts of the plan to be.

New Laws On Drunk Drivers Effective Today

State Police in Maryland have been waiting for July 1 for some special help in their campaign to remove drunk drivers from the state's highways.

This help comes in the form of the tightening of Maryland's drunk driving laws. A package of six new laws, which was developed by the Governor's Task Force on the Drinking Driver, was passed by the last session of the General Assembly and was signed into law by Governor Harry Hughes effective July 1, 1981.

According to State Police Superintendent Colonel Thomas S. Smith, "The new laws primarily give police officers more tools to better deal with the drunk drivers."

One law allows police to conduct a roadside preliminary breath test of persons suspected of driving drunk. This pre-arrest screening device can be used to help determine if the driver should be arrested.

Another law mandates a minimum license suspension of two months for a driver who refuses to take an evidentiary chemical test for alcohol once he has been charged by a police officer with driving under the influence. However, the new law now provides for up to six-month maximum suspension.

Maryland had the highest test refusal rate in the nation. Statistics show that 38 percent of the drunk drivers arrested last year refused to take the test and were only given an average of 12 days license suspension by Motor Vehicle Administration hearing officers.

Police officials believe this new law, by doing away with token license suspensions by MVA, will result in a dramatic lowering of test refusals.

Another new law authorizes the arresting police officer to determine the type of test to be administered when a motorist initially selected one test but later decides to change to another test which is unavailable within specified time limits.

Professional drivers will no longer be able to get an extension of points in licensing actions where the subsequent points result from an alcohol conviction. The previous law allowed certain professional drivers to accumulate 16 points before license suspension, even if they had an alcohol conviction.

Under another law, the Motor Vehicle Administration will record probation before judgment for alcohol offenses on the person's driving record.

The sixth new law reduces the permissible blood alcohol level for drivers using Maryland's highways.

Driving under the influence has been lowered from .10 percent BAC to .08 percent BAC and driving while intoxicated has been lowered from .15 percent BAC to .13 percent BAC.

Experts agree that even small amounts of alcohol can impair driving ability. Increased consumption of alcohol by drivers causes a progressive deterioration of driving performance and greatly increases the likelihood of their being involved in a traffic accident.

Alcohol is absorbed into the bloodstream through the walls of the stomach and small intestine. Because the brain has a high concentration of blood, the effect of alcohol on the central nervous system is apparent usually within minutes.

County Women Voters Hold Monthly Meeting

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County held their monthly unit meeting in St. Matthew's Parish Hall on June

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the coal tax situation in Garrett County and to compose consensus questions on the coal tax. The coal tax consensus committee will perfect the questions and will offer them to the membership for study. Within the next three months, there will be a unit meeting held to indicate consensus on the coal tax questions.

A group of citizens who were non-league members spoke to the LWV concerning their personal opposition to the proposed disposal of Baltimore sludge in Garrett County during the meeting.

YOUNGSTERS ON PARADE — Grantsville Days offered something for people of all ages, and the "youngest" generation had a ball. Children's games were coordinated by Jeff Rice, physical education teacher, and little ones were featured in drill teams and on floats in the Friday night parade. Members of the Grantsville Lions Club dressed in costumes as lions and clowns, throwing candy treats to the outstretched arms of the young bystanders. With so much to do and see the children were not easily bored, except maybe a few who found contentment and their own entertainment in the park's playground and sandbox. The weekend event was filled with sunshine, colorful booths, refreshments, arts, crafts, games, music and much more.

Grantsville Area Churches Have New Minister

The Grantsville Charge of the West Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church has a new minister who succeeds Mrs. Sadie Triplett.

The Rev. K. Almond, who was ordained June 1980, began her service in the Grantsville Charge Sunday, June 21 when she conducted services in three of the five churches in the charge.

Rev. Almond, a native of Buckhannon, W. Va., received her bachelors degree in English and masters in Education from Allegheny Colleges, Meadville, Pa.

Before beginning studies in theology, she taught for four and one-half years as a teacher in Cleveland, Ohio and West Virginia.

She obtained her Master of Divinity degree from Andover Newton Theological School, Boston, in 1980 and a Master of Sacred Theology degree from Boston University School of Theology in 1981.

The five United Methodist churches she will serve in the Grantsville Charge include Emmanuel, Jennings Mount Zion, St. Pauls, and State Line.

Attorney General's Docket

by Stephen H. Sachs
Attorney General of Maryland

When people call the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office, the thing they complain about most are auto repairs.

Last year, 1,331 complaints were lodged against automobile repair facilities. Another 1,153 complaints were received on cases involving new car sales, making gripes about the automotive industry far and away the champion beef of consumers.

And no wonder. Next to a house, an automobile is the largest purchase most people ever make. The Federal government estimates that a typical standard size American car will cost the consumer $25,000 to buy, run, repair and insure over the next ten years. That includes operating costs such as gasoline, oil, tires, parking, tolls, taxes and unscheduled repairs, as well as costs you encounter even if you don't drive your car at all, like insurance, finance charges, registration and titling fees, scheduled maintenance and depreciation.

So it's not surprising that consumers feel an extra measure of indignation if they think they've been ripped off by auto repair people.

There's a law in Maryland designed to protect consumers against shady practices in the auto repair business. It contains some important rights. If your repair bill will be over $50, the repair shop's invoice must state in writing that:

1. You have the right to ask for a written estimate (for which you may be charged a reasonable fee);

2. You may not be charged more than 10% over the amount of the written estimate without your consent;

3. You can't be charged for repairs you didn't originally authorize unless you are asked about them beforehand and give your consent;

4. The repair facility must offer to return any replaced parts unless they have to be sent back to the manufacturer under a warranty agreement.

Last spring, the Consumer Protection Division conducted public hearings in Baltimore on auto repair facilities in the metropolitan area. We discovered that a number of repair shops were not complying with the law requiring them to print the consumer rights on their invoices. They were brought into compliance with the law, and many of them also agreed to submit to binding arbitration all complaints made by individual customers in the future.

While the Automotive Repair Facilities Act is designed to protect you, it does require a little exercise of self-preservation on your part. Remember, when you take your car in to be serviced, you've got to ask for a written estimate if the repairs will cost more than $50. Be sure to keep the written estimate and then carefully read the invoice to make sure your consumer rights are on it. In addition, if you want your used parts back, be sure to tell the repair shop before work is begun on your car.

It's wise to know your rights. A well-informed consumer is a safer consumer. Most businesses are honest, but it helps to be prepared to be able to deal with the ones that are not.

SUNNYSIDE-UNDERWOOD

Vacation Bible school is scheduled at the Underwood United Brethren Church for July 6 to 10 each evening from 7-9 p.m. Classes will be for all ages, from kindergarten through adult. Mrs. Iva L. Cummings is the leader.

Bible study of the Underwood Ladies group was held on Thursday afternoon in the home of Sharon Savage. The lesson was taught by Mrs. Mildred Peterson. Music was furnished by Jane Kope on the accordion.

Those attending were Ruth Knotts, Marian Friend, Linda Spink, Myrtle Fulk, Sybil Merrill, Bessie Canan, Arlene Dille, Elaine Beckman, Jane Kope, Mildred Peterson and the hostess Sharon Savage. The next meeting will be hosted by Mildred Peterson.

Bessie Canan attended a family get-together for Mrs. Leatha White, held in the pavilion on Location Ridge near St. George, W. Va. Mrs. Canan also visited with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lantz, on her way home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson were host and hostess last weekend to a group of people who were here to attend the wedding of their foster daughter, Miss Gladys Ayers, of Louisville, Texas, whose wedding event was on Sunday afternoon in the Underwood Church.

The groom was Thomas Estenson, of Northville, Texas. The bride was given in marriage by her foster parents and was escorted to the altar by Walter Peterson. Two sisters of the bride, Gloria and Ruby, were maid of honor and bridesmaid. Flower girl was a niece of the bride, Miss Joy Anna. The bride's brother-in-law from North Carolina was best man.

A reception followed in the church basement.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson hosted a rehearsal dinner at the church pavilion on Saturday evening for the bride and her friends.

Mildred Peterson visited Lucy Fike and Edward Shrewsbury in Garrett County Memorial Hospital on Sunday afternoon.

Travis Retires From Garrett School System

Richard N. (Dick) Travis, who spent 32 years of his life in public education worked his last day as supervisor of health, physical education and athletics yesterday for the Garrett County Board of Education.

Travis retired from the county school system two years before he planned, because his position was abolished by the school board as part of its budget cutting measures.

The school board did not fire Travis, but gave him the option of returning to the classroom as a teacher.

Travis decided to retire because he would receive more money under the state's retirement plan for teachers than on a county teacher's salary. He pointed out that if he had become a teacher, his social security benefits could have been reduced.

"I am bitter," Travis said about the turn of events. He was appointed to the supervisory position nine years ago after serving 12 years as athletic director at Southern High School.

During Travis's time at Southern, he started wrestling and junior high football programs and expanded the basketball program to include seventh grade and junior high teams.

Also, while he was at Southern the football field was lighted and fenced, seating capacity was increased from 400 to 2,000, a pressbox was constructed and a digital scoreboard installed.

A modern scoreboard was purchased for basketball, home games were videotaped for the benefit of the coaching staff and glass backboards replaced the old metal boards.

Travis left Potomac State College to enter military service during World War II. He spent 27 months in the European theater of operations.

war duty taking him to England, France, Belgium and Germany.

After the war, he resumed his college career at Fairmont State where he received his bachelor's degree in physical education. He received his master's in guidance and counseling, and industrial guidance at West Virginia University.

Travis completed graduate work in administration at Frostburg State, while other graduate work was at Western Maryland College, W.V. and Colorado University.

He began teaching in Garrett County in September 1949 at Friendsville High where he coached soccer, basketball and baseball.

When Garrett schools were consolidated three years later, Travis became Southern's first basketball coach. He was also an interim football coach there.

Travis went to Aurora, W. Va., his hometown, where he taught for three years before returning to Garrett County where he has remained.

As county supervisor, Travis was responsible for an increase of physical education teachers from six to 17 and for adding a number of other athletic events to the Garrett curricula.

Travis served as president of the Garrett County Teachers Association in 1968-69, at which time teacher negotiating was legislated. Among the various fringe benefits the teachers received during his term were hospitalization and life insurance and the right to negotiate contracts. He is currently serving as the Maryland Public Secondary Athletic Association representative of District 1.

In the community he has served as president of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club, is a member of the Ali Ghan Shrine and the Harige Unit of Clowns, and is the chairman of the State Board of Appeals in Maryland State Athletics.

He has worked in athletics either as a coach, athletic director or supervisor, longer than any other person in the history of the county.

Travis says he is looking for a job, but not within the Maryland school system.

He received informal word of the end of his position June 12 and official word June 22.

Historical group. Slides of past scenes of Garrett County were shown.

Mrs. Thelma Grayson, Cumberland, visited friends in Deer Park recently.

Wheat Exports Hit All-Time High

Wheat exports between January and March totaled 400 million bushels — an all-time high for that period, according to a report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Early season projections that 1980/81 wheat exports could reach a record 1.5 billion bushels appears to be firming up. USDA officials say this means that wheat trade has increased each year since 1976/77, with the last two seasons reaching record size.

The wheat marketing year is winding down with record highs for production, supply, total disappearance and exports. Based on May conditions, winter wheat production is forecast to be the first 2-billion-bushel crop in history. This record crop mainly reflects growers planting the largest area ever to winter wheat — 63.9 million acres. "Maryland's share of this total is 129,000 acres," according to Stuart C. Peterson, Acting Chairperson of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Increased precipitation in the last few months has brightened prospects for the total 1981 wheat crop. Because of the record seeded area of 87 million acres, total 1981 production could reach 2.7 billion bushels, up nearly 15 percent from last year's 2.4 billion.

Wheat stocks going into the 1981/82 crop year total 954 million bushels. As a result, the total wheat supply could be another record high, topping 3 billion bushels for the third time in the last 4 years. According to the report, the Commodity Credit Corporation now owns 192 million bushels of wheat. Of this, 147 million bushels are earmarked for the Food Security Reserve. Since January, farmers have placed over 130 million bushels of wheat in the grain reserves, bringing the total to about 360 million in early May.

The season's farm price for wheat will average around $4.00 per bushel, compared with $3.78 a year ago. As the new harvest develops, the leading question concerns the level of farm prices. The ending of the grain embargo could encourage producers to hold wheat in anticipation of USSR purchases. If this marketing strategy develops, it could be another price strengthening factor.

Corn, Soybean, Oat Stocks Up; Wheat, Barley Down

Stocks of grain on Maryland farms, June 1 were generally mixed, announced the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service. Corn, soybeans and oat stocks were above year earlier levels, but wheat and barley stocks were lower than the previous year. Rye stocks on June 1 remained at 1,000 bushels.

Corn stocks on Maryland's farms totaled 6.91 million bushels, 17 percent above year earlier levels. Corn stored in non-farm facilities amounted to 14.2 million bushels, 39 percent more than the amount stored June 1, 1980. Total stocks of corn were 21.1 million bushels.

Soybeans on farms accounted for 749,000 bushels, a 54 percent increase over last year's 486,000.

Wheat stocks declined to 22,000 bushels, the lowest level on record. Off-farm stocks of wheat were 172,000 bushels 17 percent under last year's 208,000 bushels.

Oats held on farms amounted to 224,000 bushels, a 20 percent increase from last year's level and 71 percent of all oats stored in Maryland. Off-farm storage of oats was 92,000 bushels, the lowest level since 1944, and 36 percent lower than last year.

Barley stocks stored on the farm at 146,000 bushels was five percent below stocks held last year and at the lowest level since 1953. Stocks of barley held off farms at 174,000 bushels was 31 percent more than that held last year.

Rye stored on farms was 1,000 bushels unchanged from 1980 stocks.

STIRLING SPECTACLE—This scene, one or many, was repeated for more than an hour over the water of Broadford Lake, as thousands of county residents celebrated the climax of the birthday of our nation on Saturday night. The fireworks display was provided through donations by numerous business establishments and individuals throughout the county. The festival of lights followed a day of family entertainment provided by the joint efforts of R&L, Inc. and the Town of Oakland.

Northern Rescue Members Save Ohio Man's Life

Officials present at the Grantsville Days celebration held the weekend of June 27 have released information regarding an incident which could have spelled doom for an important figure that Saturday, if not for the efficiency of members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

In the midst of the Saturday night festivities, the crowd began yelling as Earl Stanton from Ohio, master of ceremonies, suffered a cardiac arrest on stage. Cardiac pulmonary resuscitation administered within seconds of the cardiac arrest could very well have saved the life of Stanton. Northern Rescue personnel who were manning a nearby booth were at his side immediately.

Paramedics continued to perform CPR as Stanton was carried on a cot through the middle aisle of the crowded pavilion to an awaiting ambulance. Jeff Fritz, lieutenant and paramedic, estimates that from the onset of Earl Stanton was in the ambulance in less than two minutes, and the ambulance arrived at Sacred Heart Hospital, listed in "fair" condition.

The life-saving crew, which reported Stanton's safe arrival at the hospital to the awaiting crowd, consisted of: Hilda Wilburn, emergency medical technician; Jim Wilburn, lieutenant, general and emergency medical technician; Barry Neal, paramedic; Ken Hamilton, paramedic; and Fritz. One report indicates that Stanton's heart stopped several times on his journey to the hospital, and the persistence of the medical crew got him there alive and safe.

Stanton, a former resident of Garrett County, is a son of Mr. Lauretta Stanton, Bittinger. He traveled from Ohio to act as master of ceremonies throughout Saturday's activities, and he initiated the doctors' contest.

Weather
Sunny and hot today and Thursday with highs in the mid 80s each day. Clear tonight with lows in the 60s. Light and variable winds today and tonight. Little chance of rain through Thursday.

Hot and humid with scattered thunderstorms, some afternoon or evening Friday through Sunday. Highs will average from the upper 80s to mid 90s, with lows from the mid 60s to mid 70s.

Wendell Beitzel Accepts Sanitary District Position

Wendell R. Beitzel, 38, Oakland, has accepted the position of Administrator of the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., which was offered to him at last night's meeting of the Sanitary District Board.

Beitzel, a native of Garrett County and registered professional Sanitarian with the Garrett County Health Department, was selected to fill the vacant position over some 20 applicants primarily from Maryland and Pennsylvania. According to Harry M. Fienberg, commission chairman, only applicants having master's degrees were interviewed, and Beitzel was the best qualified person among them. Beitzel will fill the position left vacant by the recent resignations of Dick Sage and Robert Fouisek, administrator and acting administrator, respectively.

Born in Accident, Beitzel is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Beitzel and a 1963 graduate of Northern High School. He received a bachelor's science degree in 1964 from Fairmont State College, Fairmont, W. Va., and a master's degree in 1968 from the University of Maryland. He served with the United States Army from 1960 to 1964 as a medical laboratory technician. Following his military service he was employed as a microbiologist with the National Institute of Health, National Cancer Institute in Bethesda.

Inquiries regarding the event may be referred to Donnie Grandville, executive director of the County Health Department in June, 1971, to perform duties relating to the major aspects of the event.

State Committee To Reconsider Use Of Sludge At Brawl Site

The State Land Reclamation Committee will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at the Bureau of Mine Offices, Frostburg, to reconsider a proposed amendment to a reclamation plan by Brawl Mining, Inc., which would allow the application of city sludge to a strip-mine site near Grantsville.

The Committee rejected the amendment at a hearing on June 18, but, by law, must grant the applicant another hearing if requested.

Brawl asked the Committee to reconsider the project partly because the full committee membership had not attended the earlier hearing, several sources reported.

The committee voted five to three for the amendment, but because of a rule mandating a majority vote of the entire 13-member committee, the amendment failed. A vote of seven in support would have passed the amendment.

The proposed amendment would replace the use of fertilizer in the reclamation process with Baltimore City Sludge, as a demonstration project, at the application rate of 40 dry tons per acre on 20 acres of a strip-mine site, called the Brawl Site.

The amendment also would change the seed mixture and the rate of application to be more compatible with the sludge.

The Committee scheduled the public hearing for July 8 in order to allow time to prepare for application of the sludge before July 20, the date set by the committee as the last day to begin the project, if the committee approves the amendment.

Meanwhile, Modern Earthline Companies, a Philadelphia-based land reclamation firm which would apply the sludge and seed mixture, has not yet received a permit from the state health department to use the sludge.

Commissioners Approve Industrial Bond For Oakland Lumber Company

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners, after a public hearing Tuesday, has passed a resolution for the issuance of an industrial development revenue bond on behalf of Wood Products, Inc., Oakland.

The bond, apparently to be purchased in total by the First National Bank of Oakland, will finance a $100,000 expansion to the sawmill operation.

Issuing the bond through the county will not place any financial responsibility on the county, said Tom Jones, county development director. He pointed out that Wood Products backs up the loan with its own assets.

The expansion project primarily involves the installation of an energy efficient rotary furnace which will provide necessary heat to operate kilns to dry wood.

John Hall, general manager for the company, predicts the 42-foot long, 10-foot in diameter furnace will save $150,000 a year in energy costs.

The company closed down its dry kilns two years ago due to unidentified cupules, and several employees in their possession.

According to the report, a vehicle being driven by Fisher was stopped on a routine traffic violation when the discovery was made. The report states that while Fisher was being interviewed in the police cruiser, DeSigue, left the passenger side of the Fisher auto, walked away from the car, then returned and removed a syringe from the vehicle. Further investigation revealed the additional drugs and paraphernalia.

Both men were incarcerated in the Garrett County jail pending a hearing.

Md. State Police Arrest Two Men On Drug Charges

Maryland State Police report the arrest of two area men on charges of unlawful possession of controlled dangerous substances.

Anthony Joseph DeSigue, 28, Oakland, and Jeffrey Allan Fisher, 24, also of Oakland, were arrested Monday by the Gary Berkebile following the discovery of suspected marijuana, approximately 30 unidentified capsules, and several syringes in their possession.

According to the report, a vehicle being driven by Fisher was stopped on a routine traffic violation when the discovery was made. The report states that while Fisher was being interviewed in the police cruiser, DeSigue, left the passenger side of the Fisher auto, walked away from the car, then returned and removed a syringe from the vehicle. Further investigation revealed the additional drugs and paraphernalia.

Both men were incarcerated in the Garrett County jail pending a hearing.

WOW DONATES—Court No. 110 of Oakland, Woodmen of the World, recently donated $200 to the Oakland Fire Department to help defray the expense of a proximity suit. The suit allows entry into areas with high heat areas, up to 500 degrees F., where exposure to chemicals, toxic liquids or steam may occur. The suit accommodates breathing apparatus for the firefighter. In the photo above, left to right, are firefighter John Feather, modeling the proximity suit, Buzz Udyke, chief, and Mike McCain, Jr., president of Court 110, and Thomas E. Bernard, trustee of Court 110.

IT'S A GRAND OLD FLAG with a minute munchkin waving it, but the message is still the same. "Happy Birthday, America" was the theme of the day, as more than 500 persons attended the Fourth of July Old Fashioned Family picnic at Broadford Park on Saturday. The event was sponsored by R&L, Inc., and the Town of Oakland. Sporting events, games, entertainment, and oceans of food and drink highlighted the holiday, climaxed by a spectacular fireworks display. Photo by Craig Phillips.

Board Reduces Glendale Bridge Weight Limit

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners have announced that effective immediately the weight capacity of Glendale Bridge is reduced from 11 to 8 tons.

The commissioners reduced the weight limit as a safety precaution on the advice of Herb McClellan, county roads engineer.

The bridge has been declared unsafe by a Baltimore consulting firm which was hired by the county to inspect the bridge.

Signed indicating the weight limit will be posted by the roads department as soon as possible on both ends of the bridge and on Route 219.

The county is advertising for bids for repair work designed to strengthen the bridge.

The commissioners noted that the average weight of a car is 3,000 pounds, a lot less than 8,000 pounds.

Autumn Glory Festival Kick Off Will Be Different

The 14th Annual Autumn Glory Festival, scheduled for October 3-11, will kick off in a slightly different style this year, says Craig Kutchman, executive director of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council.

There will not be a dinner, a speaker, or special entertainment the Wednesday evening before the Festival.

Instead, the Autumn Glory Festival committee has planned a Kick Off Reception, complete with a band and refreshments, on Wednesday, October 7 from 7:30 p.m.

The reception is to be purely a social event for supporters of the Festival. Those who purchase tickets to the reception will be called Golden Ambassadors who will receive benefits besides admittance to the reception.

A ticket, says Kutchman, will include admittance for two to the reception along with two tickets and reserved seating for both the jump contest and fiddlers contest, a sweepstakes ticket, and reserved seats and transportation for the parade.

During the reception, a sweepstakes drawing will be held. The winning ticket holder will receive $200.

Golden Ambassador tickets have been limited to 125, Kutchman noted.

She explained that one reason for eliminating the kick off dinner, was it had become too crowded, preventing people from socializing with others.

Past supporters of the Festival will receive letters in the next few weeks detailing the reception and how to purchase a ticket, said Kutchman. But she pointed out any person could purchase a ticket and if interested should contact her at the Promotion Council Office at 334-3888 or Page Shanklin, chairman of the Reception Committee, at 341-9421 or 341-9421.

Kutchman stated that those who purchase the tickets will be given the first opportunity to purchase them next year.

The Autumn Glory Festival Committee wants the reception to be the big social event of the year, Kutchman said. She added that supporters of the festival were "invited by the committee to be special people who deserved special treatment."

Without the supporters of the Festival, she said, "we could not have the Festival."

Oakland Woman Faces Theft Charge

An Oakland woman was arrested Sunday by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department and charged with theft in connection with two gold rings stolen from the residence of Betty E. Friend, Harvey's Peninsula, Deep Creek Lake.

The rings, which have a total approximate value of $1000, were found missing Friday afternoon, the day when Denise Marie Tasker, 23, Oakland, was working in the home. Both are white gold rings with diamonds and blue sapphires, and they were located in separate rooms of the Friend dwelling.

When arrested, Ms. Tasker turned the rings over to the Sheriff's Department, which was assisted by the Oakland City Police. She was released the same day on $1000 unsecured bond.

In a separate case, the department received two reports of theft from vehicles parked early Saturday morning on Main Street, Friendsville, near Friend's Tavern. Police said about 2 a.m. someone removed a gray Craftsman 100-pound tool box with a variety of tools inside from a deep pickup owned by Clifford Schroyer, Friendsville. Included among the tools were socket sets, six-inch crescent wrenches and a six-inch hammer. The property is valued at approximately $300.

About the same time Raymond Friend, Ohio, returned to his pick-up truck and found that the side view mirror had been torn off, one windshield wiper was removed and another destroyed, the gas cap and spare tire were missing and an unknown amount of gasoline was stolen. The loss value is at least $40.

William H. Bittinger, Mitchell Manor, Oakland, last week reported an incident of theft. Sometime between June 8 and 12 unknown persons removed from his home $40 in cash, six silver dollars, electronic football and baseball games and a ladies' watch. Police said there was no sign of forced entry. The total loss value is about $280.

Milton S. DeWitt, McHenry, reported that a Remington .308 semi-automatic rifle, model S/N, equipped with scope, was taken from inside his dwelling on June 17. The rifle was located in a case with several guns, and DeWitt told police that particular model is no longer manufactured. No value was placed on the gun, and police said no point of entry was determined. The residence had apparently been left unlocked on occasions.

Kenneth Mosley, Friedens, Pa., reported a theft which occurred at a cottage his family was renting at Glen Acres Campground, Deep Creek Lake, during the night on Friday. The family apparently left four unlocked bicycles on the porch of the dwelling when they went to bed. Two of the bicycles, both 20-inch, were found missing in the morning.

The property is described as a Westco Flyer black bike with mag wheels, having a new value of $120, and a Huffy black bike with a blue fender, valued at approximately $80.

Reports involving destruction of property and intrusion were heard by the department last week.

Russell E. Lambert, Oakland, Mettiki Coal employee, told police that his white 300-pound pig was shot Thursday afternoon and was removed from his property near Table Rock. The pig, valued at approximately $125, was inside a wire pen, and police observed signs of the slaughter upon investigation.

In a separate case, Mary Wilson, Kitzmiller, left her place of employment, C. P. Martin's Store, Mt. Lake Park, on the night of June 30, and found that a radial tire on her vehicle has been sliced with a sharp object. Early that evening juveniles had been observed around the establishment, and the outdoor telephone booth was also found damaged.

Donna F. Shaffer, an employee at Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, Mt. Lake Park, reported that $4 was stolen from her locker while she was working there on June 10. The locker did not have a lock on it, and the money taken was just a portion of the money in the locker. The home has reported no additional incidents since that time.

At least two area residents reported incidents of breaking and entering.

Kenneth H. Crosco, Oakland, reported that someone entered his home during the day on Sunday by opening an upstairs window. Once inside the intruder ransacked Crosco's daughter's room and then apparently left through the front door. Nothing was taken from the dwelling, however. Crosco told police that a similar incident occurred about one week prior to that.

Jeff Bell, 28, Four Hoopole South, was arrested by the department on July 1 in connection with a breaking and entering at his neighbor's summer home on June 30.

The owner, Marvin Apter, of Upper Marlboro, alerted police who, upon investigation, observed blood on the broken window of the dwelling and inside the home, around the kitchen area and in a closet where alcoholic beverages are kept. Blood samples and fingerprints were taken, and Bell was charged with destruction of property, theft and daylight house breaking. He was released the same day on $1000 unsecured bond.

The department arrested an additional six persons last week. Peter Lloyd Hipert, 20, and Randal Georges, 20, both of California, Pa., were arrested Thursday and charged with theft. Both were released the same day when they posted $100 bond. Oakland City Police assisted in that arrest.

Bruce E. Labbett, 24, Pittsburg, Pa., was arrested Saturday and charged with driving while intoxicated. He was released the same day when he posted 10 percent of $500 bond.

James D. Boyce, 29, Deer Park, was arrested Saturday and charged in connection with a controlled dangerous substance. He was released the same day on $500 unsecured bond.

Thurry Sharpless, 20, Deer Park, was incarcerated Monday and charged with forgery. He is still incarcerated on 10 percent of $2500 bond.

Fred Junior Tasker, 28, Oakland, was arrested Monday for failure to appear in court. He was released the same day on his own recognizance.

Democracy's Cornerstone

by David W. Hornbeck
State Superintendent of Schools

A revolution has been going on in the public schools over the past ten years — a revolution that can affect profoundly every handicapped youngster in our schools. We — the courts, the legislature, the educators, and the people at large — have recognized the rights a handicapped child has to a free and appropriate education.

The first arena of the struggle to establish these rights was the courts, beginning in Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia. In Maryland the Raine Decree of 1974 referring to Judge John E. Raine, Jr., resulted from the suit of the Maryland Association for Retarded Children against the State of Maryland. That was followed by a statute effective in 1975, additional state funding in 1976, and finally, by the enactment of a federal law, 94-142, which took effect in 1978.

Bringing a sensitive program into being is not accomplished by good will alone, nor by funds alone. It calls for fresh thinking, fresh skills, more skilled people, a willingness to join hands with others who share the responsibility for teaching or caring for the handicapped, and it calls for a lot of hard work by clear-sighted people. Finally, it calls for more intensive interplay between parents and the school than any other program I can think of.

All these things have come together in Maryland because, for one thing, we have taken seriously our obligation to handicapped children. The state record is one of the best in the nation. While we continue to face many problems, several important factors support our leadership position. An example: Maryland is one of only five or so states which guarantee free and appropriate education for the handicapped from birth. Most programs began at age 3. Maryland's effort is very significant since the earlier a handicapping condition is identified, the more likely it can be dealt with positively.

There are other tasks as well, and there are some things we do recommended a regulation to curb the abuses it uncovered, such as deceptive advertising and high-pressure sales tactics. Representatives of the health spa industry have complained that the proposed rule is unnecessary and overboard, and so far it has not been adopted. The government's 213-page report noted that there are, indeed, many satisfied customers of health spas, despite some of the abuses it found in the industry.

As with so many other consumer matters, the best way to protect yourself against fraud is to use caution and common sense.

Even before you begin an exercise routine, it would be smart to have a complete physical examination. Get your doctor's advice on what kind of exercise programs are good for you and what kind are not.

Once you get your doctor's O.K., you may want to check the facilities available at the local Y's, community centers or community colleges. The Y's in particular have many programs with trained instructors, often offering you the same kind of exercise opportunities as a health spa but for a lot less money and with a lot less hassle. Swimming, riding a bicycle, jogging or even walking on a regular basis are all

There are today about 100,000 youngsters receiving special education services in the state. That represents an increase of approximately 10,000 in the last four years. Our handicapped population ranges from very mildly handicapped students who are appropriately and well served in the regular classroom to students who are multiply and very severely handicapped and require twenty-four hour a day, seven day a week care. All have a right now to a free and appropriate education.

Problems with which we continue to grapple include our effort to make appropriate services available to handicapped children as close to their homes and families as possible and not to have to send them to out-of-state facilities. We need to continue to improve.

There are other tasks as well, and there are some things we do good and inexpensive ways to exercise.

If you decide that you really want to join a health spa, here are some things to keep in mind:

"Beware of the spa's sales approach. Make every effort to read the contract thoroughly and try to take it home with you to study before signing up."

"Check the condition of the facility's equipment and see if it is being used. There may not be many people in the club and the equipment may be in disrepair."

"Talk with club members to get an idea of how they feel about the facility."

"Visit more than one spa and do a little comparison shopping. Whenever anyone tries high-pressure sales tactics, seeking to persuade you to sign an expensive, long-term contract without consulting with your spouse or other club members, just politely say 'Thanks, but no thanks.' That's the time to look elsewhere."

not yet know how to do well. Early intervention is important, but how do we improve early diagnosis? How do we better involve the parent in the process? How do we properly support the classroom teacher (especially the one without special education training) to cope with the handicapped child? What strategies will reach the autistic child? Do we classify a disproportionate number of boys, minorities, and non-English speaking students as handicapped?

There are many difficult questions. There are still too many times that we need greater insight, greater sensitivity. And yet, I know of no other country in the world that has made quite the same commitment across the board to handicapped kids.

AHA Nutrition Tips

When eating lunch out, most people prefer a light meal such as a sandwich or salad. Try chicken, turkey, fish, large fruit or vegetable salads. For sandwiches order lean meat, chicken or turkey. Avoid cold cuts and cheese. If you must choose among a grilled hamburger, hot dog or grilled cheese, select the hamburger, but blot the meat with a paper napkin to remove as much fat as possible.

Cole slaw and potato salad are acceptable, since Mayonnaise is largely vegetable oil. Salad dressings such as French or Italian or oil and vinegar are recommended. All salad dressings are rich in calories, though, so eat salads plain if calories are a concern.

CHICKEN—FRUIT SALAD
2 cups diced white meat of chicken
2 apples diced
1 cup unsweetened pineapple chunks, drained
3 tbsp. Mayonnaise
1 tsp. Curry Powder
1/4 cup chopped almonds
Spoon individual portions onto salad glasses.

Yield: 6 servings.

Hughes Reappoints Clarence Stem To School Board

Governor Harry Hughes has reappointed Clarence Stem, Mt. Lake Park, to a five-year term on the Garrett County Board of Education.

Stem, who is the vice president of the Board, was first appointed to the Board on January 13, 1975 to complete the unexpired term of William Goldsborough and then was appointed to a full five-year term beginning July 1, 1976.

Stem graduated from Saint John's Catholic High School, Westminster, in 1942.

Following service in the U.S. Army Air Force during World War II, he began work for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland in December 1946.

After serving as manager of the Taneytown and Brunswick telephone offices, Stem was transferred to the Oakland office as service foreman.

Stem has served as the past president of the parish council at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland, and past president of the Oakland Rotary Club. He has also worked with the Oakland Little League for Baseball.

Stem is also a bowler and bowled a perfect game in 1978. He and his wife, Shirley, reside in Mt. Lake Park.

Stem's term will expire in January 1985 one and one-half years early, when his position will become an elected position rather than appointed under the Garrett County elected school board law passed in 1980.

H-P. FAMOUS FOR SAVINGS!

OPEN SUNDAY 12-5

Thanks For A Fun Day

The weather was perfect, the attendance was unbelievable, the games and activities were a blast, the food was tasty, the prices couldn't be beat, the water was warm, the competition was keen, and the fireworks were beautiful. All of these statements, plus others, pretty well sum up the second annual Fourth of July Old-Fashioned Family Picnic held Saturday at Broadford Park, and we feel that those responsible for such a fun day deserve a little recognition.

For entire families to spend a whole day engaging in so many forms of recreation, being entertained, and eating to their hearts' content, the cost would normally be beyond many families' financial capabilities. However, such was not the case with this celebration. Most of the entertainment was free and the price of the food was extremely low, the reason being that the organizers of the event were not in it for the money. They were in it simply to provide enjoyment for the public . . . all of the public. If any profit is made, it will go directly back to the park for improvements and new equipment. Unfortunately, preliminary figures show that R&L Inc. (Rotary and Lions) may be facing a loss on the event this year.

We extend a special thanks to G. David Green, chairman of the event, Craig Wengerd, president of R&L, and the other R&L members: Jerry Ryseavage, Tom Jones, Dave Bolinger, Jack Fridinger, Scott Eutsler, Dave Shaffer, Joe White and Tom Earley. The Town of Oakland officials and various civic and community groups also deserve thanks for their efforts.

Persons such as Rotarians and Lions serve the public in many ways, usually in the form of donations to charitable and emergency organizations. To do that, they must conduct fundraising activities. It's refreshing to see them serve in still another capacity.

Although it appears that prices will have to be raised slightly next year, we hope the committee will maintain its super attitude of simply providing fun for as many people as possible, rather than attempt to turn this particular celebration into a fundraising effort.

Worth Repeating . .

by Carol Kappel

A visitor to my desk a few days ago brought me an interesting bit of information, coinciding with the recent birthday celebration of our country.

She climaxed the stars to my office with a look of determination about her that told me instantly of the seriousness of her mission.

I surprised this lady had lived long enough to pass on to those much younger than she the wisdom of many meaningful events, as evidenced by the tattered paper she placed in my outstretched hand.

I opened the message, I felt her study my face for reaction. My reaction was confined to my heart, however, as I did not trust myself to speak. The message read something like this . . . The average life of the world's great civilizations has been 200 years. This is America's 200th year. Where are we in this cycle? These nations progressed through this sequence:

From bondage to spiritual faith;
From spiritual faith to great courage;
From courage to liberty;
From liberty to abundance;
From abundance to selfishness;
From selfishness to complacency;
From complacency to apathy;
From apathy to dependence;
From dependence to bondage.

Thank you, La Esra Savage, for something to think about. Something worth repeating.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor

A copy of this letter is going to Honorable Beverly Byron, and to the President. We on fixed incomes are going to have to not only be seen, but let it be known that the government is a greedy bunch of skunks.

Honorable Beverly Byron,

I hope you will see my point. The increase in the SSI checks and others is just an increased dollar figure in the checks. And it is there only to be seen. As far as helping us with higher taxes, fuel, insurance, etc., no, it has to go for food, as they reduced the dollar amount in food coupons. How does this help?

It is down right despicable and outrageous that the government brags on giving people a raise. We have no more than we had. The government lives with the right hand and takes it back with the left. This is a hidden trick that the government uses and thinks people on fixed incomes don't see it. Believe me, we see, and feel it, and it stinks. So please do something, as we can't make ends meet.

Sincerely,
Bertha Oester

Sir,
In reply to your "For it, But Against It" editorial, July 1 issue on the ERA, your column sounds like some of the conversations I've heard lately—absurd.

How could anyone that calls himself an American say that an amendment to our constitution isn't the best way to insure the rights of our citizens, all of our citizens?

Amendments are used to correct and insure rights. That is why they are written. "There are over 20 laws on the California books" — a direct quote of President Reagan to insure the California Women's rights.

Why?? If our constitution protects these women? Why the need for all these laws consuming and tax-wasting laws? Why not a blanket amendment which says "the quality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States Government or by any state on account of sex," the complete wording of the ERA.

When the settlers came it was the indentured servant, then the black slaves and child labor. Today it's cheap woman labor. As long as we have a cabinet of millionaires, all with big business ties, a millionaire President and keep sending millionaires to Washington, we'll have a segment of society held down as cheap labor. The only ones left are women.

ERA all the way!

Straight Talk About Aging

By Matthew Tayback
State Director on Aging

by Dr. Matthew Tayback,
State Director on Aging

SOCIAL SECURITY AND WIDOWS

The Social Security system's multitude of eligibility guidelines and benefit schedules can be perplexing enough to discourage many people from even attempting to understand them. Unfortunately, a large number of non-working wives fall into that category. "Let George do it" is quite literally their attitude.

Just how dangerous that attitude is can often be realized too late — when the non-working wife becomes the non-working widow, and when Social Security's "perplexities" suddenly become the keys to life's necessities.

What follows, in admittedly broadly-brushed strokes, is a widow's guide to Social Security subject to certain activity in Washington, of course.

First of all, be aware of the fact that if you are caring for a child who is under 18, or disabled, you are entitled to a widow's benefits regardless of your own age. Furthermore, if your child is unmarried, under 22, and a full-time student, you can also claim survivor's benefits.

fits on your late husband's work record. Again, this is likely to be changed or eliminated under new Administration proposals.

Your widow's benefits will cease when you no longer have a disabled child or one under 18 in your care. Usually they will also stop if you remarry before you reach age 60. Benefits to your children, however, will continue as long as they themselves remain eligible.

Now then, suppose you do not have dependent children when your husband dies. In such a case, you can get widow's benefits if you are 60 or over.

The exact amount of your monthly payments will depend on two things: your age when you start receiving them, and the amount your deceased husband would have been entitled to (or was actually getting) at the time of his death.

Considering these two factors, your benefits could range from 71½ percent of your husband's benefit amount if you start receiving payments at age 60, to 100 percent if you do not start receiving payments until age 65.

Your age limitation is lowered to 50 if you are disabled — but your payments will be lowered as well.

Here's another point to keep in mind: If you are entitled to retirement benefits on the basis of your own work record, but have received widow's benefits between 50 and 62, your personal retirement benefit at 65 will be reduced.

In most cases, a woman loses the widow's rights based on her deceased husband's record if she remarries. However, if the remarriage occurs after her sixtieth birthday, she can usually continue to receive widow's benefits, and without any reduction in the amount.

If, of course, the new husband gets Social Security checks of his own, his new wife can take a wife's benefit on his record if that amount is greater than the amount she has been receiving as a widow.)

As a special case: If you are 50 or older, are receiving checks because you have young children in your care, and have become disabled, contact your Social Security office to see whether you may be eligible for Medicare. If you have been disabled for two years or more, you may . . .

In the meantime, it's a good idea to call that office and request whatever materials they have on Social Security and women. Then sit down and do some reading. This is one thing you should do "yourself." Don't leave it to "George."

Second Impression Facts Do The Talking

by Harry Fox

Some forty years ago, in an age when printing a newspaper required the work of huge, clanking dinosaurs of the mechanical age called Linotypes, John O'Hara wrote that "hot lead can be almost as effective coming from a Linotype as from the barrel of a gun." Isn't that just a lot of noise from the cheering section in the press club?

Don't you believe it.

That's the sort of home-grown wisdom that keeps persons involved in commenting on the news humble, as well they should be. In a twist on the old saying about marriage, it could be suggested that hasty writers repent at leisure. Opinion is a dangerous thing, especially when it is committed to print. That is one reason journalists strive so diligently to clearly separate fact, the news of the day, from the opinions expressed about the news.

A recent editorial in this newspaper became the catalyst for a series of charges and counter-charges among several local public officials. The following weeks saw the flow of opinion move quite far astray from the original thought of the writer. As it looked to those commented on, they had become grist for the mill, and they responded vigorously. Their weapons—the written word.

Nothing is more desirable or stimulating than the outpouring of public opinion on a controversial issue. Particularly in small communities, the views expressed in the "letters" section of the local newspaper are often the finest available forum for public expression. The ideas found there are not of equal merit. They range from the sublime to the ridiculously absurd. To be sure, some may write with the selfish intent of airing a grudge or damaging another person.

Political and public debate can all too easily focus on the personalities involved instead of the issues. When that happens the people who really count, the citizens, suffer the most.

Most letters to the editor, like an editorial, come from persons with an opinion to share. All of us form opinions from many personal and shared experiences that shape what we believe to be true. The editor of a newspaper or those who write professionally may be more adept at expressing themselves, and may be able to get information more easily than the average reader. That does not change the bottom line. Opinion is personal, analysis often biased, and only the facts speak for themselves.

THIS WEEK

shin splints from dancing on a tile floor. During a recent interview she noted various incidents which exemplify the great amount of energy expended by those in the field of performing arts, and the sacrifices one must make to perform well.

Following "Carousel" Pamela jumped into her third major production in the year 1978-79, playing the part of Liesl in "The Sound of Music," presented that summer by the high school theatre group. In that production she sang the piece "Sixteen Going on Seventeen," and danced a duet with Liesl's first sweetheart, a telegram delivery boy. Throughout her many activities in high school Pamela said her grades suffered initially, but after developing a rigid schedule she pulled her scholastic performance back up to a remarkable A-student status.

In the fall of her junior year Pamela had to be pulled from a YAMO production, having suffered a severe back injury. Just prior to rehearsal for the production she had fallen and wrenched her back, yet she immediately went into rehearsal. Working on a jazz dance solo, Pamela could be found in between rehearsals on the floor of the dressing room lying on a heating pad, until she could no longer move and was pulled from the production by her mother. Miss Harden has persisted in dancing however, and she exercises regularly to improve the condition of her back.

In 1980 Miss Harden played the leading role of Eliza Doolittle in "My Fair Lady," the part which she says is her favorite. "It was fun, because you could make so much noise and be obnoxious and you're supposed to be," she said. The character Eliza transforms from a lowly flower girl to a British lady in that musical, and Pamela seemed to enjoy enacting that transition. The part involved six solos, and the actress was required to learn the Cockney and High British accents. Having done some accents prior to that, Pamela said she had no trouble in learning these different styles of speaking, and that it was basically a matter of studying vowel substitutions and listening to linguistic recordings. "The hardest thing," she said, "is to make it flow and sound natural."

The part of Eliza was for Pamela a refreshing change, as she had primarily played characters which she felt were "too dull." As part of her stage experience, Miss Harden had occasionally acted as a walk-in or part of a chorus. She noted in retrospect that "You have to work just as hard no matter

The GARRETT COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

by Theo Varnell

The Garrett County Playhouse will open its doors and its 27th season tonight at 8:30 p.m. with Philip King's wild and off-center "Pool's Paradise." The play, while King has insisted that it's not a sequel, deals with many of the characters from his famous "See How They Run" and is, if possible, funnier and more endearing than that predecessor. This will be the third production of "Pool's Paradise" at the Playhouse, the others presented in 1965 and 1973.

"Pool's Paradise" will feature Chris Von Eckartsberg, who returns after his very successful debut at the Playhouse last year. New company members Debbie Martinez, Pamela Harden and Gordon Lea will also be featured, as well as local performers Lisa Thayer and Jeff Colaw.

Miss Thayer has appeared in several Playhouse productions, including "My Three Angels," "I'll Get my Man" and "Chase me, Comrade," and has for three years served on the technical staff of the theatre.

Colaw's most recent appearances with the Playhouse were in "Murder in Company" and "Natalie Needs a Nightie," both last season. During the recent Fine Arts Festival at Garrett Community College he played the wizard Hodge in "Beauty and the Beast."

Director Milburn Mielhop will appear as the Bishop of Lax in this week's production.

Performers of "Pool's Paradise" will be held nightly through Saturday. The season will run seven weeks, through August 22, with four performances weekly. Curtain time for all performances is 8:30 p.m. Seating for all performances is general and those attending are urged to make reservations by calling Englander's, Gregg's or Proudfoot's pharmacies in Oakland where subscriptions are also available.

The Blue Barn Theatre is located off Glendale Road at Beckman's Peninsula, Deep Creek Lake.

Playhouse Benefit Held Monday

by Theo Varnell

The Garrett County Playhouse launched its 1981 season (the 27th) with the sixth annual Playhouse Benefit Monday evening at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. Patrons of the theatre and their guests enjoyed the cocktail hour and then dinner, all of which was brought off with style and efficiency.

Following dinner, entertainment was provided by members of the playhouse company and by area performers who donated their time and talents to the cause of preserving live theatre in Garrett County. Ben Sincell of Oakland performed feats of legerdemain with exquisite precision and humor (Mr. Sincell is well-known to magic buffs in and out of the area) and jazz guitarist Doug Fleharty, by now a tradition and a necessity at playhouse benefits, spun his own spells with dazzling ease and electrifying ingenuity. James Garner and Michael Hale-Cooper, both students at Southern High School, sang a haunting popular song and then joined with verve in a number for barbershop quartet minus one.

Jack Jones of Oakland served for the sixth time as M.C. for the entertainment, and as always his joie de vivre and apparent innocence of evil-doing heightened the charm of the evening's entertainment. Also for the sixth time Carolyn Lambert-Wilt arranged, coached and accompanied complicated musical numbers with consummate skill and obvious love.

The Playhouse is aware of its enormous debt to these generous and talented performers and hopes by way of small repayment to maintain as high as possible a standard of

Grantsville Liquor Store Closes Monday

The Garrett County Liquor Control Board has closed its Grantsville store, but the way it did it has angered the town mayor and some citizens.

The Board, which has been considering closing the store since the beginning of this year, made its final decision Friday. It began moving the inventory at the Grantsville store Monday and expects to complete the move by the end of this week.

Grantsville mayor William

Edwards requested a meeting with the Board and the county commissioners to discuss how and why the store was closed, but no date or time has been set by press time today.

Edwards says neither the town nor the two store employees, who are now unemployed, received advance notice of the store closure even though they asked to be kept informed. He also says he has never received a satisfactory answer about why the store was closed.

Board chairman Brenda Butscher says the action was necessary because the county was losing money by keeping the store open.

Butscher said she and the Board members were not happy to have to close the store, but they all had to face the fact that some action was needed.

Stores in the Grantsville area which sell liquor but do not have the Special Class D. License, which allows them to purchase liquor from other sources other than the county liquor dispensary, will have to travel to Oakland to place an order.

For your response to the Southern Garrett Co. Rescue Squad ANNUAL FUNDS APPEAL

SOUTHERN GARRETT COUNTY RESCUE SQUAD, INC.
P. O. Box 256
OAKLAND, MARYLAND 21550

Dear Friends:

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad has been in existence for approximately eight years. Throughout these years, we have attempted to serve you and your families to the best of our abilities and we are continuing to strive to provide the latest, most advanced procedures in emergency medical care, free of charge. We have responded to well over 6,000 emergency situations during these eight years, reaching an all-time annual high in 1980 of 1,085 requests for help. We are likely to exceed that number this year.

The reason our organization has been so successful in its efforts is not only on account of the skills, dedication and continued education of the volunteer emergency medical technicians and cardiac rescue technicians who make up the squad, but also the tremendous financial support and volunteerism provided by so many concerned individuals like you, civic organizations and businesses. All of the training in the world would be worth little if we did not have the monies to purchase the necessary vehicles, equipment, medical supplies and housing.

It would be unnecessary for me to expound upon the present, depressing consequences of inflation for all of us are experiencing them daily in our private lives. Making ends meet is becoming increasingly difficult. Unfortunately, a volunteer organization such as ours also is not immune to the inflationary spiral. We will need over $6,000 just to gasoline this year. We will soon be in need of a new vehicle to replace our current one, and we hope to be able to purchase some new cardiac care equipment to accurately update our cardiac care in this vital area of medical care. The list of all our necessary expenses would easily fill this page.

Therefore, once again, we must turn to you for financial assistance. We sincerely hope that we will never be forced to charge for our services in order to remain in existence. We are confident that your continued support will keep us from ever having to submit to this type of financing.

We, the members of Southern Rescue, like to think of ourselves as a team. Our goal—helping our fellow human beings in some of their greatest times of need—is one which we believe is crucial to the medical well-being of all of us. We hope that you will join our team by providing whatever donation you feel you are able to contribute.

All donations, no matter the size, will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Frank Eberly, President

4TH OF JULY FUN!

GAMES FOR THE KIDDIES, such as good old fashioned three-legged and sack races, were just a few of the activities at the Fourth of July Family Picnic held Saturday at Broadford Park near Oakland. A crowd of 5,000 persons was on hand to take advantage of the beautiful weather, the many park facilities, and the food and games which were available. The second annual event was again sponsored by L&R Inc. (Lions and Rotary clubs of Oakland) and the Town of Oakland.

SHUCKING 2,400 EARS OF CORN, even for the most enthusiastic shucker, was quite a task, and yet all 200 dozen were sold by mid-afternoon. Also consumed were 2,500 hot dogs, 3,000 pounds of potatoes in the form of French fries, 2,200 pounds of watermelon, over 10,000 soft drinks, 160 pounds of sloppy joes and 90 gallons of ice cream. All items went for extremely low, and thus, popular prices.

THE BEACH WAS ALIVE with the sound of music, provided by the Garrett Choral Society, under the direction of Nancy Leary. Also performing was the Southern High School Stage Band, directed by Richard Clever.

NOT ALL OF THE ACTIVITIES at the picnic were strenuous or competitive, as many folks took advantage of the cool shade along the water's edge for rest and relaxation. Still others brought along fishing gear, in hopes of reeling in a rainbow trout from the well-stocked Broadford Lake.

MORE THAN ONE of the 1,403 balls which were tossed at the "celebrity" dunking booth found the target, as county comm. Ernie Gregg will verify. Not one of the 16 local personalities who participated as dunkees walked away in a state of dryness. In fact, most were nearly waterlogged.

BEING HANDSOME seems to be one of the requirements for being a lifeguard and these young ladies believed that this particular lifeguard at Broadford beach met that qualification. In fact, they even wanted his pretty face on film.

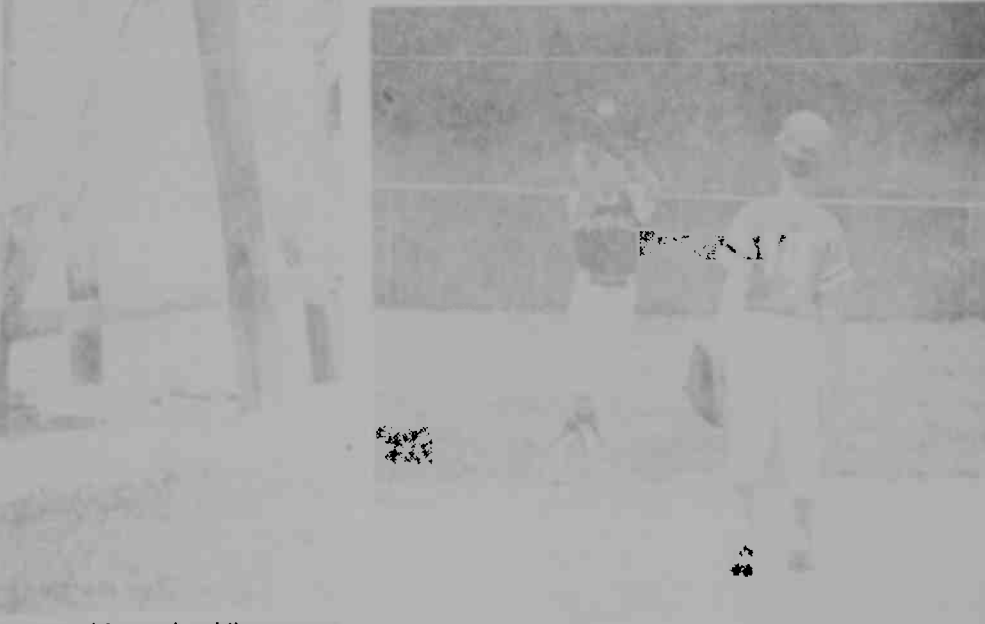

MEN'S, WOMEN'S AND MIXED volleyball teams waged war against each other all afternoon to help keep competitive spirits running high.

A PICNIC JUST DOESN'T SEEM COMPLETE without swimming, especially on a warm summer day such as the one experienced Saturday during the old-fashioned family picnic. Many of the 5,000 visitors to the park that day spent most of their time on the beach and in the water.

OTHER GAMES included the annual Horseshoe Pitching Contest, plus the Oakland Little League All Star game. The two ball fields at the park were also utilized for the Senior League All Star game and a softball tournament.

"RECEIVING INSPIRATION from the beauty of the New England coast, the mountains of Pennsylvania and Maryland, and a variety of subject matter in Ohio," Ruth (Eddy) McQueen produces about four or five paintings a month, each very detailed. The above painting is one of several included in a colorful display of Mrs. McQueen's work at the Ruth Enlow Library. The artist states that, "I tend to be a landscape painter, though I'm not limited to it. I carry my camera everywhere and compose the pictures myself, using a favorite barn, perhaps, mixed with a tree in my front yard." Mrs. McQueen said she captures through photography unique items which might be part of a landscape she may later create. The artist's predominate medium is water color, and she also works with acrylics, pen and pencil.

County Troopers Clamp Down On Drunk Drivers

Maryland State Police report several traffic accidents over the Fourth of July weekend, with personal injury and extensive property damage. Several drivers were arrested for driving while under the influence of alcohol, according to Tfc. J.W. Michaels and Tfc. L.N. Smith, and Tfc. W.W. Rice, arresting officers.

A Friendsville woman, Judith Ann Frazee, 40, was charged with a speeding violation following a rear-end collision with a car being driven by Robert Allen Rielay, 40, Downey, California.

According to reports, the Frazee auto was following the Rielay vehicle on the White Rock Road near Friendsville. Rielay was attempting to make a left turn when the collision took place.

Tfc. Carl Skidmore was the investigating officer.

An Oakland woman, Pamela Jo Trickett, 22, escaped serious injury on Saturday when she was reportedly forced off the Glendale Road by an unknown driver who attempted to pass on a double solid line. According to the report, Ms. Trickett's auto was forced into the embankment, and overturned. The car, a 1981 Dodge Omni, was declared a total loss.

THIS EXQUISITE BEACH SCENE, so closely resembling a photograph, is among numerous paintings by Ruth (Eddy) McQueen, of Strongsville, Ohio, on display at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, through July 22. The exhibit contains several beach scenes, paintings of barns, winter scenes, still life and other landscape works, all quite realistic and alive. A native of western Pennsylvania, Mrs. McQueen is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Eddy, Beckman's Peninsula. She has lived in Ohio for 20 years with husband Raymond, while raising five children. Mrs. McQueen attended Cuyahoga Community College for two years, studying the art subjects available there. In addition, she has studied water color under Fred Leach and other water color painters in Ohio. Her work has been exhibited in several Ohio shows, and some of her paintings hang in private collections in the eastern United States.

Tfc. Larry Rosage was the investigating officer.

An Oakland man, Brian Patrick Browning, 18, faces possible charges stemming from a single-vehicle accident on Sunday on the Cranessville Road.

According to police, Browning was traveling south on the Cranessville Road at a speed too great for road conditions. The vehicle failed to negotiate a left turn, went out of control, and struck a rock.

Southern Rescue Squad responded with the equipment truck, and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also arrived on the scene.

A woman from Idaho, currently residing in Oakland, was arrested Monday and charged with driving while intoxicated.

According to police reports, Sharon Linda Jeter, 27, was southbound on Rt. 219 near the Farmer's Market when she lost control of her car, ran off the side of the road, and struck a culvert.

Tfc. L.N. Smith, the arresting officer, reported the woman became violent due to extreme intoxication, and had to be subdued and handcuffed.

Southern Rescue Squad responded with the equipment truck, as well as the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

Ms. Jeter was lodged in the Garrett County jail.

An arrest was made on Monday by Tfc. W.W. Rice, for driving while intoxicated.

According to the report, Joseph Donald Boyd, 25, South Lynne, Conn., was traveling east on U.S. Rt. 48 near the West Virginia state line when he struck an auto driven by Laura Cox Moats, Casanova, W. Va.

The Boyd auto overturned upon impact. The driver was also charged with failure to stay in the proper traveling lane. Northern Rescue Squad, Friendsville V.F.D., and the Grantsville equipment truck responded. Boyd refused transport, however.

A Crellin man, Duane Clark Bolyard, was charged by police with illegal passing in a no-passing zone as the result of an accident Tuesday on Rt. 219 near Fourth St., Oakland.

According to police, a vehicle being driven by Alice Grace Brasland, Oakland, was attempting to make a left turn when her auto was struck on the left side by Bolyard, who was attempting to pass.

GRANTSVILLE HATS: THE LATEST RAGE — "I call them Grantsville Hats," the merchant said. Pictured above is Mrs. Elaine Paul who, with her husband, Leonard, offered an arts and crafts display at Grantsville Days, complete with the unique cloth hats pictured. Two other artists, William Edwards and George Menser, offered art displays, and local groups and individuals sponsored more than 25 booths at the event. One of the more popular attractions was the dunking booth, sponsored by the Grantsville Lions' Club. According to Gerry Beachy, Grantsville Days chairman, Police Chief Frank Wilkins "raised a good bit of money" for the Grantsville Lions Blind Prevention Program when he sat in the dunking booth. Beachy added that the Lions Club had a successful chicken barbecue, having sold almost 800 chicken halves.

Guardsmen Assist In SHS Project

Members of Company C, 121st Engineer Bn., Oakland, Maryland National Guard, are participating in a construction project underway at Southern High School, which consists of installing a baseball field and drainage system. Upon receiving approval from the Adjutant General of Maryland, Company C began working on the ball field during the June training assembly.

Company C has assigned two D-7E dozers and a John Deere backhoe to work on the site. All assigned operators in the Company are participating. The project is giving the heavy operators an "excellent training opportunity," according to LSG Donald M. Weeks, Sr., unit administrator. Pictured above is SSG John Hetrick, Oakland, operating one of the dozers.

The project consists of clearing and leveling the ball-field area and digging a drainage ditch around the ball field. It is under the direction of Ron Stemple, in coordination with the Garrett County Board of Education.

FSC's Bob Wells To Be Guest At Baseball Clinic

The special guest speaker at a two-day baseball clinic, sponsored by the Garrett Community College baseball program, will be Bob Wells, head baseball coach for Frostburg State College.

The purpose of the clinic, which will be held July 16 and 17 at Broadford Park near Oakland, is to introduce learning tips that will enable younger players to develop new skills and allow experienced players to improve their talents. Skill development will be taught in the area of batting, bunting, base running, fielding, throwing, pitching and catching, offensive and defensive strategy. There will also be a special coaches clinic held immediately following the player clinic each day.

Coach Wells, one of the most respected coaches in the East, has been named coach of the year several times. His 1972 Bobcat team played in the NAIA World Series in Arizona. He holds a 329-213 career record at FSC and, according to Phil Caruso, head coach at Garrett Community College, he is credited "for some of the most creative and inventive baseball around." Caruso said, "We are most fortunate to have an individual of Mr. Wells' calibre at this clinic and I'm sure the participants will not be disappointed."

The clinic will begin at 8:50 a.m. each day and will conclude at 4 p.m. for the players. The coaches clinic will be held from 4 to 5 p.m. Each participant should bring his or her own lunch.

The clinic will feature a special pitch, hit and run contest on Friday afternoon. Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place finishers in each of the following age groups: 8-9, 10-11, 12-13 and 14-15.

DNR Announces Recent Stockings

In a recent news release from the Maryland Wildlife Administration, it was noted that 6000 walleye were released in Deep Creek Lake, and 2,212 smallmouth bass were released in the Casselman River during the month of June.

Robert M. Davis, Chief of Warmwater Fisheries for the DNR said that all the fish released were in the fingerling size class and that the survival rate is expected to be good, certainly much better than the survival rate for the size known as fry.

Davis also said the growth and survival rates would be checked this summer in an ongoing monitoring program.

Fish have been seen at ocean depths of almost seven miles.

SELLING AT A LOSS

Nobody likes to sell their home at a loss, but it is not common nowadays when this happens. But, if this is your case, for whatever reason, here is some advice that might save you a lot of dollars.

Unfortunately, the loss sustained on a house sale ordinarily is not tax deductible. And the loss cannot be subtracted from the profit made on another house you owned and sold prior to the one you must sell at a loss.

However, the loss IS tax deductible if the house is sold as a business investment. Therefore, if you anticipate that you must sell at a loss, you might consider renting the house instead of selling it. Rent it in good faith for at least twelve months and later sell it at a loss and the loss can be deducted on your income tax return. It is treated like a loss from the sale of any other business property. While you rent the house, you can also benefit from other real estate tax benefits such as depreciation.

The SIMPLER LIFE

Food Reserves
An Important Investment.

It's not a new idea. In fact, it's a basic insurance need for your family. Inflation and possible scarcity make the idea of American families establishing their own food reserve very practical.

Why Food Storage?

The early pioneers of this nation always used times of abundance to prepare for times of scarcity or unavailability in their food supply. They were hardy and healthy because their diet consisted of whole, natural foods grown on fertile soil. We at Arrowhead Mills have designed The Simpler Life Reserve Food Storage program using the cleanest, finest natural foods available. We believe these times call for pioneer preparedness. An investment in good food which will store safely for years could be the best investment you ever make.

A food shortage?

It certainly is possible. Many Americans are waking up to the fact that this land of "surplus and plenty" is short in many areas on essential stockpiles and reserves of food. They realize we are living in unprecedented times, and are genuinely concerned in the face of growing worldwide food shortages and runaway inflation. They realize that strikes, riots, droughts, blackouts, snowstorms, floods, or any national disaster could quickly wipe out the small inventory of food currently stocked in supermarkets and in most homes.

Protect your family.

As a family secures fire, liability, health and life insurance to protect against possible disasters, food insurance is now becoming important for families and individuals alike. Protection against the projected inflation in food costs alone can justify investing now in The Simpler Life Reserve Food Program.

Ordinary canned foods have a very limited shelf life, and much of the nutritional value has been lost in the high heat canning processes. For current use, fresh fruits and garden vegetables are far superior. For storage against times of shortage, these superior quality foods, nitrogen packed, dry in rust-proof, enameled cans, will provide safe, nutritious eating when needed. A broad variety of delicious meals with simple instructions in the cookbooks available in the "A" Unit master case—that is what The Simpler Life is all about.

Questions and Answers about The Simpler Life Reserve Foods

How much should I store?

The ideal would be at least a one year food supply for each family member. The recommended minimum would be a six month supply for each member of your family.

Should my food reserve be stored for future use, or may some be eaten now?

The Simpler Life home units contain, in addition to grains, beans, seeds and nuts, delicious cheddar cheese (ready for a tasty pizza with the simple addition of water), shelled almonds, banana flakes, cereals, and many other great natural foods at very reasonable cost. Many families enjoy using this "reserve" in preparation of regular meals, and you should use the foods to get acquainted with them before an emergency. And did you know that an adult can eat for about $1.30 to $1.60 per day from our units? The food is delicious and preparation is convenient and easy. Most of our products are grown using natural science farming methods, without the use of herbicides or pesticides and all are free of preservatives or additives.

How long will Simpler Life Reserve Foods last?

Our use of the highest quality foods, nitrogen-packed in enameled cans by first-rate canning procedures, provides you with the finest possible nutritional value and the longest possible storage life when you select the Simpler Life Food Reserve Program. Grains, beans, and seeds should keep well for 20 years or more. The dehydrated, freeze-dried, and high-oil-content foods should be used within five to ten years.

Once you obtain a supply of Simpler Life storage foods, you can enhance their freshness and storage life by keeping them in the coolest and driest part of your house, basement, or garage.

How will my reserve foods be shipped?

All reserve units and non food products will be shipped freight collect by the best possible means available to your area. Delivery will take approximately 2 weeks after receipt of your certified check or money order. If personal check, an additional 7 to 10 days. (NOTE: The minimum order is one complete unit or 200 pounds.)

Why should I choose The Simpler Life Food Reserve?

The Simpler Life brand of reserve foods comes from Arrowhead Mills, a leading producer of nutritional food products for over 20 years. Arrowhead Mills distributes more than 250 different natural food products throughout the country under our reliable brand name Arrowhead Mills. The company's manufacturing, storage and processing facilities include more than 150,000 square feet, spread over 20 acres. These facilities make Arrowhead Mills one of the most complete and basic processors in the natural foods industry. So when you choose The Simpler Life Food Reserve, you can be confident that your family is protected by the finest program available in the world today.

what part you play," and she stated that the walk-in part was good for her as it kept her from developing a "star complex."

In the area of music, Miss Harden participated in three recitals coordinated by her voice teacher, Mary Ludeman. The recitals offered duets and solos, and the singers did everything from pop to Italian arias. She starred in "The Marriage of Figaro," an opera also produced by Ms. Ludeman. In that production Pamela played the part of Suzanna, the maid.

Having graduated from high school in 1980, Miss Harden was employed last summer by Kelli-grams Talented Tunes and Tappers, and she took part in a nationwide television commercial, filmed in Chicago, for that telegram service, dancing and singing the "jingle." As a messenger, Pamela carried a beeper with her and was on call at all times. She said the job was enjoyable, as people usually ordered the telegrams to embarrass people, which she said was "a lot of fun." She added that the subjects of embarrassment were also delighted with the telegrams.

Miss Harden just completed her freshman year at the University of New Mexico. She was introduced to the College of Fine Arts through Peter Prouse, actor and professor there, who is a friend of Pamela's family. Prouse heard a tape of Miss Harden's performance in "My Fair Lady," and he asked her to come to the school as a member of the Sophomore Acting Company.

That company produced four plays last year, three one-acts and a full-length drama, in which Miss Harden played the leading role. In that Pamela portrayed Rose Murrant in "Street Scene," by Elmer Rice. The determinist play is set in the 1920's in a New York slum, and the star "is the one family member who gets out at the end ... she is the hope," said Pamela. One of the smaller plays produced by that company was "The Bald Soprano," an absurdist comedy drama.

Through her work at the College of Fine Arts Pamela met, and studied voice under Gene Vell, Professor Emeritus and chairman of the Garrett County Playhouse, who requested that she join the Garrett County Acting Company. She arrived in Garrett County last Monday, accompanied by two other students from the University of New Mexico, to embark upon a week filled with persistent rehearsals.

Her first view of this area was from the window of an airplane. Having not had much time for exploring, Pamela's initial feeling for her summer place of residence is "beautiful and so fertile ... and very different from the flat lands of the mid-west."

Miss Harden will play the leading role of Penelope in this week's opening playhouse production of "Pool's Paradise," by Phillip King. The past week has involved additional rehearsals for the company to prepare for a presentation Monday night at the annual playhouse Benefit Dinner, held at Will O' the Wisp. In that presentation Pamela sang a number from "The Music Man."

In future endeavors Miss Harden hopes to transfer to Northwestern University next year, located near her home town, to continue majoring in theatre. She will continue dancing and singing, however, as she said she is "trying to cultivate everything," adding that, "In this business you can't specialize ... there are so many people with the same talents you have."

Pamela, who said she loves singing, acting and dancing equally, is ultimately working toward a part in a Broadway musical or television and film work. She is an actress who seems to really search for the feeling of all parts played. Miss Harden stated that in "Street Scene" she couldn't just "feel" poor, she had to literally "visualize rats and garbage" and what it might be like to be hungry. The actress noted that it is "sometimes hard not to take a part home with you ... but you can't all the time, in the interest of your sanity."

She stated that her three major talents are all different, yet all very similar in the way they must be approached. "You have to learn techniques that are very exacting ... you have to be very precise with all things," she noted.

In her many activities Miss Harden expends a tremendous amount of energy, as do all of the playhouse actors. She is careful to find time for adequate rest, however, and adequate exercise, both in the areas of dance and voice. Her "spare time" this summer could very well be spent in memorizing lines for the playhouse productions, exemplifying the hard work and dedication Pamela has so aptly displayed over the past several years.

HELP - WE NEED LISTINGS

Summer Is Time A Parent Can Help Child With Reading, Say Specialists

Summer is a great time for parents to help young children to become better readers, say reading specialists of the Maryland State Department of Education.

To help parents work with their children during the summer months the specialists offer the following tips:

1. A parent should encourage a child to start a summer reading club, with tee shirts, membership cards, and book exchange rules.
2. A parent should resolve to listen to his child read for fifteen minutes every day. To share the task, or if there comes a time when a parent simply can't do it, he should find a surrogate — a grandparent, a neighbor, a sibling. A child should understand that his parents consider this an important activity. And, of course, a parent should always praise good work.
3. A parent should be sure children have a library card. That summer afternoon when the complaint is that "I have nothing to do!" is just the time to visit the library.
4. Parents should not pass up those vacation-related reading opportunities: maps, guide books, historical markers, beach and swimming pool rules, restaurant menus. Read together on these occasions.

5. A parent should try to help a child understand, without being stuffy about it, that as high a standard of performance in the summer as during the school year is expected. That's particularly true of children with high potential, but all children should feel that their best is expected of them.

6. Rainy day games should be on hand that encourage vocabulary building, like word banks, scrabble, and password.

7. If the family is planning a trip, parents should visit the library with children to find out as much as possible about the place to be visited. That not only makes the trip more pleasant, but shows effectively how useful reading can be in day-to-day activities.

8. In some homes, summer is the time for building or canning or clothes-making. These are also times a parent should try to interest a child in reading and understanding the plans, the recipes, and the patterns. That kind of reading is usually not difficult, but it shows as almost nothing else can, that reading is a tool one must have in the world.

9. Lots of local libraries have storytime hours. Parents should find out when they are offered and take advantage of them. It's a good idea, too, to encourage a child to keep a simple diary of stories heard and read during the summer months. That's a book which may become a treasure in the years ahead.

10. Last, a parent should be a good role model. A dictionary, encyclopedia, maps, magazines, and books should be used freely this summer.

Reading specialists Joanne Carter, Marion Payne, and Frances Vernosky, say the opportunity to keep a youngster developing during the summer months is a golden one for parents. "We know that children tend to regress during the summer," says Ms. Carter, "but a little boost during the hot months can mean that the student is further along in reading on the Tuesday after Labor Day than he or she was on the last day of school in June."

Guardian Angels Wants To Bring "Citizens Involvement" To Balto.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Guardian Angels, the volunteer patrol group that started two years ago in New York City, wants to bring its brand of citizen police enforcement to Baltimore.

Lisa Evers, national coordinator for the group, said Tuesday (July 30) that she, the group's founder, will speak at the steps of City Hall Friday to launch a recruiting drive. Members of the Philadelphia chapter will join Silva at City Hall, Evers said.

Members of the group wear red berets and distinctive T-shirts and will start standing in doorways of subway trains and on station platforms in New York, trying to stop crime. Evers says there are no members in New York and about 1,100 nationally.

New York's Mayor Edward Koch once denounced the group as "vigilantes" but in New York City, Mayor John Lindsay encouraged the group as a "positive factor in the community."

Baltimore officials said they have no contact with the group and a police spokesman said, "It might not be a bad idea to contact us."

But the spokesman, Dennis Hill, said police had no objection, as long as this group operates within the law. "We have no objection to the group," Hill said.

Maryland Begins Selective Hiring

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Gov. Harry Hughes Tuesday ordered the state's largest employer to implement a selective hiring freeze in response to expected cuts in the level of federal aid to Maryland.

In a letter to Theodore Thornton, the personnel secretary, Hughes said hiring should be discontinued for any position that could be affected by federal budget cuts.

Hughes also instructed Thornton to set up a clearinghouse for finding jobs in various state agencies for employees who would otherwise be laid off.

Despite Tuesday's action and other moves designed to minimize the impact of cuts proposed to the Hogan administration, Hughes said 1,200 state employees still stand to lose their jobs.

Hughes also directed Thornton to work to ensure that laid-off employees get priority in the filling of any new vacancies.

And he said the state will not impose a heavier burden on minority group members in the lay-off process.

The University of Maryland was selected to help Thornton run the clearinghouse.

Runaway Truck NTSB Rules Driver's Failures Caused Frostburg Accident

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A truck crash in Frostburg, Md., that killed three persons and injured 33 was caused by the driver's failure to stop at brake-checking points and use low gears to reduce his speed, the National Transportation Safety Board ruled Tuesday.

The truck went out of control the night of Feb. 18 as it rolled down Big Savage Mountain. The truck careened through Frostburg, rammed into a row of parked cars and then crashed into a restaurant, where it tipped over and exploded.

The safety board also ruled that driver Robert Keyser, 37, of Angora, Ind., failed to properly use his service brakes to reduce his speed, thereby allowing the tractor-trailer to attach itself to a car.

The board, which is an arm of the U.S. Department of Transportation, rendered its finding without testimony from Keyser. Dunbar said Keyser, Deur and Direct Transit Lines, Inc. of Grand Rapids, Mich., the truck lessee, are awaiting trial in Allegany County on charges of manslaughter.

The board ruled that Keyser passed two brake checking stations where stopping is mandatory and several signs warning drivers to use low gears along a 2.7-mile stretch of eastbound U.S. Route 40 leading into Frostburg. That stretch of roadway down Big Savage has a vertical drop of 700 feet, Dunbar said.

Broadford Lake Receives Special Project Funds

Three additional Maryland counties have been approved during 1981 by the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) to receive Special Project funds to promote Clean Water.

Stuart C. Peterson, Acting Commissioner of the Maryland State ASCS Committee, said that the three counties are: Garrett, Calvert, and St. Mary's.

The three counties received a total of $50,000 to begin work on the project areas. This brings the number of Special Projects approved in Maryland to 11.

The 11 Project areas have been allocated $50,750 in cost-share monies.

Peterson noted that the purpose of these projects is to provide economic incentives to agricultural landowners in a specified area for the purpose of solving non-point water pollution. The areas considered are: Broadford Lake, Calvert County; and the Broadford Lake Watershed, Calvert County.

Problems... Problems

When a chuckle when they see a baby who seems to have the weight of the world on his shoulders. What can be possibly be thinking about that makes him seem so pensive?

His thoughts probably aren't very serious, for babies often strike delightful and comical poses that enliven the family photo album.

But babies grow up and become adults, with real problems and difficult decisions to make.

Don't forget, as your baby matures, to emphasize those things that will enable him to cope with his future. Don't forget love, discipline, understanding... and especially, don't forget his spiritual training.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

PROLONGING THE DAYS
July 12, 1981

Background Scripture:

Deuteronomy 31:15

Devotional Reading:

Jeremiah 17:25-28

From the long perspective of history we can see that it was the people of Israel who would possess the promised land of Canaan, but HOW LONG they would be able to stay there. God had promised this land to them and he would keep his promise, but for the people to retain this land, they would have to do certain things—and that's where the uncertainty lay. Their tenure in the promised land was never a question of God's faithfulness to his promise, but of Israel's faithfulness to theirs.

Your son and son's son

The people of Israel would continue to possess the promised land so long as they kept

"the statutes and the ordinances which the Lord your God commanded me to teach you..."

(Deut. 6:1). Therefore the key to their longevity there would depend, not only upon their faithfulness, but their diligence in passing on the faith to the generations that followed. Israel's perpetuity depended on a faith that passed from "you" to "your son and your son's son."

That is WHAT they had to do, but now we come to the hard part, the HOW. For isn't that the problem that still faces us today? How can we pass on our religious heritage to our children and the generations that will follow? Even more, how can we do this in an age when our children seem to have lost interest in our churches at best, or utterly reject them at worst? Isn't it a hopeless?

Someone has said that "there are no hopeless people who have become hopeless about them," and perhaps that's true when we face the "youth situation" in our churches today. In fact, Deuteronomy reminds us that the first step in meeting that challenge is to remember once again that we have a God-given commandment to pass on the faith to our children—no matter how hard or impossible it may seem. Personal, we can see that it was the people of Israel who would possess the promised land of Canaan, but HOW LONG they would be able to stay there. God had promised this land to them and he would keep his promise, but for the people to retain this land, they would have to do certain things—and that's where the uncertainty lay. Their tenure in the promised land was never a question of God's faithfulness to his promise, but of Israel's faithfulness to theirs.

upon your heart; and then teach them diligently when you sit at home, when you walk, when you lie down, and when you rise." (Deut. 6:7)

On Dourpous and Gates

At first glance, this seems an overblowing task, but when we look more closely, we find that the methodology of HOW is implicit in the challenge. How can we teach these things to our children? Answer: by keeping them constantly before them and surrounding them with them in every thing we do. Our children may come to that point where they are no longer impressed by our words, but if they see that our lives are filled, not with talk about God, but actions that proclaim his lordship, they will more likely respect the religion we profess and our days in the promised land will be prolonged.

There is an art to compounding medicines. It is true that the majority of prescriptions are prepared and just require careful selection, checking of dosage and prevention of dispensing errors. But we still have physicians who prefer us to compound their prescriptions to their exact individual formulas.

We keep up with the progress of pharmacy by studying all about new products. We still compound every day prescriptions for ointments, ointments and eye or skin preparations. We are called on less frequently to compound polyposts. We have this art and welcome these more difficult prescriptions.

Bad Checks Head District Docket

Garrett County District Court Judge Lewis R. Jones heard a variety of charges during the last ten days, and pronounced sentence on several defendants throughout the two sessions.

Heading the docket was a list of bad check charges against a former Mt. Lake Park resident, Joyce Marie Hinebaugh.

According to the file, Hinebaugh, 29, now living in Elliott City, wrote eight worthless checks totaling $223.45 to Ralph's Richfood store to purchase groceries and receive cash as change.

Judge Jones found the defendant guilty, and fined her $100 on each charge, plus court costs and restitution, adding to more than $1000.

In other court action, a Deer Park man, Kenny Wayne Pierce, 19, was found guilty of theft and storehouse breaking and entering involving a missing quantity of currency from the handbag of Pearl Massey, an employee of Par Matt Lines and the entrance of Highway Petroleum Company, Oakland.

According to the report, Pierce was found guilty of taking $50 from the purse of Massey while she was out of the business office of the howling establishment. The petroleum company was entered, but nothing was taken.

Jones sentenced Pierce to twelve months in jail, which he suspended, and placed him on 24 months supervised probation.

Brodak's Liquor Store brought charges of theft against Joseph Ralph Pyles, 41, Oakland, when a clerk observed the defendant put a bottle of liquor under his shirt while inside the store. Judge Jones found the defendant guilty. A pre-sentence investigation has been ordered.

A domestic dispute reported by Lillie Mae Beckman, 30, Swanton, resulted in her husband, Stephen Eugene Beckman, 36, being found guilty on charges of battery.

According to the complaint, she became involved in an argument with her husband, and he struck her and physically removed her from the home.

A pre-sentence investigation is underway.

Deputy Larry Gnegy brought charges of theft against David Wayne Welch, 19, Deer Park, stemming from an incident involving a stolen motorcycle.

According to the complaint, Welch stole a motorcycle, and attempted to sell it to a county police officer.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Two Grantsville women, Betty Jane Beitzel, 30, and Diana J. Wilt, 21, were charged by the Keyser-Ridge Truck Stop.

According to the reports, both women wrote checks for gasoline, and the checks were returned by the bank due to insufficient funds.

Judge Jones ordered probation before judgment.

In a separate incident, charges of battery were filed against Steven Joseph McGreevy, 26, Oakland, by Paul Douglas Thayer, Mt. Lake Park.

According to the complaint, McGreevy assaulted him in the presence of two law enforcement officers. Reasons for the attack were not given in the report.

Judge Jones ordered probation before judgment.

Karen Elaine McKenzie, 36, Frostburg, was found not guilty of assault charges brought against her by Dawn Michelle Fike, also of Frostburg.

David Allen Teter, 19, Terra Alta, W. Va., was found not guilty of charges of malicious destruction of property brought against him by Michael J. DeWitt, Mt. Lake Park.

BEE STINGS PREVENT THEM
Every year about 100 Americans die from bee stings and two million suffer strong allergic reactions. Actually, many persons who are susceptible to serious reactions don't know they are allergic.

Also, for reasons not fully understood, some people may have no reaction to one bee sting and then a violent reaction to a future sting.

Following are a few simple precautions which can help decrease your chances of being stung.

*Don't make quick movements or slap at bees.

*Keep your shoes on. Stings in the feet are very common.

*Be especially careful after rain because pollen is scarce at this time.

*Perfume, after-shave, antan oil, and sweat attract bees.

*Dark colored clothing seems not to attract bees because you don't look like a flower.

*If you get stung.

*Don't pull the stinger out; you will press the venom sac. Scrape the stinger away with your fingernail.

Dark secrets
Chad Everett heads the cast of a taut, suspenseful tale of intrigue and eerie events called "The Dark Secret of Black Bayou," now being filmed on location in Natchez, Miss.
The 19th century gothic mystery drama will be a two-hour motion picture for television to air next season on ABC. Everett plays the role of a macho Southern plantation owner whose past is shrouded in secrecy. Genevieve Bujold plays a young Northern heiress who marries him and goes South only to find herself facing people who are conjuring up diabolical plots against her. Anthony Andrews and Olivia Cole also star.

More Gothic ghosts
Another Gothic tale airs this week on CBS. Lindsay Wagner stars in "The Two Worlds of Jenny Logan," and her costars include Marc Singer, Alan Feinstein, a house and a dress.

The house and the dress are major elements in the mysterious transportation of Jennie Logan back and forth from 1979 to 1899. She must go back to Victorian times to change the course of history and save her true love. The Victorian mansion used in the filming was actually built in the early 1890s, but the $3,000 dress — three identical ones were made — was designed by modern-day designer Gordon Brockway.

"With those elegant surroundings and that lovely dress, it was easy to slip into Victorian times," says Miss Wagner.

Somers on fame
Some who have it can't handle it, others desperately want it and can't get it. What does Suzanne Somers think about fame?
"It's unreal. It's a very heady experience. It's great fun."

Young stars helping Matthew and Patrick Laborieux are trying to help youngsters who have not been as fortunate as they.
The two boys, stars of NBC's "Little House on the Prairie," who began life as orphans (they are not related by birth), were adopted by artist Ron Laborieux and his actress-wife, Frankie Matthews and Patrick have announced plans to initiate The Youth Rescue Fund Inc. to help runaway youngsters across the nation.

"We want to show our gratitude for the kind of home and parents that Pat and I have," says 14-year-old Matthew. "The best way to show how much we care is to try to help others who aren't lucky enough to have a home and parents like ours."

event is seen in "Beyond the Mainstream."

The program, originally aired in May 1980, also presents the choreographers' more recent works. Paxton's improvised "contact movement," which he describes as "communication through the skin," puts dancers through a series of rolling, sinuous motions in which contact between two or more dancers is maintained at all times. Ms. Brown, who earned fame by walking her dancers on the walls of the Whitney Museum in 1971, offers several recent dances, including "Glacial Decoy," the costumes and set for "Decoy" were designed by Rauschenberg.

Gordon's "Chair" features two dancers, a set of blue folding chairs and no music as the dance explores the absolute limitations of an object most of us use every day without ever stopping to consider it.
"I think I am a re-inventor," Gordon says. "I don't think there is anything left to invent. There are only new combinations of things and a new way of looking at something, and a new way of showing somebody else how to look at something. That's a kind of re-invention."

The program leaps from the modern functionality of "Chair" to the timeless, threatening bleakness of Ms. Takei's stone littered "Light 12," and then to the opposite end of the spectrum — the rhythmic, repetitive and almost ecstatic "Dance of Ms. Dean. For dance devotees and novice alike, "Beyond the Mainstream" is a look at dance in the past two decades, and a glimpse of the directions the art may take in decades to come.

Paxton, Ms. Rainer, Ms. Brown and Gordon were members in the '70s of the troupe "Grand Union." Improvisation was an essential part of their approach. A film clip of a 1972 "Grand Union"

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Crew
SEXY SAM — I saw Sam Elliott in "Murder in Texas." I think he is a marvelous actor. What else has he starred in? Where can I write to him? Is he married? — Jo Anne Solissa, Oxnard, Calif.
Sam, and we'll get to the important part first, is not married. A loner and a very nice guy, he had a semi-regular role in "Mission: Impossible" at the end of that series' run. He has appeared in "Wild Times," "The Sacketts," the mini-series "Aspen," "Once an Eagle" and the film "Lifeguard," which won him critical praise. He is currently filming a TV movie called "The Ambush Murders."
He was born in Sacramento. His father was with the Department of Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service and Sam learned to love the outdoors on trips with his father. Write to him in care of his press agent, Exma Chandless, 9821 Melrose Avenue, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

Robin Williams

BOBBIN' ROBIN — I would like to know how old Robin Williams is and if he is married? — Clarence Thomas, Gary, Ind.
Robin was born in Chicago on July 21, 1952. He is married to dancer Valerie Valardi and they live with a malamute dog, a parrot, several lizards, two goats and a flock of chickens.

WHICH SOAP — Was Audra Lindley ever on the old soap "Young Doctor Malone"? — Barbara Coronato, Corpus Christi, Texas
She is not listed among the regulars who appeared on that show. However, she did play Liz Matthews on "Another World" in 1964.

Reagan's jelly beans; Fell on Dickinson show

By Cindy Adams
NEW YORK — President Reagan's baker stuffed chopped jelly beans into his cakes. Norman Fell's guarantee on the upcoming "Aggie Dickinson" show is $200,000 for the first year. Listen, even bank robbers can't be sure of that much. George Steinbrenner is mixing a dozen offers for his life story. "Not the right time yet," Steinbrenner told me.

James Caan

From James Caan: "Never hit a man when he's down. Point is, the guy may get up." Maureen Stapleton, who doesn't fly, sighs, "I get sick when I lick an animal stamp." A Paul Newmanism: "You're getting old when the gleam in your eyes is from the sun hitting your contact lenses."

Lowell Thomas' note says he and the missus, Marianna, are off to Hong Kong and downtown Istanbul this summer. A note from Molly Picon, filled with all kinds of love, states that this "joyful, exuberant performer" is about to receive the Abram I. Sachar award. Eli Wallach's note says that he and the missus, Ann Jackson, are in rehearsal with a new one-act play to be performed in East Hampton this summer.

Hope Lange, Sandy Dennis, Jack Gifford, Betty Garrett and Joyce Van Patten are rehearsing George Furth's new comedy, "The Supporting Cast" for Aug. 3 Broadway opening. Hollywood stars take a chance on the stage

By Ruth Thompson

The lure of the greasepaint and dreams of rousing applause annually lure dozens of Hollywood's movie and television personalities to live theater. Why?

Are they risking their established reputations? For most, no. They were trained in the theater, got their starts there and don't want their well-developed vocal projection to diminish. Two who did gamble big, however, and came out winners, are Rock Hudson and Elizabeth Taylor, whose careers both developed entirely on-camera.

It was Carol Burnett who persuaded Rock Hudson to co-star with her six or so years ago in a West Coast stage show that ran for six weeks. Since then, he has become a major box office draw around the country as the star of such demanding, acting-singing roles as King Arthur in "Camelot." (Now that he's proven he can do it, however, Hudson returns to television this fall starring as a sleuth for NBC.)

The betting was against Elizabeth Taylor or making good on stage when she headed for Broadway as the manipulative Regina in a revival of Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes." But as viewers of the recent Tony Awards telecast discovered, the lady who has been called the last of the great movie stars was nominated, in her first Broadway play ever, as one of the five best dramatic actresses of the year.

Because of their superstar brackets, though, it's suspected that their stage triumphs cost both Hudson and Taylor some income.

That's not always the case, however, as Ricardo Montalban told us. Until he became the star of "Fantasy Island," Montalban found that getting guest star billing on television specials three or four times a year just wasn't enough to keep up his stately home and pay for his children's schooling.

"Only in a series do you have real security," he says. "Producers, fearing over-

Cherry Glade Church To Host Musical Group

The Choralers, a musical group from Lancaster, Pa., will be presenting a program of music and drama at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church on Sunday, July 12, at 7:30 p.m.

This group of 17 young men and women presents a Christian witness through a varied program of a cappella and instrumental numbers, combining Biblical truths with modern day relevance.

In addition to year-round weekend appearances in the Eastern United States, the group has travelled into all of the United States, with emphasis on a National Park ministry in the summer months. In addition, yearly tours have taken them into Central America, as well as Jamaica and Puerto Rico.

The members and their director, Arnold Moshier and his wife, Maletta, volunteer their time for this ministry. Moshier is also professor of music at Lancaster Mennonite School, Lancaster, and Mrs. Moshier is a full-time nurse at a local hospital.

Elmer H. Maust, pastor, invites the public.

Potomac Edison Offers Program On Conservation

The Potomac Edison Company is launching a new energy conservation program offering individual home energy audits designed to reduce residential customers' use of energy, according to a PE news release.

Any residential customer of Potomac Edison is eligible for an energy audit according to G.P. Bohn, PE's director of customer services. Two types of audits are being offered: a complete in-home audit by a PE representative, or a mail-in audit which provides an analysis of information furnished by the customer.

Specially trained company personnel will analyze a dwelling and its energy use and recommend measures to reduce energy consumption and costs," Bohn said. "The audit report will include recommendations for energy saving measures and their estimated cost, as well as an estimate of the cost savings in energy use."

Details of the new home energy audit service, including how to arrange for an audit, are being mailed to all PE residential customers in Maryland and West Virginia. The program was developed by PE in cooperation with state energy officials in accordance with the National Energy Conservation Policy Act, according to the utility official. Other large electric and gas utilities are offering similar energy audit programs.

"Customers who adopt conservation measures recommended by these audits save energy and money," said Bohn, "and also may be eligible for additional savings through income tax credits."

Bohn also cautioned customers to make certain only authorized representatives of Potomac Edison perform in-home audits. "All of our auditors have received special training and carry identification as Potomac Edison employees," Bohn stated.

Audits will be done by advance appointment only. If the customer has any doubt about the person calling on them, or if they have any questions about the audit itself, we urge them to call the nearest PE office for verification."

Retires After 35 Years With Potomac Edison

Carl H. Wolfe, lead lineman and temporary foreman, operating for Potomac Edison in Oakland, retired July 1. He ends a career of more than 35 years of service with the utility.

Wolfe was employed in 1946 by the Monongahela Power Company. He transferred to Potomac Edison as a lineman first class, leader in 1974 when Potomac Edison acquired the Oakland territory from Monongahela Power. In July of 1974, Wolfe was named a lead lineman. He became lead lineman and temporary foreman, operating in 1975.

Who say
A Floor without a Rug is like a Kiss without a Hug

THE NEED FOR A GOOD HIDING PLACE

may be the reason some people purchase carpeting but the typical carpet buyer has a few more practical reasons. Like the luxurious look it adds to any room. Or the fact that it serves as an insulator against the cold. Lots of people choose carpeting because it feels soft and cushiony underneath.

Looking At Antiques With The Country Boy

by Dave Bowman

DEPRESSION GLASS

It was not too many years ago that one could go to any auction and pick up what is known as a "junk box" of merchandise and find one or two pieces of depression glass in that box. Not any more! Collectors are now paying upwards to $350.00 for a pitcher in the Parrot pattern and even higher prices for pieces that are considered rare.

Depression glass was made primarily during the years known as the Depression and was inexpensive because it was made in such great quantity. You will find depression glass in many different colors such as pink, blue, green, white, yellow, amber and clear. Pink and green are very collectible and such patterns as Cherry Blossom and American Sweetheart are sought after by many collectors.

If you plan to collect depression glass, always make sure it is perfect with no chips, cracks or flakes and try to find the rare pieces as they will increase in value more quickly.

We are always interested in buying good antiques — one piece or a houseful.

Solar Currents

Currents moving east and west have been identified and measured at the solar surface. These currents have been studied at Mount Wilson Observatory during the past 12 years. Locations of heaviest sunspot activity and the 11-year solar cycle seem directly related to the currents. Every 11 years, a fast current begins at the solar pole and over 22 years it migrates to the solar equator. A slow current is associated with the fast one. Between the currents, the region of heaviest sunspot activity has been observed. It migrates with the currents toward the solar equator.

Moon
Tonight, the Moon will pass through its First Quarter phase at 10:39 p.m. Moonset will be 47 minutes past midnight tomorrow morning. Next Tuesday morning, the Moon will set at 3:55.

Visible Planets
Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn will be visible during the coming week. Mercury will be very low in the east just prior to sunrise. Venus will be among the stars of Cancer, low in the west for a short time after sunset. Mars rises with the stars of Taurus about 2 hours before the Sun rises. Jupiter and Saturn set about 3 hours after sunset as will the stars of Virgo.

Daylight Decreases
By next Tuesday, there will be six minutes less daylight than there will be today. Sunrise was at 5:58 this morning.

THE BATTLE OF THE BARREL was held during the Fourth of July Old Fashioned Family Picnic on Saturday at Broadford Park between the Oakland and Deer Park volunteer fire departments. The members of the Oakland team gained sweet revenge over their Deer Park counterparts, after having been practically whitewashed by the Deer Park team last year. The event involves using a stream of water under a specific pressure and through a one and a half inch hose to push a 16 gallon metal drum suspended on a cable. Oakland won the competition. 7-4. Pictured above, left to right, front row, are Oakland team members Joe Ashby, Jim Crabtree, Phil Rook, Jim Rook, Joe Helbig and Milton Fike. In the second row, same order, are Buzz Undyke, Smokey Stanton, Tom Powers, Denny Murray, Mark Durst, Ken Richmond, John Feather and Doug Reckart. At right, the Oakland team seriously engages in a match and below, having their victory secured, "cools off" their opponents and numerous bystanders.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of Edna Collins who passed away July 10th, 1977. What would we give if we could say, Guess we will go see her today. To hear her voice and to see her smile just sit and talk to her while. To be together in the same old way, would be our dearest wish today. With the days are sad and lonely and everything goes wrong. We seem to hear you whisper cheer up and carry on. Each time we see your picture, you seem to smile and say "Don't cry I'm only sleeping, we'll meet again some day."

Sadly missed by Freda, Betty and Junior

Grantsville Library Provides "Down Home" Service To Community

by Kathy Bailey

"We accept packages for the neighbors," said Maxine Broadwater, librarian, "the heaviest one being a grave stone for the funeral home. We agreed to accept graciously, as long as the body wasn't with it. We also babysit 'Johnny' while mother goes up the street."

Workers at the Grantsville Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library go beyond the realm of library patron service and strive to meet special needs of town citizens by providing a service to the public," as Mrs. Broadwater states. That branch library is the focus of a window exhibit currently on display at the Ruth Enlow Library main office in Oakland.

The Oakland library will feature each of its branch libraries in window displays throughout the summer months. Points of interest and special summer activities of each branch's home town will also be featured.

The Grantsville Branch was established April 19, 1959, through federal funds, according to Mrs. Broadwater. The branch first opened in part of the Broadwater Store Building, with the other part serving as a restaurant and lounge.

In 1967 the Grantsville library relocated in the former Liberty Trust Bank, once the First State Bank founded in 1910. That building, located on Main Street below the Newman Funeral Home, is still used by the library today. The building was donated for library use by Denton Fuller and the bank's Board of Directors.

As the building was designed for bank use, Mrs. Broadwater noted that "I imagine we are the only library in the state with a bullet-proof glass drive-up window." She said the building's design has some advantages, however, commenting that the magazines are kept in the old bank vault.

Through the assistance of the Garrett County Commissioners, contributions from the surrounding area and "Benny the Bookworm" of WFKB radio, the Grantsville branch acquired the funds needed to develop the library, growing from a yearly circulation in 1969-70 of 9,653, to 21,215 in 1977-78.

Today the Grantsville library offers magazines, records, cassette tapes and audiovisual equipment such as 16mm and 8mm slide and film projectors plus materials to be used with the equipment. The branch participates in an inter-library loan program and can obtain additional materials upon request from the main library in Oakland.

In providing "a service to the public" Mrs. Broadwater stated that she and her co-worker Mrs. Neva Georg have received calls from people wanting to know if the town beauty shop is open, if the lights are on in the laundromat, and inquiring as to the hours of operation of the barber shop across the street. One customer called and requested that a library staff member go to Yoder's Locker Plant, purchase some homemade bread and put it on the bus to the Hagerstown Library, she added.

The librarians at the Grantsville branch aid patrons in finding specialized reading materials. Mrs. Broadwater noted that, "at times the patron is confused about a title. I once received a note asking for the book 'Catch Her in the Rye.'"

"Another patron sent her husband in, asking for the series of books by Jakes," she said, "They were all on the shelf but the first one in the series entitled 'The Bastard'. I handed the other few books to my patron and said, when 'The Bastard' comes back in I will call you. Well, you can imagine his surprise and my embarrassment, until I could explain that it really was the title of the book."

Mrs. Broadwater's most recent endeavor to serve the library's patrons was to accompany visitors from Potomac to the old cemeteries in the Grantsville area seeking genealogical information.

The Grantsville Branch library is open Monday through Thursday, closed Friday, and is open on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Weekday hours are 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., with evening hours on Mondays, 7 to 9 p.m. For more information, another loaf of bread, or the hours of the local laundromat, persons should contact Mrs. Broadwater at 899-2298.

THE Four Seasons
AT WILL O' The WISP DEEP CREEK LAKE

"Water, water everywhere," the complaint of Coleridge's Ancient Mariner, seems to be echoed by The Rev. Martin Feild as he lifts his hands in supplication just before going down into the drink. Father Feild, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland, was one of 16 willing victims of the "celebrity dunk" at the July Fourth Old Fashioned Family Picnic held last Saturday at Broadford Park. Unlike his protege, Father Feild's watery doom was short lived, though like the poet's imaginary character, he lived to tell about it again and again, and again.

assessed property valuation shall be eligible for such credit. In large tracts of land, credit will be limited to the amount of land necessary for the dwelling and does not include excess acreage. Any metropolitan or fixed charges which may appear on the bill are not eligible for credit. Persons who have questions about the property tax credit program or the application form should contact the central office of the Homeowners' Tax Credit Program in the State Department of Assessments and Taxation office by calling 1-800-492-3790.

APPROXIMATELY 130 QUILTS were very carefully scrutinized by the keen eyes of women adept at quilting at the Third Annual Quilt Show held last weekend at the Grantsville Fire Hall, co-sponsored by the Schoolhouse Quilters Guild, the Maryland Arts Council, the Garrett County Arts Council, and Penn Alps. Approximately 1600 people attended the show to view the wide variety of colorful quilts exhibited on hanging racks. Prize winners of that event will be announced in next week's edition of The Republican. The Quilt Show also offered the Schoolhouse Quilters Guild boutique, featuring handcrafted items for sale by Guild members.

LIFELIKE PAINTINGS by Edna Bender, Accident, pictured left, were among the many works displayed by artists and craftspeople primarily from the tri-state area at the Fourth Annual Penn Alps Summerfest. The event was held last weekend by the Maryland Arts Council, the Garrett County Arts Council and Penn Alps. The festival featured craft demonstrations Thursday through Saturday by approximately 42 craftspeople. Nearly 2000 spectators turned out to examine the wares displayed in rustic structures on the Penn Alps grounds, and to purchase handmade items.

Drinking Driver Five Charged With Arrests Noted Disturbance At County 4-H Camp

In a continuing effort to decrease the incidents of drinking driver related vehicle accidents, the Maryland State Police, Garrett County detachment, has launched an all-out effort to locate and arrest those persons operating vehicles while under the influence of alcohol in the county.

Since July 1, a total of 12 arrests have been made by local troopers, resulting in charges of driving while intoxicated. A list of those apprehended and charged will be published each week.

Those arrested since July 1 include Michael Wayne Stowell, Oakland; Harry Elmer Hoover, Accident; Matthew Wayne Hovenac, 23, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Arnold Baluch, 30, Addison, Pa.; James M. Michaels, 57, Pittsburgh; Jon Leuschner, 21, Clarion, Pa.; Joseph D. Boyd, South Lane, Conn.; and Sharon Jeter, 27, Driggs, Idaho.

Those arrested with no listed address include James Martin Willis, 26; Eugene Herrmann, Jr., 38; Chris David McDonald, 21; and Rodney Jay Uphold, 18.

Those troopers making the arrests were Tfc. Chester Miller, Tfc. L. N. Smith, Tfc. J. W. Michaels, Tfc. Dale Williams, Tfc. W. W. Rice, and Tfc. Carl Skidmore.

State Police Levy Various Charges

Maryland State Police report a variety of investigations, including charges of driving while intoxicated.

A Terra Alta man, Chris David McDonald, 21, was arrested and charged by MSP following an incident in the parking lot of Wynlins Edge restaurant near Deep Creek Lake.

According to the report, McDonald backed his vehicle into one owned by Crystal Lynn Nealis, 20, Westport, which was legally parked in the restaurant area.

McDonald was charged with driving while under the influence and illegal back-up procedures.

A three-vehicle accident on Thursday caused property damage but avoided serious injury to three county residents.

According to police, Alvin Roger Beeman, 17, Deer Park, was eastbound on Rt. 135 and was attempting to make a left turn onto the Oakland-Deer Park Road when he failed to grant the right of way to an auto being driven by Douglas Eugene Frazee, 20, Friendsville. The Frazee auto then hit Beeman's car, causing it to cross the highway and strike a third vehicle being driven by Delmar Lynn Rodcheaver, 24, Crellin-Underwood Road, which was stopped at the stop sign on the Oakland-Deer Park Road.

Beeman was charged by MSP with making an illegal left turn. A Fredericksburg, Va., man struck a highway marker on U.S. Rt. 48 near Pig's Ear Road when he reportedly fell asleep and ran off the highway.

According to police, Robert Allen Loudon, 58, was traveling west when he fell asleep at the wheel, ran off the roadway, struck the marker, returned to the highway, and lost control of the vehicle. The car then ran off the road, striking the embankment.

Loudon was charged with negligent driving.

Men Sentenced On Charges of Theft And Child Abuse

Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer passed sentence last week on David Patrick Shaffer, 23, Mt. Lake Park, following a plea of guilty to charges of theft.

According to the report, Shaffer removed a 1980 Chevrolet pick-up truck from the parking lot of Garrett National Bank on February 25, and drove the vehicle from Maryland to Thomas County, Kansas, where he was arrested. Shaffer had purchased the vehicle, financing it through the local bank, and had made one payment on the loan. Because of the payment default, the bank repossessed the truck, and had parked it in the lot for resale.

Shaffer was lodged in the Garrett County jail on March 3, where he remained until the sentencing. Thayer levied an 18-month jail term, which he suspended except for the time served while awaiting trial, fined the defendant $200 plus court costs, and placed him on supervised probation.

In other court action, William Walter Fike, Jr., 29, Oakland, was sentenced to three years with the Department of Correction on a charge of child abuse.

According to the report, Fike admitted beating his three-month-old baby girl, then taking her to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment. He reported to hospital officials that the child must have injured herself in her crib, but police were notified by

It's Our Back Yard . . .

"With persistence and a little luck Baltimore city may yet get a start on shipping 730,000 tons of unwanted sludge to Western Maryland for use as fertilizer in revegetating old surface coal mines."

Perhaps it is just Garrett County hardheadedness, but to this editor there seems to be an air of smugness encircling the above statement which appeared in an editorial in Saturday's Baltimore Sun. It's interesting that the writer used the word "unwanted" in describing the sludge from Baltimore's viewpoint, without even considering that it may be just as unwanted here in Garrett County. While much of the data indicates that this material is harmless, one has to wonder what the long-range effects might be and why we should even take a chance if we don't have to. Suppose some day the metallic substances in this sludge leach out and contaminate our streams and rivers. Scientists are discovering something new almost every day that contributes to various forms of cancer, for example.

The editorial went on to point out that the Land Reclamation Committee, which turned down granting a permit, will "have to be more cooperative . . . before the trucks begin moving." It called the decision by the Committee "an unfortunate turn of events." It stated "Modern Earthline believes sludge . . . could work to everyone's advantage," (particularly to Modern Earthline's, which stands to make millions of dollars on the project).

The writer said that local and state health officials had "no objections" to the Grantsville 20-acre project, failing to point out that, while there were no objections, the stipulation was made that the maximum allowable amount of sludge be reduced from 50 to 11 tons per acre. This stipulation upset a representative of Modern Earthlines to the point that he was seen waving a fist at a representative of the Garrett County Health Department at the meeting of the Land Reclamation Committee Monday.

We also learned this morning that the Garrett County commissioners have instructed the county's legal counsel to send a letter to Modern Earthlines stating that the project will not be approved without a public hearing.

Perhaps the experts are correct. Perhaps the sludge is harmless and, in fact, beneficial. But it is our own backyard and they are dealing with and we have a right to have reservations and we deserve clear, concise answers to a lot of questions.

Come In, Strangers . . .

by Carol Kappel

The service was simple, the congregation small, and the sanctuary plain in design, but God's presence was clearly evident to the visitors.

A few familiar items held out a hand of welcome, as did the members, who offered smiles and warm handshakes.

The universal language of worship was a part of the experience and the guitar music offered a new appreciation for the organ back home, but the warmth was as open as the parish doors for the tourists, in search of communion with the Heavenly Father.

The sermon for children left time for observing the rapport between pastor and youth, and offered reflections of one's own childhood sermon experiences of long ago.

The words of the Scripture seemed to reflect a new meaning as sun streamed through the simple, but tasteful glass windows. Silent votive candles, awaiting a spark, moved one to visualize a darkened chapel enhanced only by flame on another occasion, perhaps in the future.

Words of invitation to join again for worship left with the strangers, and a feeling of spiritual joy also went away with them. The church could have been anywhere, the people, God's people, could have been from anywhere, but the beauty of the gift of God was everywhere, and made the visitors rejoice in their decision to worship that Lord's Day.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

When I wrote a letter to the editor some time ago, I was completely unaware of the magnitude of the project proposed by Modern Earthline Company.

Now I find that there are 730,000 tons of unwanted poisonous concentrate awaiting transfer to Garrett County. This represents something over $20,000,000 to Modern Earthline Company.

I describe this material as a poisonous concentrate because it represents a concentrated residue of absolutely everything that goes down every private, public, commercial, industrial and scientific sewerage drain in Baltimore City. It contains literally thousands of chemicals, poisons, and toxins defying description and analysis.

Why should our Garrett County Health Officials have to prove this substance harmful when such analysis poses a physical and chemical impossibility? The very composition and concentration of this material should speak for itself to any prudent person.

Sir, I understand there are tremendous political pressures being exerted on our county public officials by State and Baltimore City officials I think it is time for the citizens of Garrett County to unite and fight this fruitless threat. I think we should pressure and support our elected and public officials until they understand how we feel about our streams, even if it means litigation.

Sincerely yours,
J. Alvarez

Dear Garrett Countians,

If you screamed when you opened your present tax bill, just wait until you get your tax bill increase to repair the damage to our county roads caused by the Baltimore sludgehaulers. According to the Cumberland News, Modern Earthline Hauling Company will make $500,000 just on the pilot project. Just imagine how rich they will be when the project is completed. We will be left with torn up roads, ruined land, and an uncertain future for our families because of contaminated water supplies.

Pressure is being applied right now to sway county officials in their direction. If you are concerned for the future of Garrett County, I urge you to let the commissioners know your feelings. They are supposed to do the will of the people and we will know shortly how they really feel by the way they vote on this sludgehauling matter. They should go on radio and let the people know how they feel personally, and their decision should influence our next vote.

Don't forget, RE-ELECTION is the name of the game.

Barbara Ward

Editor,

I was really shocked when I heard the bad news of the departure of Dr. Terrence Thomas and family. Every time I think about it I realize we're not only losing a tremendous doctor, but we're also losing a very close-knit family which has been nothing but super to the community.

For the past 12 years, Dr.

Thomas has contributed his time to be the team physician for Southern High School athletes. Whether it be a home event or an away encounter it would be very easy to find him in the stands. It also didn't matter what sport—football, basketball, or baseball.

By being a high school coach myself, I can really appreciate all the time and outstanding efforts put forth by Dr. Thomas. If it were at all possible, I would like to find some way to keep this family in the Oakland area. I'm sure many people feel the same way I do. Not only could we keep the excellent services of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas, but we would also keep the five kids who make up the super seven.

J. B.

Dear Editor,

I hope my letter will prevent a tragedy. After reading in the July 1st issue of The Republican on the condition of the Glendale Bridge and then hearing on July 8 over WFRB that the county commissioners have not closed down the bridge after being declared unsafe is quite a shock.

I think it very irresponsible of our commissioners to allow the bridge to be open. It's like sending a person out in a car that you know has bad brakes.

It would seem that the commissioners don't care about the lives of residents and non-residents. This bridge is used to get to Deep Creek Lake State Park.

Does the dollar mean more to them than lives of people? It would seem so. What are they waiting for, a tragedy and lawsuit, or both, to strike before acting? Is this any way to treat tourists and residents? I would hate to think what would happen if it were the Deep Creek Lake Bridge they were acting on. If it were, would they act this slowly?

How can a six-ton weight restriction help when the bridge has been declared unsafe?

It seems it takes tragedy to get action. I hope not in this case. This is one time if our commissioners have a heart they can prevent tragedy before it happens.

Sincerely,
Viola Oester

Editor,

By passing a resolution to issue seven hundred thousand dollars of additional county bonds to accommodate the Wood Products Company, our county commissioners have once again demonstrated their total incompetence.

Money from the sale of the bonds will be used to enable the Wood Products Company to buy a furnace and establish a lumber drying kiln at their lumber plant in Oakland.

This company started a lumber manufacturing plant about 10 years ago. At that time they were granted exemption from paying county taxes in order to help them get started.

Now, however, they are asking the county commissioners to bond us all in order to accommodate them with a loan to finance their adventure.

Any lumberman knows that a lumber drying kiln is by no means a sure fire profitable business. Once such a venture fails the drying kiln would no longer be an asset.

Perhaps that is why the bank will not make the loan unless the taxpayers will underwrite the venture by permitting bonds secured by the county to be issued.

I am in favor of any private business that can stand on its own feet, but any business that has to be financed by our taxpayers is a liability, not an asset. Under no circumstance should our already overburdened citizens and taxpayers be stuck with this additional debt. It cannot contribute anything to the general welfare of our people.

The resolution by our county commissioners should be rescinded. Unless this is done, a suit should be filed to stop the sale of the bonds.

Sludge

At the earlier meeting, the committee voted 5-3 in favor of the project but because a majority vote of seven in the 13-member committee (one member resigned and has not been replaced) was needed, the proposal failed. Brawl Mining, the applicant to the committee for the project, requested a meeting to reconsider the project.

One of reasons for voting against the project was that the storage of sludge at the demonstration site had been inadequately addressed. A Modern Earthline spokesman said the sludge would be stored at the site no longer than 24 hours and what was stored at the site would be surrounded by a berm which could withstand severe rainstorms.

Dr. William Pope, county health officer, told the committee that although the long-range effects of sludge used on soil and future knowledge of substances harmful to humans is now unknown, his department could find no scientific reason for denying a permit to Modern Earthline.

Citizens who spoke against the project questioned the long-range effects of the heavy metals in the sludge, the guarantee that the landowner would maintain the soil at required pH levels and the plans Modern Earthline might have for more projects in the county if the demonstration project is approved.

Chairman Dr. Kenneth Weaver noted the committee did not have the authority to consider health factors in its decision, even though discussion of health risks dominated the meeting.

Reportedly, political pressure from Baltimore City has been placed on the Department of Natural Resources which has representatives on the Land Reclamation Committee and on health department officials, but DNR and state health officials deny such pressure exists.

The purchase of land for the Garrett County Industrial Park, containing four businesses and Wood Products, Inc., came about through the chamber's efforts, and the chamber worked in cooperation with the Garrett County Development Corporation in getting the Bausch & Lomb plant here in Garrett County, Rudy added.

Rudy also serves with the Oakland Downtown Development Corporation, and he is president of the Deep Creek Small Business Development Company, an entity which is used to obtain Small Business Administration loans for community projects.

He said two projects which developed through that area are the Wisp Ski Area and the Village Inn.

Newest Preschool Program is Slated

Increased knowledge and interest in the life and well being of young children is reflected in a gratifying growth of early childhood education programs in Maryland, and Garrett County is no exception, according to Charlene Evans Thomas, Instructional Supervisor.

The second pre-kindergarten all-day program designed to serve four-year-old students is scheduled to begin at the Friendsville Elementary School with the fall term.

The program follows the philosophy and goals developed by the Maryland public school system to implement early childhood education.

The Maryland General Assembly appropriated funds through the State Department of Education, making possible the extension of the program to a limited number of four-year-olds throughout the state.

The Friendsville program will include reading readiness activities; math readiness activities; writing, art, music, and physical education.

In addition, the children will participate in breakfast, lunch, and snack periods, as well as an afternoon nap. Transportation will be provided by county school bus.

Registration dates at Friendsville School for interested parents are Tuesday, July 21, and Tuesday, August 4, from noon until 3 p.m.

Persons seeking further information may contact Charlene Evans Thomas at the Garrett County Board of Education, 334-B21, or Jane Fox, principal, Friendsville Elementary School, at 746-3319.

The program was successfully in effect at the Kitzmiller Elementary School during the 1980-81 school term, and will continue in the upcoming year.

Second Impression Clams 1. Humans 0

by Harry Fox

The first sign that something was wrong was a headache. A slight, nagging pain in the eye, but nothing to worry about. On the way back to the car from the little store where I bought some aspirin, I began to wonder if I'd eaten something bad for lunch.

I didn't have to wonder for long. The fried clams, served within sight of the ocean in Southwest Harbor, Mt. Desert Island, Maine, were one of the highlights of the trip. It was a perfectly beautiful day, and the warm sunlight blended with the sea breezes as we left the restaurant and drove through Acadia National Park. Less than an hour later, just enough time to drive to the other side of the island, the savory delicacies from Neptune's kingdom began to plot their revenge on the hapless vacationer.

No one who has escaped this worst of food poisonings can begin to imagine what it feels like. Death seems a real possibility. After several bouts of flushing the offending bivalves from your system it almost spells R-E-L-I-E-F. Nausea. Chills. Profuse sweating. In your heart, you know you wish that you'd stayed home where seafood is frozen and no one knows when the tide turns.

I like to think that I'm a pretty good actor, but I wasn't fooling anyone. "I'm really feeling much better," I said through clenched teeth. "Sure you are. That's why the steering wheel slips through your hands from the sweat." Finally I gave in and steered the car to the side of the road near a lobster pound. As I lurched from the driver's seat, I uttered those famous last words, "Take me to the hospital."

"All it takes is one bad clam," I suppose the doctor's words were meant to assuage the embarrassment when a half-ounce critter falls a full-grown man. It teaches a lesson in humility. All I wanted to do was to fall asleep. The nausea wrings out every last drop of energy before it subsides.

One observation, how pleasant to be hundreds of miles from home and discover that strangers care. The staff of the Maine Coast Memorial Medical Center in Ellsworth offered everything an emergency room can do to make that sort of experience less traumatic. The help offered by the doctors and staff, not to mention the other persons who learned of the problem, is one of the best memories of the vacation.

The little things done for visitors often form their opinion of a vacation area, and may be a part of the decision to come back again. That's something to remember when our visitors to the Mountaintop need a helping hand.

Perhaps my newly discovered friends couldn't even the score, but they helped me to rally for a comeback. As for the clams, I don't think I'll look one in the eye for a long time.

Judge Jones Hears Various Charges

District Court Judge Lewis R. Jones heard several cases during the July 6 session, including charges of theft, assault and battery, and destruction of property.

Gary Beitzel, 33, Grantsville, was fined $50 plus court costs on a charge of wanton trespassing, stemming from an incident on May 23 at the White Oak Inn, Grantsville.

According to the report, Beitzel entered the tavern, from which he had been barred for disorderly conduct in the past, and attempted to be served. When refused, he obtained a drink from another customer, and began trying to promote an argument, according to the complainant. He was found not guilty of disturbing the peace and intoxication.

In a separate incident, David John Kuntz, 40, and Thomas Edward Compton, 30, both of Mt. Lake Park, were found guilty of theft concerning an incident last month at Tableland Milk Producers, Inc., Oakland.

According to the report, the defendants removed four milk cans from the premises and put them over a fence surrounding the property.

Judge Jones ordered a presentence investigation for both men.

David Allen Sines, 39, Kitzmiller, was found guilty of theft involving two shotguns. The defendant reportedly purchased the guns from an unnamed person for a very modest price, stating he assumed they were stolen but made the purchase anyway.

Judge Jones ordered a presentence investigation.

Paul Ray Sharpless, 29, Deer Park, was found guilty of battery charges lodged against him by his wife, Sandra Marie Sharpless, also of Deer Park.

According to the report, Sharpless became involved in a domestic dispute with his wife, and struck her with his fists, breaking her glasses.

Ludie Jones fined the defendant $100 plus court costs.

An Oakland man, Gary Edward Holland, 23, was found guilty on charges of battery and malicious destruction stemming from a complaint filed by Michael Eugene Sanders, Terra Alta, W. Va.

According to the complainant, Holland rammed into his vehicle three times with a one-ton flatbed truck following an incident near a one-lane bridge on the Cretlin-Underwood Road. The complainant stated that Holland, in the approaching vehicle, approached the bridge, left the vehicle, and attacked the victim. He then followed after the Sanders vehicle stalled, ramming the rear of the car, causing extensive damage.

Judge Jones ordered a presentence investigation.

Housing and Urban Development Block Grant monies.

The commission approved an addendum to the engineering contract regarding a change in status of the inspection for the Gorman project. Part of the contract was to provide inspection services, and Bourne elected to sub-contract that portion of the work out to a local contractor.

The commission also approved a change in specifications in running a pipeline from the Gorman Bridge on the opposite side of the road than what was originally planned. This change in specifications will amount to a savings of possibly $10,000 for the Sanitary Commission. Fousek explained that the savings will come about because the contractor will no longer be responsible for replacing guardrails on the other side of the roadway, which he said was a "big expense."

Bourne reported that the job is expected to be completed by March or April of 1982. He added that they should have the capacity to activate the downtown portion of the project by the end of August.

In other business, the commission noted that a public meeting will be held at the Bloomington Fire Hall on Thursday, August 20, at 7:30 p.m., to discuss the wastewater (sewer) Management Study being prepared for the community of Bloomington and the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. by Cerrone & Vaughn, Inc., Consulting Engineers from Wheeling, W. Elected Chairman Of Finan Center Advisory Board

Miss Mary L. Love, Oakland, has been elected to chair the Citizens' Advisory Board of the Thomas B. Finan Center in Cumberland for the coming year. She was named to the Advisory Board in 1979 by then-Governor Blair Lee.

Finan Center is a 250-bed hospital for the mentally ill, primarily those from Western Maryland. Swanton Man Arrested, Charged With Larceny Five area business and business vehicles were burglarized recently, according to reports received last week by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, and investigations led to one arrest in connection with breakings and enterings at Dale's Auto Repair, Old Route 135, Deer Park.

Steven Harold Kitzmiller, 21, Swanton, was arrested Tuesday, July 7, and charged with theft from that establishment. He was released Friday when he posted $1,250 cash and $2,500 property bond.

Kitzmiller was spotted by Dale F. Broadwater, owner, driving in an automobile displaying four cast aluminum wheels identified as those stolen from his business the night before. Upon arrest Kitzmiller's vehicle was taken to 135 Amoco for storage. Police then obtained a statement from the suspect regarding other burglaries at that establishment.

The incidents, which occurred June 21, July 3 and July 7, involved the theft of a battery charger, two socket sets, an 8-track AM/FM radio, a single shot shotgun, a carburetor, two round radio speakers and a six-cylinder Ford motor. The stolen goods amounted to a loss value of at least $820. Upon obtaining a warrant police searched Kitzmiller's vehicle and recovered several of the items, while others were recovered at his home on New Germany Road.

Allen R. Friend of Allen's Radio and TV, Oakland-Sang Run Road, reported that a 12-inch black and white portable television set was taken from the seat of his unlocked pickup truck while it was parked in front of the establishment Thursday night. The item is described as a Solid State set with a black cabinet. No loss value was placed on the stolen item. Other items, including antenna boosters in the back of the truck, were not bothered.

In a separate case, William Roszell III, owner of Garrett Automotive, reported that a radio, cassette tape player and two rear deck speakers were taken from a vehicle owned by Clarence E. Crowell, Oakland, while it was parked overnight on Thursday at the establishment. Roszell told police the vehicle was locked, however no sign of forced entry was noticed. Police added that, due to the car's unconventional locking mechanism, it would have been difficult to unlock. No loss value was placed on the stolen items.

Bell Brothers Motor Sales, Oakland, reported a theft from a 1977 Ford Granada on that sales lot, which occurred sometime during the night of July 7. Unknown persons removed four wire-type wheel covers from the car. No loss value was placed.

Donald F. Gaster of Gaster Construction, Bear Hill Road, reported that gasoline was siphoned from his one-ton dump truck while it was parked at that establishment during the night of July 7. Approximately 15 gallons of gasoline were removed from the vehicle, amounting to a loss value of nearly $20.

In other business, Albert B. Friend, Oakland, reported a burglary which occurred at his home on Fingerboard Road, Hutton, July 3 at 8 p.m. Friend told police he was returning home from a walk when he noticed a truck pull away from his residence. Upon arrival there he found that the padlock on the home had been removed by force and a number of items were missing. Taken from the residence were a closet-type cedar chest, a Bear Cat scanner, a 20-gauge single shot Winchester shotgun and a flashlight. No loss value was placed on the stolen items.

Naonu J. Friend, Friendsville, reported that her residence on Route 42 was entered July 1 by unknown persons who removed a 30x24-inch mirror, valued at $30. Police said there was no sign of forced entry, and the residence was vacant at the time.

In a separate case, Lori Lynn Griffith, Mt. Lake Park, reported that the windshield of her 1972 Ford Mustang was shattered late Friday night while the vehicle was parked along Glendale Road at Das Gast Haus. The windshield was valued at approximately $200, and police said the object used to break it is unknown.

In other business, the department arrested three persons last week.

Carol Sue Argabrite, 29, was arrested July 7 and charged with battery. She was released the same day on her own recognizance.

Lester Niner, 35, Mt. Lake

Park, was incarcerated Friday and charged with breaking and entering and theft. He was released the next day when he posted $100 bond.

Sharon Stewart, 22, Mt. Lake Park, was arrested Saturday and charged with destruction of property. She was released the same day on her own recognizance.

Bittinger-Glades

Word has been received here that Pastor James Mitchell, former pastor at Bittinger, suffered a heart attack last Wednesday and is now in a hospital in Canada. The family stated that no cards or letters can be sent since there is no mail delivery because of a strike of postal employees.

Cool Springs Park Buildings Destroyed By Fire Monday

Rowlesburg, W. Va. (UPI) — Cool Springs Park, a longtime tourist stop in Preston County, was declared a "total loss" after fire swept through it Monday.

A Preston County sheriff's department spokeswoman said the loss was estimated at upwards of $200,000 and possibly as high as $700,000. Burned to the ground were the Cool Springs restaurant, gift shop and an upstairs apartment.

Cool Springs Park, located at the foot of Laurel Mountain on U. S. Route 50, had been in operation since 1929 when it opened as a hot dog stand.

About 50 firefighters worked to extinguish the blaze, which was discovered about 4:15 a. m. and was under control by 6:30 a. m.

The cause of the fire had not been determined, but it was suspected to have been an electrical fire.

There were no injuries reported.

The catalytic wood burner is the heater of the future and we have it now. Imagine a wood burning heater so efficient through the addition of a catalytic combustor that it causes creosote, normally found in wood smoke, to burn, thereby not only reducing creosote buildup but providing extra heat! Helps avoid chimney fires.

The catalytic combustor itself is a high-temperature ceramic honeycomb covered with a thin film of precious metal catalysts. These catalysts lower the ignition point of escaping gases from a normal 1,000° F. to approximately 500° F. so that waste gases burn to produce additional heat. The heater has both primary and secondary air controls to allow the user to better control heat output.

GCC Announces Appointment Of PE Instructor

One of Maryland's top female athletes has been appointed instructor of physical education and women's head basketball coach at Garrett Community College. Ms. Ann Wellham, Linthicum, will assume her duties September 1, according to Robert L. Trantham, Dean of the College.

Ms. Wellham comes to Garrett from the State University of Oneonta, New York, where she has been instructor of physical education and women's volleyball coach. Previously, she had worked as a graduate assistant at Northern Michigan University where she also served as assistant coach for women's lacrosse and basketball and instructed classes in wilderness skills.

A graduate of Andover High School, Wellham was elected the school's outstanding senior athlete and received the scholar-athlete award. She later received a bachelor of science degree from Towson State University where she was named female athlete of the year and co-captain of the basketball team. At Towson, she conducted basketball and volleyball clinics for area high schools and served as basketball camp director. She also competed in the tryouts for the United States Olympic basketball team.

After her graduation from Towson, Wellham pursued her education at Northern Michigan University where she received a master of arts degree in physical education.

She is a member of the Maryland Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, the Baltimore Board of Women Officials, the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, and the United States Volleyball Association. Her hobbies include backpacking, softball, photography, playing the guitar and composing songs.

Athletic Director Dennis Fearnow considers the appointment of Ms. Wellham an indication of Garrett Community College's commitment to a strong program of intercollegiate athletics for women.

Carolyn Cullen
Norman Island

by Kathy Bailey

This week's Garrett County Playhouse production, entitled "Cradle and All" by Fred Durkin, will feature two area residents, Carolyn Cullen, 29, of Accident, and Norman Island, 38, of near Bray School Road, both artistic contributors to Garrett County.

Miss Cullen, a traveling art teacher by profession, has not been on stage for seven years, but experienced a revived interest in the theatre through her participation with the Fine Arts Festival held recently at Garrett Community College. It was there that she met Lisa Thayer, a member of the Playhouse organization, props coordinator and actress, who informed her of an open part in this week's play. Carolyn will play the part of Kate, the housekeeper.

Miss Cullen has been employed with the Garrett County Board of Education for three years, the duration of her residence in Garrett County. She works with elementary children at Grantsville, Friendsville, Yoder and Route 40 schools. Born in New Jersey and raised in Potomac, Carolyn holds a bachelor's degree in fine arts and theatre, received in 1974 from Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio. Her teaching certificate was awarded by the Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore. She is a daughter of Eleanor L. and Edwin G. Cullen, Potomac.

Carolyn gained most of her acting experience in college. She stated that she could not choose between her two primary interests, art and theatre, and therefore developed a double major. During her four years at Wittenburg she performed in nine plays, including "Endgame," by Samuel Beckett, "Suddenly Last Summer," by Tennessee Williams, and "House of Blue Leaves," by John Guare. She directed a scene from "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," and a semi-cut version of "The Indian Wants the Bronx," and assisted in directing two other plays.

In addition to acting and directing, Miss Cullen was very much involved with the theatrical areas of make-up, costumes, house managing, properties, lighting and sound with 13 plays, and she also spent many hours in the box office and ushering.

Her favorite role in her theatrical experience was the part of Nag in "Endgame," performed at Schiller College in Berlin, Germany. Carolyn spent one semester of her junior year at that school studying art and theatre. "It was exciting to be on stage in a foreign country, and very different. Beckett is one of my favorite playwrights, and the play was a challenge, very avant garde, abstract and unconventional," Carolyn related.

The actress stated that the most challenging and different part played by her during her college years was the character Bunny in "House of Blue Leaves." "Bunny was a very robust, mouthy, high energy woman from the Bronx, and a lot of fun to portray," she said. The part was a difficult one, however, as that character had monologues sometimes two pages long.

Carolyn had some technical stage crew experience with the theatre at Winston Churchill High School, mostly in the areas of costume and make-up.

Unable to choose between her two major interests, she eventually found what she terms "the perfect combination" of art and theatre — puppetry. Carolyn was a member of the Wittenburg Puppet Guild, which performed and wrote several plays. The group made marionettes and puppets for three of the plays, some of which made use of hand puppets, rod puppets and shadow puppets.

Having made no plans for "life after college," exemplifying her easy-going personality and spontaneous enthusiasm for new and different "artsy" things, Carolyn made her home in one of the country's more cultural areas, Washington D.C. She worked briefly there with Doris McBride, helping with her puppet shows, and with Michael Cotter and the Blue Sky Theatre.

The first summer after her graduation Miss Cullen was asked to teach puppetry and acting in the Creative Summer School program at the Holton-Arms School in Bethesda. Her first year there she directed eight puppet shows and discovered a new interest, that of teaching, coupled with the cost of living, which led her back to school.

Having attended the University of Maryland, Montgomery College, American University and the Maryland Institute, she accumulated 18 credits toward teaching, and received her certificate after student teaching at the Maryland Institute. Carolyn applied for teaching positions in Virginia, Maryland and Connecticut, and landed a job in Garrett County. She had friends in this area, had visited the Mountaintop on occasion, and she liked it here, she said. "The country appealed to me."

Carolyn has organized a number of craft shows in Garrett County, and has sponsored a booth in the Autumn Glory Festival since her arrival here three years ago. Items exhibited at her booths have included apple dolls, bread dough crafts and crocheted pouches. She was recently involved in organizing an Arts Guild for Garrett County's professional and amateur artists and craftspeople, and she is currently working with three other county residents to initiate a puppetry company to go into schools and perform in parks.

A sensitive woman with a pioneering spirit, Carolyn states that she "loves Garrett County because you can be the originator of new things—it's exciting. I can live the life style I like to live and do things that are important to me, like back to basic living and living off the land—that is interesting." Currently she expresses enthusiasm in getting the Arts Guild and puppetry company started and working. In the area of crafts Miss Cullen is also adept at embroidery, painting and clay sculpture.

She entered two sculptures in the Fine Arts Festival, helped paint scenery for the productions featured that weekend, and held a puppetry workshop for children. The festival "got my theatre fever up again," she said. That event "was very inspiring... I hadn't painted or done theatre work in seven years, but since the festival I've painted three paintings." In speaking of the theatre, she states, "I'd forgotten how much I loved it."

In other endeavors after college, Miss Cullen did crew work for the New Playwrights Theatre in Washington, D.C., and she appeared at the New Theatre Festival in Baltimore in 1975. That week-long festival featured nearly 25 theatre companies which performed and participated in workshops.

Having taught at the Holton-Arms School for three summers, Carolyn has recently spent her summers as an arts and crafts director at an Outdoor Education Camp in Oregon, and she has worked with the Street 70 Arts Day Camp (a theatre company in Rockville) for two summers.

It was through Carolyn that her friend, Norman Island, was introduced to the Garrett County Acting Company to play a part in this week's show.

Would the real artist please stand up? Norman Island, actor, Kenneth Plaskowski, novelist, and Rupert, poet, are one and the same, 38 years old and a son of Walter and Agnes Plaskowski. This colorful character has lived in Garrett County off and on for three years, having spent the past one and one-half years living in a secluded cabin working on a novel. Raised in Baltimore, this amazing man has had more jobs than even he can recall, and he stated he has traveled "all over the country."

What can one say about a man who has owned at least four businesses, was once a semi-professional football player for the Baltimore Eagles, managed recording acts and promoted musical concerts, waxed boats, was once a bodyguard for a "slum lord," has driven a cab and tended bar salmon fished professionally, sold pots and pans and real estate, worked in a whiskey distillery, painted houses, was an alter boy years ago, and "loves to mow the lawn" in his spare time? One could say that Norman Island approaches life with a refreshingly unique outlook, that of excitement and love of newness and challenge.

The GARRETT COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

by Theo Varrell

The Garrett County Playhouse offers as its second production of the 1981 season Fred Durkin's mysterious comedy-drama "Cradle and All" opening tonight at 8:30. The play deals in part with memory, fact and fiction, and its influence on the present — tonight's production features Chris von Eckartsberg, Pamela Harden, Jeff Colaw, and Debbie Martinez. Joining the company for this week are artist-teacher Carolyn Cullen and novelist Norman Island. Milburn Melhop directs.

To reach the Playhouse from Route 219, persons should take the Glendale Bridge Road (at Alpine Village), cross the bridge and bear right. At the first intersection, approximately one mile beyond the bridge, turn right onto the Beckman's Peninsula Road (the first intersection past the bridge). The Playhouse drive is just at the bottom of the short hill.

For information and reservations persons should call Englander's, Gregg's or Proudfoot's pharmacies in Oakland. All seats are general admission but theatre-goers are urged to make reservations, which will be honored until 8:20 on performance nights.

Next Wednesday at the Playhouse see Ira Levin's famous Broadway comedy hit "Critic's Choice." Each play runs Wednesday through Saturday, and curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Initially to manage the Blue Moon Saloon in Grantsville. He is now working for T.T. & T. Vending Company and is finishing up the third and final draft of his fiction novel entitled "Dust Rainbows and Dirty Socks," while living off Bray School Road with Constance and Lance, two raccoons who have breakfast with him in the mornings, he said.

He has traveled extensively, having worked in Miami, Las Vegas, Washington state, and Oregon, to name a few. He said his "strangest" job was working for the Social Security Administration. Island was briefly involved with an actor's workshop in Baltimore, but has never performed on stage. This week's production is an "adventure and I'm looking forward to it," he added.

Island expresses an open enthusiasm and love of life, maintaining that "no matter what you're going through there's always something positive... something you can enjoy." This positive attitude is carried over into his writing, as "Dust Rainbows and Dirty Socks" is a humorous work—a travel story on the positive aspects of suicide," he said. The novel, which is Island's second attempt, is "nearly ready for sale."

Island states that he

"everything changes, and there is growth in change." A poet for seven years, Island began seriously writing about two years ago. "I want to write for the rest of my life," he said, because he feels he has something to say. The novelist will portray the part of Nugent in this week's production.

Looking At Antiques With The Country Boy

by Dave Bowman

ART NOUVEAU

Art Nouveau only covers a span of time of about fifty years but its effect on architecture, furniture, lamps and jewelry still exemplifies a significant alteration in the attitudes of society. This style was a direct rebellion against the cluttered and ostentatious interiors of the Victorian era.

One must conclude that Art Nouveau is more a philosophy than a style; a fusion of artistry and craftsmanship.

In generalization, the concepts of Art

Nouveau fall into four basic categories:

1. Abstract fluid
2. Linear and symbolic
3. Floral
4. Constructive and geometric

The elongated, flowing female figure epitomizes the Art Nouveau feeling. She appears in virtually every art form from clocks to lamps.

Considering the painstaking craftsmanship and attention to detail that is found in Art Nouveau objection it is amazing to see the amount of fine pieces still found on the market today.

We are always interested in buying good antiques — one piece or a houseful.

Supermarket Chain To Close

BAITIMORE (UPI) — Pantry Pride plans to close 54 supermarkets across Maryland and Delaware by mid-August because of intense competition and financial losses, the company's chief executive said Tuesday.

Executive Grant Gentry said 4,300 employees would lose their jobs.

"The decision was made necessary because of the region's continuing losses and the unlikelihood that it could become profitable in the near term given the intense competitive situation existing in the area," said Gentry.

The closing of the supermarkets, 38 of which are in the metropolitan Baltimore area, will cost about 4,300 employees their jobs, Gentry said in a statement from company headquarters in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"The closing of the Baltimore operations and the elimination of the continuing losses will increase the viability of the company as a whole," he said.

Louis Topper, who worked at Pantry Pride's Baltimore warehouse for the past 21 years, said, "My supervisor called us all up to the dock and told us we had done a fine job, but their losses were too great and they planned to shut down."

Topper's wife, JoAnn, said she plans to organize a rally Wednesday in front of the Pantry Pride store in the Eastpoint Shopping Center.

"Consumers have to realize that although price may have been lower at other supermarket chains, when Pantry Pride closes, those other stores will raise their prices," Mrs. Topper said.

The closing of the 54 supermarkets should result in a substantial writeoff for the fiscal year, said company officials who estimated that Pantry Pride lost $6 million in the Maryland region over the past 11 months.

Pantry Pride Enterprises, previously known as Food Fair Inc., on July 6 emerged from 33 months of operation under Chapter XI of the federal bankruptcy act.

Bernard Lipskin, the company's director of communications, said the company at that time filed motions with the bankruptcy court to retain jurisdiction of the Baltimore operations.

The company operates 143 other Pantry Pride supermarkets, 117 in Florida, seven in Georgia and 19 in Virginia.

Lipskin said the Baltimore warehouse will remain open to supply the Virginia market, but that many warehouse employees will be laid off.

Pantry Pride has closed more than 200 stores in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut since the company encountered financial difficulties in October, 1978.

Police Recruits To File Charges With EEOC

BAITIMORE (UPI) — Three of the five black recruits who left Baltimore County Police Academy after being told they had not met academic requirements have filed charges against the county with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the county solicitor said Tuesday.

"It is a fact that three of the recruits in this year's academy class have brought EEOC complaints against Baltimore County," said Leonard Jacobson.

Jacobson said the charges were filed in the EEOC's Baltimore office late last week. Stanley Mazaroff, the attorney for the three recruits, would not release the names of the three.

"The EEOC tries to resolve cases amicably through private settlement and confidentiality increases the possibility of resolution," said Mazaroff.

He refused to specify charges filed by the trio and would say only that they dealt with various types of discrimination.

"An EEOC decision is usually reached in several months, it is not done overnight," Mazaroff said. "If the charges are not settled satisfactorily in the conciliatory process, either the EEOC or individual plaintiffs may press charges in federal court."

Officials at the Baltimore office of the EEOC declined to comment on the matter on grounds that they were bound by federal law to keep the details confidential.

David Fidler, a spokesman for the Baltimore County Police Department, said the department is continuing its investigation into charges of racial discrimination and cheating at the academy.

The investigation, headed by Maj. Walter Coryell, began following an anonymous phone call to police on June 18 charging black academy students had been the victims of discrimination.

Pennsylvania Mines To Supply Coal, Ship To Germany Through Baltimore

BAITIMORE (UPI) — A contract for production of coal in five Southwestern Pennsylvania coal mines will guarantee a steady flow of coal through a new $110 million Baltimore pier, a vice president of the nation's second-largest coal company said Tuesday.

James F. Beddingfield, assistant vice president for Consolidation Coal Company's Baltimore operation, said the contract should lead to the production of 12.5 million tons of coal valued at $800 million by the 1990s.

The first mine, producing about 2.5 million tons of coal each year, should be open by 1984, he said.

Consolidation, a subsidiary of Conoco Inc., formed a joint venture June 30 with Rheinische Braunkohlenwerke AG, a West German mining company.

The contract entitles the West German firm to 24 percent of the coal mined, or in other words about 3 million tons a year when peak production is reached.

The Baltimore pier, which will be built in the city's Canton area, is expected to be completed by the second quarter of 1983, Beddingfield said.

Much of the 3 million tons will be exported through the Baltimore pier, said Beddingfield, who said he was unable to be more specific.

The Consolidation pier is one of three new coal piers to be built at the port. The three piers are expected to boost the port's coal annual export capacity from 12 million tons to 30 million during the next five years.

Consolidation has mines in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio, Illinois, North Dakota and Utah. Besides Baltimore, the firm exports coal through Vancouver, Columbia and Hampton Roads, Va., Beddingfield said.

Consolidation's new contract with the West German firm comes as many European power plants and industries are converting from oil to coal as their primary fuel source.

It also comes as dozens of ships wait outside the Baltimore Harbor for the chance to take on coal at the city's existing export piers.

Dennis McGee, a spokesman for the Maryland Office of Economic and Community Development, said increased coal export activity facilitated by the new piers "will have a positive impact because of increased employment and increased capital investment."

McGee added that city officials are currently eyeing a 50-cent-a-ton tax on coal, which could lead to a "boom" for the city.

Sales Of Handguns Continue To Rise

PIKESVILLE, Md. (UPI) — State police said Tuesday the surge of handgun sales is continuing in Maryland.

Figures based on sales for the first six months of the year projects there will be 539,000 new gun registrations at the end of the year, which would be 10,000 more than last year.

Police said Baltimore County has the biggest increase of gun registrations, and county police chief Neil Behan said he was worried the increase in guns would lead to an increase in crime.

Behan said he is afraid many of the guns will eventually wind up in the hands of criminals or are being purchased by people who don't know how to use the firearms safely.

Wants To Keep Train Service

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — The state transportation secretary Tuesday launched a drive aimed at keeping the Blue Ridge Amtrak train alive.

The train, linking Maryland, Washington, Virginia and West Virginia, is scheduled to stop running Oct. 1.

But state transportation secretary James O'Donnell wrote a letter to the congressional delegations of the states saying 500 people ride the train every day and it should be saved.

LAND OWNERSHIP PRO AND CON

We have often stated that ownership of raw land is a great way to earn profits when you sell. However, it should be emphasized that there are other financial realities to consider before purchasing. Remember that money is made on raw land only when you sell. During the holding time, there is no income and no cash flow.

A cash outlay is required for property taxes, insurance and mortgage payments. There is no deduction for depreciation.

Does this mean that we are suddenly changing our mind about profit potential of land? On the contrary, let us reemphasize that, with very few dollars invested, it is possible to make a small killing on land through the use of land options, leverage and acquisition just prior to change in land-use. And you can sell off the benefit at the lower capital gains rates on the profit. And while you are holding the property, you can deduct the amount of interest and taxes from your taxable income. Also it takes almost none of your time in management.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

artist was photographed while carding, preparing the wool to be spun. Spinning is one of the crafts demonstrated throughout the summer months at Penn Alps in that building, along with the art of dying the finished product by using natural products gathered from the woodlands of Garrett County.

activities were held, including an auction, performances by the Thunderhill musical group and the community chorus, and a demolition derby on Friday. Top winner of that event was Rob Frazee of Terra Alta, W. Va.

Approximately 85 units were included in Saturday's Terra Alta Fourth of July Parade, and Kelly Carr, Miss West Virginia, was honorary parade marshal.

The week's events, including a Saturday night fireworks display, were sponsored by the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department. The town of Terra Alta, W. Va., has the oldest Fourth of July celebration in the state of West Virginia, begun more than 50 years ago.

State Jobless Rate Drops Slightly; Garrett County's Falls Six Points

Maryland's unemployment rate declined slightly in May, inching from April's rate of 6.3 percent to 6.2 percent, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Human Resources. Garrett County's jobless figure plummeted six points, from 16.7 to 10.7, during the same period.

May's unemployment rate approached the May 1980 rate of 6.6 percent. A year ago, the labor force was stable, with the May rate unchanged from April 1980 levels.

The unemployment rate is expected to jump in June, the Department said, as summer workers and students enter the labor force, and the impact of recent government layoffs is noted.

Employment advanced in May by an estimated 17,106 persons, while unemployment declined by 1,064 persons. Significant hiring was seen in agriculture, construction, restaurants, hotels and lodging places, amusements and recreation services, agricultural services and business services. Manufacturing employment also gained, with hiring in electric/electronic equipment and transportation equipment. Layoffs were noted in state and local government, as the school semester ended and as job freezes and cutbacks took effect.

Initial and continued claims for unemployment insurance benefits dropped in May, outnumbering increases in railroad claims due to the coal miners' strike and gains in the number of unemployed new and re-entrants to the labor force.

In the Baltimore Metropolitan Area, the unemployment rate also dropped, from 7.2 percent in April to 7.1 percent in May.

In the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C., the unemployment rate advanced from 3.7 percent in April to 3.9 percent in May.

Western Maryland's overall unemployment rate fell in May from 9.3 percent to 8.6 percent. Although unemployment in Allegany County was unchanged from April, the area's other counties showed seasonal drops in unemployment and increases in employment. Employment gains were registered in construction, agriculture, restaurants, and amusement and recreation services. Garrett County's unemployment rate dropped so significantly, according to the Department, because the impact of the coal strike lessened and regular seasonal influences took effect.

On the Eastern Shore, Caroline and Somerset counties had higher unemployment rates in May than in April, as summer workers began to enter the labor force in search of employment. Little change was seen in the unemployment rates in Calvert, Talbot and Wicomico counties. All other counties in Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore had decreased unemployment rates.

Not long ago I was driving home along the parkway, depressed and worried by many problems. The day was bleak and gloomy. Huge clouds boiled and churned above dark, forbidding mountains. Even the foliage hung limp and still.

Suddenly the clouds parted and a ray of sun streaked through. In that fleeting moment the landscape became beautiful. . . . grayness transformed into mauves, deep blues and lively greens. It was like watching Creation. For the first time in a long time, I thought of God. And I prayed as I had been taught long ago.

That was a turning point. Since then God and worship have once more become a part of my life and my problems have disappeared in a way I never dreamed possible.

God's goodness is always present. Go to your place of worship and learn the truths that can transform your life.

HOW COME? July 19, 1981

Background Scripture:
Deuteronomy 6:16 through 10:1
9:4, 5
Devotional Reading:
Nehemiah 1:4-11b

"How come we have to go to that old church again?" a teenage son, summoning courage at last, demanded of his father.
With a withering look that the teenage son could not have misinterpreted, the father replied:
"I'll show you 'how come' if you want!" The son's chin sank to his chest, he turned and walked away in defeat. The father also turned away, having prevailed once again, he put the question to his mind.

When Your Son Asks
But the father's "victory" was actually a "defeat," for he missed a golden opportunity to help his son to understand and appreciate the reason behind the seemingly repetitive and meaningless ceremonies of their church life. He forgot—assuming that he once knew—that when we explain some of the ways of our religious life, we can remove some of the barriers to understanding and motivation.

In Deuteronomy, Moses lays it out with beautiful simplicity when he instructs the fathers of Israel:

"When your son asks you in time to come, 'What is the meaning of the testimonies and statutes and the ordinances

Gordon Jensen Will Appear At Sand Flat Church

Gordon Jensen, gospel songwriter and recording artist from Nashville, Tennessee, will be at the Sand Flat Assembly of God on Sunday, July 19, at 10:45 a.m.

Since the age of 16, Gordon Jensen has published over 300 songs. His music has been translated into 15 different languages, and has been recorded by over 2000 Christian artists. He is a frequent guest on nationally syndicated television shows such as The PTL Club and The 700 Club. Jensen, who began his musical studies at the age of seven, has on four occasions won the Dove Award for the Songwriter of the Year, presented each year by the Gospel Music Writers' Association. For five years, his songs have received the Dove Award for Song of the Year.

Perhaps his most famous song is the gospel classic "Redemption Draweth Nigh," which has been recorded over 300 times, and was the theme for the movie soundtrack "Distant Thunder"—a recent release from Mark IV Productions. Other well-known Gordon Jensen compositions include "Jesus Will Outshine Them All," "I Should Have Been Crucified," "Whisper Jesus," and "Tears Are A Language."

Pastor Greg Grant and the congregation of the Sand Flat Assembly of God invite the public to attend.

Census Bureau
Slates Survey

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in Garrett County during the work week of July 20-24. Porter S. Ruckley, director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Philadelphia, announced this week.

The survey is conducted for the U. S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals, according to Ruckley.

Democracy's Cornerstone

by David W. Hornbeck
State Superintendent of Schools

It is a well settled fact that the most important developmental years in a person's life are those from birth to six. Much learning takes place simply by living. Each of us has seen this in our own children. Babies focus their eyes, learn to sit up, to crawl, to walk, to talk. For a few months it sometimes seems as though a miracle a day unfolds before our eyes.

By the time a child is six he or she has been read to, talked to, and often has spent hours and hours looking at pictures, hearing words, playing with toys. And, as with the miracles of babyhood, that child is "ready" for school.

Unfortunately that scenario is not true for all children. If a child is from a home without books and magazines; if a child grows up without conversation and the natural language development that follows; if there are not toys which teach motor skills; then the children from those homes arrive at school at age five or six already behind. And they fall further and further behind. For many the result will be a lifetime of dependency — welfare, prison or other problems. Obviously, there is a very high correlation between these children and poverty.

We now have very strong evidence that there is at least a partial solution to this terrible waste of human life. During this past year the results of an important twelve year study of children in Michigan were released. The children started out in a condition of poverty and appeared to have low cognitive ability. They attended half-day early childhood education programs. There was another group of similar children identified who did not participate in pre-school programs. Several very significant findings resulted:

- 1) The children who attended pre-school had higher achievement test scores throughout their schooling experience. These were sustained gains, even higher at the eighth grade than earlier.
- 2) The pre-school youngsters demonstrated a sustained greater commitment to schooling.

- 3) The children in the pre-school groups needed special education services less often.
- 4) The behavior of the pre-school group was better, with their teenage delinquency rate being lower.

These results are most encouraging for several reasons. They demonstrate that pre-school programs produce long-term, not flash-in-the-pan results. Students who would otherwise likely fail can succeed, thus producing a greater chance of becoming productive, tax paying, satisfied, and happy adults. A modest investment in a pre-school effort avoids higher special education costs later and even higher costs of welfare or prison.

In Maryland we now have fifty-one schools in nine subdivisions which offer a program like the one in Michigan. There are 2,077 four year olds in those programs this year. Those 2,077 children are going to have a better chance as a result. There are minimally another fifty schools across the state with similar numbers of children who should be engaged in such an effort but the funds simply do not exist to provide it. Unfortunately our failure to pay now will result in a bigger bill later.

Local Senior Citizens Meet

The Garrett County Senior Citizens held their regular monthly meeting at the Center recently with 39 in attendance. Evelyn Kahl, president, presided. The invocation was given by Clarence Mersing.

Marilyn Metheny, Executive Director of the Commission on Aging, was the guest speaker. Bernadine Friend told the group that a picnic would be held at Herrington Manor and there would be a tour of the Town Village in Accident, as well as a trip to Falling Waters sometime this month.

Mrs. Ruth Durst, of Durst Funeral Home, will be the guest speaker for the August meeting which will be held on August 3 at 1 p.m.

All Garrett County senior citizens, 60 years of age and over, are invited to join the club. Guests are also welcome.

The average person takes between 12 and 18 breaths per minute.

Marylanders Rate Quality Of Life; Western Residents Most Satisfied

Over 80 percent of Maryland residents rate the quality of life in the State as "good" or "excellent." This view is not shared equally by all residents of the State, however. Close to 90 percent of the residents of Montgomery, Frederick and other more Western counties of the State rated the State quality of life as "good" or "excellent." Residents of Baltimore City and Prince George's County, on the other hand, expressed least enthusiasm about life in the State.

These results were found in the Maryland Poll, conducted between November of 1980 and June of 1981. A total of more than 1,200 state residents took part in the poll which is conducted by telephone by the Survey Research Center of the University of Maryland at College Park. The random-digit dial method is used to select telephone households into the sample to ensure that all State households with a telephone have an equal chance of being selected into the sample.

Respondents in the poll were asked whether they rated Maryland as an excellent, good, fair, or poor place to live. About a third (32%) rated it as excellent and about half (48%) rated it good; some 18% rated it fair and 2.7% as poor.

"These figures put Maryland relatively high in terms of the perceived life quality of its State residents," said Dr. John Robinson, director of the Center. "Exactly what it is that makes people in the more Western counties more satisfied is something we hope to ascertain in future survey."

To some extent, Robinson found, the regional differences were due to racial, income, educational or age differences across these State regions in question, and these factors were also important predictors of perceived life quality.

Higher income and white respondents rated life in the State higher than less affluent or black respondents. Older people and lifelong natives of the State also rated the State's

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew
TWO ABOUT GEORGE
How old is George Burns and what brand of cigar does he smoke? — A. Hogarth, Eagle Island, Vancouver, B.C.
Burns, who is a delightful, irrepressible man, is 83 this year. As far as the name of his cigar is concerned, to give that would constitute an endorsement, and actors get paid for those. George recently said something that is wonderfully wise and witty. He said "There's nothing wrong with getting older. Just don't get old."

LADIES AND GENTLE MEN — Is Marsha Mason related to James Mason? Are Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme divorced? — G. Nichols, Kodiak, Alaska
Marsha and James are not related. She is, of course, Mrs. Neil Simon. Steve and Eydie are still a team.
TOM'S PAST — My sister and I are arguing. She says

Magnum, of "Magnum, P.I." used to play Peter on "One Life to Live" and I say he did not. — Ann Chavis, Durham, N.C.
I can find no reference to "One Life to Live." However, he was on "The Young and the Restless," playing Jed Andrews.

BLONDE BOMBSHELLS
In the movie "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" who played the blonde bombshell? I say it was Connie Stevens and my mother insists it was Jayne Mansfield. There is $20 on your answer. — Harold Jordan, Columbus, Ind.
You lose, Harold. Jayne Mansfield was in the 1957 film.

STARVIEW

The traveling life of today's actor

By Ruth Thompson

The question for today is: "Why is an actor's job like being in the Navy?"

Jose Ferrer gave the answer when he said, you don't know very far in advance where in the world your next assignment will be, but at least all your expenses are paid.

Ferrer's three recent on location television roles — one big, two small — took him to places he wanted to visit anyhow, with luxurious hotel accommodations everywhere he went to Hawaii for a "Magnum, P.I." episode, to Greece for "Peter and Paul" and to Germany for "Berlin Tunnel." He says, "I was lucky."

Trevor Howard enjoyed his stay in India filming the recent PBS movie special, "Staying On." But he shudders at the mere mention of Bora Bora where he spent months in a hotel still under construction and where nobody had yet gotten around to installing the plumbing. Not what you could call a vacation.

Getting booked onto the right "Love Boat" show, however, sometimes is. That's because, while the bulk of scenes are shot on Hollywood sound stages, every now and then the permanent cast, plus guests, goes to sea on one of the regular Caribbean runs of the Princess cruise ships.

Fred Grandy

Peter Graves, Debbie Reynolds, Ted Knight and Donny Most are some of the guest stars who, along with regulars Gavin (Capt. Stubini) MacLeod, Bernie (Doc) Kopell, Fred (Gopher) Grandy, Ted (Isaac) Lange, and Lauren (Julie) Towes, mingled with the paying customers in off-hours.
That's right. Some of those chic folks in evening clothes are not extras. They're shelling out somewhere between $2,500 and $5,000 and did not know in advance that there would be at least a baker's dozen of celebrities (plus film crew) aboard.
Any paying passenger who wants to stay off-camera, of course, has his or her privacy protected. But most find it fun to stay in range. Chances are that many were motivated to take a cruise in the first place because they love the "Love Boat" series.

By the way, "Love Boat" isn't the only show about this season. Star Trek's daily serial, "Search for Tomorrow" went to sea for scenes airing in mid-July. They went in great style aboard the huge Queen Elizabeth II. The shipboard segments focus on Sherry Mathis, who plays Liza Sentell, and the key word is glamour. High-fashion clothes in the sequences are designed by Mary McEdden, who went along for the trip to make sure that her duds were worn right.

But getting back to dry land and very dry. Does three months on location in the desert in Tunisia sound glamorous? The cast and crew of "The Day Christ Died," starring Chris Sarandon, found it anything but exhilarating.
Says producer Martin Manulis, "It was a very rough three-hour drive to the nearest city so we all pretty much stayed in camp." Some read, some played cards. One actor turned playwright and finished a script for what he hopes will become — at least — an off-Broadway play.

TV TATTLE

Horse story

Movie makeup artist David Forrest has worked on some pretty strange clients before, but the most recent ones attracted flies and swished their tails.
Forrest worked with a stablehand of whinnying horses for the TV movie, "My Old Man," airing Tuesday, July 21 on CBS. "I treated them just as I would any actor or actress," says Forrest, "although I've never been known to tell a person, 'Easy, boy' while applying makeup."
"I'd just look them in the eye and talk to them to make them relax, and except for those flies, I really had no problems. Best of all, horses can't talk back."

Dance on PBS

There'll be lots of dancing feet on PBS this week.
On Monday, July 20, "Great Performances, Dance in America" will present Pilobolus Dance Theater in Performance at the American Dance Festival, a production that was taped at the 1980 Dance Festival in Durham, N.C. The work of choreographers Moses Pendleton and Jonathan Wolken will be featured.
Also on Monday, "A Dance of Two Countries: China and America," will air. In March of last year, Ben Stevenson, artistic director of the Houston Ballet, brought Western dance techniques to the People's Republic of China to instruct students at the Peking Dance Academy. This film chronicles a month of friendship, sharing and learning between Stevenson and his students.

Freeway maniac

There's marital tension and dramatic suspense on CBS when Shelley Hack tries to search for a maniac who's threatening women on the L.A. freeway in "Death Car on the Freeway," to air Saturday, July 25.

Hack plays an ambitious but inexperienced television reporter. Her estranged husband, played by George Hamilton, is the anchorman for a rival television news network, and he's convinced his wife cannot succeed without him.
With the police discounting her theory, and no support from her husband, Hack goes out alone to find the deranged driver. Frank Gorshin, Peter Graves, Harriet Nelson, Barbara Rush, Dinah Shore and Abe Vigoda all have cameo roles in the drama.

Ron Howard

New Mexico tale

Ron Howard takes the side of the underdog in a new world premiere movie to air next season on NBC, now in production in the Angeles National Forest.
Howard joins Buddy Ebsen in "Fire on the Mountain," a story based on Edward Abbey's novel about an aging New Mexico rancher who is determined to fight local, state and federal authorities seeking to take over his property for the expansion of a missile base.
Ebsen portrays the rancher and Howard plays a young man whose goal of making a financial killing in real estate is sidetracked when he begins to take the side of the elderly rebel.

SATURDAY

Club owner and country singer Mickey Gilley joins Loretta Buckner and Irene Mandrell (l. to r.) on "Barbara Mandrell and the Mandrell Sisters," to be rebroadcast Saturday, July 18 on NBC.

(Stations reserve the right to make last minute changes.)

FRIDAY

Linda Gray, as Sue Ellen Ewing, and Monte Markham, as Clint Oden, share a happy moment in "Dallas," to be rebroadcast Friday, July 17 on CBS.

(Stations reserve the right to make last minute changes.)

Eileen Brennan — one experienced waitress

She's handy with an order pad and pencil, can serve a hot cup of coffee without spilling a drop, and won't hesitate to hurl a sharp retort at a cranky customer. When it comes to waitressing, Eileen Brennan's a pro.
The versatile actress was serving up hamburgers in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., during the filming of "My Old Man," a drama special starring Kristy McNichol and Warren Oates to be rebroadcast Tuesday, July 21 on CBS.

Miss Brennan stars as Marie, a sympathetic and warmhearted waitress who provides a down-and-out horse trainer (Oates) and his spirited teen-age daughter (Miss McNichol) with a hot meal and a warm home, in this adaptation of a short story by Ernest Hemingway. The teen-ager and her father have been reunited after a 14-year separation and they've set out to explore a new life together.
The two travel to a quaint racing town where they encounter Marie, who becomes intent on providing them with some semblance of a normal home life.

"I've portrayed waitresses before," Miss Brennan says. "As a matter of fact, I once worked as a singing waitress while studying drama in New York City."
"Marie, however, is special. She's a loving, strong and sentimental woman whose fantasy is to have a home and family. She waits a long time for that dream to come true, and she's not about to let it go easily."
Miss Brennan's stint as a singing waitress — her big number was "You Made Me Love You" — was a short-lived one. She removed her apron and landed her first starring role in the off-Broadway hit "Little Mary Sunshine," went on to star in the national touring company of "The Miracle Worker" and co-starred (as Mrs. Malloy) in the original Broadway company of "Hello, Dolly!"

She was offered several movie assignments and it wasn't long before she found herself waiting on tables again — this time in her acclaimed performance as the waitress in "The Last Picture Show."

The accomplished stage, film and television actress lives in Venice, Calif., with four dogs, two cats and two kids, Sam and Pat, and considers herself "very fortunate to be able to do everything."

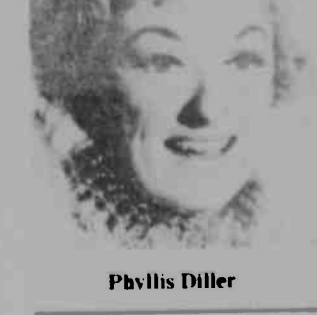

Eileen Brennan

"I enjoy working in television," she says, "and with a series, I can be with my kids. With the ages they are now, it's difficult to move from coast to coast."
"But I do find myself constantly going back to the stage workshops, local productions, that kind of thing. And I'd really like to do another Broadway show, preferably a musical."
"I guess that's because I'm always so glad to sing. Would you like to hear a snappy rendition of 'You Made Me Love You'?"

Liz bio makes money; Gibb no love object

By Cindy Adams
NEW YORK — Way before that Elizabeth Taylor bio hits the bookstores it already has earned over $1 million.
Author Kitty Kelley's next may be on Sinatra. Andy Gibb, who is divorced and has a kid and is deep in the heart of a very sick of being a love object. He also has Victoria Principal as his girlfriend.
Andy Kautman stuck on an apron and waited tables at a New York deli. Lou Ferrigno, "The Hulk," who's already built like the World Trade Center, finally gave up exercising. I mean what was left to develop right.

August or July or September "Hollywood Reporter" columnist Radie Harris is everywhere at every party with every celebrity and she better never say I don't mention her.
Maureen O'Hara, who's shleppling her grandson around town, told me that a monument to her late husband, a pioneer airplane pilot, was created by the Smithsonian for $250,000 to stand alongside the Kitty Hawk.
"Strawhead," the upcoming Broadway show about Marilyn Monroe, will be directed by "Hair" director Tom O'Horgan and co-authored by Norman Mailer, who's raising the million and a half for it. I bumped into old friend Carol Burnett at a party and she said, "Haven't seen you in 20 years" and I said, "Tell me, Carol, what ever happened to you?" and we both giggled.

Phyllis Diller

Everybody's off someplace. Phyllis Diller is doing her snappy songs'n'fancy patter for a month in Australia. The itinerary she sent me includes Sydney, Melbourne, Gold Coast, Goulburn, Orange, Dubbo, Rockhampton, Dorrigo. Warwick will knock off nine days at the Boardwalk Regency in Atlantic City come August. Joan Rivers with Fred Travalena for a fortnight at Harrah's in Reno come August. And come

Larry Hagman

From Larry Hagman: "If the world is getting smaller, do they keep raising postal rates?" From Peter Fonda: "By the time a man is able to read a woman like a book his eyes go bad."

MEMORABLE DAY — Richard Thomas stars in "The Day James Dean Died" (formerly titled "September 30, 1955"), a drama focusing on the reactions of several small-town youths to the passing of a teen idol. The film will be telecast July 24 on "NBC Friday Night at the Movies."

Miss Universe Pageant arrives in New York

By Kevin Stoker

What is the producer of one of the biggest and most lavish television variety productions of the year doing while the show is on the air?

"Biting my nails," says Sid Smith, producer of "The 1981 Miss Universe Pageant."

Considering that Smith's production is broadcast to an estimated 600 million people around the world and features some of the most beautiful women on earth, it's easy to understand his feelings.

When "The 1981 Miss Universe Pageant" is broadcast live from New York's Miniskoff Theater Monday, July 20 on CBS, it will be Smith's 15th year with the show and his fourth as the producer.

It sounds like an enviable task. But coordinating a two-hour prime time extravaganza which includes 80 women from all over the world, has its drawbacks.

The language barrier is always a problem," says the veteran producer. "Sometimes they'll pretend not to understand so they can get their way or get out of doing something."

Translators, however, are furnished for all the contestants, as are chaperones. Smith says two is from nearby countries, and their translators, room together. The show, in New York this year, has been done in such far away places as Manila, El Salvador, Hong Kong, Santo Domingo, Acapulco, Perth, Western Australia, and Seoul, Korea.

Despite the language barrier, the countries have always tried to make things as comfortable as possible. And Smith makes several trips to the host country beforehand to learn about the people and their culture.

"Last year in Seoul, Korea we wrote a song about how to speak the Korean language," he says.

New York may not pose a language problem for Smith, but there is another problem. Because productions of this nature are common in New York, producing the show there is not as exciting as in other places.

"When the pageant comes to Seoul or Perth the town just welcomes it with parades and social functions," says the producer. "In New York we're just blasé about it. Their reaction is 'Miss Who?'"

When he started the pageant was just a job, to Smith, but since he came in as the director, the show has become an important part of his career.

The master of ceremonies for this year's pageant will be the man who is best known for his work with the Miss America Pageant, Bob Barker. His co-host will be Elke Sommer. Entertainer Peter Allen will appear with the contestants as a special guest. Also in hand will be the reigning Miss Universe, Shawn Weatherly, who was the first Miss USA to win the crown since 1967.

Representing the United States will be 20-year-old Kim Seelbrede, Miss USA 1981.

LOSING WEIGHT
It seems like one of America's most popular pastimes is losing weight, but it's not easy. Exercise and eating a variety of foods from the Basic Food Groups could help you as you attempt to lose those unwanted pounds. Here are some other suggestions that might help.

*You can eat the same foods you are eating now, but cut your calories by taking smaller portions.

*Choose lower calorie foods. *Bake, broil or boil foods because frying adds calories.

*Use a smaller plate—your meal will look larger.

*Exercise regularly. Use exercise as a diversion from unnecessary snacking.

*Have low-calorie snacks around to eat instead of high-calorie foods.

*Keep a food diary. Try to write down all the foods you eat and drink for two days. Knowing what you consume will help you plan where to trim calories.

*Try to find those things which trigger your appetite, such as TV or reading. Then remove the trigger. Get the TV out of the kitchen or dining room and don't eat in the den.

*Set realistic goals. Think how long it took you to gain that extra weight, then strive for a 1/2 pound loss per week. This is safe and realistic.

*Weigh yourself once a week, not each day, because body weight fluctuates too much from one day to the next. Also, take body measurements; sometimes you can lose inches instead of pounds.

*Reward yourself, but not with food, for losing weight and also for changing your eating habits.

*Don't believe in the fad diets. They promise you miracles, when in fact, there are no miracles to weight loss.

*Believe in yourself. Weight control takes time and effort. It's worth it and so are you.

FOOD NOTES
A variety of fresh vegetables which are now available are nutritious and low in calories. Use these delicious vegetables in this tasty recipe that has only 75 calories per 1/2 cup.

Homemaker Career Meeting Scheduled

The Homemaker Career Opportunities program of Garrett Community College, a non-profit agency serving the needs of the displaced homemaker in Garrett County, is adding a new phase to its program with the establishment of a weekly Orientation Session for new participants in the Center to help acquaint newly interested persons with the functions of the program and the free career counseling services provided as well as to answer any questions in the minds of those in attendance. This weekly session will be held each Tuesday from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College.

According to Barbara Frey, director of the Homemaker Career Opportunities Program, a displaced homemaker is a person who has been a homemaker but now, because of dissolution of marriage, must seek employment; a person who is the single head of a household and who lacks adequate job skills; a person who is currently a homemaker and part time worker but wishes to secure a full-time job; or a person interested in non-traditional employment.

Many free services and referrals are provided for these individuals through the Homemaker Career Opportunities Program and it is hoped, according to Mrs. Frey, that by scheduling weekly Orientation sessions more individuals in the county will avail themselves of these services offered through the program.

The first of these weekly sessions will be held on Tuesday, July 21, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and all interested persons are invited to attend. For more information, persons may contact Barbara Frey at 334-9184.

Maximum Benefits For Unemployed Are Increased

The maximum benefits paid to unemployment insurance recipients have been increased to $140 per week, effective with claims filed after July 5, 1981, according to the Maryland Department of Human Resources. Benefits were increased because of a change in the Maryland Unemployment Law, according to Frank O. Heintz, Executive Director of the Employment Security Administration of the Department. Persons who filed for benefits before July 5, and who are receiving benefits under the old schedule of benefits, will not be eligible for the increased benefits, according to the law. Previous to July 5, the weekly benefit amount ranged from a minimum of $25 to a maximum of $120. Now benefits will range from a minimum of $25 to a maximum of $140. The weekly benefit amount for a claimant is determined according to his earnings before he became unemployed.

WVU Medical Center A Leader In Intricate Neurosurgery Procedure

A time bomb ticking in your head. That's what an aneurysm, or bubble, on an artery at the base of the brain amounts to and about one in 100 people walk around with them.

Neurosurgeons are the technicians who can defuse the "bombs," but in most cases they have to wait until there's a first explosion because most aneurysms are symptomless until they rupture. The initial episode is fatal in nearly half the cases.

For most of the 60 percent who survive the first breakage in the weakened wall of an intracranial artery, surgery is the obvious answer. If it's not done, chances of a "re-bleed" are about 30 percent in the first year and three percent a year thereafter.

One of the leading centers for this complex, demanding surgery is the West Virginia University Medical Center.

The aneurysm surgery team headed by John L. Fox does more of these operations than most other medical centers. A typical neurosurgeon might handle four or five such cases a year. Dr. Fox did six in a recent week, although he notes that this was a coincidence and that one every 10 days or two weeks is closer to his average. The success rate in such difficult, intricate surgery correlates closely with experience.

Fox studied with one of the world's leading micro-neurosurgeons, Prof. MG Yasargil of Zurich, Switzerland, and now Fox has won worldwide recognition of his own.

He has presented papers at more than 70 national and international conferences and his list of scholarly publications totals 126 not including a three-volume "Intracranial Aneurysms: A Text and Atlas" now in preparation.

"The rest of the neuro-surgical world recognizes John as one of its top people," said G. Robert Nugent, chairman of neurosurgery in the WVU School of Medicine. "His work is superb and the mortality and morbidity rates are exceptionally low."

Aneurysm surgery is difficult because of the small entrance area and the fact that making a channel to the site requires that sections of the brain be literally moved aside. The aneurysm itself is not removed but instead a metal clip is squeezed across its base.

The operation takes about three hours plus another 90 minutes to prepare the patient, including immobilizing the head with a pinon holder and inserting three pins into the skull.

The slightest movement of the patient's head is magnified considerably under the surgical microscope," Fox said. "Microsurgery demands a precisely maintained position through the entire operation."

Almost all of the work is done with the surgeon looking through a microscope that illuminates and magnifies the work area eight times. Fox knows from experience that inadequate sleep, unusual stress, or even a cup of coffee before surgery will increase hand tremor — movement unnoticeable to the naked eye but clearly seen under the microscope.

Fox noted that the first debriefing attack on a ruptured intercranial aneurysm took place 50 years ago, and as recently as 1966 the mortality rate for the operation was 30 percent.

Improvement came rapidly after microsurgery was introduced 15 years ago and mortality for the operation now averages 5 percent. Fox has not lost an operated aneurysm patient in two years.

Few patients have any symptoms until the first "bleed," thus surgery usually takes place after that episode. On rare occasions, aneurysms are discovered during CAT scans or angiograms done for other purposes.

The typical patient may be brought to the emergency room after suffering a sudden severe headache and then going into a coma," Fox said. "Most are in the 40 to 60 age range. We do a spinal tap and a CAT scan to determine if and where the bleed occurred. The neuro-radiologist performs arteriography to find if the hemorrhage was caused by an aneurysm or a blood vessel malformation."

Unless a large blood clot has formed that can be relieved by immediate surgery, the operation is scheduled about two weeks later to allow the patient to be in optimum condition.

"In past years surgery was usually done immediately, but it eventually became clear that results were better if the operation were postponed for a time," Fox said.

Aneurysms occur most often in the area under the base of the brain where arteries are enveloped in spinal fluid, rather than in a solid supporting structure that would tend to prevent an artery wall from ballooning out.

The blood vessels involved average three-eighths of an inch in diameter, although the aneurysms are often larger than that. Some may reach a size where they press against sensitive areas of the brain and cause symptoms before they rupture.

The surgical opening in the skull is about two inches in width and the main working area is about two and a half inches under the surface. To reach that site, Fox drills away part of the so-called sphenoid wing of the skull in order to obtain the lowest and smoothest pathway to avoid raising the brain any more than necessary.

"You're working in an area right up into the brain stem and any injury there can be particularly devastating," he noted.

Fox said improvements in the surgery were made possible by better anesthetic techniques, life support systems and diagnostic tools, as well as the introduction of microsurgery. But the medical literature makes it clear that "the cardinal factors are the training, experience and expertise of the operating team which utilizes these new techniques."

Besides the many operations done here, Fox has been called to Hartford, Conn., and to Sweden and the Republic of China to perform aneurysm surgery.

He has served as a visiting professor at the universities of Chicago, Florida and Ottawa; Johns Hopkins, Loyola of Chicago and Baylor universities; New England Medical Center, Boston; Newcastle General Hospital, England; and Good Samaritan Medical Center in Portland, Ore.

In addition to his surgery and scholarly work, Fox serves as a consultant to the National Institutes of Health, the Peace Corps, the National Naval Medical Center and the government of Nicaragua.

When he entered medical school, Fox was headed for a career in cardiology but after being introduced to neurosurgery while a student at George Washington University medical school, he decided quickly that was his field. Work with intracranial aneurysms first drew his interest on visits to Walter Reed Army Hospital.

After 10 years in practice and teaching, he decided to go to Zurich to study with Yasargil, the European leader in micro-neurosurgery. "I was in Vienna to give a paper when we got to know each other and I first considered working with him," Fox recalled.

Dr. Nugent notes that a number of American surgeons have gone to Zurich to study with Yasargil — "usually for a month or two, a few for up to six months. John took a whole year — while a full professor of neurosurgery at GW — to work with him and perfect his own techniques."

Nugent described Fox's forthcoming book on aneurysm surgery as "monumental — it will be the leading one in world literature on this subject."

Nugent is a good judge. Before bringing Fox here from Washington, D.C., six years ago, Nugent himself already had done outstanding work in cerebral aneurysm surgery.

Toms Appointed Western Region DNR Police Head

Sergeant Ray Toms of the Natural Resources Police Inland Division has been promoted to Captain and assigned command of the Western Region of the State, according to a release from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

Inland Division Chief Jack T. Taylor said Captain Toms will fill a vacancy created by the retirement of former Captain Robert S. Brown.

Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties make up the Western region.

Toms is a 1953 graduate of Emmitsburg High School and a U. S. Army veteran with service in Korea from 1955 to 1957.

In 1959, Toms entered State service with the now defunct Maryland Department of Game and Inland Fish with the Wildlife Management Division and he began his career in wildlife law enforcement in 1961 with his appointment as District Game Warden in Montgomery County. He was transferred to Frederick County in 1962. His first promotion came in 1972 when he was elevated to Corporal. In that year, Toms was chosen as the Inland Division Natural Resources Police Officer of the Year. He achieved Sergeant in 1976.

The Captain resides in the Sabillasville area of Frederick County with his wife, Betty. They have four children.

GCC Vet Techs Have No Problem Finding Employment

Six of seven 1981 Garrett Community College graduates of veterinary science technology are already employed, according to Maria Brennenman, GCC Placement office director. The seventh graduate is now considering three job opportunities, she said. A total of 12 employers contacted the placement office soliciting applications from the graduates. One offered a job opportunity in Hawaii, while the others were located in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. The graduates included Ellen Michael of Westernport, Carol Ross of Friendsville, Amy Bender of Hagerstown, Kathryn Cadorette of Arnold, Lisa Nowers of Hill Crest Heights, Linda Mills of Hagerstown, and

Judie Gable of Roaring Spring, Pa. The VST program is certified by both the American and Maryland Veterinary Medicine Associations. In Maryland Vet techs must be certified to enter employment in the field. The program prepares its graduates, Ms. Brennenman said, to serve as assistants to doctors of veterinary medicine in job fields including animal health, meat, milk and food processing inspection, and laboratory research. VST students are given laboratory and practical training at the Garrett County Annual Shelter. Subscribe to The Republican

Weekends Taking High Toll In Roadway Deaths

The weekends are killing us," states 1st Lt. C.R. Troutman of the Central Accident Records Division of the Maryland State Police.

Twenty-two persons lost their lives on Maryland's highways in six separate accidents. This is the second highest weekend for fatalities with the highest being just two weeks ago, June 26-28, when 13 persons were killed.

Of the twenty-two fatalities this past week, 14 were drivers, seven were passengers and one was a pedestrian. Three of the drivers were motorcyclists.

The investigating officers preliminary reports show alcohol was involved in eight fatalities, while speed was present in 16 and driver error in 21.

Persons killed through July 12 total 426, 59 more than the number killed in the same period last year.

DKG Workshop Held

The summer workshop of Delta Kappa Gamma was held at Anna Bishop's cottage at Green Glade, June 17. Items of business included auditing the books and compiling a budget. The members dined on a covered dish meal.

Farming in Maryland

Specialist Notes Alternatives For

Dairy Farmers With Feed Surpluses

With a healthy feed grain situation in the state, Maryland dairy farmers have alternatives which may not exist in some other areas for helping to ease the economic squeeze now facing the nation's dairy industry.

So says Dr. John W. Wysong, Extension farm management specialist and professor of agricultural economics at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Dairy farms in Maryland often produce most of the feed energy consumed by their cows. Dr. Wysong notes, Thus, they are in a good position to diversify by shifting from production of surplus milk and dairy beef to off-farm cash sales of excess feed grains and oilseed crops.

The booming Delmarva broiler industry is an ever-increasing consumer of corn and soybean, the Extension specialist pointed out. And Maryland farmers have ready access to the world export markets through the Port of Baltimore.

During the 1970's and early 1980's, Dr. Wysong commented, many Maryland dairy farmers found that cash returns per hour of labor and monetary returns to limited capital resources were higher from increased cash grain production than they would have been from higher total milk production when cows per worker and milk output per cow were already at high levels.

Non-tillable pastureland with adequate water and shade can frequently be rented to neighboring dairy or beef cattle farmers, Dr. Wysong pointed out. This alternative can be especially appealing to older or part-time farmers who need or want to reduce their work schedules.

Those farmers who feel that they are "strapped in" to their dairy enterprise will need to examine ways to keep costs per unit of production low and declining if they are to weather the approaching period of predicted financial adversity.

Where buildings, milking parlor size or equipment may seem to limit total output, managers should seek changes in labor scheduling and low-cost housing and feeding additions to produce more meat and milk at a smaller cost per unit than formerly.

Other opportunities for lowering cost per unit of output include breeding better cattle, using better-balanced feed rations and improving management of the overall farm business, Wysong concluded.

Production of summer potatoes is forecast at 342,000 cwt, 12 percent above last year.

Acres, at 1,900 acres, is 100 acres more than in 1980 and yields are expected to be up 10 cwt. per acre to 180 cwt.

Commercial fruit production was damaged earlier this year by frost and diseases. Apple production is expected to total 75 million pounds, 15 million pounds below last year's production. Peach production is forecast at 19 million pounds, equal to last year's drought-reduced crop.

4-H Club News

Bittinger Club

The Bittinger 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on July 6 at the Bittinger Fire Hall. It was learned that a group of 4-H members had been involved in an accident in DeWitt, Iowa, and had received burns. The club agreed to send the burn victims get-well cards and a check of $100.00 to help them and their families.

The contribution was made possible through funds raised at a spaghetti dinner which was held at the Bittinger Fire hall, as well as from a quilt raffle and flower and craft sales.

Plans for a fair booth and float were also discussed.

Entry Blanks For Eastern Livestock Show Available

Entry blanks and premium lists are now available for the 35th annual Eastern National Livestock Show to be held at the Maryland State Fair Grounds in Timonium October 2-11.

The entry deadline is August 15, according to John Wildesen, Show Manager, who added that entries received after that date and until September 26 will be charged a double fee. No entries will be taken after September 26.

More than $50,000 in premiums will be paid to winning livestock exhibitors by the Eastern National and breed associations.

Wildesen said there will be judging classes for eight breeds of cattle, two more than in previous years. The new beef breed classes will be Limousin and Chianina. Other beef judging shows will be Angus, Hereford, Polled Hereford, Charolais, Shorthorn and Simmental.

Ten major breeds of sheep will be shown and judged by Richard Smith, of Ohio State University. More than 50 hogs, which have been on a feed test since last June, will also be evaluated live before they are carcass evaluated by swine experts from the University of Maryland.

More than 500 4-H Club and FFA steers, breeding heifers, market lambs and market hogs also are expected from a 12-state area.

Wildesen said that some 600 participants are expected to enter the six national horse, dairy and livestock judging contests.

For more information on entries, premiums and show schedule, persons may write to the Eastern National Livestock Show, Maryland State Fairgrounds, Timonium, Md. 21093.

Cost Of Feed Remains High

Maryland feed costs for June remained above a year ago. The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service reports mid-June increases ranging from 12 to 32 percent above a year earlier.

Prices were nixed when compared to mid-May as 20 and 32 percent protein dairy feed increased $10.00, however, 16 and 18 percent protein dairy feed dropped nearly $5.00, while broiler feed dropped $10.00 per ton. All other feed prices were unchanged.

The prices producers received in June for most commodities were above a year ago, except for beef cattle at $50.50, off $2.10. The Index of Prices Received for all commodities rose 27 points (13 percent) above a year earlier and three points (one percent) above the previous month. Increased prices in June for livestock products outweighed declining crop prices.

The Livestock and Livestock Products Index rose 20 points (10 percent) above June 1980 and six points (three percent) above May 1981. Beef cattle, broilers and hog prices posted gains, while calves and egg prices dropped from a month earlier. The individual prices by specie are as follows: beef cattle $50.50 per cwt., up 70 cents; calves, $85.10, down $3.00 per cwt.; hogs, $47.50 per cwt., up $7.00; and broilers, $0.5 cents per pound up 1.5 cents.

The All Crops Index, at 283, rose 43 points (20 percent) above June 1980, but decreased three points (one percent) from May. The largest declines were for barley, at $2.12, down 64 cents per bushel and hay at $77.50, losing 50 cents per ton. Other crops showing declines were oats, soybeans and wheat.

MDA Official Claims Fruit Supplies Ample

Consumers and sellers of fruit should bear in mind that, despite concern over supply interruptions from California due to an insect problem, ample supplies of Maryland-grown peaches and other fruits are now coming to market, according to an official of the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Sidney C. Miller, Chief of the Department's Marketing Division, points out that "the staff of the Marketing Division stands ready to assist commercial buyers line up sources of Maryland produced peaches. We know who the producers are and can help out in efforts to contact them."

He also sounded a note of caution for consumers regarding the widely publicized fruit fly problem in California and its possible effect on supplies and prices of some fruits.

While it is true that California is a major supplier of many fruits," Miller said, "it is also true that many of these items are grown in commercial quantities in Maryland and other states.

It is important that people don't panic and that they weigh carefully their wholesale and retail buying decisions to examine total supply and source availability before being goaded into paying ultra high prices in a scramble to secure supplies.

A disorderly market in any commodity, especially fresh fruit, does not any one good and often time results in product and dollar waste. We have fine peaches here in Maryland for example and the Marketing Division of Maryland Department of Agriculture stands ready to help get them to market," Miller said.

SCENES FROM REAL LIFE dominate the work of Tom Simpson, whose paintings are now being displayed at the library in Oakland. A son of Glen and Reba Simpson, Mt. Lake Park, Tom enjoys music, art, and outdoor activities. This is his first art exhibit, with the exception of a small exhibit at West Virginia Wesleyan which he took part in, sponsored by the collective art department. Simpson views his art the finished product as an "outlet" enabling him "to see certain things about his feelings" when complete. He said he paints on a commission basis from photographs, and is hoping that the sale of his artwork will help finance his education. Simpson said he plans to continue with art and pursue music as a career. The exhibit in Oakland will be up about three weeks.

A TRANQUIL MOUNTAIN SCENE, drawn from sketches and memory by Tom Simpson, 20, Mt. Lake Park, is among several paintings now on display at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. Simpson, a student at West Virginia Wesleyan at Buckhannon, W. Va., has been painting since his early years of high school. Having taken two semesters of painting courses, Simpson has more recently experimented with varied styles of painting, including cubism (breaking subject matter down into geometric forms and straighter edges) and pointalism (the use of tiny spots which blend together to form a picture when seen from a distance). Although he said his classes at school have "turned his painting into art," Simpson is not an art major, but an applied music major who plays the trumpet in jazz bands, the school's wind ensemble and the concert band. Working toward a bachelor of arts degree, Simpson hopes to go on to a music school to obtain his master's. Simpson is a member of the group "Jazzy Jam" which will perform in the Garrett County area this summer.

Talk Of The Towns

What's Going On In

by Wendell Keaton
Municipal Administrator

FRIENDSVILLE - JULY 6
During the July 6 Council meeting, discussions were held regarding recreational development, a sewage extension project, the new housing development project and the sewer moratorium which has recently been imposed on the Town.

The Town's Municipal Administrator was requested to obtain property appraisals on approximately 18.9 acres of land in Friendsville which is being considered for purchase and development under Program Open Space. Once preliminary appraisals have been obtained, the Friendsville Recreation Committee will meet to discuss future arrangements.

A report from the Zoning Appeals Board was introduced during the Council meeting with the recommendation that property being considered for the Guardian Apartment complex be re-zoned from R-1 to R-2. A motion to this effect was made by Council but died for lack of a second. The matter will be discussed at a later Council meeting.

The Town's Municipal Administrator presented information pertaining to a proposed sewer extension project along Bear Creek which would serve approximately 25 customers. Since the exact State and EPA procedural requirements were not available before the Council meeting, this matter was also tabled until a later date.

MT. LAKE PARK - JULY 14

Mayor Russell B. Alexander was re-elected to the office of Mayor in the July 14 Town election. Mayor Alexander, who was unopposed on the ballot, received 61 votes.

Two council representatives were to be elected. George Welling was the only registered candidate, and he was elected with 57 votes. Write-in candidates were David Turney, David Mountain and Max Messenger. David Turney won as a write-in with 50 votes.

The two councilmen and Mayor Alexander will be sworn in at the Council's next meeting, Tuesday, July 28.

KITZMILLER - JULY 17

The major business items presented during the July 17 meeting of the Kitzmiller Mayor and Town Council included the following:

1. Discussion was held regarding insurance premiums for the Town's Community Building. The Administrator was instructed to request additional insurance proposals for this coverage before the next Council meeting.

2. The Tax Collector presented a report to Council regarding 1980-81 tax receipts. Total taxes collected amounted to $8,257.64, while $630.27 remains unpaid.

3. Problems with coal trucks passing through Town which are apparently overloaded and creating a severe dust problem was also discussed. The Maryland State Police will be informed of this situation and requested to investigate.

4. The Town has received no information from BetterVision regarding the pending sale of that Company's cable TV franchise to Cableentertainment. The administrator was instructed to contact BetterVision to determine their future intentions regarding cable TV in Kitzmiller.

5. A motion was made and seconded to increase the Town employee's salary and to provide an additional fringe benefit package which includes paid holidays and a week's vacation.

GRANTSVILLE - JULY 20

During Monday night's Council meeting, considerable attention was devoted to discussion on obtaining a police car for the Town. Specifications for the car were developed and the Town will advertise for bids in a local paper.

A status report was requested from the consulting engineer as to progress on a water analysis underway in Grantsville. Since the Town is presently experiencing a water shortage resulting in reduced water pressure, residents are urged to reduce their water consumption until further notice from Town officials. Specifically, residents are asked not to water their lawns or wash automobiles until the water storage capacity is replenished.

Council stated various objections and raised questions concerning the recently submitted Sewer System Evaluation Study. The engineering firm will be contacted and asked to respond.

The existing sewer moratorium was also discussed. The Town's Administrator was instructed to contact the State Health Department and inform that agency of activities underway or proposed to correct the problem in hopes of having the moratorium lifted.

Professional liability insurance for the Mayor and Council was also discussed. Additional information will be made available to Council during the August meeting.

OAKLAND - JULY 6

by Kathy Bailey
In addition to regular business matters the following items were addressed by the Mayor and Town Council:

1. Council agreed to enter into a contract with C&G Glass, Accident, for the purpose of refacing the Town's two water tanks. Mayor H.D. Schwartztruber informed Council that C&G Glass stated it could repair the tanks for a fee of about $1200.

Prior to Monday's meeting the council had contracted the services of SPECS, Inc., Frostburg, to evaluate the condition of the tanks and to provide an outline of available financing and estimated costs for repairing the tanks or constructing new ones.

A grant for construction of a new tank was made available from Farmers Home Administration in the amount of $210,000. That coupled with a $13,000 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission, and a local share of $120,000 in the form of a FmHA loan would cover the estimated cost of constructing a new tank at a total sum of $343,000, according to a report prepared by SPECS, Inc. That firm advised Council that it would not be feasible to attempt to rehabilitate the older tank, and that at least one new concrete tank should be constructed.

Council received other opinions as to the condition of the tanks and methods of rehabilitation. One area resident advised Council that the original tanks appear to be intact, but that a layer of Gunite which had been installed on the outside of the tanks had crumbled away in some areas.

The motion to contract the services of C&G Glass carried with three affirmative votes. That firm will replace Gunite which has broken away outside of the tanks.

2. Ward Hinebaugh and J.B. Mumma were present to discuss the condition of a wall at Ward's Bar on Second Street. Hinebaugh informed Council that the wall is bulging out due to improper curb installation by the Town nearly 35 years ago. According to Hinebaugh and Mumma, the curb sits on top of the pavement, allowing water to run underneath the sidewalk and freeze, causing damage to the wall.

Tom Jones, attorney for the council, noted that the street appears to be sinking as the wall is bulging out, and he added that the cause seems to be related to curb installation.

According to the Town Charter, the Town is responsible for installing curbs and the citizen is responsible for the sidewalks. Repair of that wall was put out to bid in April, and Council received two bids for the work. The apparent low bidder is Metheny Brothers, Kingwood, W. Va., with an estimate of $1,380 to replace the wall, sidewalk and railing.

Mumma, a former road construction supervisor, informed Council that the existing railing could be reused, and that the entire wall would not have to come out. The existing footers are intact. Council requested that Mumma provide recommendations regarding repair of the wall and bids received, to act upon the matter at a later date.

3. A Proposed Revenue Sharing Use Hearing was held, and Council announced that Revenue Sharing funds will be used to pay the principal on water bonds for 1980 and 1974, to purchase Workman's Compensation for Town employees, to pay for Revenue Sharing advisory services, to pay for municipal improvements for municipally-owned buildings and to purchase a typewriter for City Hall.

4. Council awarded a bid for operation of the concession stand at Broadford Recreation Area to David Beard, effective immediately.

5. Paul Frantz and Don Stemple of the Mt. Top Softball League requested permission from Council to hire a surveyor for the purpose of determining the feasibility of constructing a softball field and parking area near Broadford Lake within the recreation area. Permission was granted by Council.

6. Dennis Colaw of the Southern Garrett Athletic Association requested Council to grant permission for use of the Broadford Recreation Area for the next five years for the Seafood Festival, so the event could be included in the Annual Calendar of Events in Maryland, and in the Garrett County Vacationland Guide. Council agreed to have the Southern Garrett Athletic Association sponsor the Seafood Festival at Broadford for the next five years.

Over 100 stockholder-members and their families attended the session.

Who's Running The Show?

Even though the county commissioners ruled Friday that they are against sludge dumping in Garrett County, the crisis seems far from over. Modern Earthlines, the company which has the contract to haul this material, has indicated it will "take this issue right to the mat," which is to be expected when one considers that this company stands to gain several hundred thousand dollars on the project. Modern Earthlines is expected to challenge the commissioners' authority to rule on the project by proclaiming themselves as a local health board. Although there may be some question as to whether this move by the commissioners will hold up in court, this power has been used successfully before. A few years ago Allegany County commissioners utilized the same power when the sludge question arose in their county.

It seems to us that, regardless of the number of committees and state government officials who rule in favor of the project, if the residents of Garrett County and the government of Garrett County do not want to have any part of the project, then there should be no project. To allow a commercial enterprise, such as Modern Earthlines, to, in effect, usurp the power of a county government is outrageous. It makes a mockery of county authority and indicates some severe problems with the overall system of government. As Commissioner Ernie Gregg stated this morning, "It really makes one wonder just who's running the show."

We still fail to understand why Baltimore cannot compost the overflow of sludge until they complete the construction of their sludge incinerator. We do not need, nor want, Baltimore's sludge. Our mine reclamation has done quite well without it.

As we stated last week, the officials who claim the sludge is harmless, as long as it is monitored and treated, may be correct. However, ten or 20 years down the road, when the monitoring and treatment fades away, will those heavy metals leach out and contaminate our soils and waterways? Why should we take that risk?

Dawn's Early Light . . .

by Carol Kappel

Wednesday morning. Weekly newspaper. Publishing day. It's 4 a.m. Jarrred from my sleep by the incessant jangling of that obnoxious alarm, I know I must respond. It's darker than the inside of a pocket. The birds are still in bed. I just can't do it—not yet. Five more minutes. No.

My feet touch the floor, and I notice the chill in the room. It's 4:08 a.m. Hot coffee would help. No time. Must get to the office.

The clothing falls into place out of habit. Run the comb through the hair. I open the door. The cool dampness hits my face as sandalled feet brush through the wet grass.

The car door is heavy, the handle, cold. The engine springs to life. Wipers come. Headlights cast beams of light through the pines. Seat belt locked. I'm on my way.

My office. I'm alone here for a while. The stairway is dark and forbidding. But the light switch. That's better.

The coffee pot. Boiling water soon carries the savory infusion from the freshly ground beans. The light goes on. It's ready.

Catching the steaming hot cup, I sit before my typewriter. It's 5:08 a.m. Daybreak. The town is awakening. Morning sounds filter through the open window. The 5:30 train. Right on time.

The back door slams. A co-worker. Good morning. Time to begin. Deadline is just a few hours away.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor

If I were a coin hunter, I would have to stop my activity, after seeing Craig Phillips photograph of those captivating raccoons. How does he ever come along just at the correct time to find this wildlife?

If I were influential with the proper people, that picture would be the one selected for National Wildlife Week.

Praises to this extraordinary photographer.

Margaret M. Harless

Dear A. Sinell

I am concerned that some of your readers may actually believe the baseless charges made by ex-Senator Clifford Friend in last week's "Letters to the Editor," thus I am writing to attempt to set the record straight.

The industrial expansion financing for which Senator Friend objects in no way creates any liability on Garrett County's government, or on us as County taxpayers, as Senator Friend wants us to believe. Garrett County was not requested to, nor did it consent to, stand behind this expanding company's obligation to pay back the bondholders. Senator Friend could not be further from the truth when he charges that this expanding Garrett County industry cannot obtain a loan "unless the taxpayers . . . underwrite the venture by permitting bonds secured by the County to be issued." There is not a shred of truth to this statement.

However, I do find it ironic that Senator Friend now condemns the county tax exemption which once was offered to new and expanding industry in Garrett County. The fact which Senator Friend conveniently neglected to mention was that he was Garrett County's state Senator, and co-sponsor of the 1960 law which exempted certain businesses from paying both county and municipal taxes.

Sincerely yours,
Thomas D. Jones, Director
Garrett County Economic Development Department

Dear Editor

I recently read in The Republican the crime in our county is on the increase. Now I can understand why!

How frustrating it must be for our law enforcement officers as well as the D.A. office to bring lawbreakers to justice only to have them be given suspended sentences.

If the courts would crack down and lawbreakers had to serve their sentences, or at least most of it, most likely the crime rate would drop.

As it is, people no longer have respect for the law. Can you blame them?

Theft, Vandalism Head Complaints

Two thefts in the Deep Creek Lake area were reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department last week.

Brian F. Routh, Deer Park, told police that someone removed a canvas boat cover, two brassing poles, six life preservers and a Cypress water ski from his outboard motor boat while it was tied to a buoy 50 feet from shore during the night of July 13. The incident occurred at his summer home at Turkey Neck Road near the Yacht Club. The estimated loss value of the items stolen is $363.

In a separate incident, Walter C. Hitchins, Frostburg, reported that his 3-speed, 26-inch bicycle was stolen from Glen Acres Campground while he was camping there late Saturday night. The bicycle is described as yellow with chrome wheels and fenders, and it is valued at approximately $111. Police said two witnesses observed two white males in that vicinity about the time of the theft.

The department heard reports of at least six cases of vandalism last week, which occurred in various parts of the county.

Celeste P. Upole, Mt. Lake Park, told police she heard a noise on her porch Saturday afternoon and upon investigation found that three of her hanging planters had been pulled from the porch ceiling, damaging two of the planters and all three plants. Mrs. Upole observed a subject fleeing the porch area, and investigation revealed that the culprits apparently had been lying down in a quantity of cow manure in a neighbor's garden, police said.

Mrs. Upole told police of a second incident which occurred in her garden during the early morning hours on Thursday. Unknown persons pulled five tomato plants, 14 potato plants and two bean plants from the soil and let them lay. Two sunflower ornaments were also pulled from the garden, but were found nearby. The total estimated loss value of both incidents is $50.

Four destructions of property involved the breaking of windows and doors.

Edward F. Jamison, Oakland, reported that someone used an electric motor pole to break the glass pane and damage the walk-in doors to his school bus. The incident occurred while the bus was parked on East Oak Street near Joe's Place, during the night on Thursday. The loss in damages is unknown.

Gary E. Galloway of Bloomington Elementary School reported that someone climbed on top of the school building early Wednesday evening, opened the top sky window and broke off a piece of the inter sky window, found in the hallway by a worker. Police obtained fingerprints to aid in investigation. The loss value is undetermined at this time.

In a separate case, Arthur C. Rounds, Grantsville, reported that someone used a .22 caliber weapon to shoot two windows out of his barn on Route 40 east of Grantsville. The incident occurred late Sunday night, July 12, and the vandals destroyed two 11x16-inch windows. Police found three lead bullets on the floor directly below the windows. No loss value has been placed on the damage.

Lois Ann Shimizu, McHenry, told police that unknown persons broke the door knob and dented the door of her apartment at Driftwood Manor, sometime during the night on Sunday. A screen from the kitchen window was also removed and placed on the ground. Loss value of the damage is unknown.

In a separate case, Southern Middle School reported the destruction of that school's mailbox, located in the parking area, sometime last weekend. Unknown persons blew apart the mailbox with an explosive device, and police found powder burns and a dent on the floor of the box. The replacement value is approximately $35.

In other business, the department arrested two persons last week.

Gerald Broadwater, 36, was arrested July 15 on a bench warrant from Allegany County. He was released to Allegany County authorities.

Kenneth W. Pierce, 18, Deer Park, was incarcerated Sunday and charged with destruction of property and theft. He was released the same day on $10 unsecured bond.

Youth Charged In Relation To Sexual Assault

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department Thursday charged a 14-year-old Friendsville youth on juvenile petition, following an incident of sexual assault upon a seven-year-old girl, also from the Friendsville area, on Wednesday.

The department was notified by Garrett County Memorial Hospital Thursday morning of a possible rape victim. Examination revealed that the child had been sexually assaulted. Her cousin is charged in connection with the offense, and police said the charge would be second degree rape if he were an adult.

The child had been at the home of her aunt and uncle Wednesday afternoon for about five hours. Police said the children were playing outside when the boy carried his cousin into the woods.

The girl apparently informed her mother of the assault late Wednesday evening. She was treated and released at Garrett Memorial Hospital, as she was not bruised or injured in any way other than in direct connection with the assault.

A detention hearing was held Thursday following the arrest of the youth charged, and he was released to the custody of his mother, pending a juvenile hearing on the charges alleged.

Gasoline Use, Revenue Down

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Revenue from Maryland's tax on motor fuels, which has steadily declined as gas prices have soared, was slightly lower in fiscal year 1981 than in the previous fiscal year, and gas usage dropped again in May, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said Tuesday.

The state collected $187.19 million in gas taxes during the year that ended June 30, down slightly from the $187.27 million collected during the previous 12-month period.

Even the relatively stable or falling prices of recent months have not lured motorists back to the pump enough to increase gasoline consumption," Goldstein said.

The revenue received from the sale of gasoline and from the road tax on trucking companies was less than that collected last year," said Goldstein. "Only the tax on diesel fuel posted an increase, reflecting the ever growing number of diesel powered vehicles."

Figures compiled by the comptroller's office also showed gas consumption in Maryland in May was down 1.8 percent from the May 1980 figure.

Second Impression Bats, Balls And Bucks

by Harry Fox

After forty days and nights the Lord brought the sun out from behind the clouds, and Noah's hope was reborn in the guise of a leafy branch deposited on the deck of his water-logged ark. It's been forty long days now, and at this writing the veteran watchers of the baseball strike are divided about the meaning of the "news blackout" thrown over the stalled negotiations. The explanation is that the media interest in the baseball strike is preventing the talks from proceeding in earnest. Of course, the people who say that are the same individuals who are willing to pay, and receive, the six and seven-figure salaries that have become part of the modern sporting business.

That's exactly what it is—a business. It is time to unveil the cold facts behind the selling of the great American summer game. The merchandisers of sports have created the impression that it is a sellers' market. So the cost of tickets and TV rights swells with the egos of the persons involved. Sports is a carefully controlled commodity. The obvious link between television as a reporter of the strike, and television as a major profiteer from the sport, hasn't been commented on thus far. But it is too obvious to ignore, and so these thoughts emerge.

Television sells sports. Watch the shenanigans of the Pittsburgh stations as they compete for mass appeal in the marketplace. The pitch seems aimed at beer-swilling blue-collar workers. The sad thing is how the public continues to fall for the contrived argument, the canned invective, "Commentators" offer their insights on the game, or in this case, the absence of action in the ball parks. But the consumer is supposed to accept it all, with no more input than to say "give me an 'I-C' Light'."

It would be fun to be humorous about the strike. As in every dispute, there are compelling human interest stories. But, it is becoming difficult to watch the owners and players engage in their contest to the oohs and aahs of the assembled media. It is, after all is said and done, a game. The game is not played with bats and balls, but with bucks.

Oh, cynic. There is a green branch of hope after all. From around the country come reports of skyrocketing interest in Little League and other amateur baseball. It is as if people are saying "foul ball!" to the spectacle of greedy interests competing, not for the loyalty of the fan, but for his dollar. One could wish that the money saved from the unsold stadium seats would be spent on uniforms and equipment for thousands of amateur teams.

What irony it would be. The business interests would emerge from their closed rooms to face a generation of fans who've discovered the real thing, only to stop caring about the business of sport for sale.

"This continues the decline that began in February 1981, when price decontrol sent the retail price of gasoline skyrocketing to record levels," said Goldstein.

Goldstein's office also announced this week that gasoline sales in the state plummeted to their lowest level in 16 months during May. The 792.876 gallons of the blend of alcohol and gasoline sold during the month was less than half the nearly 17 million gallons of gasoline consumed during May 1980.

The continued oversupply and the stable or declining retail price of gasoline have contributed to the fall off in use of gasoline," said Goldstein.

Gasoline sales in Maryland began in late spring 1979, just as lines were forming at retail service stations and supplies of gasoline grew tight.

Sales peaked in March 1980 at just over two million gallons.

Gasoline never accounted for more than a small fraction of the sales of motor fuel here in Maryland," Goldstein said.

Vehicle Accidents Result In Charges

Maryland State Police investigated a vehicle accident involving a rather unusual set of circumstances last week, according to a report supplied by the Garrett County detachment.

According to the records, two men were traveling west on U.S. 48 when the right front spring shackle on the vehicle snapped, causing the operator to lose control of the 1976 International truck, loaded with furniture. The truck overturned, and when state police investigated, the driver and passenger informed Tfc. W. W. Rice that they were federal inmates at the Robert F. Kennedy Prison in Morgantown, W. Va.

Tfc. Rice immediately confirmed the fact that both men were on an assigned work detail, with full permission of West Virginia authorities. Following clean-up procedures, the prisoners continued on their assigned mission. In a separate incident, Michael Thomas McGee, 18, Bradley Manor, was arrested last week by Maryland State Police on charges of driving while intoxicated and negligent driving following a single-vehicle accident on Rt. 40. According to the police, McGee was eastbound on an apparent high rate of speed when he lost control, went off the right side of the road, struck the guardrails, and overturned.

A Friendsville woman, Pearl Gladys VanSickle, 58, was involved in an accident Saturday afternoon on the Chestnut Ridge Road at the Rt. 40 intersection.

According to the report, the VanSickle vehicle was northbound on the Chestnut Road and an auto driven by Craig W. Waldron, 17, Uniontown, Pa., was eastbound on U.S. Rt. 40. The reports states that the VanSickle woman reported she stopped at the intersection and looked both ways before proceeding. The Waldron auto struck the VanSickle car in the left rear door, spinning it around to face south in the northbound lane.

Tfc. Dale Williams charged

Mrs. VanSickle with failure to yield at a stop sign.

Looking At Antiques With The Country Boy

by Dave Bowman

ART DECO

Art Deco was a celebration of the joy of life, the ecstasy of love and the challenge of progress. It was a doctrine of clean lines and functional forms.

Art Deco can be dated between the two world wars but in actuality, it had its beginning around the turn of the century. This style of design was the first to successfully combine mass production and master craftsmanship. This school of design was a world apart.

from the flowing and superfluous concepts of Art Nouveau.

The influence of Art Deco can be found in everything from fashion to architecture and it signifies a totality of design.

In collecting Art Deco you will find that even the mediocre remains of the styles found bring prices that belie its modernity. The best of Art Deco such as the works of Tiffany or Lalique command prices equal to those pieces of true antiquity.

We are always interested in buying good antiques—one piece or a houseful.

Broad Ford Honors 52 Physical Fitness Winners

NHS ALUMNI TO MEET — The even year graduates of Northern High School will face the odd year graduates this Friday evening in the first Northern Alumni Bowl, slated to get underway at 8 p.m. on the Northern field. Coaching the odd year Huskies will be former Northern High and Fairmont State College standout, George Edwards, while former NHS mentor Jack Lear will be calling the signals for the even year squad. Pictured above are even year grads, front row, left to right, Gary Baumann, Mike O'Brien, Dave Bender, Rick Wakefield, Terry Stanton and Rick Platter. In the second row, same order, are Coach Lear, Mark Lawson, Gary King, Barry Frazee, Jack Thomas, Randy Spear and Dave Frazee. Below are the odd year Huskies, front row, left to right, Don Lipscomb, Larry Edgar, Paul Miller, Gary Sebold and George VanSickle. In the second row, same order, are Jack Settle, present NHS coach, Lynn Brenneman, Pork Wilt, Corky Wachter, Greg Carr, Dale Umbel and Rick Yommer. Not pictured are Buddy Fauber, Jim Thomas, Steve Fratz, Keith Kamp and Joe Wilhelm. Proceeds from the game will go toward the betterment of athletic programs at Northern High School.

Broad Ford Elementary School recently honored its 52 President's Physical Fitness winners. Wayne R. Johnson, principal, and Phil Caruso, physical education instructor, distributed certificates of recognition from President Reagan and fitness award patches.

The 52 students who received the certificates and patches also received during the school year a trophy for achieving the President's Award. To receive these awards the students had to perform at an 85% fitness level so high in some students' tests, which included the long jump, pullups, shuttle run, sit-ups, 40-yard dash, and the 600-yard run.

Broad Ford began the fitness program three years ago to improve the overall physical fitness ability in grades 3-5. Awards were also presented to boys and girls who scored 75% and 50% in all six events, and progress awards for those who improved. The program was based on a wide variety of incentives ranging from school certificates, ribbons, club membership, recognition, patches, and trophies.

The first year of the program, Broad Ford had four President's fitness winners, the second year, six President's winners, and this year 52 President's fitness winners. The level of fitness reached was so high in some students' tests that a school Hall of Fame was established for students who scored 95% in all six events. Fifteen of the students reached the Hall of Fame level. Broad Ford P.T.A. financed the awards for the program. Several staff members also contributed to the program. They were Barry Domenick, who did all of the charts and posters, Keith Harvey, Virginia Grove, Rosalee Freeman, Diana Lovelace, Randee Smith, Ramona Fries, Elaine Sharpless, Marnie Wilt, Jean Eberly, and Wayne Johnson.

Ram Gridders To Compete In East-West Game

The ninth annual East-West Shrine football game, sponsored by the Alt Ghan Shrine Temple in Cumberland, will be played this Friday, July 24, at South Hien Stadium in Hagerstown. The West team, which has won all the previous meetings, will include three members of the 1980 Southern High School varsity team, which took the regional Class C Championship last year.

Dave Beard, George Scheffel and Wayne Scott, all senior standouts on the 1980 Ram Squad, will be participating for the westerners, along with students from Allegany County and Mineral, Grant and Hampshire counties in West Virginia.

Beard is a 5'10", 170 lb. defensive end. Scheffel, a 5'11", 180-pounder, will be playing linebacker. Scott will assume the position of defensive back. He is 5'10", 160 pounds.

Also taking part from Southern is coach Tom Woods, who is defensive coordinator for the West team.

High schools composing the East team are from Washington County and Jefferson and Berkeley counties in West Virginia.

Head coach of the West team is John Peterson, former head coach at Frostburg State College and now assistant coach at Holy Cross.

Among the other standouts on the West team are Bryan Dougherty, defensive back; Player of the Year and Joey Mullan, All-Area fullback, both from Allegany High School; Todd Beal, All-Area linebacker from Fort Hill High School; and P.A. Hedman, running back, and Jeff Kuhn, All-Area tight end, both of Keyser.

The game is part of the 1980 Shrine-O-Rama. All proceeds will go toward the Shrine-sponsored crippled children's hospitals.

Island Creek Tops Hyndman In Pen-Mar Action

Island Creek upped its record to 12-10 in the Pen-Mar League on Sunday by sweeping visiting Hyndman, 24 and 7-0, thus avenging a doubleheader loss to the Pennsylvanians earlier this season. The double victory was not enough, however, to move Island Creek up in the standings. The coalition are currently in fifth place.

Mark Tysinger accounted for both of Island Creek's runs in the opener, driving in the tying score on a fielder's choice, and then rapping a solo home run in the seventh to secure the win.

Hyndman took a 1-0 lead in the top of the second until Greg Beachy doubled in the bottom of the fourth for Island Creek and was plated by Tysinger's hit.

Taking the win at the mound was Dean Marsico, as Devon Hosselrodt absorbed the loss for fourth-place Hyndman.

In the nightcap, Corky Sweitzer cracked a three-run blast and a single to pace Island Creek's offensive attack, while Tysinger added still another solo shot.

Island Creek tosser Rick Coleman gave up only four hits. Mike Matthews took the loss.

Island Creek will host Bel Air this evening in a 6:30 exhibition contest and will entertain first-place Everett on Sunday for a 2 p.m. doubleheader. The Island Creek diamond is located just south of Bayard, W.Va.

YCC Receives Additional Funds

Maryland's YCC (Youth Conservation Corps) got a boost late in June when Maryland allocated an additional $34,000 for youth summer jobs that other states were unable to use. The additional 29 jobs for youth 15-18 years of age enabled the state YCC program to form two new projects and expand two others. Maryland now administers 14 YCC projects, employing 238 young people.

The YCC is a summer employment program designed for young men and women to further the development and conservation of the natural resources of the United States. The program was developed to accomplish needed conservation work on public lands, provide gainful employment for young people and to develop in the participating youth and understanding and appreciation of natural environment and heritage, according to Forest and Park Services representatives.

and improving wildlife habitat. Potomac/Garrett State Forest and the Audubon Naturalist Society of the Central Atlantic States, Inc., are the two new projects made possible by the additional federal money.

The projects located in Garrett County and the number of enrollees are: Herrington Manor State Park, 11, and Potomac/Garrett State Forest, with eight enrollees.

Each YCC enrollee is paid for 30 hours of work each week and is obligated to devote 10 additional hours each week to environmental awareness activities. Youth chosen to participate are selected by random selection process. There are limited positions available each summer and previous enrollees are not eligible. The youth in the program accomplish valuable conservation work that would not otherwise be done in Maryland, according to Maryland Forestry representatives.

The cost of buying a new home has gone through the roof. But this week, Congress can help bring it back down to earth.

If you've entered the home-buying market recently, you know how agonizing it is.

And you're not alone. Not by a longshot.

It's been estimated that 90 percent of the American public can't afford to buy a home.

And you know one of the big reasons.

Mortgage rates are outrageous. Well, right now, because of a

So, while Congress is about to save the savings institutions, let them also save those customers who've traditionally been those institutions' bread and butter. Namely, the homebuyers.

CONGRESS HAS THE SOLUTION AT HAND.

The House Ways and Means Committee has a proposed amendment to the Tax bill that would use the most

IF A CONGRESSIONAL BILL EVER NEEDED A STRING ATTACHED, THIS IS IT.

As most people know, Congress is debating a tax cut.

But not many people know that there's a part of the Tax bill that allows financial institutions to offer what are called Tax Exempt Savings Certificates.

That sounds great. It would presumably cause many people to rush right in and buy those Certificates, and not be taxed on the interest.

A mortgage payment before the Savings Certificates.

It helps savers. It helps savings institutions get more money.

What's needed, though, is a guarantee that the money that comes into those institutions gets earmarked for people to borrow in order to buy a home.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas has come up with a similar proposal.

Under both plans, the money accumulated by those Certificates would be targeted for mortgages.

That means homebuyers would get lower mortgage rates.

HOW THE AMENDMENT CAN HELP YOU AFFORD A HOME.

Here's how the theory goes:

Say you've just bought a home with a $60,000 mortgage at today's going rate—about 16 percent. Your monthly payment is $807.

But if the savings institutions had more "lower-cost" money to lend, thanks to the Certificates, interest rates would go down. And if they went down even 3 percent—to 13 percent—your monthly payment would be $664, or $143 a month less.

And that could make a big difference.

THIS WOULDN'T JUST HELP AMERICA. IT WOULD HELP YOUR STATE.

The most important benefit of this Amendment, this earmark, this targeting, is that more people could afford to buy a home.

There are other good things in store, too.

One is that by making sure that money goes into mortgages, it's going to stay close to home.

Literally.

Also, by promoting the purchase of homes, you stimulate local housing construction, and you create local jobs. That means the entire local-and-state economy gets a shot in the arm.

WHAT YOU MUST DO.

You must contact your U.S. Senators, both of them!, and your U.S. Representative.

Be sure to tell your Senators you support the Bentsen Amendment to the Tax bill.

And be sure to tell your Representative you support the House Ways and Means Committee Tax bill on savings incentives tied to housing.

Since the Senate vote could come as early as this week, you'll want to contact Congress immediately.

(If you can afford it after your mortgage payment this month, send a telegram, send a mailgram or call your member of Congress.)

It isn't often Americans can make a difference on such a major issue in such a short amount of time.

This is one of those opportunities.

And the stakes are the biggest in the country.

Homes.

AMERICA CAN'T AFFORD UNAFFORDABLE HOMES.

THIS WEEK
Debbie Martinez

by Kathy Bailey

The lead character of Veronica, portrayed by Deborah Antonette Martinez in last week's play "Cradle And All," was one of her favorite parts played. The character described by Debbie as a hardened biting woman from living years of lies, in no way parallels the friendly, sensitive nature of the actress. But the poise, confidence and intelligence found in Veronica is also evident in the 22-year-old student from the University of New Mexico.

Dressed for rehearsal in leotards and ballet slippers, Debbie approaches her first professional acting experience in a serious manner, yet exhibiting an air of calmness and welcoming passers-by with a knowing smile.

She has long expressed an interest in languages, particularly French and French culture. She is also adept in the field of music and is a member of a jazz rock band in Albuquerque.

Having always debated between music and theatre, Debbie says she tends to lean toward acting, sighting more experience and confidence in that field from past endeavors. "But I enjoy music just as much," she said, "and would like to make a career out of both."

Debbie appears to be an achiever and a hard worker, having studied piano, voice, acoustic and classical guitar, the French language and dance, in addition to various aspects of the theatre. She has worked as a secretary and waitress throughout her years of college studies, including one year of music at a community college in Miami, Florida.

Debbie describes Miami as a "melting pot with a diversity of cultures." She found it to be an "interesting place to pick up accents," some of which she has used on stage. Her fascination with the people of Miami gave way to a greater love of the mountains she missed, however, motivating Debbie to return to New Mexico in 1979 as a theatre major.

During that year Miss Martinez was understudy for production, concentrating on the technical aspects of the theatre. A member of the university's theatre group, she worked with lights and sound. The experience was good, she said, as she feels "an actress needs knowledge of all aspects of the theatre to be able to function more confidently."

Debbie has displayed versatility and competence in the wide variety of characters she has portrayed on stage. In high school she portrayed a schizophrenic housewife in a play written by a fellow student, entitled "Circus." She played the part of Gloria Thorp, journalist, in "Damned Yankees," a musical production put on by her high school theatre group.

She has worked mostly with comedy, and finds the biggest challenge in that is concentration and trying to keep from laughing. Debbie said she likes to make people laugh, but also likes to get them interested in a story.

Last year Miss Martinez appeared in the "Bald Soprano," a "farce based on absurdity," she said, and she was the comic relief in "Street Scene," a dramatic play. The "Bald Soprano," the same type of play as "Pool's Paradise," the opening production of the Garrett County Playhouse, was, in her words, "very challenging, involving exaggerated language and action, without having the intention of giving a message to the audience."

It was in that play that Debbie was first faced with having to portray some age. She was faced with that challenge here for last week's performance. "It is difficult for me to relate to," she said, "but it can be done by watching older people... observing is the biggest part of acting... it's all imitation." In "Street Scene" Debbie played the part of "an old busybody" and that play involved accents, one of her major interests.

Originally a French major who has studied that language four years, Miss Martinez appeared in a French play entitled "Le Temps Sauvage" (The Savage Times) last spring at the University of New Mexico. The writer, Anne Hebert, came from Paris to direct the production, and Debbie performed the lead role of Luci, recited entirely in French. The drama deals with a family trying to break away from old habits, and the character Luci is "closed in, but wanting to break out of a shell," Debbie said.

Miss Martinez, who also speaks Spanish, states that "there is so much to gain, as an actress especially, in studying a different culture and language," adding that language study helps with diction.

The actress states that she would like to study in the provinces of Canada, or possibly in France, to fulfill desire to be in French productions. She noted that the provinces are "famous for a more intimate form of theatre," which seems to be attractive to her.

"I might like to go to San Francisco to attend the American Conservatory of Theatre and possibly get a master's degree. I would also be happy working 8 to 5 and singing at night, but that would be the last alternative," she said. Debbie is accustomed to a heavy schedule, adding that she feels she has the stamina for long working hours. "I like to keep moving... it makes me feel more complete."

Debbie indicated that she has a supportive family and many friends in New Mexico, and leaving them to come to Garrett County to rely upon her own discipline has been difficult. Her voice coach, Gene Yell, chairman of the Garrett County Playhouse, asked her to join the company. Miss Martinez said she feels she has adjusted well to the new environment here, but is anxious to return to New Mexico sometime in early August to prepare for her senior year at the College of Fine Arts.

Debbie enjoys "all aspects of the arts," and she is an accomplished painter. She loves nature, hiking and outdoor sports, including tennis and jogging. Her major ambitions, however, seem firmly set on the stage, as revealed through the sparkle in her eyes when she speaks of the art of acting.

Highway Surface Projects Scheduled

The State Highway Administration has begun surface treatment projects on roads in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington Counties. The work is scheduled for completion by September 30, 1981. The roadways in Garrett County include:

Md. 42 - from 5.2 miles north of U.S. 219 northwest to Friendsville - roadway.
Md. 42 - from Blooming Rose country road north to the Pennsylvania line - roadway.
Md. 135 - from Md. 495 westward to Sand Flat country road - shoulders only.

Surface treatment will consist of an application of asphalt, covered with 3/4" crushed stone. This will be followed by a second treatment of asphalt and 3/8" crushed stone, the SHA said.

This work is necessary due to deterioration and oxidation of the bituminous concrete (blacktop) pavement surface.

Sealing prevents moisture penetration, the SHA says, and protects the roadway from the winter "freeze/thaw cycle" which causes the perennial pothole. Sealing the roadway will also allow State Highway Administration maintenance forces to provide better maintenance service since the extent of pothole repairs will be lessened.

This type of maintenance work should not be confused with or compared with permanent blacktop pavement overlays which are generally referred to as roadway resurfacing, according to SHA. Resurfacing is a capital improvement and is programmed and budgeted with capital funds allocated by the SHA Chief Engineer and Administrator. Surface treatment funds are taken from the district's yearly maintenance budget allocation.

Approximately 22 miles of roadway are included in this work in the three counties at a cost of $300,000. Maintenance crews from SHA's District 6 (which is comprised of the three counties) will perform the surface treatment.

Motorists are requested by the SHA to reduce speed in the work areas. There will be some loose stone and dust which can cause problems if the motorists fail to reduce speed.

State Highway Administration's District Engineer for District 6, T.W. Beaulieu, will oversee the maintenance work.

TRADITION AND FAMILY CLOSENESS added to the festive mood of the wagon train group which traveled in the Grantsville area last week. Pictured above are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Russell and children, Donald, Jr., and Melissa, of Barton. The wagon train procession was organized by the Mt. Top Wagon Train Association, and participants, dressed in traditional clothing, spent a week traveling and camping. This year the group was composed of eight wagons and 11 riders. The association's membership consists of 35 families.

The GARRETT COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

by Theo Varnell

The Garrett County Playhouse will tonight present the opening of its third production of the season, "Critic's Choice," by Ira Levin. This comedy, which premiered on Broadway in 1960 (and at the Playhouse in 1963), will feature Milburn Mehlhop as drama critic Parker Ballantine whose wife (Pamela Harden) decides to write a play. Under the expert direction of Cather MacCallum the cast includes Chris von Eckartsberg, Lisa A. Thayer, Debbie Martinez and David Hollander.

To reach the Playhouse from Route 219, persons should take the Glendale Bridge Road (at Alpine Village), cross the bridge and bear right. At the first intersection, approximately one mile beyond the bridge, turn right onto the Beckman's Peninsula Road (the first intersection past the bridge). The Playhouse drive is just at the bottom of the short hill.

For information and reservations persons should call Englander's, Gregg's or Proudfoot's pharmacies in Oakland. All seats are general admission but theatre-goers are urged to make reservations, which will be honored until 8:20 on performance nights.

"Critic's Choice" will play through Saturday, and performances begin at 8:30 p.m. Next Wednesday through Saturday will feature "Road Hazards," a brace of one-act comedies written expressly for the Playhouse.

Committee Told

Department Heads Fail To Comply With Auditors' Recommendations

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A legislative committee is considering adopting a policy of denying pay raises, cutting salaries or even recommending every two years. The eight worst offenders, listed in the "very poor" category, included: Bowie State College; Coppin State College; the Maryland House of Corrections; Maryland Public Broadcasting Commission; State Aviation Administration; State Use Industries; the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service; and University Hospital.

The agencies rated "very good" for best compliance included: the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division of the Department of the Interior; the Interagency Committee for Public School Construction; the commissioners of the State Accident Fund; Frostburg State College; the Gasoline Tax Division of the comptroller's office; and the Maryland State Retirement Systems.

the firing of agency heads who repeatedly fail to comply with the recommendations of auditors, the committee's chairman said Tuesday.

Delegate John Douglass, D-Baltimore, chairman of the Joint Budget and Audit Committee, said the committee could adopt the tough new penalties later this summer.

He said the committee has already asked Gov. Harry Hughes to issue a policy directive to agency heads stating the importance of complying with audit reports, but a spokesman for Hughes said the governor has not yet seen the letter.

As a result, the committee directed legislative auditors to compile a report that rates 60 state agencies — everything from the state treasurer's office to the University of Maryland — based on their performance in complying with the recommendations by auditors. Each agency is audited at least once

In all, 39 of the agencies were rated as either "marginal," "poor" or "very poor."

The auditors said the failure of agencies to correct auditing, inventory or other fiscal procedures affected the state financially, although "the overall impact on the state taken as a whole is not material."

Since 1973, the state comptroller's office has been responsible for making follow-up checks on audited agencies, but the auditor's report to Douglass' committee concluded, "After eight years of follow-up on the part of the comptroller's office, the level of agency accountability continues to show little improvement. That is, the number of significant accounting and compliance reports remain at an unacceptable high level."

The auditors' report to the committee charged that in some instances agencies said they had corrected deficiencies noted in previous audits, but follow-up checks revealed they had not.

"It is frequently noted that although agencies inform the comptroller's office that the division's audit recommendations have been implemented, subsequent audits disclose that, in fact, no positive actions have been taken on the part of the agencies," the report said.

Douglass said because his committee is composed of the chairmen of all the House and Senate fiscal committees, it could implement the proposed penalties regarding pay raises and salaries during its routine budget review.

"We hope none of these steps are necessary, and don't think they will be after they realize we're serious about this," said Douglass.

Propane Explosion Kills One, Injures Three In Anne Arundel Co.

PASADENA, Md. (UPI) — Propane gas being pumped into a home in a residential area exploded Tuesday, killing one person and injuring three others, Anne Arundel County authorities said.

"I heard four loud booms, like thunderbolts, and then I saw the flames shooting in the air like a torch — a big torch," said Cybil Pence, a babysitter working at a nearby home.

Captain Curtis Nunn said the explosion apparently occurred while a driver for Goodwin Bros. Inc. was delivering fuel to the home, which was occupied by Cynthia Callahan, 21, and Charles Callahan, her 27-year-old husband.

"Apparently the guy was hooking up to this house, and the explosion killed him and took out the house and truck," Nunn said.

John Pauley, a 10-year-old who saw the explosion from nearby, said the truck driver tried to run, "but it was too late."

There were flames all over his back.

The name of the driver was withheld until relatives were notified.

Mrs. Callahan was flown to the burn center of City Hospitals in Baltimore, where she was listed in fair condition, while Charles Callahan was listed in stable condition at North Arundel Hospital, as was firefighter David Tule, 26.

Several people were evacuated as a precaution following the 10 a.m. blasts, police said. By noon, most residents had returned to their homes in Mountinwood, a community about 10 miles south of Baltimore.

Nearby Mountain Road was blocked off for more than three hours, as authorities doused the four-alarm fire and cleaned up debris.

Officer Who Shot, Killed Motorist Had Been Cleared Of Assault Charge

MILLERSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — A police officer who shot and killed a motorist this week was cleared last year of a brutality charge and of an assault charge in 1977, police officials said Tuesday.

The officer, David Hodge, 27, had been back on patrol duty for only a few months when the shooting occurred Monday.

He had worked until recently in the police Bureau of Identification, where he was assigned following a January 1980 ruling by an Anne Arundel County Circuit Court overturning a district court conviction on a police brutality charge.

Capt. Curtis Nunn said that charge stemmed from a November, 1979 incident in which Hodge allegedly clubbed an 18-year-old with a flashlight.

Hodge was also found innocent in circuit court of a criminal charge of assault in the shooting of a 16-year-old following a high-speed chase in July, 1977.

A Nunn said Hodge worked in the identification bureau "booking prisoners, processing crime scenes, lifting prints and taking photographs. But I don't think he liked it down there, and he repeatedly asked to be put back on patrol work."

Nunn, who supervises the Bureau of Identification, said, "I can't say why he was on the street. But I can say that some people in this department are asking that, too."

Police Chief Maxwell V. Frye

Frye said he has assigned three high-ranking officers to investigate the case and to consider pressing possible criminal and administrative charges.

"We can't even relocate 25 percent of the tenants," he said. He explained relocation would be nearly impossible because of the housing shortage in the county.

Yet, Gregg said, something must be done soon at Bradley Manor, because of the condition of the units. "Some of those units are not going to survive another winter," he said.

The commissioners plan to write a letter to HUD documenting the condition of Bradley Manor and to demand a HUD inspection at the site with the commissioners present.

HUD sent two inspectors without notifying the county to Bradley Manor July 13, apparently as a result of the talks with Dugan, Wawzinski, and Yoder. The tenants said the inspection lasted one hour and did not involve many of the units.

The commissioners asked Wawzinski to open her office to answer questions concerning the units, particularly to answer questions of tenants.

Seeks Child Support Judgement Against Transsexual Woman

WESTMINSTER, Md. (UPI) — A county prosecutor Tuesday asked that a transsexual be held in contempt of court for not paying child support to two children she sired while she was a man.

But Brenda Roberts, the former male, said she made the payment and would "hire a lawyer and appeal the case all the way."

The payment was due at the Carroll County state attorney's office by 4 p.m. Friday and assistant state attorney Marcie Sweren said it was not in the office Tuesday. Ms. Roberts said she mailed the $40 payment Friday.

"I sent the money even though I can't afford it. And I'm going to fight the order anyway. I sent the money so I wouldn't have to go to jail. I don't want to go to jail," said Ms. Roberts, 33, of Baltimore.

Ms. Sweren said Ms. Roberts could face a maximum penalty of 179 days in jail if found in contempt of court.

Ms. Roberts, divorced from her wife in 1974, was ordered two weeks ago to make child support payments of $40 a week to her two children, a son, 13, and a daughter, 10.

A similar order was issued in 1976 by a Baltimore County court, but Ms. Roberts paid only $225 of $3,800 in the case, prosecutors said. The Carroll County order is separate and does not affect the Baltimore County case, said Ms. Sweren, who is domestic relations chief in Carroll County.

"The bulk of the money is owed to Carroll County because the ex-wife lives here, but we can't collect it unless Baltimore County does something. Maybe they will, but I haven't been informed of anything," she said.

Ms. Roberts said she has been "cross-dressing" since "I was a little kid."

"One of the reasons I got married in the first place was to try to get my head together. And my former wife knew this about me. She knew what I was," Ms. Roberts said.

Ms. Roberts had a sex change operation in 1978 and now is employed full-time at a Baltimore auto parts store.

Arson Plagues Harford County Business, Residential Neighborhood

BEL AIR, Md. (UPI) — A wave of business and residential arsons has hit Harford County since July 1, with at least 17 fires investigated showing evidence of being deliberately set, the State Fire Marshal's office said Tuesday.

Spokesman Robert Thomas said the seriousness of the blazes had escalated in the past few days, but that authorities had definite leads in the cases.

"We are looking at several suspects," he said. "I don't want to speculate on any motives because we haven't completed the investigation. But some arrests are anticipated."

Two local firemen have been treated for smoke inhalation and another for burns, but no other injuries have been sustained in the rash of arsons, Thomas said.

Until last week, most of the deliberately set blazes were estimated to have caused damages of less than $500 apiece.

But Thomas said in the past seven days, a $100,000 fire swept through an automobile dealership in Street, a vacant Edgewood home was torched and a Forest Hill construction firm suffered $35,000 in fire losses.

Several people were evacuated as a precaution following the 10 a.m. blasts, police said. By noon, most residents had returned to their homes in Mountinwood, a community about 10 miles south of Baltimore.

Nearby Mountain Road was blocked off for more than three hours, as authorities doused the four-alarm fire and cleaned up debris.

GCC Faculty Members Promoted

Dr. George Dailey

Dave Slagle

Two members of the faculty at Garrett Community College were recently promoted to higher academic rank, according to Robert L. Trant, dean of the college.

Dr. George Dailey, formerly associate professor of history, has been promoted to the rank of professor. Dailey joined the faculty as assistant professor when the college opened in 1971 and was promoted to associate professor in 1974. He holds a bachelor of arts degree in history from Franklin and Marshall University, a master's degree from Temple University, and a doctor of arts in history from Carnegie-

Mellon University. Dailey lives in McHenry with his wife, Carol, and three children.

Dave Slagle, chairperson of the Math/Science and Technology Division, has been promoted from assistant professor to associate professor of chemistry. Slagle joined the faculty at Garrett in 1974 as instructor and was promoted to assistant professor in 1976. He holds a bachelor of science degree in education from West Virginia University and an M.T.S. in chemistry from William and Mary College. Slagle lives in Oakland with his wife, Carol, and two children.

control storage of 36,200 acre-feet will prevent about 46 percent of the average annual flood damages along the North Branch, according to Craig.

The full recreation lake will have a surface area of 962 acres, a shoreline of 13.6 miles and will extend upstream from the dam a distance of 5.5 miles measured along the streambed. The lake will be about 2,600 feet wide at its widest point. For flood control, the lake will have a surface area of 1,184 acres.

The Phase III contractor, S.J. Groves and Sons Company, Shiremanstown, Pa., has completed its $16.5 million contract to build the gated concrete spillway and dike, Craig stated.

The spillway structure contains 32,500 cubic yards of concrete, is 210 feet wide and has five steel tainter gates, 32 feet high and 42 feet wide. The dike, which contains about 1 million cubic yards of compacted earth and rockfill materials, is 90 feet high and 900 feet long. Other work which Groves has completed is an access road from Bethel to an overlook and parking areas on the Maryland side of the project and an access bridge across the relocated railroad.

S.J. Groves and Sons Company has also recently completed a $7.3 million contract to relocate about 3.3 miles of West Virginia State Route 46 around the reservoir area, and to construct an access road, parking area, comfort station and boat launching ramp along Howell Run.

According to Craig, additional recreation facilities will be constructed during the next two years. It is planned to advertise this August for the construction of a campground and picnic area on the West Virginia side of the lake. Work on these sites should start in late fall.

Major work completed since the start of the project in June 1971 was the relocation of 12 miles of the Western Maryland Railroad; construction of the 16-foot 4-inch diameter, 1,619 foot long concrete tunnel through the right abutment; selective clearing of the reservoir areas; and the construction of three water quality monitoring stations along the North Branch at Kitzmiller and Barnum and Pinto, W. Va.

According to Craig, all construction work on the $172 million project, except for the camping and picnic areas will be completed by the end of this summer.

Active long-term storage of 94,700 acre-feet will be used for water quality, water supply and recreation. The available flood

Main Embankment Of The Bloomington Dam Completed

The 10 million cubic yard embankment of the Bloomington Lake Project was completed on Monday, July 13, according to Robert W. Craig, area engineer for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Upper Potomac Area Office. A tentative date for dedication is September 20.

Perini Corporation of Framingham, Mass., which has the $59 million contract with the Corps' Baltimore District has essentially completed all its work on the large structure. Perini's contract included the 10 million cubic yard main embankment which is a 296 feet high, 230 feet long compacted earth and rock fill structure.

Other project features constructed by Perini are the 330-foot high concrete control tower, a 500-foot long access bridge to the control tower, a two mile access road to the operational facilities, a maintenance building, two dam operator houses, and an overlook shelter with parking. The control tower has service and emergency gates at the base of the structure, with an additional five gates located at different elevations which will be used for water quality releases.

The dam project is located in Garrett County and Mineral County, W. Va., at a point between the villages of Barnum and Shaw, W. Va., and is designed to provide water quality control, water supply, reduction of flood damage and recreation. It will control a drainage area of 263 square miles, which is approximately 20 percent of the North Branch Basin.

JULY KING AND QUEEN HONORED — Charles Feathers and Hilda Myers were recently honored as King and Queen for the month of July at Cuppett Weeks Nursing Home. Born in Terra Alta, WV, on August 20, 1918, Mr. Feathers was a carpenter and is a veteran of World War II. He has two children, Linda Friend, of Corinth, WV, and Clarence W. Feathers, of Terra Alta, WV. Mr. Feathers has been a resident of the home since January 27. Mrs. Myers was born September 20, 1905, in Aurora, WV, and she was once employed in an automobile plant in New Jersey. She enjoys watching television and reading, and attends most activities at the nursing home, her place of residence since November 6, 1974. Mrs. Myers has one brother, Paul Myers, of Loch Lynn. The corsage and boutonniere worn by the couple were donated by the Arts 'N Crafts Centre in Oakland.

Straight Talk About Aging

By Matthew Tayback
State Director On Aging

FACING FINALITY
Still-held taboos often make it difficult for older people and their immediate relatives to discuss a matter of vital mutual concern: funeral arrangements. Although dying is certainly not the most pleasant subject for casual chit-chat, its inevitability forces us all to think about it. Practicality and loving concern for those we will leave behind should force us to discuss it. An organization exists to help us do just that: the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies, Inc. This association is a network of nearly 200 non-profit memorial societies across the country. The societies are run by volunteers, and their aim is to help people obtain simple, dignified, economical funerals by planning in advance of need. Planning, CAFMS points out, involves doing some research. Once you have carefully considered and decided whether you prefer burial, cremation or bequeathal of your body or various of its parts, you should call on or telephone several funeral directors. Explain what you want, ask what they have to offer, and make comparisons. Do not hesitate to ask about costs, the association advises. If a particular firm offers only "complete funerals," ask to see an itemized list of what "complete" includes. If simpler arrangements appeal to you, seek a funeral director who will be attentive to your wishes. And if you feel uncomfortable with one director, do not be embarrassed about seeking the services of another. It's often helpful, the association points out, to have someone with you when you make your arrangements. This companion could be an advisor or a close friend who can ask questions, clarify details, and generally lend support during what will probably be something of an unsettling business. Check out cemeteries, too, the association suggests. Get lot prices, and ask about policies concerning markers, grave liners, cost of perpetual care, etc. After you have done your planning and made your arrangements, commit them to paper either as a letter or on one of the special forms designed for this purpose. Send a copy to your next-of-kin or to the person who will be responsible for carrying out the arrangements. Keep the original in a place where it can be found quickly and easily. Do not secrete it away in a safe deposit box. If all of this sounds a trifle unpleasant, that's because it probably will be. Consider what the CAFMS has said: "Discuss your plans with your family, even though it may be difficult — for them and for you. Your death is the last thing they want to face. But facing it will be easier if they know your wishes and are prepared to carry them out. They will be spared uncertainty, disagreement and needless expense when arrangements are made. In grief, guilt and confusion, survivors often succumb to the pressure that a funeral is 'the last thing you'd ever want' for your family, let them know what your wishes are."

ACTIVITY PERSON NAMED — Frank Quiller, 73, was recently named Activity Person for the month of July at Cuppett Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland. A former resident of Washington, D. C., Mr. Quiller was employed for many years as a guard at the Smithsonian Institution. He enjoys reading and the outdoors, and he participates in most activities at the home. Mr. Quiller has been a resident of the home since July 17, 1980. He was born in Canton, Ohio, and he has a daughter, Kay Cusimano, of Adelphi.

The CAFMS has a number of publications available to help you. For a list of them, interested persons may write to: Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies, 1828 L Street, N.W., Suite 1100, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Drunk Driving Arrests In June Jump By 88%
Maryland State Police report a dramatic jump in drunk driving arrests for the second month in a row. A total of 971 drunk drivers were arrested by Troopers during June. This is an 88 percent increase in drunk driving arrests when compared to the same month last year.

During the first six months of this year 5,210 drivers have been arrested and charged by State Police for alcohol related violations. On May 1, State Police launched the most comprehensive effort ever undertaken in Maryland to identify and remove drunk drivers from the highway. Troopers have been using a recently developed Driving While Intoxicated Guide which contains 20 detection cues to better identify drunk drivers. This guide was developed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. According to Lieutenant Colonel Johnny G. Lough, Chief of the Field Operations Bureau,

GOP Women To Hold Dinner

The Northern and Southern Republican Women's Clubs will have a covered dish dinner on Wednesday, July 29, at 6:30 p.m. at Camp Hickory. Each family should bring a covered dish and their own table service. Mrs. Fleur Bresler, president of the Maryland Federation of Republican Women, will be the speaker. Members, elected officials and friends are welcome to attend.

"We are going to continue to make life uncomfortable for those individuals who insist on mixing alcohol and driving," Lough predicts that the State Police will reach an all-time high in arresting drunk drivers this year.

State Police regional totals for June DWI arrests were: 211, Baltimore Metro Troop (Anne Arundel and Baltimore counties); 162, Washington Metro Troop (Prince George's and Montgomery counties); 157, Eastern Troop (Eastern Shore); 153, Central Troop (Howard, Frederick and Carroll counties); 129, Southern Troop (St. Mary's, Charles and Calvert counties);

104, Northeast Troop (Harford and Cecil counties); and, 55, Western Troop (Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties.)

ACRE VS THE MANZANA
The acre - 43,560 square feet - is a strange measure. Did you ever wonder how this figure was arrived at? Probably not, but I'll tell you anyway. A few centuries ago, an acre was considered to be the amount of land a man could plow in a day with a yoke of oxen. The British Weights and Measures Act of 1878 defined it as containing 4,840 square yards and this "statute" acre was adopted by Canada and the United States. If you are of the internationally-landed inclination, be very careful about offers of parcels of acres in foreign countries. The English, Canadian, and U.S.A. acre doesn't mean a thing in other countries. Here are a few examples:

In Argentina, the unit is called a Manzana and it measures 2.47 acres. In Austria, the Joch measures 1.42 acres. A ten-acre Siberian salt mine will actually measure 27 of our acres. And if you decide to buy some waterfront property along the Brazilian Amazon, remember that the Brazilian Hectare measures 2.47 acres.

ENERGY TIP—While trying to keep cool this summer, avoid scarves, tight belts and heavy jewelry that trap heat next to your body.

BEVERAGE TIPS
If you find that you are drinking more fluids in the hot weather, and we all should be, now is the time to take a closer look at what you are drinking. Before purchasing beverages, read the labels carefully. Ingredients are listed in declining order, so whatever is listed first is present in the greatest quantity. Some drinks are 100% fruit juice, some have only a small percentage of fruit juice along with other ingredients, and some contain only sugar and water with artificial colors, flavors and preservatives. Check the ingredients to be sure you are getting the most nutrition and refreshment for your beverage dollar.

Try making your own drinks. Mix a fruit juice such as orange, apple, or grapefruit with club soda for a thirst quencher that is much more healthful than soft drinks.

Also, make your own lemon or limeade. That way, you can control the amount of sugar and calories.

Try this refreshing low-fat, pick-me-up drink recipe for a hot summer day.

SUMMER SMOOTHIE
Makes 3 medium servings at 130 calories per serving:
1 C. plain low-fat yogurt
1 C. pineapple juice

Puree in a blender until smooth and serve in frosty glasses. Be creative and try your own combinations of fruit and juices.

EXTENSION HAPPENINGS
"Stick-Frying" will be the topic of a demonstration to be presented at the Extension Office in the Courthouse on Friday, July 24th from 1-3 p.m. All interested persons are invited. Food Preservation workshops will be held on July 28th at 10:00 a.m. at Northern High School and on July 29th at 10:00 a.m. at the Extension Office. Everyone is invited to attend.

S.M.S. Student Participating In Gifted Program

Any Dickinson, an Oakland resident, is among 600 Maryland high school students selected to participate in the Gifted and Talented Program in the Arts sponsored by the State Department of Education this summer.

She is spending two weeks studying sculpture at Goucher College, which has been designated the Maryland Center for the Arts under the State Department program.

Any attends Southern Middle School. Located in Towson, Goucher College is an independent liberal arts college for women.

Hughes Concerned About Health Care Program For Elderly

Maryland Governor Harry Hughes has expressed his "great concern" to Health and Human Services Secretary Richard Schweiker that federal budget cuts may result in the loss of a long-term health program for the elderly.

"Termination of the project in this State would have serious consequences," Hughes said in a letter to the Secretary.

Maryland is one of 12 states under contract to establish a "channeling" project to find non-institutional alternatives for long-term care of the frail elderly. Four of the 12 contracts will be eliminated because of revisions in the federal health department's fiscal '81 budget.

Testing these alternatives is a priority in Maryland, where the elderly population has grown since 1960 at a rate greater than the national rate and will continue to do so," Hughes noted.

A copy of the Governor's letter has been forwarded to the Maryland Congressional Delegation along with a request for assistance in keeping the Maryland contract.

With "channeling," Maryland can coordinate and maximize the use of community alternatives so that older people will have a cost-effective option to institutional care," said Hughes. "Channeling" can thereby assist the State in limiting the rising cost of institutional care."

If Maryland is eliminated from the demonstration program the State will lose approximately $3 million in federal grants, he said.

Governor Hughes says such a decision would mean "Maryland's progress in developing long-term care policy will be seriously hindered."

Medical Staff Elects Officers

The Medical/Dental Staff of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently held its annual election of officers. Dr. C. William Fiedler was elected chief of staff, Dr. Jarod B. Zelman, vice-president, and Dr. H. James Beecham III, secretary-treasurer.

Committee chairmen are as follows: executive and accreditation, Dr. Fiedler; credentials, Dr. Bowie L. Grant; infection, Dr. William W. Pope; utilization, medical record and medical audit, Dr. Beecham; medicine/pediatrics, Dr. Thomas G. Johnson; pharmacy, Dr. Zelman; tissue, Dr. Walter F. Oster; obstetrics/gyn., Dr. Herbert H. Leighton; emergency room, Dr. Paul P. Williams; and surgery, Dr. Joseph Alvarez.

County Directories Still Available

The Homemaker Career Opportunities Program of Garrett Community College still has available a limited number of the 1980 Garrett County Directory of Agencies and Organizations for sale.

The directory contains 138 different entries, including addresses, phone numbers and contact persons, which may prove helpful to individuals seeking the assistance of various county agencies and organizations.

It is available at Garrett Community College - Oakland Center, Room 306. Persons interested in obtaining a copy may contact Barbara Frey at 334-9184 or come to the Oakland Center between 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

GCC Experiences Record Enrollment

Dr. Donald Ruhl, president of Garrett Community College, recently announced that the College had the highest enrollment in its history this past year. There were 599 fulltime equivalent (FTE) students enrolled at GCC this past year, as opposed to 574 FTE students enrolled the prior year. An FTE student is one who takes at least 30 credit hours during the academic year.

Approximately 2,400 individuals took either credit or non-credit courses at Garrett during the past school year. There were more graduates of the 1980 classes of Northern and Southern high schools enrolled at the College than in any preceding year.

The College's business programs enrolled the greatest number of students, while wildlife fisheries and wildlife management technology programs enrolled the second greatest number.

The programs showing the greatest growth over the previous year was general studies. This was followed by the occupational programs in business administration and wildlife management technology.

Ruhl said the College anticipates a record enrollment this fall. The greatest percentage increase in applications for this September is presently in the veterinary science technology program.

House Raffles Illegal In Most Areas Of State

In response to numerous inquiries regarding whether Maryland homeowners who are contemplating the sale of their houses by means of a raffle can do so legally, the Consumer Protection Division of the Maryland Attorney General's Office warns that most Maryland jurisdictions forbid individuals from profiting personally from a raffle.

In addition, the Consumer Protection Division notes that under Maryland law, a raffle is a lottery. "Except for the Maryland State Lottery and raffles conducted by specified charitable, religious, educational, fraternal and civic organizations, or volunteer fire companies in certain counties, lotteries are illegal," said H. Robert Erwin, Jr., chief of the Consumer Protection Division. Buyers are particularly cautioned that any transfer of real estate by means of an illegal lottery is "void and of no effect."

"The county-by-county laws that exempt organizations that conduct raffles from the prohibitions of the lottery law normally require that no individual may benefit financially or receive any proceeds from the lottery for personal use or benefit," Erwin said.

Consequently, "if part of the proceeds of the raffle of a home are kept by the homeowner, the raffle would be illegal, even if it has been conducted by an exempted charitable or public service organization," he said.

The consumer protection chief said his office has received numerous inquiries about the possible raffling off of homes following reports of an effort by a couple in Fairfax County, Virginia, to sell their $115,000 house by means of a $100-a-chance raffle being conducted by the Annandale, Virginia, Boys Club.

"THE HOMESTEADERS," a Bluegrass band from Wheeling, W. Va., will perform at the 25th Annual Garrett County Fair on Wednesday, August 12, from 7 to 9 p.m. Loretta Opel, publicity chairman, reminds fairgoers that they should keep the fair supplement which appeared in the July 3 issue of The Republican, as it contains information regarding the entering of exhibits and animals, rules and regulations, and a schedule of events and entertainment for the week long event. Crowning of the Farm Queen will follow the Vesper service on Sunday, August 9. All past Farm Queens are asked to attend, and should contact Mrs. Fern Beachy at 245-4452 if they have not yet been contacted. Mrs. Daniel (Hazel) Klotz of Grantsville was Garrett County's first queen.

Erwin said individuals or organizations considering the raffling of a home should contact their local state's attorney's office for detailed information on the specific lottery or raffle laws in their jurisdiction.

AARP Visits New Jersey Resort

A total of 36 members of the Garrett County American Association of Retired Persons enjoyed a trip to Wildwood, N.J., from June 22 through June 24.

The group visited Atlantic City on June 23 and had dinner at Caesar's Casino.

On June 24, a bus trip was taken to Cape May where the group toured the town, viewing the colonial houses and beach. Cape May, N.J., is reportedly the oldest beach resort in the United States.

On June 25, the group enjoyed a sight-seeing cruise around the island.

In Wildwood, the group had dinner, dancing and entertainment at the Enrica Restaurant. A jamboree of senior citizens was held at the convention center in Wildwood on June 26. Featured was music, dancing, refreshments and a stage show. Approximately 2000 senior citizens attended.

This trip was arranged by Mrs. Mary McRobie.

Local Student Getting Taste Of Collegiate Life

Kathryn Ann Ryscavage and 83 other high school seniors from around the country are getting an early taste of collegiate life at Davidson College's July Experience this month.

Ryscavage, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Ryscavage, Oakland, is studying at Davidson in an environment modeled as closely as possible to undergraduate college life.

"Exposure to college life at this point gives participants insight into the best uses of time and energy during their final year of high school," said July Experience director William B. Hight, Jr.

Students take two classes daily from the curriculum of ten courses offered. Subjects cover biology, English, economics, French, math, history, philosophy, physics and political science.

Students are assigned roommates and live in dorm rooms under the supervision of Davidson student hall counselors. Periods of time are set aside for study in the college library, recreation and extra-curricular activities. This is the sixth year that Davidson has offered the summer academic program.

Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever Cases Reported

A total of 36 cases of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever (RMSF) have been reported in Maryland to date, the half-way point in the annual RMSF season which generally runs from May through September, the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene announced this week. This total compares with 28 Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever cases reported at this time last year.

RMSF is an acute disease caused by the bite of an infected tick and generally characterized by a sudden onset of symptoms, with moderate to severe fever (occasionally 104 to 106 degrees), severe headaches, chills, fatigue and generalized body aching and skin rash. The rash usually involves the palms of the hands and soles of the feet and progresses towards the trunk of the body during the course of the disease. However, in some cases, no rash at all is observed by the patient.

Last year there were 76 reported cases of RMSF during the season, many confirmed by laboratory testing, said Dr. Joseph T. Horman, epidemiologist with the Division of Communicable Diseases. Although one death was reported last year in Maryland, the national case fatality ratio for RMSF for the period 1975-1977 was 5.2 deaths per 100 cases. This ratio has remained unchanged for the last decade despite the availability of effective antibiotics.

Dr. Horman stressed that the disease can be fatal if not diagnosed promptly and treated with an appropriate antibiotic. He added that a major danger with RMSF is a patient's delay in seeking medical consultation for any illness accompanied by a high fever, headache and rash at this time of year, and in failing to inform the physician of a recent tick bite or tick exposure. Studies show that although children account for the majority of the cases, fatalities from untreated cases tend to occur in adults above age 35. Dr. Horman also cautioned the public not to wait for the onset of a rash if other symptoms are present.

Dogs infested with ticks, usually acquired from known tick-infested areas, were associated with 55 percent of the cases, Dr. Horman noted. He suggested that pet owners should keep their dogs from entering known infested areas or should inspect them for ticks before allowing them indoors if they have been in a possible tick infested area.

Periodic and thorough checking for ticks on the body (every two to three hours) is the most effective preventive measure a parent can take to reduce risk of tick bites to themselves and their children, he said.

Two RMSF cases are reported from Baltimore City; one from Anne Arundel; nine from Baltimore; four from Carroll; one from Caroline; four from Dorchester; two from Frederick; three from Harford; three from Prince Georges; one from Montgomery; one from Queen Anne; one from Talbot; three from Washington and one from Worcester. No deaths are reported to date.

The ability to taste sweet foods diminishes with age.

Attorney General's Docket

by Stephen H. Sachs
Attorney General of Maryland

Sometimes, despite all efforts to settle consumer disputes amicably, there are occasions when it seems the only thing left for an individual consumer to do is "tell it to the judge."

Shortly before he left office, Maryland's Benjamin Civiletti, the former Attorney General of the United States, had the Justice Department prepare a brief, informative booklet bearing just that title. It is a handy guide to dealing with consumer complaints through the small claims courts, and you can get a free copy by sending a postcard with your name and address to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 6403, Pueblo, Colorado 81009. (The small claims division of the District Court in your area also will give you a brochure describing how the court works, and the Montgomery County Office of Consumer Affairs also has prepared a booklet on the small claims courts there. Procedures vary slightly from county to county, but it's a good guide too.)

Each District Court in Maryland has a small claims division. These courts handle disputes involving $500 or less. The General Assembly has passed a law increasing the limit to $1,000, beginning January 1, 1982. There are no juries in these courts, only judges. The legal rules of procedure are less formal, so it's possible to represent yourself without a lawyer (although if you have problems preparing your case, or it is one involving personal injury or medical expenses, you may want to talk to an attorney.)

If you file a suit, you become known as the "plaintiff," and the person or business you sue becomes the "defendant." You can file a suit a person or by mail. There is a fee for filing suit and for formally notifying the defendant.

When filling out the form for the suit, you must use the correct name of the individual defendant or business. Sometimes the name on the storefront is not the company's "legal" name, as the Justice Department booklet notes. If you need information about a business's name, you can get it from a licensing certificate that may be posted somewhere inside the store or on a window, or from the appropriate state licensing agency or the Better Business Bureau.

It's important to have documents or concrete evidence to back up your case. Contracts or agreements, letters, bills, cancelled checks, warranties, receipts or written estimates are crucial to presenting your side of the dispute. Photographs of damaged property or goods also can be helpful. Put the material together neatly.

To prepare for the trial, it might be wise to go to the Small Claims Court beforehand, just to see how cases are tried. When the date and time for your trial arrives, you — as the plaintiff — will be asked to testify first and present your evidence.

Present your case thoroughly but selectively. Don't expect the judge to listen to your life story or to read numerous documents," advises the Justice Department booklet. It's good advice.

The defendant need not be able to question you about your case. Don't argue, just answer the questions.

After you have presented your evidence — including the testimony of witnesses, if you have any — the defendant has the right to present his side. This may include other documents and witnesses, whom you may question.

If you win the case, collecting whatever money you may be entitled to receive often can be difficult, especially if the defendant ran a "fly-by-night" company or has since gone out of business. In general, the court will not act as a collection agency, the Justice Department notes. If the defendant fails to pay within a reasonable period of time, you should ask the court clerk about the separate legal procedures you may use to try to collect your money.

Should you unfortunately be the defendant in a small claims suit, for goodness' sake respond to the summons and show up in court. Otherwise you probably will lose the case by default and be ordered to pay the plaintiff's claim. If there is a good reason why you can't appear on the date for which the trial has been set, contact the court clerk immediately and ask for a postponement until a day when you can appear.

As either a plaintiff or a defendant, you have the right to appeal the decision of the judge in Small Claims Court to the Circuit Court in your county. Then the whole procedure starts all over again.

While the Small Claims Courts in Maryland serve a vital function and do a good job, it is always best — and less expensive and time consuming — to try resolving your dispute without going to court. Believe it or not, the judges think the system is working well if they never get to see you at all.

Nutrition Tips

Between meal snacking has become a habit that most of us enjoy. For some, snacking replaces our main meals. If this is true for you, then your snacks should provide the main needed nutrients. Here are some ideas for nutrient-rich snacks:

Sunflower or pumpkin seeds, low-fat cheese and apple wedges, plain low-fat yogurt mixed with fresh fruit, dried fruits, fruit and vegetable juices.

Raw vegetables make a delicious low-calorie, nutrient-rich snack. Try this dip with the raw vegetables.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF MARYLAND

ORDER NO. 65367

IN THE MATTER OF THE APPLICATION OF THE POTOMAC EDISON COMPANY FOR AN ADJUSTMENT OF FUEL RATE PURSUANT TO SECTION 54F OF THE ANNOTATED CODE OF MARYLAND

BEFORE THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF MARYLAND

CASE NO. 7241D

On July 8, 1981, The Potomac Edison Company filed with the Commission an application for the adjustment of its fuel rate together with proposed tariff revisions identified as Fourteenth Revisions of Original Page No. 5 to its Tariff Electric P.S.C. MD. No. 52 accompanied with initial direct testimony and exhibits in support of the Application. The proposed effective date for this revised tariff is with August cycle bills rendered on and after August 7, 1981.

In addition, on July 2, 1981, The Potomac Edison Company filed with the Commission an Application for authority to defer Emergency Purchase Power Costs. The Commission at its Administrative Meeting of July 15, 1981, considered the Application to defer Emergency Purchase Power Costs and concluded that it should be incorporated into the above captioned case.

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 54F(c) of The Public Service Commission Law, the Commission after consideration determines that the proposed tariff revision should be suspended for a period not to exceed 30 days beyond the filing date of July 8, 1981, to become effective with August cycle bills rendered on and after August 7, 1981, subject to refund.

IT IS THEREFORE, this 15th day of July, in the year Nineteen Hundred and Eighty one, by the Public Service Commission of Maryland:

ORDERED: (1) That the Fourteenth Revision of Original Page No. 5 to its Tariff Electric P.S.C. MD. No. 52, filed by The Potomac Edison Company on July 8, 1981, is hereby suspended for a period 30 days from July 8, 1981, to become effective with August cycle bills rendered on and after August 7, 1981, subject to refund.

(2) That the Application of The Potomac Edison Company requesting authority to defer Emergency Purchase Power Costs, filed by the Company on July 2, 1981, be considered as part of this Application.

(3) That this order is set for hearing before the Commission on Friday, July 31, 1981, at 10:00 a.m. in the 14th Floor Hearing Room, American Building, 231 E. Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Maryland.

PROVIDED, that The Potomac Edison Company causes a copy of this Order to be published in a display advertisement in a newspaper of general circulation in each county within the service area of the Company at least one time in each newspaper during the week beginning Monday, July 20, 1981. Certificate of Publication shall be filed with the Commission thereafter as promptly as possible.

Rebecca Cogley Receives Hesser Fund Scholarship

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors has awarded Rebecca Cogley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cogley of Deer Park, a two-year scholarship from the Hesser Fund.

Miss Cogley will be attending Allegany Community College where she is enrolled in the pre-nursing program.

She is a 1977 graduate of Southern High School and a 1979 graduate of Garrett Community College where she received an associate's degree in teacher education.

Cogley is employed as a nurse's aide in the Intensive Care unit of Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The Hesser Fund was founded by Miss Ethel B. Hesser, a resident of Goodwill Memorial Home in Grantsville, who donated $25,000 to Garrett County Memorial Hospital in 1974 to be used for the education of nurses. Persons applying to the Fund must meet specific conditions.

Social Services Makes Plans To Combat Rise in Child Abuse Cases

In response to the recent rise in incidents of serious child abuse, the Social Services Administration of the Maryland Department of Human Resources has issued a directive to local departments of social services throughout the state to begin an immediate review of their caseloads to identify cases in which the potential for family violence exists.

According to Ruth Massinga, executive director of the Social Services Administration, the number of deaths attributed to probable child abuse has increased dramatically in recent weeks. In contrast with eight child abuse fatalities in Maryland in 1980, five child fatalities in which abuse was a factor were reported in a recent one-month period. In two of those deaths, child abuse was confirmed as the probable cause. The remaining three cases are still under investigation.

In addition, during the first four months of 1981, incidents of suspected child abuse reported to the Central Registry at the Social Services Administration, rose by 300 over the same time period last year.

"Unfortunately, in the coming months we expect a steady increase in domestic violence in general, and in child abuse in particular, due to family stress brought on by poor economic conditions," Ms. Massinga commented. "The onset of summer and school holidays, as well as a general reduction in services to families in both the public and private sectors as the result of federal budget cuts, are also factors which contribute to violence within families," she added.

According to Wendy Sherman, director of the Office of Child Welfare Services at the Social Services Administration, local departments of social services will screen caseloads in Protective Services, Foster Care, Services to Families with Children, and Single Parent Services to identify "high risk" cases.

Indicators of high risk situations include: cases where there was a previous injury to a child that required medical treatment; foster care cases where the reason for placement was abuse and the child is expected to return to the home; aftercare cases of children returned to their homes from foster care where the reason for placement had been physical or sexual abuse; cases where a parent or guardian's abuse of alcohol or drugs, or a chronic mental disability, has been a major contributing factor in the need for service; situations where the parents have expressed concern for their own or for their children's safety; and situations where the parent or guardian has repeatedly refused to provide medical information on children.

Under Maryland law, local departments of social services are required to investigate all reports of suspected child abuse. Persons with knowledge of situations where children may be victims of abuse should report this information to the local department of social services. In Garrett County reports may be made by calling 334-9461 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. weekdays, and 387-5511 after hours.

Baltimore Reunion Cancelled For 1981

The officers and advisors of the Baltimore Reunion of Oakland High School graduates met recently and it was decided there will not be a reunion this year.

Tentative plans are for a reunion to be held September 25, 1982, at the Pikesville Hilton Inn with a buffet dinner, bar and dancing. Graduates of 50 years (1932) and prior years will be honored at this reunion. Other classes will be honored at subsequent reunions to be held every two to five years.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear father, Arthur, who passed away July 20, 1979. Flowers of remembrance a prayer sent above that's all we can give you now. To a Dad we lost and loved, resting in God's beautiful garden. Sheltered from sorrow and pain, safe in God's wonderful keeping, until we all meet again. Someone remembers, someone cares.

Sadly missed by 12 Children and families.

IN MEMORIAM

A year has come and gone, since the Lord has taken you away. Yet not a day goes by, we don't see you anyway. Sitting in your favorite chair, watching the game on TV, or simply crossing our minds with a treasured memory. A son's walk, a daughter's smile. Gives you back to us for a fleeting while, yes you are sadly missed, but lovingly remembered forever in our minds and hearts. Our love for you is tender.

By Wife, Son and Daughters: Of George K. Thomas, who died July 15, 1980.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank the Newkum Funeral Home, North ern Garrett County Rescue Squad, Meyersdale Hospital, Drs. and Nurses, friends and relatives, especially Pastor Douglas Garland, who showed their kindness and consideration during the death of our father and grandfather. Forrest Beachy.

Children

Granchildren and Great grandchildren.

IN MEMORIAM

To our mother, Ruth Arnold, who passed away July 1978. Mom, we never really told you how much you meant to us. How much your love and kindness meant to all your family. Even though God called you home to live with him free from pain. Your precious ways live in our still, in all our memories. And there too are the memories, the laughter shared and tears. The little things in life that mean much are seen throughout the years. No one can ever take away the love and pain we shared. The grief that you left us, the many times you cared and as we sit and remember back, we want you to know, mom you'll always live within our hearts, we'll always love you so. Robin, Betty and Sandy Arnold.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of Walter L. Kamp, husband and father, who passed away July 22, 1968. Dear God please take this message to our loved one up above. Tell him how much we miss him and give him all our love. He bid no one a last fare well he said good to home, the heavenly gates, just opened wide and a loving voice said come. Thirteen years have now slipped by, but memories of you still make us cry. God gave us strength to face it and courage to meet the blow. A precious one in us is gone, a voice we loved is stilled. A love is vacant in our home which can be filled. We think of you most everyday, and hope you can hear us as we pray. Some may forget you now that you're gone, but we will remember no matter how long.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mt. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on July 30, 1981 at 7:00 p.m. in the Mountain Lake Park Town Hall. The Board will review applications for the following cases:

1. Docket VR 1. An application made by Mr. Benjamin F. Shaffer, III, for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it would affect the minimum land area required for each dwelling unit of a second story construction of six apartment units, above the Ben's 135 Plumbing and Heating building. The Zoning Ordinance requires that a minimum land area of 7,500 sq. ft. is required for each dwelling unit constructed in combination with a commercial use. Mr. Shaffer's property located at 2000 Street contains a total land area of 32,230 sq. ft. consequently requiring a land area Variance of 12,770 sq. ft. (Zoned C Commercial).
2. Docket SE 2. An application made by Mr. Mary Jane Shaffer for a Special Exception permit to allow the placement of a second mobile home on her property located at K Street (Lots 1116 and 1118). The said mobile home is intended to be connected to the mobile home existing on the property in such a manner as to form a single family dwelling unit. The combined structure is planned to be covered with a double roof covered with asphalt shingles (Zoned TR Town Residential).

The jobs stars took en route to stardom

By Ruth Thompson

Kathryn Walker, who was seen earlier this summer on PBS in John Cheever's "Oh Youth, Oh Beauty, Once Again," that, having found she loved acting, she might not have hung in there if she had not struck a succession of paying jobs in regional theater right away.

But the chances are that she would have done what so many actors must do: conceal the real dream and take every job available that will pay the bills until you're discovered for television, movies or theater.

Along the way, the most frequently chosen of the odd jobs for both sexes is "waiting table." Some of the loudest guffaws I've found once evoked came from actors when she did her skit about a great star who had a secret dream of becoming a waitress.

The list is long. Here's a sampling: Rue McClanahan, Bea Arthur's next-door neighbor on "Maude," had already earned her MA in English and drama when she found that heavy trays around an Oklahoma restaurant was the immediate route to earning a living.

Robert Brennan worked as a singing waitress in Manhattan. She cheerfully says it was good life experience and it came in handy when she was later cast as a waitress in "My Old Man," which co-starred Kristy McNichol.

Among the others who slung hash, hamburgers — or caviar on route to the limelight — are such heavy, well-educated beauties as Constance McCaslin (of CBS' "Knots Landing") and Meryl Streep.

Cliff DeYoung — known for the "Sunshine" series and such television specials as "Scared Straight" — earned "survival" money as an office temporary. I type fast. Angie Dickinson and Sharon Gless (whose "Last Convertible" and "Hardhat and Legs" have recently been retelecast) both worked as secretaries before they made the full time break to show business.

Jack Klugman

Sharon's co-star in "Hardhat and Legs," Kevin Dobson, worked as a trainman on the Long Island Rail Road in New York. When knocking on doors later in Hollywood seemed to be yielding zilch, Kevin considered taking a full-time railroad job in California. Then he landed the featured role as Crocker in "Kojak." In the fall he will be starring in his own series, "Shannon," on CBS.

Bill Macy drove a Manhattan taxi until he got his break in the "Maude" series. Jack Klugman, now starring as "Quincy" for NBC, taught gymnastics, painted houses and worked as a postal clerk before his talents as an actor were recognized. Jame Parr (Corp. Klingner on "M*A*S*H") also worked for the post office. He adds, "I also sold yard goods and picked corn."

Hazzard County is fictitious, situated somewhere in the South. The first season the series was on the air, it was filmed in Georgia, but that doesn't mean it takes place there.

Good fortune smiling on NBC's Sarah Purcell

By Kevin Stoker

Anybody who's ever watched NBC's hit series "Real People" is familiar with its smiling host Sarah Purcell. And judging from the new contract she's signed with NBC, it's likely she'll continue smiling for years to come.

For Sarah Purcell is more than just a host. She has produced segments of "Real Kids" and she has also produced several segments of "Real People." She is scheduled to star in a TV movie and to produce another next year, and, when and if "Real People" ends, she has been promised her own series pilot by the network.

Not bad for a former San Diego television station assistant program director who suddenly found herself in front of a camera when all the newscasters went on strike.

When I was first on camera I thought I was going to die of hyperventilation. She says, "I was frightened to death by the FCC (Federal Communications Commission). I thought if I missed just one thing, we'd lose our license. I kept thinking there was this masked gunman pointing a gun right at my solar plexus. I couldn't breathe."

As a newscaster in San Diego and later a talk show host for "A.M. Los Angeles," Miss Purcell was well prepared for the on-camera interviews that she does for the "Real People" series. But speaking in front of a studio audience was a different experience altogether.

I can deal with a TV camera but if I have to look in the faces of the people I'm talking to — that's when I get scared.

The moment of truth came while taping a game show, when she found the gallery filled with people. Help came, however, in the form of veteran game-show host Gene Rayburn. "Don't worry about it. Go out on stage and imagine that everybody in the audience is nude and you're the only one with clothes on," he advised.

"You have to laugh if you imagine the whole audience is nude and you're the only one with clothes on," Miss Purcell says with a smile. "It gives you

Bill Macy talks about 'Maude' and 'Stunt'

I appeared as Maude's husband for six years, says actor Bill Macy, and while the show is no longer on the network — though it's in syndication in some areas — people still stop me on the street and identify me as "Mr. Maude."

The amiable Macy, who drove a NY taxi for 10 years before he finally found work as an actor on Broadway, portrays a harried film director in "Stunt Seven," to be rebroadcast Tuesday, July 28 on CBS.

"It doesn't bother me that they call me 'Mr. Maude.' In fact, I'm sorry the series ended. It might have been interesting to see what would have happened if Maude's husband had gone on to Washington. They could have named a new series after him. Now I'm doing television films and stage work."

In "Stunt Seven," I got involved with stunt people who go after a group of desperate men who have kidnapped the star of the film. I'm directing — and let me tell you, those stunt people earn their money.

It was fascinating to watch how everything was orchestrated because, when you do things like wing-walking on an airplane, you have to take air currents into account, and if you're scaling a building, you really have to know what you're doing.

George Wallig, the fellow who went up the side of the World Trade Tower, doubled for one of the building climb stunts in our film. He's like the guy who climbed Mt. Everest. He has to climb. It's just part of his constitution.

Asked if he himself had ever done anything of a stunting nature, Macy replies:

In a stage production of "The Man Who Came to Dinner" I had to leap 10 or 15 feet and land on a couch. It always got a gasp from the audience because it was unexpected, and probably because I did it rather well.

Reflecting on his early years in New York City, Macy has thoughts about what he learned then.

New York is a place where you have a sense of professional orientation. If you have a stage background, you do better in television work. We all played the situation on Maude, none of us had any attention to the camera.

about his work? "I take great stock in what James Cagney once said: 'Plant your feet, look the other actor in the eye, and tell him the truth.'"

TV TATTLE

Mean Joe the actor

Mean Joe Greene, famed defensive tackle of the Pittsburgh Steelers, is the star of an NBC Project Peacock special, "The Steeler and the Pittsburgh Kid," with the award-winning cola commercial in which he appeared serving as a springboard for the one-hour drama.

The story is about an 11-year-old (not the child in the commercial) who learns about values, discipline and relationships when temporarily adopted by Mean Joe Greene and the Pittsburgh Steelers. They, in turn, are affected and inspired by the boy's enthusiasm. Nine-year-old Henry Thomas will portray the boy.

Late-night fantasies

The continuing success of a late-night soap opera is threatened when several of the show's most popular stars are mysteriously killed.

That's the theme of a two-hour motion picture presently being filmed in Los Angeles, to be telecast next season on ABC. Called "Fantasies," the film stars Suzanne Pleshette, Barry Newman and Robert Vaughn.

Also appearing in the film are stars from four of daytime television's soap operas: Peter Bergman of "All My Children," Stuart Damon and

Suzanne Pleshette

Robin Mattson of "General Hospital," John Gabriel of Ryan's Hope, and Robert S. Woods of "One Life to Live."

Great performances

July is concert time on PBS. Herbert von Karajan and the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, with world-renowned cellist Mstislav Rostropovich and violinist Ulrich Koch, return to "Great Performances" Sunday, July 26, as part of the series' special July programming (local times may vary, check listings).

The concert features "Der Freischütz," which, based on Germanic legend, tells the story of a marksman who sells his soul to the devil in exchange for magic bullets. The overture is considered by many to be one of the finest in operatic literature.

Also featured is "Don Quixote," a symphonic poem based on Cervantes' famous novel of idealism, heroism and illusion.

Royal wedding

The wedding ceremony of Prince Charles and Lady Diana will be shown at 8 p.m. on St. Paul's Cathedral, the processions to and from Buckingham Palace and the traditional appearance of the Prince and his bride on the palace balcony to greet the assembled crowd will be covered live Wednesday, July 29 on CBS. (Check times in your area.) Live coverage of the couple's departure from the palace for their honeymoon will be covered later in the morning in a brief special report.

Dan Rather will anchor the coverage from a rooftop position overlooking the entrance to St. Paul's Cathedral where he will be joined by British television personality David Frost, Lady Antonia Fraser, best-selling English historian of royalty, will provide commentary.

Horses for Bo Derek; Namath's mink coat

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — It seems that Bo Derek prefers being a zero to a 10. Down deep, she wants out of dieting and show biz and into raising horses and dogs. She wants to let herself go. Two more years and she figures she'll have enough money to do it.

Joe Namath bought his inch and a half long Yorky, a made-to-order mink coat. Sure beats a serving of Alpo, no?

Jane Fonda's looking down that long road when those "laugh lines" around the mouth and eyes get chiseled into solid granite wrinkles she'll duck acting for producing.

Robin Williams' newest sandbox is a $2,000 water tank that's about eight feet long and four feet deep. Guaranteed to be a mind relaxer.

Look, don't ask me why, but photography buff Richard Gere's favorite subjects are naked lightbulbs.

Shirley MacLaine

Shirley MacLaine, who admits not giving a party in 15 years, also admits she's slowly sinking into reclusion. Loving every inch of the Big Time, Loni Anderson tells any and all humans that success sure beats obscurity.

Ann Miller's running, but this week her Stage Door Irvings presented her with two lollipops, a box of crayons and a package of bubble gum. So far, no diamonds or champagne.

Liv Ullmann's kid, Linn, is heavy into ballet lessons. George Balanchine even choreographed a little dance for her.

Richard Burton finally confessed his idol was Spencer Tracy. He, Burton, could hold his own with anybody, but Spencer could really put it away.

Residents Gear Up For 25th County Fair

Area residents planning to participate in the 25th Annual Garrett County Fair are finalizing plans and gearing up for the event, which is only two weeks away, set for August 10 through 13.

The fair will kick off Sunday night, August 9, with a Vesper Service and the crowning of the Fair Queen. In honor of the 25th year of the fair, all past Fair Queens have been invited to attend the coronation ceremony.

All commercial displays will be set up Monday, and Show and Horse Amusements will open Monday night, to continue through Saturday night, for their fourth year at the Garrett County Fair. Gates will open at 4 p.m. Monday.

Exhibit buildings will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Numerous types of refreshments will be available at booths, sponsored by various organizations in the county. Competition and exhibits will be held in various areas, including art, photography, livestock, and poultry, home arts, crafts and horticulture.

Other featured events will include a demolition derby, tractor pulling contest, horse show, pitting, home arts demonstrations, the farmers and commercial parade, a horse pull and tractor operators' contest, a wood cut contest and a fashion show. Musical entertainment will be provided nightly, except Sunday and Monday, and square dances are also scheduled to appear.

Two $40 Savings Bonds will be given away each evening Tuesday through Saturday, and an awards program will be sponsored by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce.

In recognition of the fair's 25th anniversary, Loreta Gipe, publicity chairman, has noted some historical information about the event.

The first Garrett County Fair was held in 1917, in the Naylor building on Third Street in Oakland, up until the early twenties.

As interest in the fair increased it became necessary to have more space, and the Bradley property west of Oakland was purchased. Some exhibits were held in the Bradley house, and a shed was erected for the livestock and poultry entries. The last of the fairs held at the Bradley farm location was in 1951.

Most of the earlier Garrett County Fairs were held in late September, because more farm

Garrett Central Alarm Releases Six-Month Report

A total of 1,350 fire and rescue calls were handled by Garrett Central Alarm, the county's emergency communication system, during the first half of 1981, according to a report released this week by E.L. Levenson, chief dispatcher. There were 840 requests for help from local rescue squads and 500 calls for assistance from fire departments.

The numbers were down slightly from 1980 figures for the same period when a total of 140 calls were handled, 578 rescue calls and 260 fire calls.

Southern Rescue Squad crews responded to 329 calls during the period, while personnel from the Grantsville station of the Northern Rescue Squad answered 100 calls and the Accident station crews handled 134 calls.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department was summoned 119 times during the six-month period, followed by Deer Park with 73, Deep Creek with 36, Grantsville with 32, Elk Garden with 30, Friendsville with 29, Accident with 28, Hattingsville with 26, Gortman with 18, Hays with 17, Eastern Garrett with 11, and Kitzmiller with 10.

Levenson reminds citizens that, in case of an emergency, the number to dial is 911.

Judge L. R. Jones Reappointed For Ten-Year Term

Judge Lewis R. Jones, Oakland, who has been the administrative judge for District 12 since the establishment of the system in Maryland in 1971, was reappointed earlier this month for a term of ten years.

Jones received his oath of office from Clifford D. Whit, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court, on July 20.

The suit, filed on behalf of the towns by Russell B. Alexander and Charles H. Treasurer, mayors of Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn, respectively, calls for a temporary restraining order from Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer to enjoin Arzella Parsons, County Treasurer and Tax Collector, from collecting any taxes under the "illegal and improper" adopted Ad Valorem tax.

The suit, prepared by Robert E. Watson, who is representing the towns, calls for an order to be issued, directing the commissioners to show cause why the ad valorem taxes should not be set aside and declared illegal, uncollectable and unenforceable.

The suit claims that proper procedures were not followed, that no levy was properly made, no Sanitary District was properly adopted and approved by the governing body of the county, and the certification procedure according to the Annotated Code of Maryland was not followed.

The petition specifically refers to a "purported public hearing" on November 21, 1980, held in an apparent attempt to comply with the mandate of Article 25, "dealing with the imposition of certain ad valorem taxes" but that the public hearing dealt with a resolution, attempting to authorize the issuance of $500,000 worth of Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., water system bonds, "a resolution the petitioners claim was adopted on October 29, 1980, and ratified by the commissioners on November 3, 1980."

The suit charges "that hearing and its advertising, did not meet the requirements of Article 25," as the hearing was held after the adoption and resolution of the ordinance and not 10 days before as provided by law. The chief complaints outlined in the petition deal with improper adoption and recording authorizing an ad valorem tax for any sewer or water district for Mt. Lake Park or Loch Lynn, and that the resolution was not properly recorded.

Granted minimum due process. True to the filing of the petition, Watson addressed a letter to the Garrett County

Suit Filed Against Commissioners Claims Ad Valorem Tax Illegal

Sanitary Commission requesting information regarding adoption procedures, and he stated he has received no response from the commission to date.

Jack Turney, counsel for the Garrett County Commissioners, has until 10 days after the first Monday in August to issue a formal response to the petition, after which time a hearing date will be set.

The supplemental levy of $80 per $100 for residents of the two towns is comprised of $44 to retire the debt of the Trout Run Sewage Treatment Facility, and $36 to retire the debt of the Mt. Lake Park Loch Lynn

Services Held For Victim Of 'Cycle Mishap

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon for a 19-year-old Swanton man who was killed in a motorcycle accident last Wednesday evening on the Bray School Road.

Chester Miller, Maryland State Police, reported that Anthony James Williams was eastbound on Bray School Road at an apparent high rate of speed. While negotiating part of an "S" curve in the road, he lost control of the motorcycle, left the right side of the road, and skidded 134 feet before striking a large tree head-on. The accident occurred just before 6 p.m.

Dispatched to the scene by the Southern Rescue Squad which transported Williams to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. James H. Foster, Jr., Deputy Medical Examiner for Garrett County. Feaster said that the youth died instantly in the mishap, reportedly from massive internal injuries.

Police said the victim was not wearing a helmet, however, a helmet was located on the bar on the back of the motorcycle.

Also on the scene were Sgt. R. E. Edwards and Tte. J. E. Foley of the State Police.

Born February 17, 1962, in Bartlett, Ohio, the victim was a son of Raymond E. and Paula L. (Durr) Williams. He was employed as a landscaper at Youngheighy Mountain Club.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his maternal grandparents, Willis J. and Guy C. Durr, Red House; one sister, Miss Cheryl L. Williams, at home; three brothers, Earl C. Williams, Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.; Roy S. Williams and Robert W. Williams, both at home.

Stewart Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements. The family has requested expressions of sympathy take the form of contributions to the Allegheny County League for Crippled Children.

Delegate Bolden To Appeal Decision Of Land Reclamation Committee

Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden (R-Garrett, Allegany) has announced his intention to appeal the State Land Reclamation Committee's approval to issue a permit for the use of city sludge in the reclamation of a mine site.

Bolden, who earlier this week said he is awaiting the arrival through mail of necessary documents for his appeal, stated, "The residents of Garrett County have not been fully guaranteed that the proposed sludge is free of any foreign matter which might prove harmful to the environment, waters and streams of Garrett County."

Bolden said his appeal will go before the Natural Resources Review Board in mid-September.

In the meantime, Bolden or the commissioners will attempt to obtain a temporary restraining order from the court to prohibit the commencement of the sludge transportation and use, if necessary.

The commissioners are planning to appeal the issuance of a state health department permit when it is issued. Commissioner Ernest Gregg stated the letter appealing the decision will be sent as soon as the permit is issued.

The commissioners contend

Bridge Engineering, Solid Waste Contracts To Be Awarded Friday

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners is expected to award an engineering bid for repairs to Glendale bridge and to settle on a county solid waste system this Friday during meetings in Board offices at the county courthouse.

The commissioners opened seven bids for engineering design work for repairs to Glendale bridge, which primarily needs its supportive bearings replaced. The bid amounts ranged from $4,200 to $19,500.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg pointed out the importance to move quickly on the project, particularly because only one month remains until school begins.

The Board of Education has indicated it will have to reroute buses which generally travel across the bridge because the weight limit has been decreased to six tons.

The commissioners expect the repairs to the bridge to allow them to raise the weight limit to 12 tons.

Once the engineering bid has been awarded and the design complete, actual repairs will be able to begin, the commissioners note. They estimated repairs would begin in October.

Herb McCrathe, county roads engineer, and his staff will review the bids before Friday to verify that they comply with bid specifications.

After a brief discussion on several alternatives to the county solid waste system, the commissioners said they were not prepared to take action.

The commissioners stated

Springs Children Killed Tuesday In Auto Mishap

A halfbrother and sister from Springs, Pa., reportedly died instantly Tuesday morning when a push vehicle in which they were riding proceeded onto Rt. 669, west of Salisbury, Pa., was hit by a car.

Titus B. Fisher, three, and Mary L. Yoder, six, were killed while riding a power mower from which the blades and cutting bar had been removed so it could be used as a push toy.

According to Pennsylvania State Police, the vehicle was being pushed down a private driveway at their father's home by eight-year-old Moses L. Yoder, another halfbrother. As the vehicle carrying the two children neared Rt. 669, young Yoder let go of the handle and the vehicle moved freely into the path of a northbound car driven by Marion Shoemaker, also of Springs. State Police say visibility at the scene was impaired because of high weeds.

Mrs. Shoemaker was taken to Meyersdale (Pa.) Hospital, where she was reportedly treated for shock.

State Police at Somerset report the investigation is continuing.

Mary L. Yoder was born in Meyersdale in 1974, the daughter of Annie B. Yoder Fisher and the late Lewis P. Yoder.

In addition to her mother, she is survived by four brothers, Ray, John Peter, and Moses Yoder, all at home; three sisters, Martha and Rhoda Yoder and Miriam Fisher, all at home; the maternal grandparents, John and Barbara (Peight) Yoder, Oakland; and paternal grandparents, Pete A. and Dora (Yoder) Yoder, Salisbury.

Titus B. Fisher was born in 1977 in Meyersdale, and was the son of Bonnie N. and Annie B. Yoder Fisher.

In addition to his parents, brothers and sisters, he is survived by the paternal grandparents, Noah and Annie Peterheim Fisher, Springs.

Joint services will be held Friday at 9:30 a.m. in the Norton Old Order Amish Church with Rev. Bennie Yoder officiating.

Interment will follow in the church cemetery.

Thomas Funeral Home, Salisbury, is in charge of arrangements.

Looking At Antiques With The Country Boy

by Dave Bowman

DECOYS

History shows that the American Indian used decoys made of wood, grass, rush and feathers to lure water fowl within range. The early settlers were not long copying the Indian's decoys and thus the art of making decoys was born.

Most all decoys are made of wood but some makers also used cork and balsa. For most collectors, the floating decoy is the only type they will buy. Decoy collectors are not always hunters. They are people who look at the decoy as an art form.

Although there were a certain number of craftsmen who were full time decoy carvers, most were made by unknown workers. The professional carvers usually signed their decoys and the work of these makers now command very high prices.

Decoys were carved and painted in the likeness of many different ducks, geese, swans, cranes, shorebirds and even fish. Old factory made decoys can be found for as little as $35.00 and signed decoys will bring thousands of dollars. Decoys can not only be used for their intended purpose but also as accent pieces around the house.

We are always interested in buying good antiques — one piece or a houseful.

Florida, and the late Harland Bowman, was raised on a 70-acre farm near McHenry. Mrs. Frazee, Friendsville, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fike, was raised on a 200 acre beef and dairy farm. Mrs. Lilly, King Wildesen Road, a daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Wildesen, was raised on a beef farm near Oakland. All were active in 4-H activities. All past farm queens have been invited to attend this year's coronation in recognition of the 25th Annual Garrett County Fair. The coronation will be Sunday, August 9.

Past Farm Queens Represent Four Decades Of Annual Contest

The Garrett County Farm Bureau appointed Mrs. C. C. Beachy, Accident, as first chairman of the Home and Community Department (out of which grew the Associated Women) in September, 1938. Garrett County accepted the change in name to the Associated Women in 1940, but was not legally organized until November, 1944, when Mrs. Mildred Kern, president of the Associated Women of the Maryland Farm Bureau, met with the local group, then headed by Beulah Engle. The association consists of the women in the Garrett County Farm Bureau families.

The organization sponsored the first "Farm Queen" contest in Garrett County in August, 1946, in connection with the Farmers' Picnic at Pleasant Valley Recreational area. Hazel Jane Broadwater, Bittinger, was chosen to be the first Farm Queen for Garrett County.

An active 4-H member and church member, Miss Broadwater was born in Bittinger, a daughter of the late Chauncey and Clara (Stork) Broadwater.

She was raised by her uncle and aunt, John and Rosa Beitzel, on their 150-acre farm, performing a wide variety of farm chores. She won the award over eight other competitors.

Having since married Danny Klotz, Hazel is now the mother of two children and the grandmother of four.

The Associated Women have sponsored the Garrett County Farm Queen Contest each year since 1946.

Throughout the history of the Farm Queen Contest in Garrett County, only one county queen has won the state title, claimed by Sue Herschberger in 1958.

A daughter of John R. and Mary E. Herschberger, Sue was raised on a 219-acre farm in Grantsville and was active in 4-H. She later married Samuel H. Weese. Mrs. Weese currently resides in Alexandria, Va., where she is employed by Hoechst Zoussel Pharmaceuticals, Inc., as the hospital representative for the Washington, D.C. area.

All past Garrett County Farm Queens have been invited to attend Sunday's coronation ceremony, in celebration of the 25th Annual Garrett County Fair and nearly four decades of the Garrett Farm Queen Contest.

In recognition of the 25th year of the Garrett County Fair the Associated Women of the Garrett County Farm Bureau has provided some background information about the organization and the annual Farm Queen Contest.

All of Garrett County's farm queens are listed as follows:

1946, Hazel (Broadwater) Klotz; 1947, Evelyn (Custer) Steyer; 1948, Donna (Reckner) Giotfelty; 1949, Margie (Kinsinger) Studley; 1950, Lois (Beachy) Kolb; 1951, Margaret (Brenneman) Herschberger; 1952, Fronia (Blamble) LaPere; 1953, Mary Edith (Giotfelty) Harman; 1954, Hazel (Mosser) Wright; 1955, Thelma (Hanlin) Enlow; 1956, Betty (Bittinger) Roderick; 1957, Susan (Bowman) Livengood; 1958, Sue (Herschberger) Weese; 1959, Joyce Ann (Haentling) Born; 1960, Georgia Ann (Giotfelty) Sanders; 1961, Kathryn (Vaste) Giotfelty; 1962, Kathleen (Haentling) Thompson; 1963, Carol (Fike) Frazee; 1964, Linda (Fike) Conner; 1965, Rita (Bernard) Barnhart; 1966, Karen Leonard; 1967, Linda (Schmidt) Ritchey; 1968, Mary Ellen (Silber) Denker; 1969, Vicki (Teets) Pleviak; 1970, Debra (DeWitt) Bernard; 1971, Dorothy (Hanft) Needer; 1972, Barbara Lucas; 1973, Norma (Fitzwater) Nelson; 1974, Becki Fike; 1975, Kendra Fratz; 1976, Valerie (Loughry) Frazee; 1977, Kathy (Nice) Lilly; 1978, Susan Mason; 1979, Carol Ross and 1980, Johnna Jones.

Accidents Cause Extensive Damage, Several Injuries

Several persons were injured as a result of separate traffic accidents around the district this week.

According to the report, the Widmyer vehicle was traveling south on Deep Creek Drive, and the Shaffer auto was traveling south on Rt. 219 at Rock Lodge Road, when Ms. Widmyer failed to properly stop at the intersection, and pulled into the path of Shaffer.

An accident on Rt. 42, south

According to police, Weldon R. Thomas, 40, Bridgeport, W. Va., was operating a vehicle owned by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company on Rt. 42 at an apparent high rate of speed for existing conditions, when he lost control and hit a tree. Northern Rescue Squad and the Friendsville Fire Department responded to the call.

Who Cares? . . .

Human beings are always looking for an excuse to have a party. Holidays, retirements, anniversaries, baptisms, promotions, welcome homes and, for the college fraternity, sunny days and/or rainy days will suffice as good excuses. A royal wedding in jolly old England this morning seemed to be another good excuse.

Although the marriage of Prince Charles and Lady Diana was certainly an historic event, it is highly questionable that it will have an enormous bearing on the future of the world. Beneath all of the fireworks, parades, parties and indeed, the wedding ceremony itself, there lies just another boy-meets-girl story. Chuck and Di are, believe it or not, still human beings with the same weaknesses as the next couple. After hearing repeatedly over network television what type of material was used in the making of Lady Diana's gown, what Prince Charles had for breakfast, and the rumor that he proposed to her in a pumpkin patch, one has this tremendous urge to utter the words "Who cares?"

The three major TV networks of this nation are spending over $300 million covering this event, there will be nearly $400 million spent on souvenirs, the wedding itself cost over one million dollars, and heaven only knows how many more millions will be spent for things such as travel and accommodations. It seems there are at least a few other slightly more worthy causes on which to spend such large sums, such as world hunger, poverty, cancer research, etc.

Oh well, all sarcasm aside, the wedding gave the people of England a much-needed break from such worries as hunger striking in Belfast, 2.8 million people unemployed, an 11 percent inflation rate, and Protestants and Catholics shooting one another. But why should the United States get so involved, even to the point of canceling Captain Kangaroo this morning, upon whom so many American mothers depend in order to enjoy just one cup of coffee in peace?

Congratulations, Charles and Diana!

Panic Button . . .

by Carol Kappel

Occasionally, there are times to panic in the weekly newspaper business. One might begin to perspire profusely under any of these circumstances:

1. When your lead story has embarrassed a public official, and you just found out he owns the apartment building in which you live.
2. When the photographer asks, "What picture?"
3. When your editor is reading your "pride and joy" article while simultaneously holding a pair of scissors.
4. When 65 youngsters appear for a tour of the newspaper facilities, armed with chocolate bars and one chapone.
5. When a reader comes into the newsroom carrying a three-legged chicken and requests a picture.
6. When your classified department has placed an ad for a brushhog under the animal section.
7. When you've shot a roll of once-in-a-lifetime pictures with the lens cap still in place.
8. When the church pews announce all 118 county services according to daylight savings time, one week early.
9. When the press is rolling, you've just discovered a wedding announcement on the floor under your desk, and the mother of the bride is on the phone.
10. When you're scanning the "Help Wanted" ads and discover one placed by your editor matching your job description to a "T."

Dear Sir,

I would like to use this opportunity to relate some little known information to the people of Southern Garrett County.

On August 3, we will be without the services of the most unique physician and family this county has ever known. On this day Dr. Terry Thomas and his family will leave for a new life in Bunkie, Louisiana.

Why is Dr. Thomas and his family so unique? One needs only to consider the countless hours of public donation Dr. Thomas has made to Garrett County and in particular to Southern High School athletics.

As a coach at Southern for the past four years I have grown to know what I believe is the finest sports medicine physician available. Not only is Dr. Thomas an enormously brilliant physician, he is also a compassionate donor of his many talents. Since I have known Dr. Thomas he has done every physical for our athletes each year, donated his services any hour of the day for injured athletes, set up therapy for recovering athletes, donated hundreds of hours by going to events to help with our teams and donated in any means possible to help all athletes. In short, Dr. Thomas and his wife, Joanie, have always been there. Words cannot express the sadness we will feel when that familiar red jacket is not running on the field to aid a fallen athlete this season.

I simply want to say, "THANKS" to a sincere friend for his thoughtfulness and kindness.

tricularly to the children who must walk along the road to a bus stop on US 219. He stated the county Board of Education would not consider establishing a bus stop closer to the residential area unless it were adopted into the county roads system.

The residents also pointed out the condition of road turned away prospective land owners. There are ten families living in the residential development now.

Other comments made included the fact that there was no police protection along the road because it was not a county road, there were no speed restrictions, and the road was heavily used by Spring Glade residents.

No opposition to the adoption of the road was expressed. The commissioners stated they would notify the residents of their decision on adoption of the road within two weeks.

County Fair

Continued from Page One. products were available for showing at that time of the year. However, poor weather caused fair attendance to diminish leading to financial loss, and the 15th Annual Garrett County Fair in 1931 was the last fair until 1957.

In 1957 a group of interested persons began reorganizing the fair, concentrating on location and funding. The existing Fairgrounds was established at that time, and directors and superintendents were elected. Fourteen of the original members are still active on the Fair board.

A complete schedule of events for this year's fair will be listed in next week's edition of The Republican.

Citizens Not Receiving Service

Oppose District Ad Valorem Tax

Representatives of five families living along Broadford Road confronted the Garrett County Sanitary Commission at its meeting July 21, regarding their being charged the ad valorem tax of $80 per $100 of assessed value for debt retirement of the water and sewerage projects in Mt. Lake Park, when they receive no services.

The commission indicated that it was their original intention to serve all areas taxed (area falling within the sanitary district boundaries), but plans for service to some prospective customers apparently feel through. At this time there is no immediate intention for water service to be provided to these homes, however, sewerage service will be available to them in the near future according to Wendell Beitzel, Sanitary District Administrator.

Beitzel will examine the commission's legal ability to exempt these families from the ad valorem tax at this time, and to have the district boundaries remain the same.

The commission passed a resolution of intent to create the Deep Creek Lake Sanitary

District. A public hearing for the purpose of creating the district boundaries is set for August 4 at 8 p.m. at the Garrett Community College auditorium. McHenry, Beitzel noted that plans are available for inspection at the Sanitary

District office in the Garrett

County Courthouse for anyone interested in viewing the proposed district.

The commission authorized the engineering firm of Rummel, Klepper & Kahl to perform additional engineering services relating to property right-of-ways and acquisition in the Deep Creek service area. The additional task will be performed by R., K. & K.

through a subcontract with Western Maryland Associates.

The commission passed a motion to acquire a specific plant site for the Deep Creek

Sewerage Treatment Plant, to be located near the breast of the dam.

The commission also agreed to ask the Department of Natural Resources to reconsider the decision of that agency to exempt the Deep Creek Lake State Park from the scope of the Deep Creek

Sewerage Project.

According to Beitzel, the commission feels that DNR should abandon its own sewerage treatment facility and allow the Sanitary

Commission to provide services for the park. Beitzel noted that the park's inclusion in the Sanitary District's system would provide an economic benefit to the sewerage project and "a tremendous economic benefit to DNR" (it would be cheaper to operate). He added that, with the Sanitary

Commission's project, nutrients will be removed totally from the drainage basin, not partially, as is the case with the state park facility. He added that the state park's inclusion would make it easier some day to extend service to residents along State Park Road.

The state park's plant is operated by the Department of Maryland Environmental

Services, a subdivision of

DNR, which stands to lose some jurisdiction if the plant is

"Please, Charles—I have a headache."

Second Impression Derriere Affair

by Harry Fox

It was a real cover-up. One newspaper had an artist sketch a pair of shorts over the offending hindquarters, while another refused the ad entirely. Yet another major metropolitan newspaper ran the ad, but with the top portion cropped so as to remove the young woman's shapely seat.

The ad was for the recent James Bond movie "For Your Eyes Only." The artwork, so crass as to provoke the wrath of several publishers, was model Nancy Stafford, whose legs framed film star Roger Moore. The New York advertising agency was surprised at the controversy. The Massachusetts chapter of Morality in Media called the art "deceitful." The public, whose rights were being protected, hardly noticed. The test run of the ad before its release drew not one word of comment from the readers.

The question isn't the merit of this ad, or the movie it publicizes. That is a matter of individual taste. That is precisely why it is impossible for anyone to label an ad, movie, book or whatever as offensive.

I would not be attracted to any James Bond movie in the first place. Long ago I concluded that they were a waste of my time, inducing sleep during the opening credits. Obviously, individual taste often differs from that of the public at large. It is arrogant for any publisher who presumes to enjoy the freedom of the first amendment to deny that freedom to others.

But, that is exactly what real freedom of speech means.

That is the catch. It is entirely proper for a publication to refuse any material, for whatever reason, or none at all. At times, it may actually be necessary to take this action, in the case of a libelous statement. That is not the case here, in the question of the movie ad.

There are many times when some advertising, or some other part of a newspaper, is offensive to the persons involved in printing it. But freedom of speech must be just that, free. It should be subject to maximum freedom and minimum restraint. Any other policy, no matter how well-intended, is censorship. And censorship has no place in a free society.

Can there be perfect freedom of speech? Not precisely. The human judgment needed makes the choice about what can and can't be printed or seen a fragile thing. It is a process as fragile as any other part of our way of life.

Perhaps we need to be reminded occasionally. Our nation's freedom is a rarity. The words of the constitution aren't worth the paper they're printed on—unless they are believed and lived each day. It was the colonial printer who spread such radical, offensive ideas as personal liberty and freedom of speech across this land some 200 years ago. What a shame that his descendants have forgotten what he learned.

allowed to be abandoned.

At Tuesday's meeting the commission also discussed arrangements for interim financing and long-term financing for the local cost of construction of the Deep Creek Sewerage Treatment Plant.

In other business, the commission reviewed a letter to President Ronald Reagan

from a Gorman resident, complaining about the water system. A response from the commission is being drafted.

The commission discussed the rate structure and connection charges for the Gorman Water Project. A motion was passed to charge $100 for initial water hook-up as the system is being built, and $300 for additional hook-up after the system is completed.

The commission received a letter from Kitzmiller requesting support in its efforts to obtain a water system.

The town stated it is in agreement with the Sanitary

District's role as lead agency for the construction of the project, however, there will be no action on the project until the HUD Block Grant funds are approved.

A FAREWELL DINNER and "roast" was held Monday evening at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, to honor Dr. Terrence J. Thomas, pictured above center, an Oakland surgeon, who will be leaving Garrett County the first of next month. Dr. Thomas and his family have resided in Oakland for 12 years and have been active in numerous community and church activities. Thomas donated hundreds of hours of time and service to members of the various athletic teams in southern Garrett County and also served in various capacities on the medical staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Presenting a plaque of appreciation to Thomas in the above photo is Dr. Jared B. Zeiman, representing the medical staff. At right is Dr. Thomas' wife, Joan. The dinner, which was attended by approximately 100 people, was emceed by Dr. Herbert Leighton. Several other local physicians, employees of Garrett Memorial, and Kenneth Richmond, hospital administrator, participated in the "roast." Dr. Thomas and his family will be moving to Bunkie, Louisiana, where he will be head of surgery in the local hospital. Dr. and Mrs. Thomas are the parents of five children.

Domestic Dispute Charges Are Filed Against Two Men

Maryland State Police investigated two domestic disputes in the district recently, bringing charges against two men as a result.

Shirley Edgar Williams, 36, Fairmont, W. Va., has been charged with assault and battery, trespassing, and destruction of property as a result of a disturbance at the home of his former wife, Barbara Ann Payton, Deer Park.

According to the report, Williams visited the Payton home to spend time with his children when an argument ensued, and Mrs. Payton was struck by her ex-husband. Williams then entered the home, and became involved in a scuffle with Mrs. Payton's husband, striking him also. To climax the dispute, Williams threw a rifle belonging to the Payton household into the yard before leaving the premises.

Warrants have been issued, and possible extradition proceedings are currently underway.

Two county women were assaulted last Sunday in their home near Swanton.

Sheila Elaine Boyce, 36, and Alfreda W. Moore, 55, were involved in a dispute with Harold Wayne Boyce, 36, husband of Sheila.

According to the report, Boyce had been drinking, and an argument began which included physical contact and verbal threats of violence. It was reported that Mrs. Boyce emptied six rounds from a .22 calibre pistol in an effort to avoid harm to herself and her mother, Mrs. Moore.

According to the victims, during the altercation, Boyce beat his wife, and when his mother-in-law attempted to intervene, he also struck her, knocking her to the ground. He then fled into a wooded area near the home with a .30.06 rifle, threatening to shoot anyone coming or going from the residence.

The victims and three children were safely evacuated from the home, and Boyce was later arrested by Maryland State Police on charges of assault and battery.

Pickup Truck Reported Stolen From Oakland Area Dealership

A 1973 Chevrolet pickup truck was stolen from Bell Brothers Motor Sales in Oakland early Tuesday morning when thieves broke into the establishment and stole the keys to the vehicle.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department was contacted after a company employee found that the lock on the garage door had been pried open. Once inside the garage the culprits cut and stole a portion of a water hose, then pried the lock on the office door leading from the garage. Taken from the office were the truck keys and two temporary license plates, numbers 16871D and 16872D.

The blue, 2-ton automatic transmission pickup is valued at $1,900. Total loss value of the incident is approximately $2,054.

The department is also working several other incidents of theft and some cases of vandalism reported last week.

Michael R. Reams, Swanton, reported that approximately $162 in food stamps was removed from his mailbox during the day on July 7. Reams, a disabled county resident, told police that unknown subjects also removed $10 to $12 in gasoline from his vehicle while it was parked in the driveway on New Germany Road sometime between July 7 and 25. The theft of the food stamps was reported to local postal authorities.

In a separate case, Jack A. Knight, Mt. Lake Park, reported that a 10-speed boy's bicycle was stolen from in front of his residence on Oakland Avenue during the night on Thursday. The bike, which is valued at about $50, is described as red with black tape around the handle bars, with two spokes missing from the rear wheel.

Ramsey D. Martin, Oakland, of Martin's Auto Body, Crellin, reported theft of gasoline from three trucks and an automobile parked at that establishment Friday night. The quantity of gasoline siphoned from the vehicle is undetermined, however Martin told police this is the second incident of theft of gasoline there in the last two months.

Par-Matt Jones, Mt. Lake Park, reported damage done to a machine in the men's room of the establishment on June 3, when vandals using small tools broke into the box and removed an undetermined amount of quarters. Police reported no theft of the product.

In other business, a farmer in the Oakland area reported several incidents of destruction of property to his barnyard, including the beating death of baby chickens. The incident occurred July 19 along Sunny-side Road at property owned by Roy L. Sanders.

Suspected juveniles went onto the property and opened a gate, allowing 12 head of cattle to enter a cornfield. They also took a container with approximately 100 pounds of feed, emptied it and let it lay about 300 feet from the barn. The vandals knocked down another gate, allowing a mother pig and several little ones to enter the farmer's wheat field, and Sanders found a nest of about 10 to 12 young chickens (peeps) all killed with a small stick found near the scene.

All of the animals let loose were recovered without any apparent damage, however Sanders told police the sow with her babies "could be very dangerous if anyone would bother her." The corn and wheat were not very high, police said, and damage to the fields was limited. The damage estimate for the feed is about $9.95.

In other business, the department arrested eight persons last week.

Lyle White, 26, Oakland, was arrested July 21 and charged with assault. He was released the next day when he posted 10 percent of $500 bond.

Michael Gerald Casteel, 22, and Mary L. Casteel, 20, both of Grantsville, were incarcerated Thursday, both charged with battery. Both were released on their own recognizance.

Gladys Yvonne Welch of the Oakland area was arrested Friday on a bench warrant. She was released the next day on her own recognizance.

Donald Gillette, 22, and Clyde Powell, 25, both of Pittsburgh, Pa., were arrested Saturday, both charged with destruction of property and assault. They were both released the same day when they each posted $100 bond.

Eugene Roy, 25, Elk Garden, W. Va., was incarcerated Monday and charged with theft. He was released the same day on his own recognizance.

Donald W. Harvey, 32, Swanton, was arrested Monday and charged with trespassing. He was released the next day on his own recognizance.

Attorney General's Docket

by Stephen H. Sachs
Attorney General of Maryland

As the cook-out season goes into high gear this summer cost-conscious Maryland consumers should be pleased to learn some of the findings in a recent federal Department of Agriculture Research Laboratory study that can help them save money when buying one of the least expensive and most popular forms of red meat: hamburger.

Because many consumers believe that more costly lean and extra-lean ground beef is healthier to eat than cheaper, regular ground beef, many decide to spend the extra money. The Department of Agriculture found that the extra expenditure isn't worth it.

Regular ground beef, which is about 40 percent cheaper than lean ground beef, has about the same fat and cholesterol content as the more expensive meat once it is cooked, the study showed.

There is about 25 to 30 percent fat in regular ground beef before cooking, while lean ground beef has about 20 to 23 percent fat in it. Extra lean ground beef has 15 to 19 percent fat, according to the Department of Agriculture.

But when identical 3.5-ounce patties of extra-lean and regular ground beef are cooked, the fat content in them is reduced considerably and comes close to being equal.

An extra-lean, cooked 3.5-ounce hamburger has 11 grams of fat and 34 grams of water; a 3.5-ounce hamburger made of regular beef has 12 grams of fat and 33 grams of water. The extra gram of fat in the regular hamburger amounts to only nine calories, but the saving in cost per serving is about 5 cents. And every nickel counts these days! There are about four servings per pound of ground beef, and most people eat the equivalent of two servings each time they have a hamburger, so the savings can mount up quickly while the extra calorie count remains minimal.

This June 30 marked the 75th anniversary of an important milestone in the history of consumer protection in the United States, and it was one in which a Marylander played a significant role. It was the birthday of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's meat inspection program, created in 1906 largely because of the diligent investigative reporting of Upton Sinclair, who was born in Baltimore in 1878.

In 1906, Sinclair wrote a book called "The Jungle," detailing the unsanitary conditions at the stockyards in Chicago, then the hub of the nation's meat industry. President Theodore Roosevelt, like many other readers, was shocked by Sinclair's book and called him to the White House to learn more about the problems revealed in it. Persuaded by Sinclair that federal action was required, T.R. got Congress to pass the Meat Inspection Act, one of the first major consumer protection laws in the country, which provides for federal inspection of red meat products that are to be shipped interstate or overseas.

The law requires that animals be examined before and after slaughter and that food be inspected for harmful additives. Sanitary controls for meat processing plants, and accurate labels on meat products, also are mandated by the law.

Because of Sinclair's book and the law that grew out of it, Americans can be sure that government-inspected meat is wholesome. That, along with the information on the cost of ground beef, is nice to know when you're planning those barbecues.

Teriyaki Chicken

It's so easy nowadays to order out for chicken. But, it doesn't have the loving touch that home-baked chicken has. And, chicken is so versatile. How about going oriental? Teriyaki Chicken brings your family the delicious taste of this traditional Japanese dish.

The spicy sauce begins with maple flavored syrup. Mix it with soy sauce, sherry, seasonings, then cook on top of the range or in your microwave oven. As the chicken bakes, baste it generously with this flavorful sauce. Garnish with kumquats and serve. Don't forget to serve the extra sauce so you can continue to enjoy its delicate, spicy flavor.

Instead of ordering out, your family will request Teriyaki Chicken again and again. It's easy — and fun — to stay in and enjoy this savory Japanese style meal.

Teriyaki Chicken

1/2 cup maple flavored table syrup
1/2 cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons dry sherry or water
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder

One 2 1/2 to 3 lb. broiler fryer, cut up

Heat oven to 375°F. In medium saucepan, combine all ingredients except chicken, mix well. Bring mixture to a full rolling boil over high heat. Reduce heat. Continue cooking over medium-high heat about 6 minutes. Remove from heat, cool.

Place chicken pieces skin side up in 11x7 inch baking dish. Bake for 30 to 60 minutes, brushing occasionally with sauce during last 10 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Combine remaining sauce and pan juices, serve as additional sauce with chicken. Garnish with watercress and kumquats, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Microwave Oven Directions: Combine all ingredients except chicken in 1 1/2 qt. glass bowl mix well. Cook at HIGH about 8 minutes, stirring after each 3 minutes of cooking, cool. Place chicken pieces skin side down in 11x7-inch baking dish, placing larger pieces in corners of dish and smaller pieces in center. Cook at HIGH about 8 minutes, drain well.

Byron Proposes N.J.D. Legislation

Rep. Beverly B. Byron (D-MD) has introduced legislation to officially proclaim October 10, 1981, as "National Jogging Day."

"Some thirty million Americans jog or run as a recreational activity. I believe that this resolution will encourage more people to become physically active and fit, and will have a great impact on the nation's health. I am a strong believer in preventative medicine," Rep. Byron said.

National Jogging Day was started 12 years ago to celebrate America's commitment to physical fitness. Last year, more than half a million persons took part in NJDay activities.

The events of NJDay are fun—races, walk-a-thons, bicycle races—and the results are tremendous. Jogging is an excellent, convenient, and inexpensive form of exercise. People feel better emotionally when they are physically fit," Rep. Byron said.

I feel that this proclamation will call attention to physical fitness and will hopefully rally others to incorporate regular exercise into their everyday lives."

Oakland All-Stars Fall To Frostburg. Then Nip Midland

The Oakland Little League Junior Division All-Stars were eliminated from the National Little League Tournament by Frostburg on Saturday afternoon by a score of 6-1 on the Broadford Park field.

Frostburg pitcher Mike Turner scattered six hits and struck out seven, while Manual Moon fanned six and absorbed the loss.

Defensive standouts for the Oakland team were Mike Weimer and Donnie Horner. John Ralston and Turner led Frostburg's offensive effort.

The Oakland All-Stars turned things around on Sunday in the opening round of the Tri-Towns World Series by edging Midland 6-5 in an extra-inning contest in Westernport. Oakland was trailing 5-2 when they came to their last at bats in the sixth inning. Singles by Brian Dixon, J. R. Tasker and Robbie Germain put the Oaklanders within one run. Then Brian Glass, who had walked, crossed the plate on a double by Mike Weimer to tie the score and send the game into extra innings.

Max Hill took the mound for Oakland in the seventh and successfully shut down the Midland bats.

In Oakland's half of the seventh, Dale Bittinger walked and then advanced to third on passed balls. Then with two outs, Brian Glass hit a ground ball to the Midland shortstop, who overthrew first base and allowed Bittinger to score the deciding run.

The local team will continue in the 16-team, double-elimination tournament this evening by facing Cresaptown B team on the Westernport field. Keyser is the defending champion team.

Commemorative Stamp Issued Hailing IYDP

The new U.S. commemorative stamp honoring the International Year of Disabled Persons boasts the theme, "Disability Doesn't Mean Unable." The 18-cent, issued June 29, heralds the United Nations General Assembly's proclamation designating 1981 as the International Year of Disabled Persons (IYDP) and urging all nations to give their attention to measures and programs which would help the disabled.

The design features a man in a wheelchair operating a sophisticated microscope with the inscription at the bottom, "Disability Doesn't Mean Unable." The stamp was designed by Martha Perske of Darien, Conn., and is her first stamp design. Mrs. Perske and her husband, Robert, have produced the art and narrative for two national and two international reports on disabled persons since 1976.

In issuing the new stamp, the U.S. joins other countries in the effort to encourage and assist the 450 million disabled persons worldwide. Among IYDP endeavors are the promotion of education for the prevention of impairments and the encouragement of rehabilitation efforts.

First-day cancellations may be obtained by the following procedures:

Customers are urged to purchase stamps and affix them to their own covers. All covers must be addressed on the right side of envelopes at least 5/8 of an inch up from the bottom. A filler should be inserted in each envelope which should be mailed to "Customer Affixed Envelopes, Postmaster, Milford, MI, 48042" by August 13. There is no charge.

The Postal Service will affix stamps when requested to do so. Persons should mail orders by August 13 to "International Year of Disabled Persons Stamp, Postmaster, Milford, MI, 48042. The cost is 18 cents per stamp to be affixed, and personal checks in the exact amount will be accepted for orders up to the limit of 50 covers. Postage stamps and cash are unacceptable as payment.

The Balamas have recently issued two new stamps and a souvenir sheet to honor the International Year of Disabled Persons. The five-cent stamp depicts a figure with a crutch being healed by the sun's rays. The $1 stamp depicts a figure in a wheelchair gazing up to the sun's rays. Each stamp bears the IYDP symbol.

Charlotte Griffith was appointed liaison for Garrett County to the U.S. Council for the IYDP. Locally, IYDP endeavors have been in the areas of awareness, accessibility, transportation, recreation, life safety, education and residential alternatives for disabled persons. The Garrett Organization for the Handicapped has chosen IYDP as its theme for most of the organization's activities this year.

Tennis is believed to have originated in France between 1100 and 1300. Players hit the ball over the net with their hands.

Straight Talk About Aging

By Matthew Tashack
State Director On Aging

SEE TO IT

Do you know what one of the earliest "symptoms" of aging is? One that could well begin at the tender age of 20, or even earlier?

You'll probably not be able to guess it, so I'll tell you: it's loss of vision.

If you're chuckling over "getting old at 20," don't. So many people let early, gradual loss of vision go unchecked that by the time they reach their older years they can't see at all—and that's no laughing matter.

In fact, half the blind people in the United States are over 65, even though the 65-plus age group constitutes eleven percent of the country's population.

Fortunately, these facts need not be as alarming as they appear. That's because they are an indication of a problem among older people which can be substantially prevented rather than an indication that blindness is inevitable for thousands and thousands of the nation's elderly.

As the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness has observed: "The important point is that eye problems or failing vision in the older person can often be prevented and should not be shrugged off as the price of aging. Early detection leading to prompt treatment, through regular professional eye examination, is as important at 75 as at five. Half of all cases of blindness can be prevented."

It is worth noting that regular eye check-ups are particularly important for the elderly for a reason that goes even beyond attention to vision. The interior of the eye is a unique place in the body where the blood vessels can be seen in their natural state; thus, examination of the eye can aid in detecting such diseases as diabetes, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and even some brain tumors.

What are some of the most common age-related eye problems?

Presbyopia is one. Not a disease actually, it is a gradual loss of elasticity in the crystalline lens. This impairs an individual's ability to change focus from far to near (or near to far) objects. To one degree or another, it's experienced by

SENIOR CITIZENS GO ON TOUR — Nearly 70 senior citizens from Garrett County toured Falling Waters at Mill Run, Pa., on Thursday. The group, which is the largest that has taken advantage of any Commission on Aging excursions, departed by bus from the Senior Citizens' Center in Oakland early that morning. The trip was a joint effort between the Garrett County Commission on Aging and the Garrett Bus System. According to Bernadine Friend, a representative of the commission, the group is planning another trip to Falling Waters in the near future, to accommodate those who were unable to join Thursday's group. A shopping trip to Fairmont, W. Va., is also planned for Thursday, August 27. Any senior citizen interested in either trip should call 334-3314 for reservations.

everyone. Fortunately, it's effectively corrected with eyeglasses.

Cataract is probably the best known eye problem among the elderly. Some physicians go so far as to say that everyone will get cataracts if they live long enough. Like presbyopia, a cataract affects the eye's lens, clouding it, rendering it increasingly opaque and thereby impairing vision.

Fortunately, fewer than five percent of all cataract cases require surgery. For those that do, modern surgical techniques have made the operation far less traumatic than it used to be. In fact, recovering patients are usually up and walking within 24 to 48 hours. Only the eye from which the cataract was removed is covered. The other is allowed to remain open and function normally.

Glaucoma is a third thief of vision. Its symptoms include unexplained blurring of vision in one or both eyes, occasional headaches and the seeing of rainbow halos around bright lights. Unhappily, and herein lies the insidious threat of glaucoma, once symptoms have become noticeable, the disease has often progressed to a dangerous, sight-robbing stage.

A definite finding of glaucoma can be made quickly and painlessly by an ophthalmologist or optometrist with a tonometer, an instrument which measures the pressure exerted upon the eye by the fluid which fills it. It is this higher-than-normal pressure that is responsible for damaging the optic nerve and causing loss of vision. Once diagnosed, glaucoma can usually be controlled indefinitely with medication.

There are, of course, other diseases or conditions that attack the aging eye. Macular degeneration is one; detachment of the retina, another. Some can be treated. When treatment is not possible, certain aids to vision—high-intensity lights, for instance, or mounted magnifiers—can be of considerable help.

The most important thing to remember when thinking about protecting your eyes and conserving your eyesight as you grow older is the need for the rest of your life.

regular eye examination. The time spent with your ophthalmologist or optometrist can mean saving your eyesight for years.

AHA Nutrition Tips

Soup is an economical dish. Unfortunately, commercial soups (store bought) that are in compliance with your AHA are difficult to find. Generally, the store-bought soups are high in sodium and fat or contain the wrong type of fat.

To make your own soup—use leftover meat or vegetables, or vegetables that have lost their freshness. Keep in mind when making soup that all the fat should be trimmed off the meat before it is cooked. Also, it is a good idea to make the soup a day before you plan to eat it. That way, if you put the soup in the refrigerator overnight the fat will harden and come to the top of the broth and can be easily removed.

BEEF BARLEY VEGETABLE SOUP
3 lbs. meaty shankbone, lean and well-trimmed
1½ qts. cold water
Freshly ground black pepper
3 tbs. barley
Vegetables—3 carrots, finely chopped
1 head cabbage, shredded
2 ribs celery, finely chopped
1 onion, chopped
Place meat in kettle, cover w/cold water, add seasoning. Heat slowly to boiling point, cover and let simmer 2½-3 hours, or until meat is tender. Skim off fat. Remove meat and bone, add barley and vegetables. Continue to cook for 45 minutes.

Yield—2 quarts.
Calories—185/cup.

WV Physicians Discuss Hazards Of Power Mowers

The emergency room of a medical center is a good place to sharpen your perspective on power mower accidents, and how they can mangle and chew up the unwary.

At West Virginia University Medical Center, the emergency department sees two or three such cases a week. On July 15 alone the patients included:

A 15-year-old Morgantown girl who lost part of two fingers.

A 9-year-old Preston County boy whose head was badly cut by a rock thrown by a mower.

A 26-year-old Gilmer County man transported to University Hospital where his toe was amputated.

"When you talk about magnitude of injuries, these are terrible ones," said John S. Veatch, medical director of the emergency department who treats many of the patients.

"And there is often residual damage—impairment of walking, limits on exercise, permanent disfigurement."

Dr. Veatch says the factor he finds most prevalent in power mower accident cases is that "almost invariably people seem to be undereducated about the hazards."

"It's as if most of them would be surprised to know that the professionals—in industry, medicine and safety—consider power mowers to be the most dangerous of all household equipment and appliances."

Veatch said his experience with patients and study of the literature shows how important it is, for safety purposes, to keep lawn mower blades sharp.

"When blades lose their edge the mower has to be operated at a higher speed to get the job done, and that increases the danger both for missiles thrown by the blades and even for direct cuts."

"The kinetic energy or force that hurls missiles or cuts through a shoe is related very directly to speed—and when the blade is sharp the speed can be lowered," he said.

Hills and slopes are a well-known hazard with mowers, but Veatch points out a factor that would not occur to most operators.

"When a foot slips as you're cutting down a slope, it's almost a reflex action to pull the arm back often without letting go of the handle and pull the mower right back at the foot."

"And don't forget that cutting grass releases small amounts of liquid even when the weather is dry, so the surface can easily be slippery even without rain or dew."

Having seen many children involved in such accidents, Veatch feels strongly about children and mowers.

"Pre-teens should not be allowed to operate these machines even though they receive instruction and are considered dependable in other respects. Nor should they ride with a parent on a riding mower or be allowed to play nearby when an adult is using a mower," he said.

Based on more than three years of experience dealing with such accidents, Dr. Veatch offered these rules for safe operation:

Educate yourself as to the hazards of mowers and teach your children.

Keep pre-teens away from the machines.

Don't use a power-driven riding or walking mower unless it's essential.

If possible, the machine should have hand controls so it can be turned off quickly.

The blades should be kept sharp so the machine can operate at a slower setting.

Don't mow when the grass is wet or even quite damp.

Wear protective footwear and cleats if mowing on hillsides.

Be aware of fire hazards, never fill the tank when the motor is on.

Be especially wary of sloping ground.

Use a grass catcher when possible to reduce the danger of thrown rocks and other missiles.

"A friend pointed out to me that a three-and-a-half-pound blade at 3,500 rpm create 2,100 foot-pounds of energy, about the same as a 21-pound rock falling on you from a height of 100 feet," he said. "A small object thrown by a power mower has three times the energy of a .357 magnum pistol which can put a bullet through an engine block."

Academic Achievement Of Local Student Labeled "Outstanding"

A Dartmouth College junior from Deer Park has been cited by a professor of mathematics for outstanding academic achievement during the past term.

He is Paul Eric Ammann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ammann. According to his professor, Ammann "was second in the class of 93 students... his work was consistently excellent."

Named as a Rufus Choate

Scholar for his high academic standing, Ammann had previously been cited for work completed in a German course.

Citation winners are quite unusual among the 4,000 undergraduates on the Dartmouth campus, according to a release from the Ivy League college, as members of the faculty are invited to submit Citation Reports only when a student's work is sufficiently distinguished to merit special recognition. Such citations are rare, and relatively few are submitted each term, the release said.

Ammann is a graduate of Southern High School.

"Shenandoah Wake-Robin"Maryland, Virginia Universities Announce Discovery Of New Mid-Atlantic Plant

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — Botanists from universities in Maryland and Virginia said Tuesday they have discovered the first new variety of a flowering plant found in a middle Atlantic state in 30 years.

The new flower is so rare that a spokesman for University of Maryland botanist, Dr. James I. Reveal, said Reveal would not reveal where the newly discovered flower can be found.

The research scientist wouldn't tell me exactly where he found it, because he is afraid that he will lose there are only a thousand individuals of the plant, that he knows of, it could be wiped out," said Skip Myers, science writer for the university.

"He wouldn't even tell me where he found it," said Myers. Reveal and Dr. Norlyn L. Bodkin of James Madison University in Harrisonburg,

The Maryland Newsfront

Va. are listed as co-discoverers of the plant, and plan to publish their findings early next year in the scientific journal "Brittonia."

"It is so rare we will recommend that it be considered for listing under provisions of the Endangered Species Act," said Reveal, associate professor of botany and a research scientist at the university's agricultural experiment station.

"This rare plant, unfortunately, will be highly prized by wild flower collectors who wish to grow rare plants in their own gardens, and the plant is far too rare to be collected," he said.

Myers said, however, the "Shenandoah Wake-Robin" was discovered somewhere in the mountains along the Virginia-West Virginia border.

"Probably the reason the new flower was not discovered for so long is because it is only found at elevations above 3,000 feet above sea level, and because it looks very, very similar to its cousin," Myers said.

The new plant's cousin is the once-endangered, but now safe, "Virginia Wake-Robin," another member of the lily family that is found on the coastal plains of Virginia and Maryland's Eastern Shore.

"Obviously it's not a new flower, it's been around. It just hasn't been discovered," said Myers.

The main differences are in the petal arrangement. A lot of people have mistaken it for its lower elevation cousin," he said.

Myers said it was significant that this was the first such discovery in the region in 30 years, but added, "As for it having any practical application, other than having a pretty flower to have in a garden, no."

State's Attorney Investigates Sanitation Department Payoffs

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A city garbage collector accepted a $2 payment from a storekeeper five days after the state's attorney's office began an investigation of illegal payments to sanitation workers, it was reported today.

The News American said a reporter and a photographer saw the payoff in a Baltimore shop Monday. The storekeeper, Jean Long, said she has made regular twice-weekly payoffs of $2 since she bought the store three years ago. Under city law the service is supposed to be free.

Ms. Long told the newspaper the payments were "black-mail." The News American interviewed the garbage collector and he said the payment was a "tip."

The state's attorney began an investigation of alleged illegal payments following a News American article last week that said 27 storekeepers made payments ranging from $2 a week to $40 a month to garbage collectors.

"They come into the store. I don't give it as a tip," said Ms. Long, who owns Norma Jean's Confectionery.

"I give it for services rendered. If I wanted to tip I would tip what I would want to tip. Maybe they consider it a tip, but I don't," she said.

The garbage collector, Kenneth Chester, told the newspaper he received money from the store regularly since 1974. He denied ever asking for the money and said the legal amount of trash would be picked up even if the payment wasn't made.

"She's the one who approached us, we didn't approach her. She said, 'I know we have more trash than we are supposed to. Come on in the store, I'll give you something.' Then she gave us $2," Chester said.

One of the men was also charged with concealing a case of dynamite in the trunk of his car, police said.

Mark Serio, 31, and James Campbell, 25, apparently went into Montgomery Ward store at the Harford Mall at 6 p.m. Monday, stole a woman's coat in one department, went to the jewelry department, threw the coat over the jewelry and started for the door.

They were wrestled to the ground by a security guard and arrested, police said.

The case contained $4,200 in jewelry. A search of the pair's car turned up a number of other allegedly stolen items and the dynamite.

Guard Union Head Protests Survey Penitentiary Inmates Refuse Calling For 10% Staff Cut At Jessup Transfer To New Housing Section

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The president of the union representing prison guards Tuesday criticized a corrections department survey calling for a 10 percent reduction in the number of guards at the Maryland House of Corrections annex in Jessup.

The annex, which currently houses 394 inmates even though it is still under construction, was designed to hold 512 prisoners, said Ed Davis, president of Local 1678 of the Maryland State Employees Council 92.

The optimum number of guards for 512 inmates is 231, he said.

But state officials have asked the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for permission to house 20 prisoners in cells built for one at the annex.

The plan to "double-cell" inmates would push the prison population to at least 790, Davis said. That proposal, coupled with the survey's suggestion to reduce the number of correctional officers by 23, would "create a direct threat to public safety."

"On the one hand, they (state officials) want to add more inmates. And on the other, they want to cut personnel," he said. "But steel and concrete don't keep inmates in jail. Line officers do."

Davis sent a telegram Monday expressing his concern about the survey to Gov. Harry Hughes, Secretary of Public Safety and Correctional Services Thomas Schmidt and Corrections Commissioner John Galley.

Davis said Tuesday none replied to the telegram. Neither Schmidt nor Galley were available for comment Tuesday, but a spokesman for Gov. Harry Hughes confirmed the study recommended reassigning guards.

"Given the security at the new prison, the task force suggested the corrections officers could be more effectively used elsewhere," said Hughes spokesman Lou Pannos. "The force will not be reduced and nobody will be fired."

Davis said he learned "unofficially" that 12 of the 23 guards would be moved to the Women's Correctional Institution for Women at Jessup because there currently are 40 guard positions vacant.

"They want to rob Peter to pay Paul. They're going to cut staff here and move them there. That's incongruous (sic) to me," Davis said. Pannos confirmed that the women's facility was mentioned as a possible relocation for guards.

Davis said if officials confirm the survey's conclusion, that will be "the number one priority item on the agenda" when the union meets Aug. 10. He would not speculate what action the membership would take, but he offered some advice if the rank and file decides to picket.

"I know my guards don't make enough money to buy new shoes. So I suggest they get them re-soled and re-heeled because they are going to be back on the street."

BALTIMORE (UPI) — State prison officials Tuesday sentenced 19 Maryland Penitentiary inmates to an extra 75 days in a punitive segregation area because the inmates refused to be transferred to another section of the prison.

The 19 balked at the transfers last Thursday because they did not want to move from the segregation unit into "B" block, an area that has housed homosexuals and informers, prison officials said.

Hearing Examiner David Bartlow imposed the sentences Monday and Tuesday. Each prisoner has three days to appeal the sentences, and penitentiary Warden George Collins has five days to act upon any appeals.

In all, 21 men were cited under administrative rules Friday for refusing transfer orders. Bartlow said one man pleaded guilty and was given probation while a decision on another has not been handed down.

Prison officials ordered the 21 men to move out of the segregation section last week in response to complaints that some inmates were being made to stay in segregation longer than they were supposed to because of prison overcrowding.

The complaints centered on a group of inmates serving sentences longer than the 90 days they received for participating in a dispute pitting rival groups of prisoners against one another.

Prisoners in the punitive segregation area are denied packages and daily showers. Exercise and visiting privileges are also restricted.

Collins conceded the inmates had been kept too long in the segregation section but said the prison was simply too crowded to move them.

Collins freed up space in the general population last Wednesday by moving some inmates from the general prison population to other prisons.

Some of the prisoners have protested the prolonged sentences by staging an off-and-on hunger strike that entered its ninth day Tuesday. Sixty-five prisoners participated in the first day of the hunger strike, but the number dropped to eight Tuesday.

California Developer Proposes $250 Million For New Project

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A Los Angeles-based millionaire who discovered Baltimore while eating clams signed a contract Tuesday calling for a $250 million development project, the largest in the city's history.

M.J. Brodie, the city housing commissioner, said the agreement would be forwarded to the Board of Estimates Wednesday for final approval, with other city officials saying they expect prompt approval.

David H. Murdock plans to use a combination of private and public capital to revitalize a five-block area near Lexington Market, a section of the downtown construction of the project will begin within the year, Brodie said, and take as long as six years to complete. Brodie said the plan would create an estimated 5,000 construction jobs and, upon completion, 16,000 office jobs. The completed project will also generate about $3 million in annual real estate taxes, Brodie said.

Murdock, described by Fortune Magazine as a man who collects companies, first brokered the development last summer.

The Murdock plan calls for the rehabilitation of two department stores and construction of two new office towers, a parking garage, a glass-enclosed and a pedestrian mall.

Murdock is a high school dropout who lives on a 12,000-acre ranch south of Los Angeles. H.H. Haldeman, chief of staff to former President Richard Nixon, is a vice president in the company.

FBI Investigates Fatal Shooting In Anne Arundel

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The FBI has joined a pair of Anne Arundel County agencies in an investigation of the fatal shooting of a motorist by a police officer, the FBI said Tuesday.

The federal investigation will look into the July 20 shooting of Leroy Perry, 48, by county officer David Hodge. The police department is conducting an internal investigation and a county grand jury is also looking at the incident.

Perry was shot twice after he was pulled over for suspected drunk driving. Hodge told police he shot Perry in self-defense because he thought Perry had a weapon in his hand. The weapon turned out to be a screwdriver.

FBI agent John Kutz said the bureau forwarded material related to the shooting last week to the U.S. Justice Department's Civil Rights Division.

sion. Perry was black and Hodge is white.

Police Chief Maxwell Frye said homicide detectives would finish the department's investigation by Friday. State's attorney Warren Duckett said he'll go before the grand jury when the police investigation is over.

Hodge is working in the department's communications center and has not lost any pay because of the incident.

Twice before Hodge, 27, has been charged with excessive use of force while on duty and twice he was cleared.

76-Year-Old Gets Six Year Sentence For Manslaughter

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A 76-year-old man has been sentenced to six years in prison for killing a Camp Springs man, authorities said.

William "Captain Bill" Boehman of Deale, who twice escaped from police following the shooting 13 months ago, was sentenced Monday for the manslaughter conviction.

He was convicted of killing Charles Davis, 55, of Camp Springs, during a struggle in Boehman's rented room.

Boehman fled the scene following the June 7, 1980, shooting but was captured in Florida. In July 1980 he was taken to a county hospital for treatment, then fled again. He was captured in March in Bladensburg.

The judge said the escapes "indicated a guilty knowledge on (Boehman's) part."

Boehman argued that the killing was in self-defense because Davis was trying to hit him with a soft drink bottle. The argument apparently started when Boehman tried to stop Davis from shooting a chicken in Boehman's yard, authorities said.

TOWSON, Md. (UPI) — Baltimore County officials are praising a man who single-handedly extinguished a brush fire, but they say they will not pay his hospital bill for leg injuries.

August Webster was fishing in Frog Mortar Creek last May when he saw a fire in the brush across the creek.

"I saw some kids on the bank, but I didn't pay much attention to them. When I looked up again, I saw flames," he said.

He went ashore and put out the fire with a bleach bottle he kept in the boat for baiting. As he ran along the bank, he tripped over a stump, injuring his left leg.

Webster's wife called the Middle River Volunteer Fire Department where she said Battalion Chief Frank Wilson told her to take her husband to the hospital and send the bill to the county.

"But this is the first time I've been hurt," Webster said. "Now, if something comes up, I guess I'll have to think twice about getting involved."

Enterprise Zone ProposedRepublican Leaders Tour Baltimore; Discuss Needs, Federal Assistance

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Key Republican leaders, including New York Congressman Jack Kemp, toured Baltimore Tuesday but left without making any promises concerning levels of federal aid to the Democratic stronghold.

The Republicans did, however, pledge to establish "enterprise zones" in Baltimore should the bill providing for such zones be enacted. Kemp is co-sponsoring the bill, which would exempt employers and employees from paying certain federal taxes in targeted depressed areas.

"I believe this legislation will pass and that Baltimore will begin an enterprise zone," Kemp said.

Under the Kemp plan, employers would be exempted from certain capital gains taxes, while employees would pay less federal income taxes in an effort to attract investment capital. State governments would also be called upon to cut certain taxes, Kemp said.

The enterprise zone plan would cost between $1 billion and $2 billion in federal revenues that would have otherwise gone to the government, Kemp said. He added that the program would pay for itself by eventually generating more jobs.

"Every new job means less food stamps and less welfare," Kemp said.

Accompanying Kemp on the tour were Samuel Pierce, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Rep. Marjorie S. Holt, R-Md., special presidential assistant J. Steven Rhodes and Baltimore Mayor William Donald Schaefer.

The army of government officials and news media cruised through the city in a two-tiered, black-and-silver bus normally used to make trips to Atlantic City, N.J.

One stop was the Park Circle Industrial Park, a high-unemployment area the city is trying to revitalize with the help of private capital. Both Kemp and Schaefer agreed the boarded-up area would make an ideal enterprise zone, with Kemp pledging to follow through on that idea should his legislation pass.

Mrs. Holt, who arranged the tour, and Schaefer, who has been seeking a visit by Republican leaders for some time, discounted the political implications of a Republican foray into a Democratic stronghold.

"We don't want to make this into a Republican and Democratic clash," Schaefer said after the tour. "We didn't talk politics at all. The bottom line is how do we help the city of Baltimore?"

Absent from the tour were Reps. Barbara A. Mikulski and Parren J. Mitchell, both liberal Baltimore Democrats. An aide to Mrs. Holt, Michael Owen, said both elected officials were invited but that "scheduling problems" prevented them from attending.

Mitchell was unavailable for comment, but Mikulski aide Ginny Friedlander said her boss had not been invited.

"But we're glad to have Mrs. Holt see the unemployed steelworkers and the people laid off (because of) the Republican administration," Ms. Friedlander said. "It she takes some of this in, perhaps she will realize the problems the city faces under the Reagan budget-cutting mania."

Schaefer said he was pleased with the Republican tour, saying, "I think we'll get our fair share after tours like this. Of course, all cities will get less because the GOP places greater emphasis on private enterprise."

Pierce agreed less money would be forthcoming from Washington but said he did not know whether Baltimore would get its "fair" share.

"I'm saying they will get money, but I don't know what fair share means," he said.

Zealous Fan Caught With Can; Gets Probation For Public Drinking

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A District Court judge Tuesday sentenced William Grover "Wild Bill" Hagy, the Baltimore Orioles' self-appointed cheerleader, to six months probation for carrying an open beer can.

Hagy, 42, is a bearded, rotund man who uses his arms and legs to spell out the baseball team's name during Orioles baseball games.

He appeared on national television during the 1979 World Series when he led the cheer from atop the Orioles' dugout and has a cadre of beer-drinking buddies who root for the team from Memorial Stadium's Section 34.

But Hagy found out Monday that while it's acceptable to guzzle suds during a game, it is not proper to carry an open beer can on a city street.

In fact, it's against the law. He was arrested at 2:10 a.m. Monday in Fells Point, an area dotted with bars.

Hagy was charged with carrying an open beer can, a misdemeanor. Police said he was "uncooperative" during the booking process and refused for several hours to give his name or occupation.

"I had a few beers and just left the bar with what I had. The officer comes up and says 'you're busted.' I got to the station and was a little confused and inebriated. I just wanted to go to sleep," he said.

Police said a large crowd gathered and said Hagy, who was jailed overnight, taunted the officer making the arrest.

District Judge Sol Landmin found Hagy guilty and gave him six months probation before verdict, which means the incident will be erased from Hagy's record if he does not get into any more trouble. He also was required to pay $15 court costs.

Hagy, a cab driver, blamed the incident on the major league baseball strike.

"I miss baseball dearly. It's a big part of my life. It's a heck of a void to have to fill," Hagy said Monday after he was released on his own recognizance.

Bankruptcy Judge Will Not Stop Pantry Pride Closing In August

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A ruling by a bankruptcy judge in New York will not stop the mid-August closing of Pantry Pride supermarkets, but will allow unions to file suit against the company for damages, a union attorney said Tuesday.

Melvin Steinberg said Judge John Galgaly Monday refused to grant the unions' request for a temporary restraining order against the closing of 41 stores in the Baltimore sales region.

The unions sought the restraining order contending that Food Fair Inc. had broken a binding agreement to keep Pantry Pride open if employees took wage cuts totaling $16.5 million over the next two years.

Federal Judge Joseph Howard last week in Baltimore ruled the unions would have to press their case before Judge Galgaly in New York. On July 17, Galgaly issued a restraining order prohibiting any third party from interfering with Food Fair Inc.'s liquidation plan.

Galgaly Monday modified his original restraining order to allow unions to pursue the issue of whether they had a binding agreement with Food Fair, Steinberg said.

Steinberg said union attorneys will decide Wednesday whether to take advantage of the modification and press for a temporary restraining order against the store closings in U.S. District Court in Baltimore.

"For all intents and purposes the closings of most of the stores is already done," Steinberg said.

But Steinberg said he expects the unions to file for salaries and benefits lost because of Food Fair's alleged violation of a binding agreement. He said that matter would also be pursued in federal courts in Baltimore.

PLAYER'S Profile

THIS WEEK
Jeff Colaw

by Kathy Bailey

"My family has teased me all my life, and my family is not one to be at a loss for words," smiled the 19-year-old Oakland native. A very calm man who appears not to be unraveled by much, Jeffrey L. Colaw states he is always being teased, and that something has gone wrong in nearly every play he has appeared in, as he lightly plants an image of a thundercloud hovering above his head. His often sublime expression, however, seems to hide a persistent, invisible grin.

The actor methodically brushes aside the teasing, but well-meaning remarks tossed at him by other members of the Garrett County Playhouse company, always keeping in mind that, "if you're not teased, one of the company members is mad at you or doesn't like you." And Jeff admits that he can be the object of bantering because, fortunately, he doesn't take everything seriously or to heart.

Colaw, a regular actor in the company and stage manager, explained in a recent interview that his acting experience began when he "was shanghaied into doing the Junior Class Play" at Southern High School in 1979. In "See How They Run" by Phillip King, Jeff portrayed Rev. Arthur Haines, the same part he played in this year's Playhouse production of King's "Pools Paradise." Colaw emphatically stated that the Junior Class Play was "such a brilliant production" he became hooked on the theatre from the start.

It was with that play that Jeff began "experiencing some drawbacks" in his career as an actor. Drawbacks which apparently crop up from time to time, mostly involving the use of seemingly inconvenient props. Colaw patiently explained that Rev. Haines "always got pushed around" (in the literal sense) and he "got a little too vigorous" in the school production, realizing in its midst that he had a rope hole in his pants. Jeff handled the situation well, finishing out the part while standing behind stage props and eventually sitting down. "I have never been allowed to forget that," he added.

"Something always goes wrong, even with bit parts," the actor reminisced. Jeff was given the name "Stuck" by the Playhouse acting company last summer following an incident in one night's production of "Murder and Company." In the world of the theatre "stuck" means a person who goes on stage and doesn't say anything. Colaw good-naturedly recalled when he was backstage during that performance and he cued the entire cast to come in at the wrong time. Although the audience never noticed, several lines were cut out. "I've never been allowed to that acting is work," however, Jeff said he "can keep it separate from his personal life."

This is Jeff's third year with the Garrett County Playhouse and his first year employed by the Playhouse for the entire summer. In 1979 he played in "I'll Get My Man", and last summer he appeared in two plays. In one he portrayed an illiterate janitor and "loved it."

I got to use my Garrett County accent," he smiled. "It was fun... I got to be sloppy and disgusting and get laughs about it." This spring Colaw also appeared in "Beauty and the Beast" at the Fine Arts Festival at McHenry.

An electrical engineering student at Garrett Community College, Jeff was invited to appear in the first Playhouse production this year, and was then included in the Playhouse Benefit performance. He was later hired as a member. As stage manager he acts as supervisor during productions, once again getting to "boss people around." He added, seriously, that the "people there (at the Playhouse) are pretty competent and do a really good job... you just ask and they do something."

In reflecting on his new employment, Jeff said, "I never thought I'd act and get paid for it," adding that "it's nice to have strangers come up to him on the street and say, 'I really liked your performance.'"

The company has fun, he said, but when they work, it's all work. Jeff gave a rundown on his weekly schedule as a member of the company, with morning and afternoon rehearsals Monday through Friday, nightly performances Wednesday through Saturday, Saturday afternoons "off" when all actors must learn their lines for the next play, Sunday afternoon rehearsal and Tuesday night dress rehearsal. He views the short time span of one week to put out a play as incredible, adding that "it's amazing what the directors can pick out in four days." When do the actors relax? "After the night's performance or on Monday nights," Jeff said.

Colaw stated he would like to continue with acting, but he is "not one to live on nothing." He states he has found that actors can, and often do, live on "absolutely nothing." Wherever he attends college, Jeff said, he would like to participate in a few plays.

Jeff loves music, especially the Beatles, and his musical talents consist of playing the stereo quite well. He enjoys baseball and he reads a good bit, stating that he is always wanting to learn something. "I like to see people thirst for knowledge and think for themselves." He has done some creative writing that his instructors felt was good enough to be published, and he recently became interested in classical music.

Jeff is majoring in electrical engineering because he likes that more than anything else at this time, he said. The actor has no definite plans for the future, except that he would like to go to the state of New York someday, possibly to attend school.

The GARRETT COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

by Theo Varnell

Tonight through Saturday at 8:30 the Garrett County Playhouse presents "Road Hazards", a pair of one-act comedies written and directed by Milburn Mehlhop. The premiere performances of the plays written expressly for the Playhouse features Cather MacCallum, Chris von Eckartsberg, Pamela Harden and Debbie Martinez.

In the first play, "Burnt Bridge", a friendly card game runs into inclement conditions and soft shoulders. In "Crossed Roads" love and misunderstanding are in the air and confusion abounds.

To reach the Playhouse from Rt. 219, take the Glendale Bridge Road (at Alpine Village), cross the bridge, bear right. At the first intersection, approximately one mile beyond the bridge, turn right on to the Beckman's Peninsula Road (the first intersection past the bridge). The playhouse drive is just at the bottom of the short hill.

For information and reservations call Englander's, Gregg's or Proudfoot's pharmacies in Oakland. All seats are general admission, but theatre-goers are urged to make reservations, which will be honored until 8:20 p.m. on performance nights. All performances are at 8:30. Next at the Playhouse see Noel Coward's fearless romp, "Private Lives", in which a divorced couple, each member on honeymoon with a new spouse, rekindle old flames with new fuel.

Take the heat off next winter's budget.

These are average monthly payments. Many are higher or lower. With a warm, summer sun outside, last winter's heating bills are probably the last thing on your mind. But August is the time to put a bid on next winter's bills by getting on Columbia's Budget Payment Plan.

With the Plan, your natural gas bills will be averaged out over 12 months. So you'll pay a manageable amount each month. That can simplify your family budget planning, and eliminate heating bill surprises when the temperature drops.

To set on the Budget Payment Plan, simply pay the amount indicated as "MONTHLY BUDGET" on your August bill. Nothing further is needed.

There's no service charge for this convenience, and your meter will still be read regularly. And next July, you will be billed your budget amount. If or when any difference between your total annual budget and the actual amount used during the year.

So, take the heat off next winter's budget by getting on Columbia's Budget Payment Plan now. And while you're thinking about lower heating bills, ask for a copy of our free "Energy-Saver's Guide" at any Columbia Gas office. It has hundreds of tips to help you conserve energy—and save money.

LINED UP FOR EXERCISE — The "Four H Riding for Exceptional Equestrians" (FREE) program got underway at a new riding arena at the Garrett County Fairgrounds on July 17. The program, developed under the auspices of the Garrett County 4-H program, is designed to provide riding instruction, recreation and education for handicapped persons in Garrett County. Riders, mounts and volunteers pictured from left to right are Junior White riding "Cardinal," assisted by Ed Norman and Jenny Thoman, Evelyn Iman on "Mr. M," assisted by Sharon

RIDING PRACTICE UNDERWAY — John Snyder practices control on his mount "Joe" with the help of volunteers Joan Norman, Chris and Claudia Spiker, during the first session of "FREE," a new riding program for the handicapped. John and "Joe" won the sock race during the first session, a game played to encourage control and security on a horse. The pilot program will be held every Friday from 6 to 8 p.m., through August 21, to tentatively be continued in the fall.

"FREE" Riding Program Underway For Garrett County's Handicapped

The newly-organized "Four-H Riding for Exceptional Equestrians" (FREE) began its pilot program July 17 to teach handicapped citizens in Garrett County to ride horses. The program was started by a group of interested adults and children under the auspices of the Garrett County 4-H program. According to project coordinators, the program is designed to provide a recreational and educational experience for the riders, as well as a rewarding experience for the adults and 4-H volunteers involved in helping the handicapped riders.

The program was initially financed through private donations, 4-H scholarships and the donation of ponies by Mrs. Tom Lake of Washington, D.C. and Double "G" Ranch, McHenry. The ponies were sold through the Garrett County Horsemen's Association on May 26, along with various articles of tack donated by individual horsemen of the county.

The money generated by the sale, coupled with a contribution from the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped, was used to send riding instructors to classes in New York and to purchase insurance and special equipment for the program.

Joan (Gloftely) Sussman is head instructor for the program. A native of Garrett County, Mrs. Sussman is experienced in both the equestrian arts and working with handicapped persons, having been employed with the Appalachian Adult Activities Center in Oakland for the past year. Carol (Gloftely) Bass, also an experienced horsewoman and a 4-H leader, is assistant instructor for the program.

During the past few months a riding ring has been under construction at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, to be used as the home base for the program. The 120x240-foot area was built through donations and volunteer labor. Construction was made possible through donations from Mr. and Mrs. Charles "Skeeter" Bowman, Sister Lumber Company, Mr. and Mrs. Atlee R. Snyder of Appalachian Construction, Wood Products, Inc., Mr. and Mrs. Tom Savage of Caretake, Inc., W. H. Fratz, Inc., Beachy Lumber Company, Southern States of Grantsville and Oakland, Green Acres Garden Center, Garrett Community College, Eastern Builders Supply, the Garrett Organization for the Handicapped, and working volunteers.

The pilot series will continue through August 21, and a demonstration is planned during the week of the Garrett County Fair. Tentatively, a fall series is being set up, and the program is still accepting volunteers to help the riders as well as applications for riders in the fall program.

Classes take place every Friday evening from 6 to 8 p.m. Anyone interested in volunteering or nominating a rider should contact Lawrence Little, 4-H Extension Office, at 334-2145; Cissy VanSickle, coordinator, at 826-8257, or Joan Sussman, instructor, at 243-4466.

Women's Support Group To Meet

The Homemaker Career Opportunities Program of Garrett Community College continues to hold a Women's Support Group meeting open to women in transition due to separation, divorce, widowhood, or lacking skills in the employment field.

The purpose of the group is to provide opportunities for individuals to participate in group counseling and skills training sessions to aid them to gain confidence in readiness for further education, job opportunities, or everyday living, according to Barbara Frey, director.

The Support Group meets the first and third week of each month from 10 a.m. to 12 noon in Room 306 of GCC-Oakland Center. The next scheduled meeting date is August 5 and the topic of discussion will be "Building Self-Esteem in Women" to be conducted by Mrs. Frey. The program is funded by the Maryland State Department of Vocational/Technical Education.

The public is invited to attend and participate. For further information persons may contact Mrs. Frey at 334-9184.

Reading Club Children Will Color Sidewalks

Children participating in the Zoo Mania Summer Reading Club at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland are asked to bring old crayons with them to this Tuesday's meeting August 4, at 2 p.m. The group will color pictures of zoo animals and other subjects on the sidewalks surrounding the library.

The reading club is open to all school-aged children and the group will meet every Tuesday at 2 p.m. through August 18.

Byron Schedules Horseman's Group County Meetings Plans Trail Ride

Rep. Beverly B. Byron (D-Md.) will be traveling throughout much of the Sixth Congressional District in August to meet with constituents during her regularly scheduled "District Tours" and "Town Meetings."

Rep. Byron will be in Friendsville at the U.S. Post Office to meet with area residents on August 5 at 1:30 p.m. before traveling to the Senior Citizen Center in Oakland at 3 p.m.

The town meeting is an open forum during which a question-and-answer period is usually held. The district tour is a pre-arranged schedule in which Rep. Byron meets individually with persons who are experiencing problems with the Federal Government.

The Garrett County Horseman's Association will have an overnight trail ride August 1-2 at Little Meadows Lake, one mile back Chestnut Ridge Road from Rt. 40.

A wiener roast will be held August 1 at 7 p.m. and a covered dish dinner at 12 noon Sunday followed by a ride.

June Sales Tax Revenue Exceeds Estimated Total

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reports that State sales tax revenues for June 1981 exceeded the estimate for the month. That's only the second time since December 1980 that sales tax revenues have exceeded the monthly estimate," he said, "and it's the first time in the same period that all major sources of sales and use tax revenue have posted increases over the same month of the previous year."

Sales tax revenue for June 1980 totaled $65,157,726, a 9% gain over the $59,778,229 collected for the same month of 1980.

The increases were all across the spectrum, including consumer spending as well as construction-related categories," Goldstein said. "With one month of sales tax collections left in the 1981 Fiscal Year, the boost received in June is very important. It placed the fiscal year to date sales tax revenues about eight-tenths of one percent ahead of the estimate for the period, and should ensure that it will meet the revenue estimate for Fiscal Year 1981."

For the eleven months of Fiscal Year 1981 received to date, sales tax revenue amounts to $681,269,526, or about 5% more than the $650,236,036 collected for the same period last fiscal year.

For Fiscal Year 1981, tax revenue from sales of general merchandise totals $145.2 million, 3.5% increase over last year. The furniture, fixtures and appliances category has yielded $62.0 million, a 4.7% growth, and the building & contractors category has produced $91.1 million, up 2.3%.

"The hardware, machinery & equipment category of sales tax collections has produced $2.8 million, nearly one-half of one percent above collections for this time last year. This is the first time during Fiscal Year 1981 that the year to date collections for this category have exceeded revenue for the same period of Fiscal Year 1980," Goldstein said.

We Build Energy-Efficient Houses!

Energy-Efficient Residence

That's what they all say—every builder and manufacturer around. But when we say it, we mean something different.

Pictured above is a research house at Mt. Airy, Maryland, built by the National Association of Home Builders Research Foundation (a subsidiary of the National Association of Home Builders) under a contract with the U. S. Department of HUD. Our Panedrape system of movable window insulation was selected to be used in this house after NAHB Research Foundation engineers examined 17 systems in the U. S. and Canada. It's an improved version of the same pocket-panel system we have in our house on Pennington Street in Oakland that has helped us hold our electric heating bill for our first 12 months to $149.00.

Although we didn't build the house above, we can build you one with the same features right here on the mountain top. A house with walls that lose 67% less heat than 8" log cabin walls. Insulated windows that lose 92% less heat as double-pane glass. Proper site orientation to get passive solar heat gain. Zoned interiors so you won't have to heat all your rooms all the time. Careful caulking and weatherstripping to keep out the wind. Sub-slab insulation. Earth berming. And many other features.

Our houses are not for everyone. They are for people who want to save money in the years ahead when gas prices triple and oil and electricity costs double again. They are for people who discover, as their grandparents did, that coal heat is dirty. And people who see the cost of wood (including their investment in time, energy, equipment, maintenance and worry over fuel fires) as not so good a deal. Of course—we can save you money on any type of fuel you choose.

So drop us a line. You can choose one of our Shelter, Inc. plans or we can modify your plans to make them truly energy-efficient. We can build you a do-it-yourself package and do as much of the site work as you wish.

ENERGY TIP: Pressure cooking, pressure frying or stir-frying are good energy savers because they each cut down on cooking time.

WATER SAFETY

To be fun and fulfilling, water recreation must be free of mishaps. The following reminders will help make your water recreation activities safer.

*Learn to swim or at least to float well enough to survive in water. See that all able-bodied children learn to swim.

*Stay out of deep water if you are not a good swimmer. You could wear personal flotation device when you are in, or near the water.

*Watch your step on docks, banks, at poolside and such to avoid slipping or falling into the water. Many drowning victims did not intend to go into the water.

*Do not permit children to go swimming without adult supervision, preferably someone who is an able swimmer and could rescue a child in trouble. It's best that adults not go swimming alone with no one else nearby. If something happened such as a diving mishap or sudden illness, there would be no one to help.

*If your pond is used for recreation, have rescue equipment handy including a flotation device, rope and a long pole. Inner-tubes and beach balls will also serve, but they must be fully inflated, something you cannot rely on if they're left at the swimming site. It is best to have a device made of buoyant material that doesn't need to be filled with air.

*If someone is in trouble in the water, throw them anything that floats, such as a spare tire, beach ball, picnic cooler, jug or chunk of wood. The important thing is that the object floats.

*Learn first aid, including rescue breathing techniques.

*Learn and follow safe boating rules if you own or ride in a boat. Make sure your craft is seaworthy. Do not overload it. Avoid unnecessary moving about in the boat. Never leave shore without a personal flotation device (PFD) for each person aboard. Ask children and non-swimmers to wear their PFD in a boat.

*Like drinking and driving, drinking & boating, or fishing, have resulted in the deaths of many people, often from falling overboard. Save the liquor for later.

PET POINTERS

by Ray Thompson, Executive Director
Maryland Veterinary Medical Association

Constant scratching could mean your pet dog has acquired lice or fleas. It is important that you rid your dog of these unwelcome pests, as they can cause skin infections or skin disease, says the Maryland Veterinary Medical Association.

Your dog can pick up lice from contaminated areas or from other infested animals. Bites from lice can cause serious skin infections.

The treatment used must kill the adult lice as well as their eggs, which cling to the animal's hair. Often it will be necessary to destroy the pet's bedding or other personal belongings. Check with your veterinarian for the best method of treatment for your pet.

Fleas are acquired when your pet associates with infested animals or enters a contaminated area. Fleas can cause skin disease and also spread tapeworms, as they act as an intermediate host for internal parasites.

Dogs require careful grooming and the maintenance of sanitary living conditions if they are to remain relatively free of lice and fleas. Your veterinarian will know what to recommend to rid your pet of these pests.

'Solid Gold' dancers have solid training

Kevin Carlisle displays his award-winning talents as the choreographer of Operation Prime Time's syndicated variety series, "Solid Gold," hosted by Donnie Warlock. His work is showcased each week on the series by the eight Solid Gold Dancers, but Carlisle's eclectic choreography has also graced nightclub, concert, television and theatrical stages since his professional beginnings in the mid-1950s.

He has choreographed countless television specials, variety shows and series including "The Ed Sullivan Show," "The Bing Crosby Special," "Bob Hope Special," "The Sonny and Cher Show," "The Third Barry Manilow Special" — for which he won an Emmy — "The Academy Awards," "The Emmy Awards," "The Tony Awards," the Bill Cosby series and the Dean Martin series. Among his Broadway creations are "Harry Blackstone on Broadway," which he directed as well as choreographed, "Hallelujah Baby," for which he received a Tony nomination, and his Tony Award-winning "Happy Time."

Carlisle's late entry into dance — he began his training at the ripe old age of 16 — did not stand in the way of rapid success. After only a year of instruction, he was accepted to Juilliard while still at Juilliard. Carlisle established his own company and was shortly named by the New York Times as one of the 10 "up-and-coming" dancer/choreographers.

Betty Brawley is Carlisle's assistant choreographer on the show. She began to dance at the age of 3 in her Toledo, Ohio, home, and from the ages of 5 and 12, Ms. Brawley and her two sisters — billed "The Rosebrook Sisters" — toured the Great Lakes area in an act directed and choreographed by their parents. An Olympic caliber skater, Ms. Brawley chose to trade the ice-skating rink for a career in dance.

While in high school, she danced with the Toledo Ballet and at 17 was chosen by choreographer Ron Field, at the time himself a newcomer, to tour with the St. Louis Municipal Opera in their summer stock program. That same year she headed for New York where she enjoyed great success dancing with such greats as Bob Fosse, Michael Bennett, Tony Charmoli and her mentor, Ron Field.

After a two-year run as a featured dancer in Broadway's "Mame," Ms. Brawley moved west. To her credit on the West Coast were specials and series with such notables as Sammy Davis Jr., Julie Andrews, Dean Martin and Gene Kelly.

In 1976, Ms. Brawley began to do freelance choreography for young acts on the nightclub circuit. Her big break came in 1978 when long-time friend Carlisle, for whom she had danced in many TV specials, called her to assist him on the "Rich Little Special."

Mister Rogers To Discuss Divorce On Maryland PBS

Once again Mister Rogers will present a special program for adults on Sunday, August 2, at 7 p.m., on stations of the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting — TV 22, 28, 31, 36, 62, and 67. Children's attitudes and fears about divorce are explored in this hour-long special, "Mister Rogers Talks with Parents about Divorce," features a forum of questions from the audience. Susan Stamberg, of National Public Radio's "All Things Considered," moderates the show with Rogers as host.

Helping Rogers answer questions is noted author and lecturer Earl A. Grollman who edited "Explaining Divorce to Children" and co-authored "Living Through Your Divorce." He is also the author of "Talking about Divorce and Separation: A Dialogue between Parent and Child."

This special will be followed by a week of episodes dealing with divorce in a gentle and compassionate way on the "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" programs shown on weekdays at 5 p.m., on stations of the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting.

IN FOCUS

Serious and silly sides to hospital moviemaking

On the first day of filming the brain-operation sequences of "Seizure: The Story of Kathy Morris" in a suburban hospital in eastern Los Angeles, shooting couldn't begin until noon — much later than usual.

Before the crew could move their lights and sound equipment in and set up the camera in Operating Room No. 1, before Leonard Nimoy and Penelope Milford could run through a rehearsal, they had to wait for the completion of a nasal and septal reconstruction, a cystoscopy and transurethral resection of a prostate and a left inguinal herniorrhaphy — that is, plastic surgery, a prostate operation and a hernia repair.

"Seizure," starring Nimoy and Miss Milford is a dramatic special based on a true story of a young singer's brush with death during brain surgery and her miraculous recovery. It will be rebroadcast Tuesday, Aug. 4 on CBS.

Nimoy plays the neurosur-geon who cannot explain what went wrong with the surgery, and Miss Milford portrays Kathy Morris, whose survival and recovery the surgeon is even more at a loss to explain.

About the filming, producer Lee Miller says, "The important thing that we all had to keep in mind was that we were guests there. The hospital graciously allowed us to use one of their six operating rooms to play 'Let's pretend' while the real life-and-death operations were going on all around us."

The first day, there was an emergency appendectomy across the hall and later an emergency where a kid had had his foot crushed. Then, the next day, while we were doing our 'thing,' there was an attempted hanging suicide case with a crushed throat in the O.R. next door.

It was serious business, all right, and the members of the film crew paid constant attention to what was going on in the surgery wing.

But film crews are nothing if not notoriously irreverent. Since the other O.R.'s in the surgery wing were still being used while the filming was proceeding, the whole crew had to wear long surgical gowns, paper caps and paper booties, all of which made it difficult to recognize anyone.

To get around that, the crew members hand-lettered some stick-on labels and gave themselves identification name tags on a medical theme. Dr. Pepper, Dr. Proctor, Dr. Feelgood, What's Up Doc?, Dr. Who, Dr. No, Witch Doctor, Dr. Seuss, Dr. Strangelove.

TV TATTLE

Rooney's regulars

Mickey Rooney has his own show this fall on NBC, called — what else? — "The Mickey Rooney Show."

Two of the featured regulars on the show will be Dana Carvey and Nathan Lane. Carvey has been a stand-up comic in California where he won the San Francisco International Comedy Competition, and Lane has appeared in many TV shows and performances on the stage, including "Fiddler on the Roof," "The Music Man" and "Inherit the Wind."

Carvey will play Rooney's college student grandson, Adam, and Lane will play Jonathan, Adam's roommate.

Older women

The fastest growing group of poor people in the nation today is older women. Many are divorced, lacking a pension or Social Security and have planned little — or not at all — for their old years.

In "August Magazine," Thursday, Aug. 6 on CBS, editor Sharron Lovejoy looks at one subset of women who are particularly hard hit: the ex-wives of military men. A federal law guarantees that the pension of a military man is untouchable, that it belongs to him alone.

Ms. Lovejoy and producer Phyllis Bosworth speak at length with several military ex-wives, as well as with Col. John Sheffey, a retired Marine and executive vice president of the National Association for Uniformed Services, who is involved in intensive lobbying efforts against reforms that would divide military benefits between the soldier and his ex-wife.

Real stories

"Real People" takes a look at the smallest man in America, visits with a group of female stevedores, does a segment on a baseball game played on mules, and looks at a retiree who spends every morning waving hello to motorists going to work.

Sarah Purcell, John Barbour, Skip Stephenson and Byron Allen are the hosts. Bill Rafferty is the series roving reporter.

Other highlights of the show which will be rebroadcast Wednesday, Aug. 5 are a singing poodle in San Francisco, a Cincinnati man who plays spoons like a musical instrument and a transplanted Texan who has a pet longhorn steer in Quakertown, Pa.

The full nest

Liz and Paul Wescott don't worry about the empty nest syndrome.

All their retirement plans come apart at the seams as, one by one, their three grown children return to the family home in "And They All Lived Happily Ever After," a half-hour comedy to be broadcast Tuesday, Aug. 4 on CBS.

One daughter returns with her husband and child because of a financial setback, a son drops out of college and decides to live at home for six months, and another daughter leaves her groom before the honeymoon for a "trial separation."

Huey MacLennan stars as Liz, and Dick Latessa plays Paul Wescott.

Byron Allen

In "St. Ives," Charles Bronson meets Jacqueline Bisset as a result of his ties with a wealthy criminal who is attempting to intercept a bribe from one underworld gang to another. Thursday, July 30 on NBC. (REPEAT)

STARVIEW

Actors who do more than just dream

By Ruth Thompson

Walter Mitty escaped from a nagging wife and his mundane life with dreams of glory in the fables of writer James Thurber. For Mitty, the dream was the fulfillment in itself.

We all have a little of Walter Mitty in us, but actors, at least, manage to use these dreams in practical pursuits. A survey of the dreams of actors, both for career advancement and personal fulfillment, shows them to be much more sharply focused than Mitty's.

Most of the actors we've talked to on the dream fulfillment subject aren't itting around just wishing. They're active, aggressive, often independent.

Danny Kaye

Danny Kaye, who played Mitty in the movie version of "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," tops the list of those who put real-life activity into their dream fulfillment, and who harvest visible results.

Kaye uses his training and skill as a jet pilot to whiz around the world (at his own expense) to raise funds for UNICEF, to foster its health education projects and health treatments, and to entertain as many groups of little kids as can be clustered wherever he lands.

That's not the only project in which he channels his prankish comedy talent to help a good cause. In September, on Public Broadcasting Stations, he will co-conduct (with Zubin Mehta) the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in a "Live from Lincoln Center" benefit for the Musicians Fund.

The men and women who commit themselves to acting careers may become famous long before they can call the shots on what roles they want to play.

But Daniel Spielberg figures this may well be his year to get both television and stage roles that he likes.

He's now in production for the new CBS series about a television news division, "Close-Up: Jessica Novak." David plays the news director to whom Jessica (Helen Shaver) reports.

And the next time Daniel is free, he knows what he wants to do.

"I'm going to do 'Talley's Folly.' I don't know for sure where we'll do it. Just say that as of now, discussion is underway for Burt Reynolds' theater in Florida."

SOAP OPERA WEEK

John McCafferty plays mean Billy Joe Wright

By Nancy M. Reichardt

NEW YORK — John McCafferty is doing such a good job portraying the scheming Billy Joe Wright on "Texas" that it's sometimes hard to believe the real-life John is actually a nice guy.

Bitten by the acting bug very early, John got his career start in a kindergarten production of "The Gingerbread Boy" back in his hometown of Cleveland. The stage has been home to John ever since. He's had roles in such productions as "Hello, Dolly," "Funny Girl," "Inherit the Wind" and "The Subject Was Roses."

A veteran of countless TV and radio commercials for products such as Burger King, Hallmark and Toyota, John was imported from Los Angeles by NBC especially for his "Texas" role. But before coming East, John spent two and a half years as a Universal Studios tour guide, did guest starring roles on nighttime shows such as "Eight is Enough" and "Fantasy Island," and was first exposed to soap opera work with a short stint on

"General Hospital."

You can bet your boots that this talented gent with the engaging smile and devilish brown eyes is going to be around the "Texas" spread for some time.

Another talented daytimer is John Wesley Shipp who portrays medical student Kelly Nelson on "Guiding Light." John recently recorded his first record album which is a collection of love songs. The album should be available some time this fall.

Nicolette Goulet (Cathy Taper on "Search for Tomorrow") is a confirmed animal lover who has an apartment full of critters, including several cats, some birds and a teething puppy named Jeremiah Zereth. But when she's able to get a pet sitter, Nikki is on the road with her mom, Louise, appearing at charity fund raisers around the country.

I would appreciate it if you could tell me how I can order any of the records that Bill Hayes (Doug Williams on "Days of Our Lives") has recorded — G.M. Bayside, N.Y.

In the past, Bill's albums have been available through mail order and at select record shops, but you should write Bill in care of "Days of Our Lives," NBC TV, 3000 West Alameda Avenue, Burbank, CA 91505.

(Have a question about soap operas? Write Nancy Reichardt at 200 Park Avenue, Room 604, New York, N.Y. 10166.)

RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN STARS as the handsome Prince and Gemma Craven stars as the lovely Cinderella in a musical adaptation of the famous fairy tale in "The Slipper and the Rose," to air on Friday, Aug. 7 on NBC.

Gere's gourmet food; Wilder's sci-fi flick

By Cindy Adams

NEW YORK — Richard Gere, obviously a gourmet, ordered franks the other day and then drowned them in ketchup. Gene Wilder is itching to make a sci-fi flick. Myrna Loy whose Late Late TV movies make everyone think of her as the perfect wife smiles. Everyone but my four ex-husbands, that is.

Historical Society To Hold Tour Of Dam, Lake Mill

The Garrett County Historical Society is arranging a tour of the Bloomington Dam and Westvaco's Lake paper mill on Saturday, August 29, it was announced by Mrs. Paul J. Calderwood, president. This tour is in lieu of the previously announced tour of the Deer Park area on September 12.

This tour will give an opportunity to view the dam and its surroundings before the lake is formed. The gates are to be closed within the near future.

The tour will be by bus only, which will leave the Garrett Community College parking lot at 8:30 sharp. Persons should bring a picnic lunch.

Walter W. Craig, the area engineer, will have a member of his staff board the bus and guide the group to the various points of interest, such as the dam, outlet works, spillway, control gate, relocation of the Western Maryland Railway, and the area to be covered by the lake.

From the dam the tour will proceed to the Bloomington School, where the group will have a picnic lunch. The Board of Education has given permission to use that facility.

At 1:30 the group will start the tour of the Westvaco plant, which is being arranged by Harris W. Telfow, public relations director. He has arranged to show the operation from receipt of the wood to the finished paper.

The public is invited. Reservations must be made in advance by August 2. The cost will be $100 per person, and persons should send reservations, with remittance, to Mrs. Ronald R. Kahl, Route 1, Box 10, Deer Park, MD 21713.

Persons should include the names of those for whom reservations are made and indicating to whom the tickets should be mailed, including telephone number.

Reservations will be accepted in order of receipt. Those arriving after the bus is filled will be returned.

This will be the first occasion upon which members of the historical society will visit the Westvaco facility, according to Mrs. Calderwood.

Debbie Elizabeth Savage became the bride of Rex Allen Schmidt on May 23 during a double-ring ceremony performed at the Sand Spring Church of God, Friendsville, with Reverend Ron Workman officiating.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Sue Glatfely. Musical selections were "The Wedding Song," and "We've Only Just Begun," sung by Mrs. Glatfely.

Lace encircled the waistline holding the semi-chapel train beneath a lace hemline. A Bandore headpiece of matching lace held a fingertip mantilla of lace edged with illusion.

She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations accented with baby's breath. The rest of the flowers were arranged by Darlene Schmidt and Wanda Schmidt.

Maid of honor was Brenda Wagner, Markleysburg, Pa. Bridesmaids were Kathy Savage and Janie Savage, sisters of the bride, both of Friendsville. Flower girl was Crystal Savage, cousin of the bride, Frostburg.

Northern High Seniors Capture Honors At State FFA Convention

John Alan Guard

Kevin Bender

David Fike, Jr.

Jim Friend

Four Northern High School seniors won their State Farmer Degrees plus additional honors at the recent Maryland FFA Convention at the University of Maryland, College Park.

John Alan Guard is the first student from Western Maryland to win first place in the state tractor operation and safety contest in the past 20 years. The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Guard of Selbyport, and grandson of Dorsey Guard, he will represent Maryland at the Eastern Regional Exposition in Springfield, Connecticut on September 18.

John served as vice-president of the North Garrett FFA and chairman of the Building our American Communities Project in starting the construction of a water impoundment for livestock washing on the county fairgrounds. He is active in beef production and has exhibited a baby beef at the county fair each year of his FFA membership.

Kevin Bender, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Bender of Cove Run Holstein Farm near Accident, was named Region 1 Star Farmer for his progress in becoming established in the Holstein business. In addition to owning cattle of his own, Kevin assists his parents, two brothers and two sisters in operating the home farm and has worked with the FFA nominating committee, citrus fruit sale, parent-student banquet committee and chapter group projects.

He is the second member of his family to be selected as Regional Star Farmer.

David Fike, Jr., lives on a 230-acre livestock farm at Sand Spring and raises beef and sheep with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Fike, Sr., and brother, Danny. David has served as secretary of the North Garrett Chapter as well as chairing or serving on many major committees. He has expanded his projects into hogs this year and will exhibit a lamb and hog at the fair this year, in addition to his fourth baby beef.

Jim Friend is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Friend of Friendsville and was the only Agribusiness winner from Northern Maryland for his degree from planning and accounting work accomplished in the school greenhouse, plus a part-time job with Friendsville Amoco Station.

He served as president of the Junior North Garrett Chapter in his freshman year and was elected president of the North Garrett Chapter in his senior year. He has attended the Annapolis Leadership Conference and Summit Lake Camp and worked on chapter group projects.

In addition to the State Farmers, Kate Klotzbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Klotzbaugh of the Cove, acted as delegate from the Junior North Garrett Chapter and Robert Collier was voting delegate for the North Garrett Chapter. The delegates transported and erected an educational booth on Garrett County and received third place in state judging. In addition, Kate received recognition for the Junior North Garrett Chapter membership increase and both delegates were given Superior Chapter Awards to attach to their classroom plaques.

Miss Clise will compete with six other area dairy princesses for the title of Maryland Dairy Princess on August 13 at the Sheridan Inn, Frederick.

The Tri-State Princess Program is co-ordinated by the Atlantic Dairy Association, an organization funded by dairy farmers to promote dairy products through research, education, advertising, publicity and public relations.

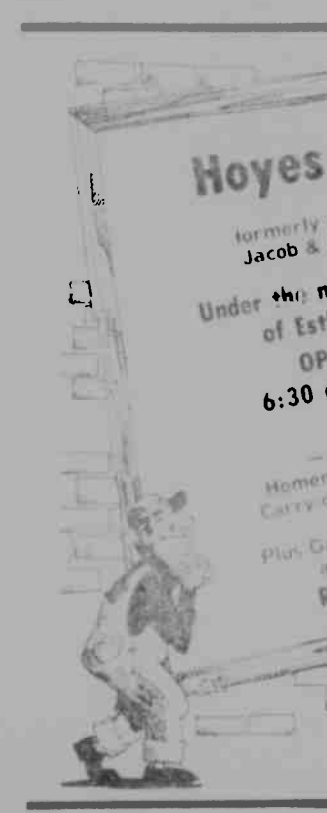

Miss Clise will be presenting awards to the winning participants at the Garrett County Black and White Show, which will be held August 5, at McHenry.

CONDO AS SECOND HOME

Investing in a resort condominium as a second home can make a great deal of sense. There's a great way of life; rental income possibility; outstanding tax benefits; and all the joys of ownership in that the equity builds up as the mortgage is reduced and the value of the property goes up because of growth and inflation.

And now there is a new wrinkle in the selling of condominiums. It's called the "turn-key" operation and it is particularly popular in resort areas. When you purchase a brand new condominium, it comes completely furnished and ready to move into. Many potential buyers can afford the down payment but simply do not have the ready cash to bear the cost of furnishing it. In some cases, the buyer simply does not have either the time or the inclination to furnish a second home. As the expression implies, all you need to do is turn the key in the door and move right in.

Assessment Answers & Tax Talk

THE NEW AGRICULTURAL TRANSFER TAX

by James Barley

Among the batch of new laws which became effective July 1, 1981, is one that is very important to anybody buying, selling, or otherwise engaged in transferring land. This particular law creates the Agricultural Transfer Tax to replace the Agricultural Development Tax which is being phased out.

An Agricultural Transfer Tax will be imposed on any document conveying from one owner to another, title to real property which was assessed (since 1977/78 and afterward) on the basis of agricultural use. But no transfer tax will be due if property taxes have been paid on the basis of a non-agricultural use assessment for five, consecutive years, or if the land being transferred is still subject to the provisions governing the development tax.

The rate of the transfer tax is 5% when the land is assessed based on its agricultural use at the time of transfer, or 4%, or less, when the land being transferred is no longer assessed on the basis of an agricultural use at the time of transfer. The rate diminishes by one percentage point for example to 3%, to 2%, to 1%, to 0% for each year that taxes were paid on the basis of a non-agricultural use assessment. The basis of the tax is the actual consideration paid, less the value of any structures or other improvements, and any portions of the conveyed land not eligible for an agricultural assessment.

An agricultural transfer tax can be forestalled if the buyer files a Declaration of Intent, which simply states that the buyer intends to keep the land in agricultural use for at least five, consecutive, taxable years. If the buyer fails to adhere to the conditions expressed in the Declaration of Intent, then the transfer tax becomes payable. In that case, the rate of the transfer tax does not lessen until property taxes, based on a non-agricultural use, have been paid for five years.

The tax is not imposed when the land is transferred for the residential use of a member of the owner's immediate family. In such situations, the exemption is limited to a parcel no larger than the minimum zoning size for residential use. The Agricultural Transfer Tax is calculated by the Department of Assessments and Taxation and is payable at the time the property transfer takes place. Apart from the buyer or the seller, any realtor who lists a property should immediately find out if the property is subject to the tax. Under the law, the seller of the property is required to inform the buyer in writing that the land being sold may be subject to the Agricultural Transfer Tax. Any seller failing to give such notification becomes liable to the buyer for the tax.

Since all taxes must be paid before property can be transferred, it is important to determine upon entering the contract of sale whether or not the transfer tax is applicable, because when the deed is presented for transfer, if a transfer tax is unexpectedly due, someone is going to be in a bad predicament.

Caveat emptor, sound advice to follow in any business transaction, is as protective to the seller as to the buyer when the transfer tax applies.

Weather-Damaged Crops Covered by Disaster Program

Stuart C. Peterson, acting chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, says farmers who accurately report crop acreages and sign an application for payment will be eligible to receive disaster benefits on their 1981 crops along with price support benefits and deficiency payments.

The 1981 program provides for disaster payments to help farmers whose crops are severely damaged by weather conditions.

The program offers crop protection against drought, flood, hail, windstorm, insect infestation, plant disease or any other type of disaster which occurs through no fault of the farmer.

Maryland farmers should notify the Maryland State ASCS Office if they expect low yields on their wheat or barley crops because of the severe weather conditions," Peterson said.

Under the program, a wheat and feed grain farmer whose crop yield is less than 60 percent of the established yield times the acreage planted for harvest may receive disaster payments on the production losses below 60 percent. Farmers will also be eligible for disaster payments if they are prevented from planting a program crop for harvest because of a natural disaster. However, the planting of other later, non-conserving crops must also have been prevented.

The ASCS official said farmers should notify his office before they harvest or destroy crops or replant other crops when a disaster strikes. Accurate acreage and production reports are necessary to assure full program benefits, he said.

Producers who have elected to have part of their crop insurance premium paid by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation for a program crop will not be eligible for disaster benefits on that crop. Further details on payment provisions may be obtained from the local ASCS office.

Hatch Is Higher

Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service figures show that broiler-type hatch for June totaled 28.1 million birds in Maryland. Broiler hatchery production rose six percent compared with June 1980.

Eggs in incubators for broiler production on July 1, totaled 131.8 million for the South Atlantic Geographic Division which includes Maryland, a percent more than last year.

Milk Production Statistics Noted

Milk production in Maryland fell seasonably lower in June, but continued above the previous year's level for the eighth consecutive month. Output during June totaled 133 million pounds, announced the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service, nearly six percent above the June 1980 level. Production per cow averaged 1,090 pounds for the month, 36.1 pounds per day, compared with 1,030 pounds per cow a year ago. Output per cow dropped 8 pounds per day below May 1981. Milk cow numbers on farms during June were 1,000 lower at 122,000 head, the same as last year.

Grains fed to Maryland dairy herds on July 1 averaged 15.0 pounds per cow, down from the 15.1 pounds fed a year earlier, but equal to the April 1, 1981 average. The grain fed was valued at $9.15 per cwt., $1.35 higher than a year ago, but 30 cents below the value on April 1 this year.

During the first half of 1981 milk production in Maryland averaged four percent above the same period last year. The number of milk cows on farms has been slightly lower during that time, but milk per cow has been about four percent higher.

Loans Available On Wheat Crops

Stuart C. Peterson, acting chairperson of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said that loans are available on 1981 wheat. "The interest rate is 14 1/2 percent," he said.

The loan rate for Maryland's wheat crop is $3.10 per bushel. This rate is based on the national average loan rate for wheat, which is $3.20 per bushel.

The ASCS grain loan program provides operating cash and allows farmers to hold their crop off the market and benefit from price increases that often come after harvest. Although the program does not guarantee participating farmers a profit, it does guarantee a minimum price, Peterson said.

Animals suffer little or no ill-effect from feed rations containing Fusarium toxins with a concentration of less than one part per million. (This would be equivalent to one drop of vermouth in 80 fifths of gin.)

But concentrations of only 2 to 3 parts per million have been shown to inhibit antibody production, according to Hammond.

Maryland farmers who want an idea of the level of Fusarium toxins in their livestock feed should contact their county Extension agricultural agent for information on submitting samples for analysis by the botany department's plant clinic or the state chemist's office, both located at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Wheat Crop Beset By Disease Trio

Maryland's soft red winter wheat crop has been hit by a triple whammy of fungus disease problems this year, according to a release from the University of Maryland. The situation has adversely affected both grain quality and yields.

Feed Alert Given On Scabby Wheat

Heavy scab infestations in some Maryland wheatfields this year could cause animal health problems when too much scabby wheat is fed to livestock.

This warning comes from Dr. Robert C. Hammond, Extension veterinarian and veterinary science department chairman at the University of Maryland.

Dr. Hammond explained that wheat scab is caused by a fungus which produces Fusarium mold. Toxins from this mold entering an animal's blood system can prevent the production of antibodies, rendering the animal susceptible to a wide range of diseases. Horses and swine are particularly sensitive.

Unlike toxins produced by some other molds, the Fusarium toxins are not carcinogenic; that is, they do not produce cancer, he said. And there is virtually no danger to humans from carryover in the milk or meat from animals which have consumed these toxins.

Animals suffer little or no ill-effect from feed rations containing Fusarium toxins with a concentration of less than one part per million. (This would be equivalent to one drop of vermouth in 80 fifths of gin.)

But concentrations of only 2 to 3 parts per million have been shown to inhibit antibody

production, according to Hammond.

Maryland farmers who want an idea of the level of Fusarium toxins in their livestock feed should contact their county Extension agricultural agent for information on submitting samples for analysis by the botany department's plant clinic or the state chemist's office, both located at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Wheat Crop Beset By Disease Trio

Maryland's soft red winter wheat crop has been hit by a triple whammy of fungus disease problems this year, according to a release from the University of Maryland. The situation has adversely affected both grain quality and yields.

The culprits are scab, powdery mildew and Septoria glume blotch. These three diseases are not uniformly serious in any one area of the state, notes Dr. David J. Sammons, small grain research worker and assistant professor of agronomy at the University of Maryland. And they affect the wheat crop in different ways.

Their invasion was aided by an insidious combination of weather factors this spring and summer, Dr. Sammons says. This pattern included a cool, wet period when the wheat grain heads were forming. It was followed by hot, humid conditions during much of the time when the heads were filling out.

Heavy rains over the Fourth of July holiday weekend were a final blow to some fields of unharvested wheat, particularly in western Maryland.

Scab has been receiving the most publicity this summer because it affects the heads of the wheat plant, causing lightweight "scabby" grain which brings discounts in the marketplace.

But powdery mildew is really a more serious disease, Dr. Sammons believes, because it generally kills or weakens wheat plants so that yields are greatly reduced. The weakened plants are also susceptible to lodging and later-occurring diseases, such as scab.

Septoria glume blotch is often confused with scab, Dr. Sammons commented, since its symptoms are similar to "old" scab, i.e., the grain heads are smaller than normal and appear dark in color.

The geographical area most affected by scab this year in the Mid-Atlantic region includes southern Pennsylvania and most of the counties in Maryland's Piedmont area, stretching westward along the Mason-Dixon Line from Cecil to Frederick county.

Scab infestation has been the worst in memory for some isolated wheatfields in the northern tier of counties, Dr. Sammons reports.

But, over-all, the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station research worker doesn't think that the scab problem is really any worse now than it was in 1980 or anytime in the last five years.

Powdery mildew is the disease that is more prevalent this year in Maryland wheatfields than he has ever seen, Dr. Sammons commented. Losses were especially severe in the central section of the Eastern Shore, including University of Maryland research plots at the Wye Institute in Queen Anne's county.

Nearly all varieties of wheat currently being grown in Maryland are susceptible to powdery mildew, Dr. Sammons noted. And some of the newer varieties, including Hart, appear to be even more vulnerable than their older cousins. Fortunately, good genetic resistance to mildew is available in some newly released wheat varieties that are not yet readily available to farmers.

However, there appears to be no genetic resistance to scab in sight for wheat plants. And no recommended fungicide treatments are currently available. The best defense against scab is a good stand of vigorous wheat plants, Dr. Sammons believes.

For farmers who have not yet harvested their wheat, he offers these tips for avoiding scab discounts in the marketplace: —Open combine fan inlet wider than normal to blow away most of the lightweight scabby grain; —Avoid harvesting "greasy-looking" or blackish areas in a field. These spots are an indication of the localized nature of most scab infestations.

CARD OF THANKS

The Wesley Harvey Family wishes to express its appreciation for the many kindnesses shown during the illness and passing of their beloved husband and father. The loving care and concern of Dr. Martin and the Garrett Memorial Hospital staff is deeply appreciated, and the comfort and support given by our many relatives and friends will long be remembered. We wish to express our gratitude especially to our friends of the Fairview Church and the Oak Park Church of the Brethren and to the Reverends Moon and Leininger for their continued concern and support. To the Ladies Aid and our wonderful neighbors for their many acts of kindness we say a special Thank You.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of David Miller, July 31, 1979. God took you so sudden that silent night. We miss you still but I realize the promise of God's will. The emptiness in our hearts for the one we love so dear. We treasure the precious memories you've given us while you were here. Those flowers we place on your grave makes us realize the beauty of the helping hand we have. But when those flowers wither and decay, our love we share with you is always here to stay.

Loved and missed
by wife and daughters

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Ernest E. Glax who passed away July 29, 1978. His passing was always first to render any aid he could. His voice was always raised in praise his words were wise and good. Now you've gone away, the ones you loved so true try hard to carry on the way we know you want us to.

Sadly missed by wife

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mt. Lake Park Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on July 30, 1981, at 7:00 p.m. in the Mountain Lake Park Town Hall. The Board will review applications for the following cases:

1. Docket VR-1, an application made by Mr. Benjamin Shaffer, III, for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it would affect the minimum land area required to allow the construction of a second story consisting of six apartment units above the Ben's 135 Plumbing and Heating building. The Zoning Ordinance requires that a minimum land area of 7,000 sq. ft. is required for each dwelling unit constructed in combination with a commercial use. Mr. Shaffer's property located off D' Street contains a total land area of 32,230 sq. ft., consequently requiring a land area Variance of 12,770 sq. ft. (Zoned C-Com Commercial).

2. Docket SE-2, an application made by Ms. Mary Jane Strasser for a Special Exception permit to allow the placement of a second Mobile Home on her property located on "K" Street (Lots 1116 and 1118). The said Mobile Home is intended to be connected to the Mobile Home existing on the property in such a manner as to form a single family dwelling unit. The combined structure is planned to be covered with a gable roof covered with asphalt shingles (Zoned TR Town Residential).

SEEDTIME AND HARVEST — You can't have one without the other. A sure sign of the coming winter is framed by the shadows of summer's green leaved trees. The wheat stands in readiness to be stored for the long months when the heat and sunshine of August will be but a memory. This scene from the Yoder farm in Pleasant Valley will be repeated many times in the coming weeks as Mountaintop farmers anticipate the end of the growing season.

Commissioners Award Bridge Engineering Bid

The Garrett County Commissioners have awarded a Baltimore firm the contract for an engineering design for repair work to Glendale Bridge. Duffey, Montgomery and Associates was the low bidder for the project with a bid of $3700. The firm was among seven bids opened which ranged as high as $19,950.

Actual repair work to the bridge is to be done by county roads department employees. The commissioners expect the repairs to the bridge to allow them to raise the weight limit to 12 tons. Currently, the weight limit is at six tons.

The major repair work to the bridge is the replacement of supportive bearings.

Sanitary Commission Bills Mt. Lake Park For Services

The town of Mt. Lake Park last week received a bill amounting to $52,000 from the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. for sewerage services, particularly costs of operation and maintenance of the Trout Run Treatment Facility, for two separate periods, July 1, 1980 to June 30, 1981, and July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1982. The town is being billed for the services provided at a figure of $26,000 per year on the basis of a previous agreement, as no agreement has been reached between the town and the sanitary district since the last payment for the year ending June 30, 1980.

The sanitary district has advised the town that if expenses exceed the amount for which the town is billed, additional fees will be levied. The district is requesting payment within 30 days. The billing was a result of a motion that was made and passed at the July 21 meeting of the sanitary commission.

Various disputes and some agreements concerning operating costs have taken place between Loch Lynn and Mt. Lake Park and the sanitary district since the Trout Run Facility was completed and placed into operation about August 1975. A judgement was issued in May, 1978 in favor of the sanitary district and against Mt. Lake Park charging that money was due the sanitary district for construction and operating costs in connection with sewage

Oakview Motors Entered, Much Damage Reported

Oakland City Police have been investigating an incident which occurred at Oakview Motors about 2:30 a.m. Saturday, when someone broke into the establishment, took a vehicle for a joy ride and caused considerable damage to that vehicle and the establishment's garage door.

The car, a 1979 Dodge Omni owned by Jane Marie Saunders, Oakland, was in the Oakview Motors garage to be painted. The building was entered by the culprit by breaking a rear window.

Nothing else appeared to be disturbed, and the subject apparently opened the garage door, took the car for a ride, damaging it, and returned the car to the garage. Police said when the car was returned the garage door was apparently not raised high enough, causing damage to the top of the vehicle and approximately $900 damage to the door, which must be replaced. The estimated loss in damage to the vehicle is unknown at this time. Sgt. Roger Lewis is continuing the investigation.

In other business, the department arrested at least six persons early this week.

Mae Elizabeth King, 57, Mt. Lake Park, was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated about 2 a.m. Saturday, after she was involved in a property damage auto accident. Ms. King was travelling east on Oak Street when her car struck a tree. She was released the same day on her own recognizance.

Monday night four persons were arrested at Second Street, all charged with public intoxication. Arrested were David Edward Liller, 20, Crellin and David Carl Lower, 23, Benjamin Lewis Lower, 19, and Gary Dale Hardesty, 25, all of Oakland.

Roy Allen DeWitt, 24, Oakland, was arrested about 1 a.m. yesterday, charged with malicious destruction of property, after he reportedly hurled a beer bottle through the front window of a downtown business establishment. He is still incarcerated on $150 bond.

Mrs. Ruth Giotfely DiPaolo has been chairman of the vesper service for the Fair Board since the first programs in the early 1960's. Special music will be provided by an octet comprising of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Bender, Mr. and Mrs. Olen Beitzel, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Bender and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Tice. There will also be congregational singing. The service will be held on the stage at the Fairgrounds at 7. The public is invited.

WAIT FOR ME! — We can't all keep in perfect step during a parade, as this little one so hurries along to say. Twirlers and drill teams competed in the Friendsville parade competition this past weekend, all part of the first Friendsville Community Fun Day celebration held Saturday.

Board Hires Attorney To Heip Fight Sludge

The Garrett County Commissioners have hired Warren Rich, an attorney who specializes in environmental matters, as co-counselor in their fight against the use of city sludge at a strip mine site near Grantsville.

Rich, who has been hailed the best environmental attorney in Maryland, will assist the commissioners, and attorney Jack Turney in an appeal of a permit expected to be issued by the state health department as well as explore other legal actions the commissioners might take to stop the use of the sludge.

Rich has served as an assistant attorney general in the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, but now has a private practice.

Rich ran against Stephen Sachs for Attorney General in the 1978 Maryland election.

County health officials report they expect the state health department to issue its permit this week.

The main item which has prevented the permit issuance has been the loading rate per acre of sludge from the Back River Treatment Plant in Baltimore City which contains heavy metals, according to a local health official.

The county health department and the State Land Reclamation Committee both stipulated the loading rate should be 13 dry tons per acre, but state officials have been considering a higher rate of 35 dry tons per acre.

State health officials have explained the higher rate to be based on analysis of the soil at the Grantsville site provided by Pennsylvania State University, rather than by the University of Maryland.

County health officials note that even according to the guidelines set by the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources, the loading rate should be no higher than 13.5 tons per acre for land intended for agricultural use.

Sidewalk Sale, Open Air Market Set For Weekend

The Oakland Downtown Merchants' and Businessmen's Association will hold its annual Sidewalk Sale this Friday and Saturday, August 7 and 8.

This year the group will sponsor an Open Air Market at the Liberty Street Parking Lot. Space may be reserved and permits obtained for a fee by contacting the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council at 334-3888. The market will consist of flea market, produce, plants, crafts and other items sold by individuals and non-profit groups.

The association hopes to continue the Open Air Market every Saturday through the fall, with permits offered at a discount fee.

Three non-profit organizations will sponsor street booths during the Sidewalk Sale. The Junior Woman's Civic Club will be located at Miller's Market with an "Oldie but Goodie" booth; Cadet Troop 5020, Girl Scouts, will be located in front of C & P Telephone Company selling

Coal Operators File Tax Action Against Allegany, Garrett Counties

Eleven coal companies in Allegany and Garrett counties filed an equity suit Thursday in the Allegany Circuit Court seeking a court order to exclude them from paying personal property taxes on their equipment.

The coal companies filed the suit against the county commissioners of Allegany and Garrett counties as well as Francis G. Philpot, Allegany County treasurer, and Arzella T. Parsons, Garrett County treasurer.

They point out that a bill passed in the 1981 General assembly session imposing a severance tax of 35 cents per ton of surface mined coal beginning July 1 (to increase five cents after one year), simultaneously releases the coal operators from payment of a personal property tax on equipment.

A second count in the suit questions the constitutionality of the legislation which establishes the severance tax and seeks a court order declaring the act unconstitutional.

The companies which joined as plaintiffs in the equity suit included Winner Brothers Coal Company, Inc.; Buffalo Coal Company; Roger L. Brashear and Darlene Brashear, trading as Brashear Coal Mine; Delta Mining, Inc.; Tower Resources, Inc.; Evans Coal Co.; T.G.&C.

Coal Company; Beener Coal Co.; Wilhelm Coal Co.; Allegany Mining Corp.; and Oakland Coal Co.

County Attorney Jack Turney, who is working with Allegany's Attorney Paul Barnett, described the suit as somewhat friendly. He explained the intent of the suit is to clarify the bill which did not clearly address the personal property tax question.

The commissioners have stated that the personal property tax bills mailed out in July actually tax the coal operators for the previous calendar year rather than the current fiscal year. Based on the commissioners' and their attorneys' interpretation, they directed Treasurer Arzella Parsons to mail out the personal property tax bills after July 1.

Matthew Skidmore, president of the Maryland Coal Association, said the coal operators do not agree with the commissioners and, therefore, took the legal action seeking a court judgment in the matter.

Skidmore said he believed the commissioners had overstepped their bounds in trying to collect a personal property tax.

Attorneys Barnett and Turney must file an answer to the charges in the suit by August 18. Afterwards, a hearing date will be set.

Garrett County Roads Department Administrative Engineer Resigns

The Garrett County Commissioners have received and accepted the resignation of Herb McCrobie, administrative engineer of the Garrett County Roads Department.

McCrobie, who has served as administrative engineer since 1976, noted the pressure of his job as the main reason for his resignation. In his resignation letter, he explained, "the pressures of recent years have affected my family, my person and probably my health."

His resignation took effect Monday.

The commissioners have requested Kenneth Metheny, chief engineer of the roads department, to serve as interim administrative engineer.

Besides McCrobie's resignation, the commissioners have accepted an early retirement request from Clayton Smith, assistant engineer of the roads department. Smith worked over 30 years at the roads department.

The commissioners announced they would abolish Smith's position rather than appoint a successor.

McCrobie, who worked for the roads department a total of 16 years, stated that he plans to work full time in his synthetic lubricant business.

The commissioners declined comment on the circumstances surrounding McCrobie's resignation, but did say they would not immediately seek a replacement.

Roads workers, when asked about McCrobie's resignation, indicated they had been asked not to comment.

Woman Charged In False Rape Report

A Friendsville woman has been charged on a criminal summons with filing a false report of rape and auto theft.

Terri Lorraine Frazee, 19, was charged by Maryland State Police following investigation into a report that she was abducted at knife point by an unknown assailant who reportedly forced her to accompany him to the Swallow Falls State Forest, where the alleged attack took place.

The woman further reported that her vehicle had been stolen, and she had been left in a wooded area.

Ms. Frazee was released pending a hearing.

In a separate incident, Ronald Beeghly, Oakland, was charged on a criminal summons filed by Corann Ashby Clatterbuck, Deer Park.

According to the report, Beeghly allegedly entered property belonging to Ms. Clatterbuck in Paughville on several occasions and cut trees down against her wishes. The summons charged theft and destruction of property.

The charges will be heard in Maryland District Court by Judge Lewis R. Jones.

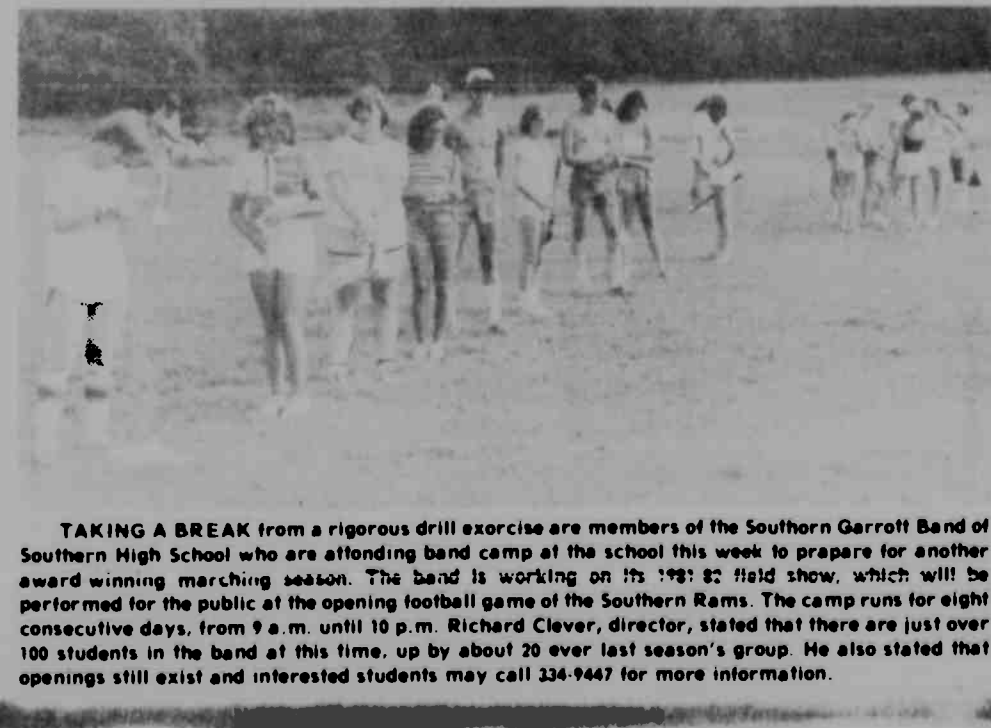

Man Charged With Attempted Murder

A Deer Park man, Michael Ray White, was charged with assault with intent to murder following a shooting incident involving his brother, John Russell White, 26, also of the Deer Park area.

According to Maryland State Police, the brothers were together in a camping area approximately two miles from Rt. 560 when an argument allegedly broke out concerning a gun. The report further states that Michael White fired at his brother through the window of his van, causing fragment wounds from the bullet and glass.

White is currently lodged in the Garrett County jail on charges of assault with intent to murder, assault with intent to maim, and assault and battery. Additional charges are pending against White in an incident related to the shooting.

Tfc. L. R. Rosage investigated the case, and filed the charges.

TAKING A BREAK from a rigorous drill exercise are members of the Southern Garrett Band of Southern High School who are attending band camp at the school this week to prepare for another award-winning marching season. The band is working on its 1981-82 field show, which will be performed for the public at the opening football game of the Southern Rams. The camp runs for eight consecutive days, from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m. Richard Clever, director, stated that there are just over 100 students in the band at this time, up by about 20 over last season's group. He also stated that openings still exist and interested students may call 334-9447 for more information.

County Crime Watch League Soon To Be Operational

Crime in Garrett County increased 13% during the first three months of 1981, according to figures compiled by the Maryland State Police Crime Offenses Index. Because of this increase, the Crime Watch League of Garrett County and its Crime Solvers program are currently being established to aid official law enforcement agencies in solving these crimes.

At a special meeting Wednesday, a group of business persons and law enforcement officials determined the need for such an organization, and began planning sessions to meet that need.

Crime Solvers is a program designed to enlist the aid of the community in helping Garrett County law enforcement officials solve various crimes. Citizens who aid in this program are eligible for cash rewards of up to $1,000. The program, since its inception in 1976, has spread throughout the United States, and community citizens have been responsible for assisting in solving crimes such as rape, murder, burglary, drug trafficking, and other major offenses.

In the four years of its existence, more than 6,000 crimes have been solved as a result of joint cooperation between citizens and law enforcement officials. More than 2,000 defendants have come to trial, with a conviction rate of 99.4%. In addition to the effective prosecution rate, Crime Solvers has led to the recovery of $19.5 million in stolen property and narcotics.

Each week, a selected unsolved crime is reported in detail on the local radio stations, and highlighted in the local newspaper. This is publicized as the "Crime of the Week". Citizens are then urged to call the telephone hotline (to be announced) with any information that might lead to a solution. Informants remain anonymous, and are not required to testify in court. A conviction is not necessary to be eligible for the cash reward. Arrests and indictment are the primary goal of Crime Solvers.

The program offers all available details and information on unsolved crimes, and citizens with knowledge about that or any crime are requested to give that information to the Crime Solvers hotline. The caller is guaranteed anonymity, and if this information leads to an arrest and indictment, the caller is then entitled to the reward of up to $1,000.

The non-profit, tax-exempt program is administered by a board of directors composed of business persons and interested citizens with counsel from the Maryland State Police, the state's attorney office, the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, and the Oakland Police Department. The informants remain anonymous through a system of code numbers, and the board determines the amount of the reward.

The program is funded solely by contributions of businesses and the private sector. There is no cost or expense to the police agencies or the county government. The entire program is administered by volunteers, with support from media representatives.

The Garrett County executive board is composed of William Ferry, special investigator for the state's attorney, as chairman; Milford E. Beckman, a vice-president of Garrett National Bank as vice-chairman; Carol Kapel, staff writer for The Republican as secretary; and Connie Judy, assistant cashier and book-keeping supervisor for The First National Bank of Oakland as treasurer.

Others included in the initial establishment program are Terry King, station manager, WXIE Radio; Randy Durst, special investigator for the state's attorney; Richard Kutchman, Garrett County Sheriff's Department; Robert Shillingburg, Oakland Police Department; Charles Hinnant, Maryland State Police; and Richard E. Alderton, Maryland State Police, who coordinated the information and serves as chief counsel.

The next meeting of the Crime Watch League of Garrett County will be held Thursday, August 6, at 1:30 p.m. in the meeting room of The First National Bank of Oakland, Second Street. All citizens interested in the reduction of crime and the prompt solution of previous crime are urged to attend.

Correction Noted

In a photo outline in the upper left-hand corner of page seven of last week's edition of The Republican, the name of the state park ranger was reported incorrectly. His name is Chuck Bowler, not Chuck Bolen. Also, unknown to one of the staff's city girls, there is no such creature as a red salamander snake. The creature was simply a red salamander. We regret the error.

Thayer To Hear Fifteen Charges Against Two Men

The circuit court calendar for Garrett County contains several criminal cases this week, including the trial of two men accused of 15 separate counts of theft, burglary, destruction of property, breaking and entering, and trespassing.

Mark William Hunt, 23, Cumberland, and William Charles Hemmis, 26, Lonaconing, are charged by Maryland State Police officer Gary Berkebile in connection with the breaking and entering of summer cottages owned by Gretchen Phillips Corbin and James Thomas Hughes, both located in the Avilton-Lonaconing Road area.

According to court records, the men are accused of stealing merchandise from the two dwellings valued at more than $1,200, and destroying property valued at $350.

Judge Fred A. Thayer will hear the case on Thursday morning.

In other court action, Paul Douglas Thayer will challenge a charge of driving while his license was revoked during the afternoon session of Thursday's court schedule.

Thayer was charged in February by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

A pre-trial session will be heard on Thursday at 4 p.m. involving William Michael Helbig, the proprietor of the Top of the Hill Tavern, Oakland.

Helbig is charged with six counts, including attempt to abduct a minor, disorderly conduct, and battery.

According to the report, Helbig allegedly visited the home of his child's babysitter, demanding to see his two-year-old daughter, and when refused by the babysitter, he forcibly entered the home. The disturbance continued until authorities were notified by another person present in the home.

Helbig and his wife were separated at the time of the incident.

Bus Inspections Set

Inspection for all Garrett County school buses will be held August 18-20, according to Eugene Flinn, supervisor of transportation. Each bus has been assigned a specific location for inspection.

The inspections will be conducted at Southern High School on August 18 from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1:30 to 2 p.m. They will be held at the Friendsville School from 9 to 10 a.m. and at Northern High School beginning at 10:30 on August 19. On August 20 they will be held at Grantsville School from 9 to 11 a.m. and at Bloomingtown School from 12:30 to 1 p.m.

Parents Urged To Register Students

Parents who have not yet registered kindergarten or new first grade students for the fall term may do so by calling the principal of the appropriate school to arrange an appointment, according to the Garrett County Board of Education. This should be done as soon as possible, the Board said.

Parents will need to bring the child's birth certificate and immunization records with them to the school at the time of registration.

According to the Maryland State By-Law, any child who will be six years of age on or before December 31 must be enrolled in school; and any child who will be five years of age on or before December 31 may be enrolled in kindergarten.

Families who are planning to move during the summer should check with the local school or Pupil Services Department at the Garrett County Board of Education to see whether or not their children will be attending the same school this fall. It would be better to make the transfers now than after school starts, according to the Board.

Hat Burglar Strikes Local Establishment

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department has been investigating incidents of vandalism and theft reported to the department last week, including the theft of numerous hats.

Kenneth W. Halsey, Oakland, reported that someone pried a latch and snapped two hinges on a commercial hat stand (a wooden trailer) located along Route 219 at Deep Creek Lake, sometime during the night on Friday. The culprits stole approximately 30 hats, cowboy style, some straw and some felt. Some of the hats contained the wording "Dallas Cowboys" and "Houston" in embroidered stitching. Also taken from the establishment was a framed mirror. The loss value is estimated at $400.

In a separate case, Mary E. Hinebaugh, Mt. Lake Park, reported that unknown persons destroyed several flower beds and bushes, bent five aluminum poles and dug two holes in her yard on Philadelphia Avenue, sometime during the night on July 27. The damage is estimated at $100.

Richard Devlin, Deer Park, reported a theft from his 1980 Dodge pickup truck while it was parked at the Garrettland Construction warehouse site on Route 39 near Old Crellin Road. The incident occurred July 13 when someone cut the terminals on a battery and removed it from the truck, amounting to a loss value of approximately $50.

In a separate case, Gary R. Hinebaugh, Deer Park, told police Sunday that a private road adjacent to his residence, owned by Nestle Corporation, was graded recently and the workers graded partially onto his property. The incident has caused water runoff from his lawn and mud deposits.

In other business, the department arrested three persons last week.

Robert Rhodes, 43, Deer Park, was arrested Thursday and charged with being drunk and disorderly and disturbing the peace. He was released the next day on his own recognizance.

Anthony Allen Lambruno, 18,

Thomas, W. Va., was arrested Sunday and charged with shoplifting. He was released the same day on $100 unsecured bond.

Clarence Raymond Yeane, 39, Friendsville, was incarcerated Monday and charged with battery. He is still incarcerated on $250 bond.

Not For Everyone . . .

For those who missed it, August 1 was National Non-Parents Day. What a foolish designation! Or is it?

Society's pressure on young married couples to have children is now, and always has been, immense. Because of such pressure, it is more difficult for a couple to decide not to have children, when actually the reverse should be true. Many couples may not really want to be parents, but out of fear of being looked upon as being weird or maladjusted they succumb to the social insistence and produce unwanted children.

Parents who do not want to be parents are invariably poor parents, even though they may love their children. What usually results are emotionally troubled children and, later, emotionally troubled adults. Many marriages which hit the rocks are undoubtedly at least partially caused by stress related to unwanted children.

The National Alliance for Optional Parenthood, which designates Non-Parents Day, states that non-parents should be respected and accepted the same way that parents are. They stress that people should consider parenthood an option, not an obligation. "You can't sell your children like you sell a house," stated Ann Ulmschneider, the program director for the NAOP.

Mother's Day, Father's Day, Grandparents' Day . . . all of these are worthwhile occasions for honoring parents. But, we also say hats off to those persons who have the intestinal fortitude to admit that they have no desire to have children and thereby prevent the creation of still another unwanted, miserable soul.

Carol, wherever you are

by Carol Kapel

Several years ago, a very competent woman named Carol Canan was employed by this newspaper as a staff writer. She specialized in feature stories, served as associate editor for a time, and gained a fine reputation for reliability, good judgment, and newspaper knowledge.

She was well-liked by her co-workers and made frequent visits to the office to see her old friends.

She did all these things, plus one more—she left the employ of this newspaper.

Now enters a new reporter . . . also named Carol. The surname is similar—Kapel—and of course, Carol is Carol, no matter how you cut it.

This reporter has been on the staff for nearly a year and a half. Also specializes in feature stories, serves as an editorial page columnist, and prides herself on a copious amount of accuracy and knowledge as well. It's easy enough, I suppose, to confuse the two.

I answer the telephone, give the caller my name, and hear a chorus of "Oh yes, Carol Canan. How have you been?" I repeat my own name, and reveal for a moment in the caller's awkward embarrassment, only to have it happen again a few days later. I continually receive mail intended for me, but addressed to her, my desk's previous tenant, and many times take compliments on my work while being addressed as Ms. Canan.

The fact of the matter is this, Carol Canan, I love ya! But enough is enough. I get your doctor bills (which I promptly return to you, since I have enough bills of my own). I accept glances from your former contact persons, who wonder why I'm at your desk; and I even tolerated a verbal scolding from a former schoolmate of yours who thought she was talking to you when she had me on the line, and resented the fact that I wasn't you! But there is a limit.

As Sammy Davis, Jr., so aptly puts it in his song, "I Want To Be Me." Just once, please.

P.S. Just one puzzle me. I've never once been asked to take two pay checks.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Because of the efforts of some members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, a mother and son have been reunited after a period of about five years of separation.

Many times in this column there is nothing but negative letters. I wanted to write a positive one for a change and express my full regards and heartfelt thanks to Deputies (Chuk) Nolan and David Crossland, as well as all the members of the department. You are a great bunch of guys.

June Wilhelm

Dear Editor:

During these times of corrupt and wasteful government spending it is great to know we have three honest and conservative commissioners in our county. Having these three outstanding commissioners I will no longer need to worry about my neighbors paying for someone else's water system. I will not worry about the rumors of the front foot fee going back up to 13 cents after they told us it would be five cents. I will not worry about the tap fee being one hundred dollars after being told it would be seventy-five dollars. I will not worry about Phase One passing or any development around the Wilson-Corinna Road. I will not worry about people on fixed incomes having to pay for something they neither want nor need. I will not worry about my federal, state and county taxes being wasted in Garrett County. As you can see, all my worries have become reality.

All three commissioners saw the Sanitary Commissioners (T.J.'s) original survey before voting yes, didn't you Les, Truman and Ernie.

Sincerely,
Harold G. Upole

Dear Editor:

During May of this year a petition was signed by over 1100 persons (including myself) to this county of Richard Buckingham, the county cafeteria manager, for what we feel is mismanagement of the school cafeterias.

As of this date we the citizens who signed that petition have had no results. We are asking the school board to take some immediate action, as school will soon be in session again.

I do not feel we need another school year of Mr. Buckingham's type of management. Certainly the dedicated women, who work our school cafeterias deserve more help and better management!

Concerned Parent

Dear Sir:

Several months ago I had become quite concerned with respect and safety for residents in Grantsville, and without any request or approach of any kind decided that I would present myself and make application with the town's volunteer fire dept. My application was received and I also paid a small fee for membership. I was advised that, at the following meeting, an election would take place.

The meeting did take place and they had an election and it was done with a choice of black bulls and white bulls. The result—Fantastic, I was voted against by black bulls.

May I just conclude by advising residents in Grantsville that I have been employed and I have no criminal record of any kind, and I am active in the National Guard, and have been in the service, and if this does not indicate a bad and bad person, then we are in trouble. I was first on their record to be voted out.

My final suggestion to our

I disagree with Second Impression's "Derniere Affair" in last week's issue.

If it is entirely proper for publishers to refuse any material for whatever reason, or none at all, how can they be called arrogant for doing so?

Freedom of the press and freedom of speech are very similar but they are not necessarily the same, that's why they were stated separately in the constitution. The first amendment does not guarantee freedom TO the press.

If freedom of the press is to continue, publishers must have the authority to determine what is and is not suitable for their publication. They should not feel compelled to print material that is offensive to them and may be to their readers. I doubt that the colonial printers who championed the concept of a free press, granted much news or advertising space to those who were loyal to the British.

Of course, when exercising the right to refuse material for publication because of its content, it is the responsibility of publishers, editors and advertising personnel to be consistent and impartial. Whether or not the material is acceptable should be determined by its content. The person submitting the material should not be the reason for accepting or rejecting it.

If the publisher's right to determine the content of his publication is given up, or taken away, the unique characteristics of the publication will be lost, reducing it to a wishy-washy, spineless piece of nothing, fit for little more than to be used to start a fire.

There's no business like dough business.

The business of making money. It's all very exciting.

But without the ability to lay out a large amount of cash, you can't take advantage of the financial opportunities that come your way.

And venturing all your money without savings in reserve can be dangerous. Because savings are the base of any financial plan.

One of the surest, easiest ways to save some dough is joining the Payroll Savings Plan and having United States Bonds. You'll never miss the little taken out of each paycheck.

Meanwhile, the Bonds grow up to play a part in your future.

Of course, with Bonds you're sure of the ending. But then, there's nothing wrong with a happy ending.

Second Impression

Maryland's Worst Grammar

by Harry Fox

It's not nice to be picky, but then, nobody said this was a task guaranteed to win friends.

The subject is not one likely to excite readers, either: grammar, spelling, and punctuation, the boring subjects most of us only tolerated in school.

Here are my nominees for the worst examples of careless language to afflict the public eye here on the scenic mountaintop. First place goes to the town of Oakland. Upon entering the city parking lot from Route 39, this unimposing message, without benefit of comma or period, greets the traveler: "All day parking please to rear of lot by order Police Department." The same literary style graces the Liberty Street lot, announcing that for each hour, or any portion "there of," the patron must pay a specified fee. And by the way, "inter-section" isn't a hyphenated word as the sign at the top of Center Street proclaims.

The grammatical offense causing the most damage isn't in Oakland, though. The sign at the top of the hill, near the Route 42 intersection with U.S. 219 in McHenry welcomes the tourist to "Marylands Best Kept Secret," which is Deep Creek Lake. It could be debated if the beauty of Garrett County is really invisible to the rest of the state. Our carelessness is quite visible. A public plea to insert the missing apostrophe is in order.

While on the subject of punctuation, perhaps the Oakland-Mt. Lake Louis could remove the quotation marks from their chicken "barbecue" banner before the fair starts this year. They are not a way of emphasizing a word or phrase. The Lions Club chicken is excellent, so their advertising should reflect that fine quality.

Now, who does he think he is—this guy who tells everybody else about their mistakes, as if he doesn't make any himself? Indeed he does. But good spelling and punctuation, and taking the time to write carefully shouldn't be just for people with perfectionists' worries. A recent study done for the American Newspaper Publishers Association indicates a remarkable decline in literacy skills. People today consider reading to be more work than pleasure, thus report says. In advising the ANPA members how to fight this trend, the study suggests that any barriers to clear, concise language be removed. Readers will not tolerate any extra effort involved in reading. They just stop reading. Then the message is lost.

As a county, and a tourist area, let's take the time to put our best foot forward in our public communication tools. The stakes are greater than we realize.

And, by the way. See you at the Fair!

such entity was ever officially formed.

Another portion of the agreement required that the sanitary district open a separate bank account for the purpose of depositing all monies collected from all Trout Run Facility users. Only expenses for operation and maintenance of the Trout Run Facility were to be paid from that account, and the account was to be used for no other purpose. Attorney Robert E. Watson, representing the two towns, has been working since January of this year to determine whether this portion of the agreement has been violated. Wendell Beitzel, current Administrator of the Sanitary District, has informed Watson that the district records are available for his review.

After the last agreement expired no new agreement has been reached between the towns and the sanitary district, leading to the billing based on that previous agreement, which apparently was violated to some extent by both parties. Mayor Russell B. Alexander, Sr. of Mt. Lake Park was unavailable for comment this week.

A Rawlins man, Ronald Courtney, 22, is listed in serious condition today at the West Virginia Medical Center, Morgantown, where he was transferred following a single-vehicle accident early Sunday morning at the intersection of Md. Rt. 135 and 496, near Swanton.

According to state police reports, Courtney was west bound on Rt. 135 approaching the intersection when he apparently failed to stop and plunged over the embankment, striking a tree.

He was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad, and later transferred to Morgantown.

Charges are pending against the driver.

Another Sunday accident resulted in charges against a Swanton man, William Claude Park, 60, who was involved in a collision with Franklin Paul Skipper, 19, also of Swanton.

According to the records, Skipper was traveling north on the Green Glade Road on a motorcycle when he collided with Park, who was attempting to make a left turn into his driveway.

Police charged Park with driving without a license and making an illegal left turn.
